

ANNUAL STATE TRACK TOURNEY BEGINS TODAY

High School Students Swarm Campus to Compete in Twenty-Sixth Meet

ALL PREPARATIONS MADE

Exceptional Marks and Large Entry Lists Point to Record Affair

University of Nebraska's athletic department will be host to the twenty-sixth annual Nebraska interscholastic track and field championships today and Saturday when more than 800 high school cinder artists, representing a total of eighty-seven Cornhusker prep schools gather to decide champions of three groups. The entrance blank received from Stanton Thursday swelled the total to eighty-seven surpassing last year's number by seven schools.

Everything is in readiness for the annual track classic and the meet promises to be a record breaking affair. Coach Henry F. Schulte and his assistants have been hard at work putting the Memorial stadium cinder paths in shape and the track is in excellent condition. The showers Thursday put the finishing touches to the quarter mile oval and the Husker track mentor pronounced the cinders as being "fast as ever."

Early season meets have uncovered some very promising stars throughout the state and track followers predict several new state III marks before the championships are over. The long standing record for the century dash is due for a shake (Continued on Page 2.)

WORK ON ANDREWS HALL PROGRESSES

Workmen Strive to Complete Large Number of Rooms by End of Current Week

Working under the protection of a completed roof, plasterers have been pushing the work on Andrews hall during the past week to complete nearly a third of the room walls. With the exception of a few rooms on the first floor where plumbing fixtures are being installed and the final coat of plaster has been spread on.

The long corridor on the first floor has been completely plastered. It stretches the full length of the building, produces a very pleasing interior arrangement. The passageway is vaulted, and with the white sand-finish plaster brightens up the entire lower floor. Rooms on the first floor have received the third and last coat of plaster. The battlement linoleum floors have not yet been put down.

On the second floor the majority of the rooms have received at least one coat of plaster and a section of the long corridor at the east end of the building has been completed. The third floor is not ready as yet, for workmen are just now putting the metal tath on the walls. The roof was completed last Wednesday and since then carpenters have put in the partition walls on that floor.

Bedford trim about the building has been completed with the exception of a small stretch where the material hoist is still erected. Masons are putting the final touches on the mortar between the Bedford.

Reinhold Neibuhr

Reverend Neibuhr of the Bethel Evangelical church of Detroit, who was a recent visitor to the University of Nebraska campus, will speak at the Estes Park conference to be held June 6 to 16.

Neibuhr and Eddy Will Talk At Estes Park

"Estes Park with Sherwood Eddy and Reinhold Neibuhr is an intellectual feast for any group of college students. These men have the most inspiring and dynamic personalities of any men I have ever heard," stated Joe Hunt, president for the past year of the Y. M. C. A. and recently elected to membership on the field council of the Rocky Mountain Region.

The Estes Park conference is to be held June 6 to 16 at the Association camp, Estes Park, Colorado, and will be attended by 400 student and faculty from the forty-five colleges and universities of Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, and Utah.

GEOLOGY FIELD TRIP ITINERARY IS MADE

Complete Plans for Six Week Study Tour Through Four States Are Announced

Complete itinerary of the six weeks' geology field trip through South Dakota, Wyoming, Utah, and Colorado, which will begin about June 4, has been announced by Prof. E. F. Schramm.

The trip carries with it six hours of university credit. The boys who go do their own cooking, and provide for their own expenses. The cost to each individual for the six weeks will approximate two hundred dollars, according to Professor Schramm.

The Bad Lands of South Dakota is the region to be studied first. Attention there will be given particularly to the mining camps at Keystone and Lead. A general study of the stratigraphy of the Black Hills will next be made.

Study Oil Fields

From there the group will go to the Devil's Tower area in Wyoming. Stops in that state will be in the following order: Osage oil field, Cambria coal mines, Salt Creek oil field, Hanna coal fields, the oil shales in south-west Wyoming near the Green River, and the coal deposits at Rock Springs.

In Utah, the next stop, studies will be made at Salt Lake City, the Utah Copper company's mine at Bingham canyon, smelters and refineries in that district, and the alunite mines in the southern portion of the state.

The group will then move on to the northern rim of the Grand Canyon, where examination will be made of the complete geologic section as exposed in the canyon. Following this, the return to Lincoln will be made with stops on the way at the mining districts of Colorado.

OPPOSITION TO RULE INCREASES

Parallel Parking System Draws Adverse Comment from Many Students

TRAFFIC BECOMES HEAVY

In the last few days increased opposition to the system of parallel parking on R and Sixteenth streets has been indicated among the students of the University. The traffic has been heavier than usual with the coming of warm weather.

According to Allan C. MacIntosh, editor of the Awgwan, the heavy truck traffic through the main street of the university tends to bring a commercial atmosphere to the school. The atmosphere of scholarship is greatly interfered with. MacIntosh says that most of the larger schools in the east have their campus set off from the business district, but since this has not been done at Nebraska the city council might well reconsider their action which brings commercialism to the university.

Lee Vance says, "There is not enough room for all the students to park their cars, not only in front of the fraternity houses, but also at Nebraska Mothers Will Have Summer Camps (Continued on Page 2.)

A Little Bird Listens In on Mortar Board

(By the Martyr Bird)

Yellow Jackets may have their politics and the Blue Shirts their slate but rumor from the Mortar Board meeting held last evening, well we'd hate to tell where and how, has it that peculiar, strange and exciting things are taking place within the black masquerade circle of the holy, (oh yes, they are holy, at least some of them are) twelve.

To begin with election of members to any organization whether it be the Kosmet Klub, where politics never enter, or to the Student Council where Jim Jensen, Davenport and a few others stand with old General Grant tactics and keep the naughty politicians from stuffing the coveted ballot box, are usually unsatisfactory for someone.

Presidents Are Ineligible

Mortar Board, according to the little bird that sat on the doorstep and listened to the Y. W. C. A. maidens discuss their candidates, does not like to masquerade any of the aspiring young women on the campus who have taken upon themselves the duties of presidents of any Greek letter group, at least the mystical twelve are sitting and looking at their activities a long time before they cast the final ballot which will make them members of the group. The little bird ran right over to the Alpha Zeta Delta house and told his (Continued on Page 2.)
