Gordon Chalmers, an American Rhodes scholar from Brown, entertained Miss Appleby in his "digs" as the students who do not live in the colleges, call their quarters.

Do Best in Own Class.

Upon checking up it was found that when pupils saw themselves among classmates of their own intelligence, they worked hard to keep up with the group; whereas in a mixed class the poor students were afraid to speak out for fear of being laughed at, under the new arrangement they hadn't the slightest hesitancy.

THE COLLEGIANS PLAYED IT

- big times and the Collegians' aggregation go hand in hand. —if you're easily satisfied, try a stringed ensemble or a flute obligato. —if the Collegians ever played a penny dance, you could kill yourself dancing for a dollar. —the Collegians always play up to a standard—not down to a price. —and are now booking just a few big goes where the Eds and Co-Eds rate in the Whose Whoosis of Nebraska.
