BLOCK AND BRIDLE GIVES AG BARBECUE

'Kiwans Bill' Is Commemorated; Snappy Program Entertains at Stag Gathering

The Block and Bridle Club, national honorary animal husbandry organization, gave a barbecue for all the men in the College of Agriculture Tuesday evening. About 150 gathered at the judging pavilion for the party.

The stag was in the form of a commemoration for "Kiwans Bill", the highland steer which was shipped to Denver recently and sold to the Kiwanis Club there. The Block and Bridle Club purchased one quarter of the animal for this event. They are also having his head mounted, and will hang it in their club room.

After the feed, a very snappy program, including a game of "tug-of-war," tire rolling contest, potato peeling race, and egg throwing contest, was given. Cecil Means, president of the Club then introduced Bill Hyde, representative of the Kiwanis Club, who gave a short talk. Dr. S. W. Alford, head of the serum plant at the College of Agriculture, and Professor Gramlich, chairman of the animal husbandry department, also talked to the Ags briefly.

Ray Ramsay

BENGTSON TALKS ON CARIBBEAN ISLANDS

Geography Professor Discusses U. S. Economic Policy in West Indies Possession

"Economic Geography and the American Policy in the Caribbean," was the title of a lecture given last night by Professor J. A. Bengtson of the geography department, before the Square and Compass Club. The subject was considered as unusually timely by the speaker, because of the current interest, both from a financial and national standpoint.

In the course of the talk, he pointed out that it is American capital being utilized in the development of natural resources in this region, and for this reason the work should receive more than passing interest. The developments taking place are of prime economic importance to the United States, because of its close proximity and the fact that American labor is being employed.

Ramsay Admits He Stole Prize Role of Season

Curious Co-Eds Crowd Door to Get Glimpse of Great Lover of 'Sun Up'

(By Florence Seward) To satisfy excited rumors which have been gaining momentum on the campus ever since rehearsals for "Sun Up" began, Ray Ramsay was induced to talk a little Tuesday morning in regard to his role in the play which will be presented this evening for the first time. He was found quietly secluded in his sanctum, while an efficient secretary guarded the door against the throng of curious co-eds outside. Mr. Ramsay looked placid enough.

"Yes, it is true. I am to be the lover in 'Sun Up'," he explained in a hushed voice. "After patiently waiting for the part of the magnetic mountain lad, I have my wish at last, and Thursday evening, I'll make my debut as the Great Lover." His voice had raised a little. There was a loud clamoring at the door. "Don't let the girls in now," begged Ramsay in anxious tones.

Fame Has Spread "You see," he explained simply, "my fame has spread already. Thursday night we expect the girls to swoon with sheer admiration and joy at my work. We are taking precaution against too many casualties. 'The lucky girl in 'Sun Up', he went on, with a benevolent smile, (Continued on Page 3.)

CONSTRUCTION MOVES SLOWLY

Work Is Delayed on Andrews Hall Because of Colder Weather This Week

CONTRACT IS MODIFIED

Construction work on Andrews Hall progressed slowly the early part of the week partly due to colder weather, and partly to give time for the setting of concrete that had been poured for the second floor. Temporary supports have not yet been removed from the ground floor and work centered about elevating additional blocks of Bedford stone to the second floor, and making ready for their placement as soon as brick masons can resume work. At present, the brick work and trimmings have gone as far as the second story. Colder weather necessitated the hanging of huge strips of canvass over the north side openings to exclude wind.

The contract for the interior work on Andrews Hall has been modified somewhat, to include an acoustical plaster in the class rooms on all three floors of the building. This new process of plastering will give the walls a softer finish preventing echoes to a certain extent, and improving the rooms for lectures and study.

TEAM TRAINS FOR TIGER WRESTLERS

Kellogg Says Men Are in Perfect Trim for Coming Conflict With Missouri

Nebraska's varsity wrestlers took a gruelling work out last night in preparation for the important meet Saturday night with Missouri, to be held at the Coliseum. Every man on the team is now in perfect shape, according to Coach Kellogg, which indicates that the Huskers will enter the match on even terms with the formidable Mizou grapplers.

Missouri will come to Lincoln with an impressive string of victories and the Tiger team will be bent on continuing the record. Kansas University, Kansas Aggies and the strong Iowa State teams have fallen before the Missouri wrestlers. CITY ATTORNEY GIVES ADDRESS

Peterson Speaks to Students in First of a Series of Vocational Talks

SAYS STRENGTH NEEDED

"What we ourselves possess by way of capacity or interest and what the profession holds—its appeal and its drawbacks—are the two factors that help the student to decide whether or not he or she should enter the legal profession," declared C. Peterson, city attorney of Lincoln, speaking before a group of students on "Law" in Social Sciences auditorium last night.

This was the initial lecture of a series to be given on the subject of "Vocations" intended to help the student choose a life calling who has not as yet done so. The series will continue over a period of five weeks, the remaining lectures being given on succeeding Wednesday evenings.

Enumerates Qualifications Elaborating on the qualifications of a good lawyer, Mr. Peterson stated that one who is proficient in mathematics is almost certain to be successful in law. "The type of reasoning in the legal profession is quite akin to that in mathematics," he said, "and the mind that does not master mathematical problems can-

HILL GIVES TALK TO CHEMICAL SOCIETY

Doctor of Political Science Says That Scientific Research Affects Politics

Dr. N. L. Hill of the department of political science gave an interesting address at the opening meeting of Phi Lambda Upsilon, chemical society, last evening, in the lecture hall of the chemistry building. He outlined "The Effects of Modern Scientific Research on the Political World."

"Even religion has not escaped the effects of Science," were Dr. Hill's first words. He then continued to show in just what degree political science was affected by scientific research. Although we produce two-thirds of the world's supply of mineral oil we consume more than we produce, he said. Therefore, we have to seek supplies in other countries. By scientific research, coupled with political influence exerted in these countries we have been able to make our production equal our consumption. Treaties, inter-national tribunals and arbitrations may be held to settle controversies, but a single invention will turn the tide in the balance of power, in his opinion.

In closing, Dr. Hill mentioned the past accomplishments gained by the co-operation of scientific research and political science and pointed out the even greater possibilities of future attainments. A discussion was held after the address in which Dr. Deming and Dr. Russell took leading parts.

During Courcier's brief stay he will be entertained by Lee Vance, president of the local chapter. Business of the fraternity will be taken up for the national report. Sigma Delta Chi at Nebraska sponsors the publication of Awgwan, humor magazine. Courcier will review various ideas of other schools for journalistic improvement.

SUN UP OPENS IN TEMPLE AT 8:20 TONIGHT

Howell and Ramsay Appear in Carolina Mountain Drama Given by Players

WILL SHOW THREE DAYS

Illiteracy and Ignorance of a Certain American Type Is Basis of Plot

University Players present "Sun Up" in Temple Theatre at 8:20 o'clock this evening with Miss H. Alice Howell and Mr. Ray Ramsay playing the leading roles. Miss Howell is director of the University Players. She also took the lead in "Candida" this year, contrary to her custom of taking only one part during the season.

Miss Howell will play the part of Widow Cagle in Lula Vollmer's play of the Carolina mountain region. Mr. Ramsay will appear as Rufe Cagle, the widow's son, and Beatrice Hullett will take the other principal role, Emmy. The rest of the cast is: Pap Todd.....Robert Reade Bud.....Elwood Ramsay Sheriff Weeks.....Thad Cone Preacher.....Jack Rank The Stranger.....Herbert Yenne Hob.....Zolley Lerner

"Sun Up", which will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings also, is a powerful life-study of the ignorant, illiterate American mountaineers. Various complications around which the plot centers are typically local, while the appeal is strongly universal.

University Player fans will see Rufe, the widow's son, taken away to France by the World War. His knowledge of the world is so limited that his conception of France is "about forty miles 'tother' side of Asheville." Upon his return, the story begins in earnest, including all of the traditional mountain supplies—feuds and moonshine.

The play is not without its humorous situations, nor its tragic effects. It will be presented mostly in the Carolina mountain dialect.

PFEIFFER SPEAKS ON WAR OUTLAWRY

History Professor Declares That We Must Have Something to Substitute for War

"Today, only one out of thirty treaties which were negotiated during war-time is in effect in regard to the United States," was the startling fact revealed by Dr. Laura B. Pfeiffer, associate professor of European history, yesterday at the World Forum luncheon at the Grand Hotel. More than fifty persons listened to Doctor Pfeiffer speak on the subject, "Can Law Be Outlawed."

"Although my subject is announced as 'Can War Be Outlawed,' the League of Nations is my pet hobby and I am going to talk about it," she continued. "Writers claim that the younger generation is going to the 'dogs,' but I cannot believe that when I see more than fifty persons here to hear a lecture on a serious subject like this one. In connection with world affairs, a new treaty was made with France this month. On February sixth, the anniversary of the treaty made with France by Benjamin Franklin in 1778, Briand and Secretary Kellogg made an extension of this old plan with promises to take any differences between the two countries to a court of arbitration and hereafter never fight with each other.

World is Different Today "The world is so different today that we cannot talk about entangling alliances. 'We're living on each other's doorsteps.' This condition is bound to cause more or less friction. The abolition of war has been the subject of the best minds of every generation. The world has been made up of empire builders and pacifists, who are really trying to continue peace. The reason why the pacifists (Continued on Page 2.)

University of Future May Support Students

Minneapolis, Minn.—(IP)—That the university of the future will support its finest students at the expense of the state is the belief of Professor J. M. Thomas, assistant dean of the senior college at the University of Minnesota.

The plan of awarding scholarships of material value to those high school students who had high honors in their work was instituted at the university last fall, and is declared by dean Thomas to be a step in the direction he is heading.
