

IOWA ORCHESTRA PLAYS FOR ALL GREEK FORMAL

Harry Boyd and His Iowans Have Been Booked by Kosmet Klub BAND IS TEN PIECES Tickets Now on Sale For $2.50 by Fraternity Representatives

Harry Boyd and his University of Iowa entertainers will play for the interfraternity ball next Saturday night was the announcement made by the Kosmet Klub last night. It was definitely learned that this organization had been secured by the committee in charge of the orchestra and tickets were put on sale this week.

According to members of the Kosmet Klub, Harry Boyd's orchestra has a wide reputation in this section of the country, having played in Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, and Minnesota with practically the same organization of men. Recently the orchestra completed a summer's engagement in Estes Park, playing in the new Stanley Hotel.

Composed of University Men Harry Boyd's band is composed of ten University of Iowa men who have their own entertainers to present a diversified program during the evening. The interfraternity ball will be held in the new Cornhusker ballroom and plans have been made for appropriate decorations, according to the committee.

Tickets are on sale by fraternity representatives and members of the Kosmet Klub for $2.50 each. The reduction from three dollars, the proposed price, was effected through the lesser expense in securing an orchestra from this section of the country. Austin Sturdevant, business manager of the Kosmet Klub, last night declared that there had been a limit set on the number of tickets and that they were selling fast, insuring a big crowd for the all-university party, the interfraternity ball.

ANNUAL CO-ED FROLIC GIVEN FRIDAY EVENING

Two Prizes Are Offered for Best Skits Presented in Temple Theater

Co-ed Follies, an annual entertainment sponsored by the A. W. S. board for all university women, will be staged this year on Friday evening, February 8, at the Temple theater. Eight skits, including two curtain acts, will be presented by eight different organizations whose skits were chosen in a preliminary try-out. A first prize of fifteen dollars will be awarded to the organization presenting the most original, and the best staged skit. Second prize will be ten dollars.

Organizations who will compete for the prizes this year are Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Chi Omega, Sigma Kappa, Phi Beta Phi, Gamma Phi Beta, W. A. A., Delta Omicron, and Phi Mu. Last year W. A. A. won first place, and Delta Omicron second place.

Mary Ball is general manager of the Follies, with Betty Wahlquist acting as her assistant. Mildred Olson has charge of the programs, Vivian Fleetwood and Lois Hankin of the tickets, Adelaide Burr and Gwendolyn Hager will secure the judges.

ALUMNI TO MEET IN LOS ANGELES

University of Nebraska alumni in Los Angeles, Calif., will have their annual banquet at the Mary Louise February 15, according to announcements sent out today to Nebraska alumni in Los Angeles.

California stands first outside of the home state in the number of alumni residents, with 1,700. Trailing behind in second place is Iowa with 950. Most of the 1,700 reside in or near Los Angeles, according to John D. Bushnell, president of the association.

Serving with Mr. Bushnell on the banquet committee are: Stanley Hall, Chas. Weldon, "Chick" Hartley, Joe Ryons, Franklin J. Potter, and Judge Victor R. McClucas.

Fossil Mount of Ancient Nebraska Animal Being Installed in Museum

A fossil mount of the moropus—an animal once active in Nebraska, belonging to the family of hoofed animals, yet having three claws instead of hoofs—will be installed in a case of the museum in Morrill hall by the end of the week.

This is the first large fossil mount attempted by the museum. Work on the mount, which is being done by Edwin H. Colbert, will be the assistance of Henry Reider, has been going on since the first of September.

Bones of the moropus were found in Sioux county, Nebraska, in the Agate Springs fossil quarry which has yielded so many bones of former animals. Several complete sets of bones were taken out of the quarry by the Museum of Natural History, New York City, and in

Tri F Club Gives Tea For Freshmen Co-Eds

Tri F club, girls' pep organization, of the Home Economics department, will hold a tea for all freshmen girls from 4 to 5 o'clock today in the Home Economics parlors on the college of Agriculture campus.

Helen Suchy and Nellie Trenkle are in charge of the arrangements. Blenda Newlin and Neva Neely will entertain with a vocal duet.

NEBRASKAN IS HEADED BY NEW EDITORIAL STAFF

Hammond Appointed Editor With Ayres and Sandahl Managing Editors

M'GREW IS REAPPOINTED

Publication Board Does Not Select Assistant News Editors

With this issue of The Daily Nebraskan the new staff makes its debut. Dean Hammond is the newly appointed editor-in-chief and Maurice Konkel is the associate editor.

The other appointments made by the student publications board are: Managing editors: Joyce Ayres and Clifford Sandahl. News editors: William T. McCleery, Edgar Backus, Earl Anderson, Don Carlson, Gene Robb and Jack Elliott.

Milton McGrew was reappointed business manager and he will have as his assistants William Kearns, J. Marshall Pitzer and Lyman Cass. Kearns and Pitzer were reappointed while Cass is the newly appointed member of the Business Staff.

Seniors Only Considered In making the appointments the publications board announced that second semester seniors would be considered only for the chief positions. Reasons given for the feeling were that a second semester senior cannot give any competition to other members of the staff, that he is likely to have conflicting interests and that it is preferable to spread out the training to as many students as possible.

Dean Hammond, editor-in-chief, is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, Sigma Upsilon, Tau Kappa Epsilon and a senior in the School of Journalism. Konkel is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, vice-president of the senior class, senior in the School of Journalism, and affiliated with Alpha Sigma Phi. Both men were managing editors on the Daily Nebraskan the first semester.

INFIRMARY OPENING IS DELAYED UNTIL FEB. 13

Dean Lyman Hopes To Have All Work Completed In Near Future

Delay in the arrival of the bed equipment for the new university infirmary has made it necessary to postpone the opening until February 13 or 14, according to Dr. R. A. Lyman, dean of the college of pharmacy. He hopes to have all work completed by February 14. Mrs. S. Louise Vining is to be the manager of the new infirmary, and Miss Lillian Stuf, the nurse in charge. No offices will be located in the new building, for the offices of the student health department, now located in Pharmacy Hall, will be retained in their present location.

The new infirmary, Doctor Lyman stresses, is for the use of the students who need medical attention. The nominal fee of $1 per day will be charged for services, with the medical services free.

Worchester Plans Talk At Wilber This Evening

Dr. D. A. Worchester, professor of educational psychology, will talk at Wilber Tuesday evening on the subject of "Recent Investigations on the Psychology of Elementary School Subjects" before the school men of Saline county.

Have Trouble Identifying Classification of the moropus was hindered for a long time, according to Mr. Colbert, because of the queer combination of claws and grinding teeth. Although the bones grinding teeth and feet were often found together, scientists thought they belonged to two different animals.

It was not until the excavations of the bones in Sioux county, with the bones in exact position of life, that it became clear that the moropus had characteristics of two different classes of animals. The moropus lived in the geological period known as the miocene. It will be placed in the Sioux county case beside the rhinoceros.

'HE AND SHE' IS NEXT PRODUCTION BY UNI PLAYERS

Three Act Modern Comedy By Crothers Is Fifth Presentation

LEADS NOT ANNOUNCED

Ticket Sale Starts Latter Part of Week at Ross P. Curtice's

"He and She," the three act modern comedy drama by Rachael Crothers, will be presented by University Players as their fifth seasonal production beginning next Monday night. The leads of the play have not yet been announced.

The type of plays that have been presented by the University Players previously have varied, and Zolney Lerner, business manager of the Players stated yesterday, that "He and She" is an interesting modern drama of home life and woman's rights. Leads in previous University Players productions have been establishing a reputation for themselves as evidenced by the large weekly attendance for "Arms and the Man," according to Mr. Lerner.

Is Drama of Married Life "He and She" represents the drama of married life in which the relations of husband and wife are modified by the rival claims of professional jealousy. It is one of the

CHANCELLOR FAVORS POWER TRUST PROBE

Burnett Backs Legislative Plan of Investigation At University

TRUST INFLUENCE CITED

Chancellor E. A. Burnett favors the investigation of the University of Nebraska for possible power trust influence, according to a statement he has made. Material regarding the presence of power trusts in American educational institutions was brought up in the United States senate by Horace Davis, and the Nebraska legislature has appointed a committee of three to investigate conditions.

Senator J. C. McGowan of Madison presented a joint resolution to the legislature Wednesday, calling for investigation. Two phases of possible power trust influence were cited in the discussion. The first concerned the stand taken by members of the department of political science in regard to the city manager plan of municipal government, and the second, concerned the presence of power trusts in connection with university heat and lighting departments.

Members of the investigating committee are McGowan of Madison, J. J. Lancaster, and Frush of Saunders county. Considerable discussion has gone on in the legislature in connection with McGowan's joint resolution. Many favor the investigation in order that the presence of such influence may be determined if it is present, and that the name of the University of Nebraska may be vindicated if it is not found.

MARY BELLE M'CREARY IS KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Delta Gamma Dies After Crash; Returning Home To Scottsbluff

Mary Belle McCreary, Scottsbluff, died Monday afternoon from injuries received in an automobile smashup near Broadwater early yesterday morning. Miss McCreary attended the University of Nebraska last year and was a member of Delta Gamma sorority.

Miss McCreary was returning to her home in Scottsbluff with Elsie Vandenberg and Lawrence Elder. Miss Vandenberg, former university student, was a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority, and Mr. Elder was affiliated with Phi Delta Theta. Miss Vandenberg received a broken collar bone and a fractured shoulder, and Elder was cut and bruised in the wreck, reported to have been caused by a heavy log.

Dr. T. E. Ridell of Scottsbluff announced that there was little hope for Miss McCreary's recovery when she was still unconscious at 9 o'clock yesterday afternoon. She was taken to the Methodist hospital at Scottsbluff. Her father, Willis McCreary, is a hardware dealer at Scottsbluff.

Mary Belle McCreary was a freshman in the University last year and had planned to return next year. She arrived in Lincoln Friday afternoon to attend the Delta Gamma formal party Friday evening. The three former university students left Lincoln Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, planning to stay over in North Platte Sunday evening and complete the trip to Scottsbluff on Monday.

Fine Arts Convocation Will Feature Recital

Miss Eleanor Crump, class of Mariel Jones, will present her Junior recital in the Temple theater this morning at 11:00 o'clock as this week's program for the regular School of Fine Arts convocation.

Miss Crump will present the following program: Bach—Prelude and Fugue, E minor; Beethoven—Sonata; Chopin—Prelude in A flat major Mazurka in G minor; Impromptu in A flat major; Paderewski—Nocturne; Rachmaninoff—Waltz.

MORTAR BOARD WILL HANDLE TICKET SALE

Campus Organization Takes Charge of Tickets to Grand Opera

STUDENT RATES GIVEN

Mortar Board, senior women's honorary society, is sponsoring the sale of tickets to the "Rust," which will be presented at the University Coliseum, Thursday, March 21. Tickets may be obtained from Marjory Sturdevant, Mary Ball, Kathryn Douglas, Audrey Beales, Esther Heyne, Dorothy Norris, Ruth Davis, Ruth Shallerosa, Maeline Drayton, Evelyn Mansfield, Catherine Beekmann, Geraldine Heikes, and Pauline Bilson.

Student Rates Given Groups of University students desiring to avail themselves of the price reduction on opera tickets must make their purchases before Saturday, February 9, according to John K. Selleck, in charge of the campus appearance of the Chicago Civic Opera.

A price reduction of 20 percent is being offered any group of 25 or more students purchasing tickets. This block of tickets need not be in any one section, but may be scattered through the $5, 4, 3 and $2 sections.

According to the students activities office, many campus organizations have purchased their tickets, but it is the desire to make the representation 100 percent.

While early reservations have been made by fraternities and sororities, Mr. Selleck makes it plain that the entire student body may go together to obtain the reduced rate.

Drama Staged At Armory Is Second Event

While readers of various courses were perusing their formidable stacks of examination papers and the professors were gloating over victories in their recent two-hour encounters, a biyearly production was taking place in the Armory. It was a unique play, presented to no audience in particular. The cast was mixed and drawn from the entire student body. The theme of the occasion was—Payment of Fees.

From the hard, impartial doorkeeper to the man who validated the identification cards, the stage was set for comedy, romance, adventure and tragedy. Judging from the number of Home Economic courses subscribed to, there will be a few girls who will learn to cook other than by watching the chef in an All-in-One restaurant.

Class Schedules Arranged "What will be more rare than a day in June?" coeaded a Nebraska sweetheart as she evaluated the convenience of her class schedule and thought of the one and two o'clock and evening classes.

"Well just look at this schedule—all revised! Why there is not a class like I had arranged. I just will not go to school with that eight o'clock—etc." Her companion of like gender exploded and then losing momentum, her resolution plain in a whispering and she accepted the schedule as it was. Her eye was caught by a lad across the table and the romance of the play began.

Assignment Table Is Next It was a big adventure to attempt to get by the girl checking over the assignment cards. She had an eye that "bore malice towards none but correctness towards all." There was many a chagrined senior who was turned away with her orders to follow instructions and fill out that card for the Dean of Women.

It was behind the huge partition that the scene was laid for tragedy. A new technique in addition was introduced as the girl hastily had scanned the list of courses and pronounced totals that staggered the student, sending him in a daze to the counter where he wrote out the amount on dad. His mouth drooped and he had lost his confident bearing in the ordeal, but with a buoyant nature, he seen it all. The wide crack on the door did the trick. "Christmas comes but once a year, and payment of fees but twice, so why worry?"

Rose Reynolds Wins Poster Contest Prize

Rose Reynolds, '29, Lincoln, was awarded first prize in the poster contest sponsored by the Nebraska Art Association. The cash award of $25 was contributed by J. I. Teyser. Miss Reynolds graduated from the School of Fine Arts at the end of the first semester, and received much of her art training at the University.
