

CYCLONE WRESTLERS THREATEN NEBRASKA

Ames Matmen, Who Downed
Indiana, Will Invade
The Coliseum

WILL GRAPPLE SATURDAY

Nebraska wrestlers will face a tough assignment when they meet the Iowa State team from Ames on Saturday at the Coliseum. The Ames bone crushers defeated Indiana, Monday, by a score of 17 to 11. The Hoosiers defeated Nebraska last Saturday by a score of 15 to 11. Coach John Kellogg, however, holds high hopes that his wrestlers will show a reversal of form and down the Ames team. This will be the first Big Six conference wrestling match for the Huskers.

The Ames wrestling coach, Hugo Otopaulik, is a former Nebraska man, having competed on the Nebraska wrestling and football teams. He has had an unusually successful career as a wrestling instructor. His teams won several titles in the old Missouri Valley conference.

Coach Kellogg has not finally decided his lineup yet. The probable lineup will be John Kish, 115 pound, Lindskog or Hern, 125 pound, Andrews, Reece or Carpenter, 135 pound, Reimers, 145 pound, Simic, 155 pound, Toman, 165 pound, Stone or Hunt, 175 pound, and Peterson, heavyweight.

BOXING CONTESTANTS ARE EXTENDED TIME

Entries by Fraternities
May Be Made Until Noon Today

Since only nine fraternities were entered in the Intro-mural boxing meet up to last evening, the closing time for entries was extended until noon today. According to Rudolf Vogeler, boxing coach. At least twenty fraternities are expected to be on the list before entries close.

The following fraternities have already entered the tournament. Delta Chi, Farm House, which won second place in last year's tournament, Theta Chi, third place winner last year, Theta Xi, Phi Kappa Psi, Delta Tau Delta, Alpha Sigma Phi, Kappa Sigma, and Delta Sigma Phi, winner of last year's meet.

The names of five of last year's winners are on the list. They are Bruce Snyder, Farm House, winner in the 118 pound class, Harold Frahm, Farm House, heavyweight champ, Herman Amus, Theta Chi, best light heavyweight, Curtis Poet, Mid-Western A. A. U. welterweight champ for the last two years, Delta Sigma Phi, and Harry Hingman, present 135 pound state champion, who is a member of Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Pairings for the meet will be made this afternoon after all en-

Will Scrap Jayhawkers Saturday

Here is the squad of Cornhusker hardwood artists who will endeavor to nip the tail feathers from the Kansas Jayhawk next Saturday night, in one of the early but important Big Six basketball games this season. Lower row: Elmer Holm, Seldon Davey, Glenn Munn, Carl Olson, Robert Krall. Back row: Coach Black, Willard Witte, Don Maclay, Cliff Jensen, Harvey Grace, Morris Fisher.

tries are in and will be posted on the bulletin board in the Coliseum.

CONDRA ADDRESSES FIREMAN MEETING

Dean G. E. Condra of the conservation and survey division was the principal speaker at the forty-seventh annual meeting of the Nebraska State Volunteer Fireman's association held at Fremont this week. His lecture dealt with fire prevention control and extinguishing.

The other speakers on the program were Linden J. Murphy of the Iowa agricultural college at Ames, Clarence Goldsmith, engineer with the national board of Fire Underwriters at Chicago and Frank McAullife, chief of the Chicago Fire Insurance patrol.

ATHLETIC BLOOD RUNS IN THIS FAMILY

Three colleges have a son of Bishop E. L. Waldorf in their football hall of fame. Lynn, the eldest, now on the coaching staff at the University of Kansas, was an all-America tackle at Syracuse for two years; John is captain-elect of the University of Missouri's football team for 1929 and Paul chose a Methodist school, enrolling at Baker university of Baldwin, Kas.

South Dakota proved to be just a trifle more than the Scarlet basketballers bargained for in the non-conference game Tuesday night at the Coliseum. Maclay, sophomore center, had his night on hooking ringers and showed plenty of speed on the floor. Maclay has possibility of filling the place that has been worrying Coach Charley Black, and only lacks experience.

The South Dakota game offered the Husker center just that experience, that he wanted and he brought home the bacon and the high scoring honors for the evening's play. Maclay has an easy gait as he moves up and down the court that is pleasing to the sport eye. He never gives up fighting until the ball is in the netting.

"Dutch" Witte and Morris Fisher were the two Husker sharp shooters who kept the Scarlet in the running against the Coyotes Tuesday night. The two forwards were exceptionally hot on hitting the rim, those kind that sizzle through in non-stop formation and Saturday on the Coliseum floor the Scarlet of Nebraska will have a big bill to handle in the Kansas Jayhawkers. Should Nebraska elect to play ball as they did against South Dakota the outcome is already decided for the Kansas crew is to be re-ckoned with Against Missouri Tuesday night, the Kansas put up a nip and tuck brand of the court game. Bishop and "Rub" Thompson, the two Jayhawk forwards, were hitting the rim with unceasing regularity. Although the Tigers took the long end of the score, Kansas only lost by a four-point margin. Evidently the Kansas mentor has been developed a fast guarding machine, for the Tiger forwards were only allowed a pair of baskets each.

Oklahoma, touted as a strong contender to capture the championship in the Big Six title race smothered the Kansas Aggies Tuesday night, winning 44 to 23. Coach Hugh McDermott hopes to repeat his conference championship of last season. He has developed a fast moving quintet which revolves around Shearer, tall center. Shearer snagged seven baskets and free toss against the Wildcats for high scoring honors of the evening. Bruce Drake captain of the Scorer five, is one of the outstanding guards in the conference and held Nigro and Skradaki of the Aggies to a total of three baskets.

Harvey Grace stood by in the Dakota game and watched one of Coyote forwards slip one through the rim with all the ease of a retired business man. Harv was not playing his regular brand of ball against the Northerners Tuesday and played a loose guarding game. "Big" Munn, the boy that relieved Maclay at center, will have a hard time fooling Big Six officials on his pet knee jab to the solar plexus. Munn has tried and tried to get by with this choice bit of fouling but never seems to make the grade past the referee.

Meteorologist Promises More Cold Weather

"It neige," the campus was informed by Jupiter Pluvius this morning. P. T. Blair, meteorologist adds that temperature will rise somewhat, but it will continue to be chilly.

It is the opinion of students that a few warm, balmy days would not be amiss right now. According to Mr. Blair, the month of January has been unusually cold every day. But four of them have been on an average of four degrees colder than the normal January temperature.

The temperature remained at zero on one day and dropped below a degree on another. The coldest day during 1929 was on January 1 when the mercury registered 11 degrees below zero.

Looking back it is found that in 1915 twenty-three inches of snow and negative 22 degree temperature were suffered during the month of January.

Tuesday evening Manitoba, Canada reported the weather 25 degrees below, and in direct contrast, Tampa, Florida, 66 above.

YORK FANS GREET NEW MENTOR AT BANQUET

Bible Gives Lively Talk
Before 250 at Hotel
McCloud Tuesday

STARTS OUTSTATE TRIP

Coach Dana X. Bible opened his tour thru the state at York Tuesday evening. The new Cornhusker gridiron mentor was greeted by more than 250 people at a banquet given in his honor at the Hotel McCloud. The banquet was sponsored by the York chamber of commerce. The reception accorded Coach Bible was one of most enthusiastic in the history of the town, the banquet hall being crowded to overflowing.

The Husker coach made a short address, expressing his appreciation of the cordial reception received in Nebraska and said he was looking forward with great pleasure to his work next fall.

"I can tell from the response given by Nebraskans why this is a great football state and realize the responsibilities of my task and hope for the complete co-operation and teamwork of all to help maintain the high standard set by my predecessors," Bible stated.

President E. A. Leavitt of the York chamber of commerce presided and after introducing George M. Spurlock and Dr. D. D. King, turned the meeting over to Bob Russell, former Cornhusker player. Russell introduced Athletic Director Herb Gish, track coach Henry F. Schulte and Gregg McBride. Gish told of the growth of athletics at the university, while Schulte paid a high tribute to Coach Bible.
