COSTUME PARTY PLANS PORTEND CLEVER AFFAIR

Entertaining Skits Will Be

Athletic Sports

COSTUMES WIN PRIZES

Seven Hundred Women May Be Present to Set New
Attendance Mark

Plans for the traditional Cornhusker costume party, held annually in conjunction with the men's Cornhusker banquet, are nearly completed. It will be held Friday night at the Armory, beginning at 7 o'clock. Esther Heyne, of Wisner, is chairman of the committee in charge of the program, which is being sponsored by the Associated Women Students' board.

Three feature skits, put on by Tassels, W. A. A., and the girls' intramural board, will headline the program. A fourth skit may be added later in the week, the chairman said. The skits will be burlesque in nature, and may have something to do with co-ed sports, emphasizing the benefit of supervised sport.

Three Prizes Are Offered

Following the custom of former costume parties, prizes will be offered for the best skit presented. Prizes have already been selected. Three prizes will be awarded to individuals for the best costume in each of the three classes. Costumes will be classified to determine the funniest, cleverest, and the prettiest. Misses Lee, Wilson and Hill will act as judges in the competition. All those attending must appear in costume. Preparation is being made for the largest crowd that has ever attended these functions. Nearly seven hundred attended the affair last year.

DR. BREUER DISCUSSES ADOLESCENT DANGERS

Growing Children Are Beset
With Problems Peculiar
To That Age Alone

"Adolescence, in addition to being a very critical period, is the most trying condition of a child's life. Life's problems confront the child but he does not have the power to solve them."

This is the opinion made known in a lecture on "Mental Hygiene of Adolescence" by Dr. Miles J. Breuer in Social Sciences auditorium last night. The meeting was the third of a series dealing with the general subject of mental hygiene to be held this season.

"Because he is getting older, adult behavior is expected of the child and he can't meet it. He feels his childhood ties slipping and as a result is very much alone in the world."

"What the parents do for a child from the age of four to six has a definite effect upon what the child will be doing from the age of fifteen to twenty."

Dr. Breuer recommended the Wolf Cubs and similar organizations for the using up of their surplus energy. He stated that the boy of today has a few square feet of concrete to grow up on and a house full of things which interest only adults, in which to live. In compensation for this are the various organizations for guiding the child along the line of wholesome activity, he said.

"The child must be sympathized with, he must be permitted to act upon his own initiative but he must not go unnoticed, said Dr. Breuer. Commenting upon behavior problems, he said, "People seem to be much concerned with the way children are behaving today. The reason is that they do not follow our ideas." Among primitive people education took the form of customs. The criticism of youth and alarm at its antics is an outgrowth of the old taboo system or system of traditions and customs. Everyone wants the young person to do as he did.

The taboo system is not necessary today, he said, as guidance of youth is now in education and is more efficient. Abnormalities grow out of the use of the taboo system in present civilization are in fact, complex, caused by the

DIRECTORS IN BIG SIX TALK OVER PROBLEMS

Nebraska Cage Stars Will Be Clothed in White, Per
New Ruling

Director of Athletics H. D. Gish and Dean T. J. Thompson were the Nebraska representatives at the meeting of Big Six conference officials in Kansas City Friday and Saturday. The athletic directors met Friday and there was a joint meeting of faculty representatives and athletic directors Saturday.

One of the matters discussed at Kansas City was that of freshman competition in all sports. This would enable freshman teams in football, basketball and wrestling to compete with other schools in one or two meets. However there was no action taken.

The rule on the junior college athlete was also discussed. This is in regard to permitting athletes who have competed in junior colleges to later compete in Big Six conference athletics. Definitely action will be taken at the spring meeting in March.

Cagers Wear White

Nebraska cage fans will see their team perform in white suits on the home floor this season. It was decided at the athletic directors' meeting that the traveling team shall wear suits of the color of its school. The home team will wear white suits. This is just opposite the practice of last year and the practice of football teams. The reason for this, according to Mr. Gish is that it is easier for the home team to keep the white suits clean than the one that is traveling and that the home team should try to cater to the home crowd.

The officials for next year's football games were assigned, but the list is not complete now. The Big Six football schedules for 1929 had already been made. The schedules for the 1930 season will be made at the spring meeting of conference in March.

MONOHAN POST BAND WILL PLAY AT PARTY

Engage Ten-Piece Orchestra
For 'Holiday Hop' That Is Contest Winner

Monohan Post orchestra, booked for the "Holiday Hop" to be held in the Coliseum Saturday evening, won the annual American Legion band contest last year, according to word received yesterday afternoon from the booking office in Omaha. The dance band is made up of ten pieces and is making its initial appearance in Lincoln at the Varsity party Saturday evening.

In addition to the champion American Legion band, those who attend the "Holiday Hop" will be entertained by a special entertainer, who augments the orchestra. "Mary Ann," the Monohan Post orchestra entertainer, is a former Orpheus vaudeville artist.

The orchestra will play continuously during the evening, taking only the intermission required by law. It has not been decided as yet whether or not the musicians will be costumed. The decorations committee has charge of this feature.

Will Use Experienced Checkers

The question was asked of Varsity Party committee members yesterday as to the checking facilities. Many complained of the crowded condition at the Military Ball. The "Holiday Hop" will use each door at the checking hall in the Coliseum, and will employ experienced checkers, according to the committee. This will eliminate, according to those in charge, any long waiting lines before and after the party.

Tickets will be sold at the Coliseum box office for the "Holiday Hop." The price will be one dollar. Punch and wafers will be served continuously throughout the evening from the stand under the east balcony.

"We think the decorations for the 'Holiday Hop' will be a little

Tomorrow; Staff Will

There will be no Daily Nebraskan issued Thursday morning of this week, due to preparation of copy for the special football edition which will be distributed Friday morning and at the Cornhusker banquet Friday evening. The Nebraska offices will be open Wednesday afternoon, however, and assignments will be made to reporters the same as usual. The staff will also work Thursday afternoon.

Many illustrations are carried in the special edition. Tentative plans call for a twelve-page paper Friday morning.

ATHEIST SOCIETY ASKS RECOGNITION

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—(IP)—University of Minnesota students who recently organized a secret atheistic society were reported last week to be preparing to ask Edward E. Nicholson, dean of student affairs, for official recognition of their body by the university.

The society, which is said to have had an undercover organization since the beginning of the fall quarter, will make official application for recognition within the week, according to one of the purported members, who withheld his name from publication.

A total of 15 members, including a number of students in University activities are included on the roster, an investigation revealed.

Reporters Are Asked To Get Assignments

Regardless of the fact that there will be no Daily Nebraskan tomorrow morning reporters are asked to get assignments at the regular office hours both today and tomorrow. The special football edition of The Nebraskan, appearing Friday morning, will carry an abundance of news material.

GIRLS TELL TALES OF GRUELING CITY WORK

Y. W. C. A. Experimenters
Have Hard Time on $13 Weekly

"With blistered fingers, I worked behind a mangle trying to catch towels as they rolled out," stated Lela Marshall of Wayne, an industrial experimenter, in her speech at Vespers Tuesday evening. Three girls from the University of Nebraska attended this industrial experiment and sought a job among the working girls of the large cities.

"I worked in a laundry in Chicago for thirteen dollars a week," asserted Lela Marshall. Seven dollars and a quarter of that amount I spent for room rent, and the rest went for street car fare and lunches. The girls who worked in the laundries received the same amount and at the same time were helping to support their families. One little Irish girl gave ten dollars for her family, which left three for her to spend on herself.

"One day when I did not feel like eating she went across the street and bought some ice cream for me out of her own three dollars. This is a good example of how sympathetic and generous the girls were to each other."

Conditions Terrible

They were very proud when they did a fine piece of work, but at times they were very antagonistic toward the laundry. One girl declared, "We are becoming machines—the more work we do, the more they want." The Polish women thought of forming a labor union in the factory, but before the union could be formed the management made the employees sign pledges that they would not join the union.

"I do not think it's fair that they should be made to sign anything against their wish," said Miss Marshall. Wages were lowered in summer because the laundry was not making enough money. Even the heat was so intense that it impaired the health of some of the women. One day there was a cool breeze blowing in the window, but the floor woman slammed it down because it interfered with their work.

Mary Ball, who was a receiving clerk at Camp Maqua on Thompson's lake in Maine, and Ruth Hatfield, who was swimming instructor at Camp Okaboki, spoke about camp work at a Y. W. C. A. camp.

Hard Life In Camp

"I counted everything that came into camp including the people, dishes, and letters," admitted Mary Ball.

The staff lived in five-room cottages which included three bedrooms, a living room, and a bath. Each living room had a large stone fireplace around which we all gathered in the evenings. The waiters, or the Sammys, as they were called, lived in barracks.

"Most of the girls were from eastern schools and there were
