Schulte Causes Worry by Athletic Team as Polo Thriller Draws Near

The following dispatch was sent to The Daily Nebraskan by the publicity director of the department of athletics polo team, which is preparing for the polo game to be played on Kiddle kars with the department of military science.

"The department of athletics polo team got down to serious business Monday afternoon when Coach John K. Selleck sent the A. D. mallet-wielders through a brisk workout at the University coliseum.

The drill was in preparation for the Friday polo classic with the department of military science team at the Cornhusker Carnival Friday.

The entire squad is in good condition, according to Coach Selleck, and the only worry is over the ability to obtain a horse suitable to carry Henry F. Schulte during the Friday game.

Schulte Breaks 'Horse' "Mr. Schulte is giving us considerable concern," Coach Selleck said Monday following the workout. "He Harold Hedges of the University of Nebraska agricultural college, left Saturday for Washington, D. C., to attend the annual conference of those state men who study agricultural market trends.

Mr. Hedges works in the department of rural economics at the college and issues the monthly copies of the Nebraska Economic Situation, in a circular telling farmers what the trend of prices is likely to be within the next 30-day period.

About 3,000 farmers are on his mailing list. The service is free as a part of the agricultural college extension service program.

At Washington, Mr. Hedges will assist in the final preparation of the national economic situation statement for 1929 which is to be released January 28. He will also confer with representatives of other states regarding the annual series of agricultural outlook meetings such as have been held in Nebraska each of the last two years.

Some outlook meetings will be held in Nebraska again this year, but the dates and places have not been definitely set yet.

Other Campuses: University of Texas—A first edition of Poe's "The Raven" was found in an early copy of the American Review, a magazine dating back to 1845.

The poem was signed Quarles and originally in Volume I of the Whig Journal one of the volumes from William Carey Crane, former president at Baylor university.

University of Texas—Students of the University of Texas are responding enthusiastically to raising a fund to erect a memorial at the Amherst College.

The results of a recent questionnaire given to the freshman class at Amherst college show that four and a third hours is the average time spent on study outside of class room recitation.

Out of this class of 196 members, fifty-two men are working their way through college. One-sixth of the freshmen are disappointed in

R.O.T.C. TRACKSTERS MAKE LOW RECORDS

None of last year's records were broken during last week's competition in the annual R. O. T. C. track meet, according to Captain Lehman.

The average was considerably lower in the two events held last week, the high jump and the 256-yard run, than last year.

The meet will close this week. All of the companies are competing in the low hurdles and the broad jump during their drill periods.

A relay will be run the night of the Husker Carnival, January 25, between picked teams representing each company.

Companies may work out until Wednesday evening on the Coliseum floor in preparation for the relay.

Company L is leading the other companies in the track meet. This company is first in the 256-yard run with an average of 375 points for the company.

L company is also first in the 50-yard dash. The company averaged 535 points in this event.

D company and H company were first in the two other events which have taken place during the last two weeks.

D company was first in the high jump with an average of 390, and H company beat all other competition in the shot put with an average of 285 points.

The competition in the companies has been very close and the final outcome of the meet is very doubtful, according to those in charge of the meet.
