

Ball Tourney Nears Finals

 League three trimming Farm House 5 to 4 last Friday to clinch the league. Kappa Sigma and Farm House will meet today to settle second place standing, each aggregation having dropped one game to Sigma Chi. Sigma Phi Epsilon, aided by the spectacular pitching of Pickett, has won league four. The Sig Ep contingent is one of the favorites to carry off intramural baseball honors, following its showing in the league.

Phi Sigs in Tie
 Phi Sigma Kappa and Alpha Gamma Rho are deadlocked for the lead in league five, each team having dropped a game. Phi Sigma Kappa is expected to win the play off game, according to campus sentiment, as it already holds one win over the A. G. R. nine.

League six honors are also unsettled. Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Delta Sigma Phi are leading the race and undoubtedly will fight it out for the championship. One game between these two teams ended in a squabble.

Youth Must Have Love!

If Youth but knew; if age but could. And so the young Princess turns from her elderly husband to fall, a passionate and helpless creature, into the trembling arms of her husband's brother.

Two fallen leaves drifting in the wind, torn from the shelter and safety of a sturdy home; facing inevitable discovery with the consciousness that no matter what the penalty shall be—"Youth Must Have Love."

in league seven. Delta Sigma Delta appears to be the class of the division, however.

The hopes of Farm House of securing the all-year inter-fraternity trophy were practically smashed when the Sigma Chi team clinched honors in league three. Unless the agriculturists show strength in the minor tournaments now in progress, the cup is almost sure of returning to Kappa Sigma, last year's champs.

Sooners Find Tallest And Shortest Men in University This Year

Norman, Okla., May 15.—A university-wide quest for the tallest and the shortest man in school, conducted by the Oklahoma Daily during the past week, ended Thursday when it was decided that Parker Shelby, fine arts unclassified student, Vinson, and Carl Albert, arts and sciences freshman, McAlester, had perhaps the best claims to these respective titles.

Shelby Wins
 Shelby, who stands six feet, eight inches "by any measurement in your city," as they say about the tall man in the carnival, has been that tall since he was 18 years of age. How long ago that was, Shelby refused to say.

"Dogged if I know," he said, when asked if he could offer any suggestion as to why and wherefore of tallness. Since Shelby is one of the university track team's crack high jumpers, it was suggested that perhaps jumping so much had increased his elongation into the pure ozone of the upper air.

May Help Jumping
 "Oh I don't think so," he answered thoughtfully, "in fact, I should think that my height had something to do with jumping." Which is probably correct.

"The little champion" measures five feet, four inches "short," as he said, and can offer no solution as to why he is short, and how short that is.

One might think that Carl Albert had been making so many political speeches that it had "stumped" his growth.

However, Albert's shortness does not seem to bother him any since he can talk back to the biggest of big "he-men," and can usually win the best of any argument, using sharp-pointed words, instead of the razor in the proverbial razor story.

Oklahoma's Library Has Magazines Nearly 200 Years Old

Norman, Okla., May 15.—Magazines which were printed many years before the creation of the United States are available to students of the university, according to information obtained at the periodical department of the university library. Among the oldest of these is the Gentlemen's Magazine, first published in 1731, in London. The periodical department has a copy of every number issued during the life of the magazine. The last number was printed in 1894.

The periodical department is subscribed to more than 800 current publications, about 250 of which are kept in the department reading room in the library. The remaining ones are distributed to the libraries of the separate schools.

Magazines Are Preserved

The Literary Digest, Forum, Harper's, Scribner's Current History, and World's Work are among the most called for periodicals at the general periodical library, although many calls for magazines devoted to the theater, music and drama are made. The library subscribes for many current foreign publications, among which are magazines printed in the Spanish, French, German, Italian, and Russian languages.

No magazines are destroyed by any of the libraries but are kept on the branch libraries' shelves until a volume is accumulated. The volume is then sent to the library bindery, and, having been bound, is filed in the general library shelves where it is available for reference. The greatest number of requests for back numbers of publications is received from students of psychology and education for review and aid in writing papers.

Mrs. Meacham Is Librarian

An index is kept in the reading room by which it is possible for the reader to obtain the name and date of the publication of any article in which he may be interested.

Besides the numerous magazines kept in the department, 15 large newspapers are subscribed for, as well as many of the back numbers of the most popular magazines, are kept in the east reading room of the library.

The periodical reading room is located in a small room on the second floor of the library building. It is open from 8 o'clock to 6 o'clock on weekdays, from 8 to 12 on Saturdays, and from 2 till 5 on Sundays, on which latter days only the current magazines may be examined. The librarian is Mrs. Edna Meacham, who has two part time student assistants.

Selma, Calif.—(IP)—The world's 100-yard dash record of 9 3-5 seconds was broken here recently by a high school boy, Frank Lombardi, Los Angeles high school sprinter. He won the event in the California Interscholastic Federation championship track and field meet held here.

Library Receives Many Late Books

 "Pantheistia" by Binyon; "The Letters of Queen Victoria" (second series) by Buckle.

"Flying Fish," a book of songs and sonnets by Conkling; "At the Gateways of the Day" by Colum; "Brass Tacks Ballads" by Cook; "Alexander Pope," a biography by Griffith; "The Calculus of Variants," an essay on textual criticism by Greg; "A Guide to Local Government Legislation Since the War," by Hiley; "Economic Essays" by Hollander; "The Problems of a World Court" by Hill; "The Life and Principate of the Emperor Hadrian" by Henderson.

Pyle's Harriers Trek Over Oberlin Campus

Oberlin, Ohio—(IP)—Oberlin college students counted themselves lucky last week. Just as classes were letting out for the week Saturday noon, the first of C. C. Pyle's cross country runners plodded down the state highway which runs through the college campus. Crowds of students and professors took advantage of the spectacle which lasted far into the night.
