

Michigan Alumnus Sees Danger To Hatted And Hatless Youths

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 24.—Hatted and hatless students are suffering dangerous delusions about the desirability of their headgear if we accept the statement of Dr. Royal S. Copeland, '89M, United States senator from New York, and former professor of ophthalmology and otology at the university. Commenting on the collegiate attitude toward protection of capital extremities, he predicts sunstroke for the hatted and baldness for the hatted if present tendencies are continued.

The actinic rays of the sun which cause sunstroke, according to Dr. Copeland, are nearly as active all the year round as they are on hot summer days. "The brain may be seriously affected by them if the head is unprotected. Some folks go without hats because they think the sunlight will stimulate the growth of the hair. About all it does to the hair is to fade it."

YEARLINGS ARE ALL IN ACTIVE PRACTICE

Freshmen Work On Some of Syracuse Plays Brought Back By Bearg To Husker Camp

Practically every yearling gridman saw active service in Monday afternoon's practice session. Team A of the freshmen, with Long, Russell, Frahm, and Scherzinger in the backfield, met the regular varsity eleven on stadium sod. Meanwhile, the second stringers engaged the varsity substitutes on the south field.

Yesterday's practice was held behind closed gates. The freshmen, utilizing the scouting information gathered by Coaches Bearg and Oakes, were running Syracuse plays Pass formations and line plays received the brunt of their attention, and the yearlings were enabled to reel off numerous gains through the varsity forward wall.

The reappearance of Russell in the youngsters backfield added a great amount of drive and plunging ability. Russell hits as hard as any opponent Nebraska is likely to come up against this season. Varsity forwards agree that he is a hard man to pull down. Aided by such an array of backfield talent, the yearling forward wall was functioning with precision. Large holes were opened for the halves, who went on through for substantial yardage. Broadstone, Eno,

SOUTH DAKOTA WILL BUILD NEW ARMORY

Committee Completes Drawings For Placement of Gymnasium In Favorable Location

Vermillion, S. D., Oct. 24.—Plans and drawings working out the placement of the new armory and gymnasium for the University of South Dakota with relation to the other buildings on the campus, are now being completed under the direction of R. V. Newcomb, professor of civil engineering at the university.

The new structure, designed by Huggill and Blatherwick, architects of Sioux Falls, will be carefully integrated with the campus with relation to the driveways and walks, as well as the campus services of light, heat, and power. According to the plans the building will occupy a position between Inman field and Dakota street facing the street.

The varsity football team will be able to go directly from the lockers of the new building to the playing field, as the rear of the structure will be placed directly abutting the gridiron.

One of the special features of the athletic building will be a swimming pool 25 by 75 feet with bleachers for spectators. Facilities for military drill and rifle practice will be provided.

The main gymnasium, with three complete basketball courts, will be provided with collapsible bleachers seating more than 2,000 persons.

KANSAS HARRIERS TROUNCE HUSKERS

Johnson, Sprague, and Cummings Drop Out of Race; Heat Too Much for Nebraska Men

Nebraska harriers found the heat a stronger opponent than they could handle at Manhattan Saturday and received a sound trouncing by the Kansas State runners.

Kibble, Griffen, and Chadderdon were the only Husker regulars who were able to finish. Sprague had to drop out with a side ache. Captain Johnson was up with the leaders but went out of his head and fell outside the Kaggie stadium on the way in. He was badly dazed the last mile and a half of the distance he ran. Cummings, the other Husker runner, also succumbed to the intense heat and the strenuous pace set and was unconscious for several hours.

Captain Johnson, Sprague, Cummings, and Chadderdon of the Husker team set too fast a pace in the early part of the race. Chadderdon

Medical Ball To Be Held At South Dakota

Vermillion, S. D., Oct. 24.—"Bones to the right of us, skeletons to the left of us, cadavers all about us," such will be the probable scene presented to those who are fortunate enough to attend the first annual medical ball to be given by the students of the school of medicine of the University of South Dakota at some time during the first semester.

The idea of a medical ball is not new, for one of the most elaborate social functions of Paris is the annual medical students' ball. It is said that one of the forms of entertainment at these affairs is an operation performed upon a human being by the students. While it is rather uncertain as to whether this particular type of entertainment will be participated in at the South Dakota ball, the medical students promise a unique program.

FINAL DIRECTORY LISTS ARE POSTED

Detail Work Nearing Completion and Proof Will Soon Be Organized and Sent to Printers

The list of names for the student directory, beginning with K, L, M, O, V, Q, T, U, and Y is posted on the bulletin board in the main lobby of Social Science today. All students whose names begin with these letters are requested to check this list and make corrections on cards provided for that purpose.

This ends the detail work on the directory. Only the organization of the material at hand remains and the proof will soon be in the hands of the printer. A definite date for the issue of the book cannot be set at this date, but it will be in the near future.

Thirteen departments of the University of Ohio hire students for assistance.

South Dakota Abandons Use Of Red Derbies

The red derbies which made members of the howling hundred cheering section easily discernible at the game between the University of South Dakota and State college will be eliminated this year according to a decision made by the group of howlers, this week.

Last year the howling hundred was easily spotted in the stadium by their mark of identification, the red derby. At the meeting Wednesday it was decided that this year's howling hundred would not wear any article of significant clothing but would make their presence known by their concentrated yelling.

The entire group will be in evidence in the parade Dakota day and will sit in a block of seats at the game that afternoon.

IN THE VALLEY

By JACK ELLIOTT

Although Syracuse lost the game to Penn State Saturday the score does not indicate the brand of football the Orange eleven displayed. They had the pigskin on the five-yard line when the gun ended the game and three downs to put over the winning touchdown. "The eastern school has a fine team and is well coached," said Coach Bearg, "and they will give us one of the hardest battles of the season."

Captain Barbuti, Syracuse captain, was watching the Penn State game from the sidelines last Saturday but Coach Andreas expects the driving Orange fullback to be in the game against the Huskers this week. Barbuti is the mainstay of the Syracuse backfield, and was missed in last week's game.

Notre Dame is trying hard this season to go through with a clean slate and claim the national title, if there be any. Knute Rockne's Irish crew have already beaten the best elevens in the east and the Navy included. Georgia Tech is next on the Notre Dame schedule and this will provide a tough foe for the famous Rockne crew. Georgia Tech is one of the best elevens of the South and all eyes will focus on the intersectional battle at South Bend this Saturday as the "fighting Irish" continue on their way to a national crown. But that is not all, the young men of Coach Rockne must dispose of such elevens as Minnesota, the Army and then throw in Drake for good measure. Then the final test of the season will come on November 26 when Notre Dame meets Southern California at Chicago. This is a schedule that, if unblemished at the close of the pigskin season, should entitle any school to be recognized as national champions. Notre Dame has taken a big bite and is fighting hard to establish itself as football (Continued on Page 4)

Insurance companies in the east object to women dieting because of the number of tuberculosis cases traced to dieting.

Scholastic averages of Northwestern's fraternities and sororities were higher during the past year than any time since the war.

It is estimated that the total number of students in all departments of American Colleges this year is close to 800,000.

One of the candidates for mayor of Concord, N. H., is Miss Helen Jones, a twenty-four year old college graduate, who finished second in the primary elections, defeating two seasoned politicians.

June they burrow out of the ground in large numbers, climb the nearest tree or shrub, and shed the shell with which they are covered. They then mate, the female lays eggs, and the whole process is repeated.

Those present spent the early part of the afternoon in looking over the exhibits on all four floors. The display of fossil animals on the main floor seemed to be of especial interest. This collection is as yet only in the first stages of completion. Comparatively few of the specimens are mounted, but an artist is working on the background and walls in the large south room, where fossil elephants and other prehistoric specimens will be shown.

Deb: S'all right, but it won't last as long as my Eternal.

FOR social lights, for followers of the book of etiquette, for absolutely bona fide checks and other I.O.U.'s, for records, or just for the average student who wants to make an impression on his Prof, there's nothing quite like Higgins' Eternal Ink. It's a free-flowing, easy-writing, dense Black ink, fine for fountain pens and permanent as the pyramids.

Higgins' Eternal Ink and Higgins' Red Ink ought to be in every room on the campus. They are, like all Higgins' Products, of superior quality—recognized everywhere as the finest obtainable. Get a bottle or two and prove it.

To improve the machine

Practice — hours of practice. Every glee club knows the constant striving for improvement, for the coordinated smoothness essential to perfect harmony.

So, too, are Western Electric men engaged in the never-ending work of improving the machinery of telephone manufacture and keeping the stream of production flowing smoothly.

Even time-honored processes, such as the manipulation of rubber, are under investigation in order that newer and better methods may be developed. This striving for perfection—a spirit that regards nothing as finally standard nor too small for further improvement—permeates the Western Electric organization and offers inviting opportunity for alert minds.
