E. A. BURNETT OUTLINES PLANS OF UNIVERSITY

Newly Elected Chancellor
Contemplates No Radical
Changes in Policy

MORE MONEY IS NEEDED

Editors Note: The following article on the "Policies of the University of Nebraska," was written by Chancellor E. A. Burnett, who was elected Chancellor of the University at the meeting of the Board of Regents last Saturday, to be effective March 1, 1928.

The election of a new chancellor in an educational institution always raises the question of whether or not there are to be radical changes in university policy. At the present time we do not contemplate anything which will be of that nature. We have under way, however, many plans which will be of distinct value in increasing the effectiveness of our present work and many other plans which we shall endeavor to carry out as soon as sufficient appropriations are available.

Things Under Way

A number of things have been done during the past year to enable us to serve Nebraska better. With the completion of Morrill hall, the museum was expanded and many collections which had not before had space for display were made available to the public. The museum is a branch of extension education which makes a wide appeal to all classes of people. The rapidly growing School of Fine Arts also expanded in its new quarters, so that now it is one of the best-cared-for departments of the University and can better serve to develop the cultural life of the state.

With the completion of Andrews hall next September the departments of English and of German will have new and suitable quarters. The Dental College, which will occupy the third floor of this hall, will have new equipment which will enable it to secure a first-class rating among the dental colleges of the country.

Better Contact With Students

With the beginning of the present year the work of the Dean of Student Affairs was enlarged to provide closer contact with the life of students, and closer supervision of student delinquencies. The results of this work have been gratifying and further student contacts through this office are planned. We feel that too great emphasis can not be placed on the matter of forming intimate contact between faculty and students.

Plans are in progress to improve the scholarship standards in the University by an examination of those students entering the University whose scholarship records in high school placed them in the lower quarter of the graduating class. These tests and examinations are intended to aid in the placement and registration of students rather than in barring them from entrance. We hope (Continued on Page 2.)

University Orchestra Will Play Tuesday

The University convocation will be presented on Tuesday, March 13 at 11 o'clock in the Temple theater. The University orchestra, under the direction of Carl Frederic Steckerberg, will present the program.

Tramp, Tramp Tramp, Coeds Are Marching

Walking home stories are apt to come into popularity again with new rules passed by the Lincoln City Council limiting the number of front-seat occupants to three persons. Only three persons over the age of twelve years can ride in the front seat of a motor propelled vehicle—or words to that effect.

Shed a tear for the collegians who double-date in a coupe only to be called by an officer of the law. It will be a case of walk home—we can't get around it—neither can you. Trailers seem to be the only solution of the condition. It is also against the law to stand on the running board of a car in motion—if not we stand corrected on the running board and keep on renting coupes.

Three is such an odd number, too. Two's company, four is twice as much company, but you'll admit that three is nothing more or less than a crowd. With all these parallel, no, etc. parking rules life is just one continual worry to the college student who strives to keep up the old social contact.

Sealock Tells Of Educational Meet in Boston

Scientific Attitude Taken on School Problems Marks
Accomplishment

"The outstanding accomplishment of the various meetings," said Professor William E. Sealock, Dean of the Teachers College, when interviewed yesterday in regard to his attendance at the National Educational Association's meeting in Boston, Massachusetts from February 22 to March 5, "was the clear evidence of the attitude on the part of everybody to study the problems of education in a scientific way, and from the basis of such study to determine what the aims and purposes of the different educational institutions should be; what their curricula should consist of; and what the best methods of teaching to be used are."

It was estimated that approximately fifteen thousand educators attended the meetings to discuss the current educational problems. "The association took no definite action," continued Professor Sealock, who is (Continued on Page 4)

NEW TRAFFIC LAWS WILL BE OBSERVED

Fifteen Day Period of Grace Will
Be Allowed for Adjustment
To Revised Plan

Starting Monday, students will be obliged to observe the new traffic ordinances which have recently been passed by the city commissioners. More than three adults in the front seat of an automobile are prohibited, and two lanes of traffic are permitted between Seventh and Seventeenth and M and Q streets. Pedestrians must also govern themselves by the traffic lights.

No arrests will be made for fifteen days, but officers will patrol the zones of heavy traffic.

Commissioner Bair, who was active in the passing of the new rules plans a re-organization of the motorcycle department. One squad will govern the territory north of O street, and another squad will handle south side traffic.

After the fifteen-day adjustment period, arrests will be made in an effort to keep motorists and pedestrians from going past the automatic signals.

The Missouri Tigers took second place while the Kansas Jayhawkers finished in the third position.

Harold Trumble, sophomore Nebraska hurdler, accomplished the Cornhusker's best feat of the meet when he won the 50-yard high hurdles in 6.5 seconds. Trumble also placed second in the 50-yard low barriers running second to Carmen of Oklahoma, who covered the distance (Continued on Page 4)

UNI NIGHT PLANS STILL UNDECIDED

Arrangements for Program Pending
Return of Hunt and Hayes;
Mead Refuses to Comment

University Night plans are "up in the air" temporarily pending the return of Joe Hunt, president of the University Y. M. C. A., and C. D. Hayes, Y. M. C. A. secretary, from Kansas. Plans were upset by the rejection of four acts by the faculty committee on student organization, Thursday.

Gordon Hager, newly elected president of the University Y, who takes office April, declared Saturday that there will be a University Night this year. He refused to discuss in detail what plans will be laid until the return of Joe Hunt and Secretary Hayes. Wilbur Mead, University Night chairman, refused Saturday to discuss the committee's plans.

A program for high school basketball players taking part in the tournament the past week was held in the Lincoln theater Saturday morning. The entertainment was sponsored by the Innocents society for the purpose of attempting to bridge the gap that high school students see between their graduation from high school and entrance into the University.

The program consisted of motion pictures depicting life at the University of Nebraska. Such events as Freshman Initiation, Olympics, and Ivy Day were shown for the coming University students.

Presnell Is Master of Ceremonies

Following the showing of pictures a number of talks were given by prominent Nebraska coaches and athletes. Glenn Presnell acted as master of ceremonies. 1928 football captains, Elmer Holm and Blue Howell started the informal schedule of addresses. ST. PAUL WINS VICTORY OVER GRAND ISLAND

Saints Overcome Lead of Third
City and Emerge with 19-11 Final Score

EIGHTEENTH SERIES ENDS

Indianola Captures Class B
Title from Gothenburg
By 20-14 Count

St. Paul high school won the state basketball championship last night, trimming Grand Island in the tournament final, 19 to 11. The Saints staged a desperate last half rally to overcome and eventually smother the Third City crew's substantial lead. Indianola captured the Class "B" trophy, romping over Gothenburg, 20 to 14, while Tilden swept through Peru Prep, 13 to 8, to carry off Class "C" laurels.

Sweeping through the tournament with wins over Norfolk, Kearney and the highly touted Crete aggregations, St. Paul entered the final round of play against Grand Island with three hard games captured. The Saints were slow in starting, and baskets by Werner and Hunt of the Grand Island contingent forged their team ahead, 7 to 0.

First Half of Class A Game

Bahensky, Saint Paul forward broke the ice for the Apostles with a free throw and Capt. Davis followed with a set up from the field and a gratis toss as the half ended, making the score 7 to 4. Davis exhibited some of his superior dribbling in sinking his shot.

At the start of the second half, Davis and Lynch of the champions submerged the Islander with two field goals. Olson, substitute forward also counted four times from the floor to give St. Paul a substantial lead. Scheffrins, Grand Island pivot ace, put his team back in the running with a side shot that sank cleanly through the hoop. Both teams milled considerably towards the end of the game, with the St. Paul five playing a cautious stalling game.

The Third City aggregation fought fiercely as the time became shorter in the attempt to cut down the Saints comfortable lead. Several shots from the hands of Werner, Grand Island's speedy forward, rung the hoop but bounced out. As the game ended, Lynch, St. Paul center, tossed a neat basket from the center for the final marker of the tourney.

Red Hair Is Requirement For Entrance

(By Bill McCleery)

Baldheaded students will not be admitted to the Orpheum theater tomorrow afternoon at The Daily Nebraskan's theater party without a letter from the dean of student affairs. Only redheads will get past the doorkeeper to see Clara Bow in "Red Hair."

We just noticed some pictures of Clara in the lobby of the Orpheum (had to stand in line), and approve very much of the star. We understand that the ticket taker at the Orpheum theater is a gentleman, but he only prefers—he doesn't admit—blondes. His eyes may be biodead by tomorrow afternoon, though. You might try it.

Judges Play Safe
You probably noticed that prizes are being given for different stages of red hair. The Daily Nebraskan intended to give a prize for the girl with the best looking red hair, but the judges refused to take the vote. We hope there are no politics in the (Continued on page 4)
