

ENGINEERS PLAN NOVEL DISPLAY FOR OPEN HOUSE

Chemists, Geologists, Physicists Will Assist in Exhibition At Seven Tonight

AFFAIR IS ANNUAL EVENT

High Voltage Transformer and Radio Apparatus Will Be Demonstrated

All engineering, chemistry, geology and physics buildings will be open for public inspection from 7 o'clock to 11 tonight. Visitors will become acquainted with the various types of work done by the students as different experiments and displays are demonstrated.

A novel electrical display, including such features as a high voltage transformer, operation of a reversing motor and interesting radio apparatus will be shown in the electrical engineering building. Aside from this, work with a model manual telephone exchange, a voice frequency filter demonstration and other electrical devices will be carried on.

Will Show Pictures

Features of the mechanical side of the display will include motion pictures and slides on civil engineering projects, displays on surveying instruments and drawings of maps and structural charts. An interesting series of experiments will be demonstrated in the materials testing laboratory. Testing of various materials used in highway construction.

HIGH SCHOOLS SEND MANY CONTESTANTS

Annual Academic Contests Will Be Held This Week; Scholarships Will Be Given

High school contestants from all over the state will match wits, voices and musical ability in Lincoln this week-end.

The sixth annual Interscholastic Academic contest and the first annual Academic Pentathlon will be held in Social Sciences building, Saturday. More entries than have tried out in any of the previous state high school academic meets are expected, according to A. A. Reed, director of the University Extension department.

Dramatic Contest Is Friday

The state high school dramatic contest will be held Friday evening and Saturday in the Law building. The Nebraska high school music contest will begin with the group competitions in Morrill hall, Friday. Individual competition in this contest will be held Saturday at Lincoln high school.

Dental Representative Will Be Chosen Today

Student council representative from the College of Dentistry will be decided by the flip of a coin some time today. Votes were equal for both candidates in Tuesday's election, and the decision concerning selection was made by the Student Council, Wednesday.

The coin will be flipped in the presence of both candidates, a faculty member, and James Jensen, president of the Student Council.

Mary Ball was declared the second woman to be elected as senior woman at large when her eligibility was determined by the council Wednesday.

Call Is Sent Out for Publication Applicants

Applications for the following positions will be received by the Student Publication board until Thursday noon, May 10:

C. C. Engberg, Chairman, Student Publication board.

Student Activities Building

Student Activities building at the College of Agriculture, which will house exhibits of the 1928 Farmers' Fair Saturday, May 5. Saturday afternoon it will be transformed into a dance hall where a "nickel dance" will be in progress all afternoon and evening.

Fair's Pageant Is Picturesque Costume Show

Beautiful, picturesque costumes will be one of the outstanding features of the symbolic pageant, "Master of Miracles," which will be presented at the Farmers' Fair on the College of Agriculture campus Saturday, May 5. The pageant is given by a group of about sixty Home Economics girls on the lawn south of the Home Economics building. Each year the girls give a pageant and this year it is entirely a student production, having been written by Miss Maxine Churchill, a senior in the department.

The scene is laid in Tourne, France, in the fifteenth century. Princess Eleasia, daughter of the king of Tourne, has been stricken lifeless by the pestilence of ignorance. The medicine master restores her to life (Continued on Page 2.)

FAREWELL AWGWAN GOES TO PRINTERS

Last Issue Will Feature Take-offs on Graduating Seniors; Cartoons Are Still Coming in

All copy for farewell number of the Awgwan, Nebraska's humorous publication, has been received by the editorial staff, has been edited, and will be taken to the printers Thursday, according to announcement made Wednesday by Alan C. McIntosh, editor.

Not all of the art work has been submitted as yet, since quarterly examinations have kept most of the art staff busy. However, all cartoons and sketches for the final number of this school year will be completed by Saturday at which time they will be taken to the engravers, James Pickering, art editor, stated.

Features Take-offs

Awgwan's farewell number will be featured by a number of stories of considerable length, the theme of which will be take-offs on graduating seniors. "Kismet," a drama of passion, by Laselle Gilman, "Ida Juanto," by Ray Murray, and "Fratmen's Farewell," by Anne Rothenberg are three of the feature stories. Jokes, verse, and prose have been submitted by Douglas Timmerman, Peggy Hedges, Ray Murray, Elmont Walte, Henry Brainerd, Horace Gomon, and Bill McCleery.

Margaret Ketring, James Pickering, and Thomas Warfield of the art staff, have turned in cartoons. Gay Williams of the Lincoln Star, will also have a number of cartoons in the farewell number.

BROWN IS LATEST SMALLPOX VICTIM

1927 Cornhusker Football Captain Is Quarantined After Doctor Examines

John "Jug" Brown provided the reason for another campus sensation when he was declared to be suffering from smallpox by the school physician early yesterday morning.

Brown showed signs of smallpox Tuesday evening while working at his regular job in the circulation department of the Lincoln Star. After yesterday's examination, he was quarantined in his home at 860 North Sixteenth.

"Jug" Brown is a well-known athlete at Nebraska, serving on the football and basketball teams since entering college. Dr. E. N. Deppen states that "Jug's" case is not serious but that all students who believe they might have been exposed should be vaccinated at once.

Two Orchestras and Special Entertainers Will Feature Dance

The chance of a life time awaits those who would venture forth in the midst of glorious spring and have one grand time. The time will arrive next Saturday when the students of the College of Agriculture hold their annual Farmers' Fair, is the opinion of the committee.

The big feature of the Fair that will attract the younger generation from far and wide is the dancing. Never before has there been as large nor as good a dancing program planned for a university function as the one for the Farmers' Fair. There will be several thousand square feet of waxed maple floor for the gay youths to wear out. One floor forty by sixty feet will be placed out under the skies with the summer breezes wafting the melodies about.

Will Have Two Bands

The floor is not all that makes a dance. The Collegians and Becks are playing. In the afternoon the Collegians will play in the Student Activities building. In the evening the outside floor will be opened up with the Collegians furnishing the music. Beck's will furnish the music for the floor in the Activities building.

Besides this there will be special features with the orchestras to add pep and novelty to the program. These special features are nothing less than major attractions for an ordinary party. They are "Muddy" Warner, violinist, and "Red" Krause with his accordion. They will alternate (Continued on Page 2.)

PHARMACISTS INVITE PUBLIC TO 1928 SHOW

'Pharmacicians' Orchestra Will Play While Public Views Exhibits

MOVIE WILL BE SHOWN

Equipment of a Druggist and Evolution of a Cork Will Be Shown

Final arrangements for Pharmacy Night program, which will be held tonight in Pharmacy hall, were being made yesterday afternoon. Practically all exhibits were in place and the usually staid laboratories have been turned into attractive display rooms.

A short convocation for students of the College of Pharmacy was held Wednesday morning in the College auditorium. Speeches by faculty members and students were preceded by a fifteen-minute musical program by the "Pharmacicians" orchestra that will furnish entertainment this evening at the exhibition. The meeting which took form of a pep session for the coming events included talks by faculty members, representatives of classes, and members of the committees in charge.

UNIVERSITY BAND WILL LEAD PARADE

Floats Will Go Through Business District Before Noon; Will Feature Progress

Farmers' Fair parade consisting of eighteen floats will travel through the business section of Lincoln shortly before noon Saturday. The University R. O. T. C. band will lead the Robin Spence procession and the Pershing Rifles will march in parade drill.

The parade will depict primitive and the modern phases of Agriculture. The first half of the parade will be made up of floats representing primitive agriculture and the floats in this section will be on horse drawn vehicles. The last half of the parade will consist of floats representing the modern agriculture, which will be motor-drawn floats.

Show Enthusiasm

Parade committees, under the direction of Robin Spence, chairman, are working to complete the floats in order that they may have them ready for the inspection which will take place Saturday morning. The theme of this year's parade will be portrayed by all the floats in coordination yet each float has a separate, (Continued on Page 2.)

Farmers' Fair Board

The board of managers, largely responsible for putting on the 1928 Farmers' Fair are:

Top row; left to right, Arthur Hauke, chairman; Paul Jenkins; Anton Frolik, treasurer.

Lower row; Elsie Marsh; Gladys Renfro, secretary; and Lucile Refsuage.

PLAYERS ARE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Ralf Harold and Maunell, of 'The Poor Nut' Cast Are Cared for At Lincoln Sanitarium

Ralf Harold and Franklyn Maunell, members of the Liberty Theater Players, who were appearing in important roles in the cast of "The Poor Nut" were two of the victims in an automobile accident Wednesday night on the highway between Wahoo and Lincoln. The two men together with Mr. Harry Gilbert, an assistant to the company, are in Lincoln Sanitarium where their injuries are being cared for.

Taken to Hospital

Report from the Sanitarium states that Mr. Harold's injuries consist of scalp wounds and body bruises. Maunell is suffering from a wrenched neck and minor cuts while Mr. Gilbert has a compound fracture of the leg.

The accident was reported to have happened between eight and nine o'clock and the injured were brought to Lincoln around eleven o'clock last night.

Parts in "The Poor Nut", sponsored by the Kosmet Klub, were recast, Jerry Bowman substituting for Mr. Harold and William Amsdell, director of the company, "pinchhitting" for Mr. Maunell. The audience received this supplemented cast enthusiastically in spite of the fact that the substitutes read their parts from manuscript.

Fifteen co-eds and thirty-five Nebraska men lend their vocal support to the track men as they dash across the stage and, supposedly around the track, but really into a pile of props. "The Poor Nut" leaves the accepted trend of college plays by featuring track, rather than football.

Follies, Snorpheim and 'Fun and Frolic' Will Be Amusements at Ag Fair

Amusement at the Farmers' Fair will consist of the Snorpheim, Follies, and Fun and Frolic.

Harvey Jacobsen who is in charge of Fun and Frolic, has planned for a variety of games such as throwing rubber horseshoes and throwing at plates.

The Snorpheim and Follies will show several times during the afternoon and evening.

Nine home economics girls will be the entertainers in the Follies. Their acts will consist largely of skits and dances.

The Snorpheim includes a cast of about twenty agricultural students. Their entertainment will include a series of musical numbers and humorous acts.

'Exhibits and Lots of Them' Is Fair Slogan

Exhibits, the heart of the 1928 Farmers' Fair, will show how each department in the College of Agriculture makes contributions essential to the development of an ideal Nebraska farm. "Exhibits and lots of them," was the slogan that Clarence Bartlett, chairman, held before his co-workers in preparing the exposition for this year's Fair. "No Fair is complete without exhibits," in the opinion of Mr. Bartlett; consequently he has made extensive preparation to show visitors on the "big day," May 5, some of the things that are new in agriculture.

Will Show New Methods

Last season's Fair saw the exhibits brought together for the first time in a concentrated arrangement. The 1928 display will not only be entirely on the first floor of the Student Activities building in a convenient form for the visitors, but it will show correlation of the work in the College of Agriculture. The centralized theme idea is being tried for the first time this year. Every attempt is being made to show how the thirteen departments in the Experiment Station attempt to discover new methods and to improve old practices that will help farm people to produce and sell more effectively.

According to Bartlett, the educational features of the Fair include demonstrations that show how all business is dependent upon agriculture. "It has been our desire to focus attention on the fact that the College of Agriculture is a useful (Continued on Page 3)

Chorus Will Present Convocation Program

'Hiawatha's Wedding Feast' Is From Taylor's Composition of Poem By Longfellow

"Hiawatha's Wedding Feast", by Coleridge Taylor, will be presented by the University chorus under the direction of Howard Kirkpatrick at a convocation at 11 o'clock Friday morning, in Memorial hall. The tenor solo parts will be sung by Walter Wheatley, and an orchestra composed of seventeen Lincoln musicians will accompany the chorus.

"Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" is a musical setting of the well-known poem by Longfellow. In it, Coleridge Taylor, Haitian negro, one of the best known composers of today, has distinctly caught the atmosphere of the poem, and has carried the Indian motif through in a most effective and charming manner.

GOOD PROGRAM IS PROMISED AT FARMERS' FAIR

Fence Is Erected to Enclose Activities; Midways Are Being Laid Out

SHOW OPENS SATURDAY

'Snorpheim' Cast Rehearses; Horses Are Groomed for Riding Exhibitions

"Farmers' Fair will open May 5 with a line of events which will cause the happy-go-lucky visitor to wonder how it ever happened that he missed so much fun before. It will make those suffering from the ups and downs of life realize what a great relief it is to spend a day in a different atmosphere, abounding with amusements and yet filled with those aspects which pay due respect to the educational turn of things," was the statement of Arthur Hauke, chairman of the Farmer's Fair board, as he glanced over the long list of events which are now almost ready for the annual show.

Fence Is Built

Plans for the show are beginning to materialize. A fence has been erected to enclose the activities for the day. Midways are being laid out along which the tents, side shows, and stands are being built. The livestock tent is ready and the "Follies" tent has been guyed from center poles to the ground.

Committee chairman have been calling for loads of materials indicating extensive building. Floats for the parade are taking form while designers are stretching their imaginations to the nth degree. The committee on signs has been busy for the past week preparing the signs for the displays.

FOLLIES ACT WILL BE SHOWN AT RALLY

Short Talks and Pep Will Feature Convocation at College of Agriculture

The last Farmers' Fair rally will be held at the Agriculture hall auditorium at 7:30 o'clock this evening, according to Anton Frolik, treasurer of the board of managers, who will be in charge.

"Short and snappy talks and a great deal of pep will feature the meeting," says Mr. Frolik. Miss Gladys Renfro, secretary of the board of managers and Prof. H. J. Gramlich will talk on the Fair.

Will Present Acts

Parts of the Snorpheim and Follies acts will be presented. A short skit by the Junior Fair board will attempt to show that it is best for Ags and Home Ecs to work on the approaching fair. This skit is secret. The College of Agriculture band will play several selections and the Home Economics T. F. club will stage a short act. Harold Marcott will lead the group in several yells and songs.

"As the date of the Fair is very near, we expect one of the largest crowds at any of the convocations or rallies held at the College of Agriculture this year," was the statement of Anton Frolik.

Chancellor Asks That Students Be Vaccinated

The development of a case of smallpox today by a university student makes it again essential that all university students who have not been vaccinated recently should be vaccinated immediately at the department of student health in the Pharmacy building or by some other physician. The university will make every effort to protect the health of the students against smallpox, but its efforts can be rendered ineffective by carelessness on the part of the student body. Please be vaccinated today.

E. A. Burnett
Chancellor.

KNOW YOUR KAMPUS

Did you know that? All the speeches, music, whistles, etc., that made life disagreeable for professors yesterday morning came from a large loud speaker, protruding from a southeast window in the Electrical Engineer's building. The speaker, a mammoth Western Electric, was installed by the communications class. "I wouldn't blame the lawyers for tearing that thing down," remarked a professor who declined to give his fifteen minutes early yesterday afternoon. They couldn't hear his lecture because of radio competition.

Home Economics Girls Present Outdoor Pageant

An interesting scene from "The Quest", the Home Economics outdoor pageant of the 1927 Farmers' Fair. A similar production "Master of Miracles" will be presented at the College of Agriculture next Saturday. This pageant was written by Maxine Churchill, a senior in the department of Home Economics and all the girls taking part are from the department. Charlotte Joyce of Weeping Water, freshman in the College of Agriculture, takes the part of Princess Eleasia, the leading role. The pageant will be presented between Ag Hall and Home Economics building at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and again at 7:30 in the evening.
