Most Missionaries Flee His knowledge of conditions in China is thorough, and is based on actual experience that he has undergone while performing his duties. His hospital was in the contested territory during the fighting between the northern and southern troops, and was captured and re-captured many times.

In his college days, Doctor Judd was very active in Y. M. C. A. work, and while in medical college was interested in the student volunteer movement for foreign missions.

After leaving the university, Doctor Judd refused a position with the Mayo brothers clinic in order to take up his missionary work in the interior of China, where he has remained at his post ever since his graduation. He will return again as soon as his health permits.

REED ANNOUNCES NEW ENTRANCE PROVISIONS

Seniors in High School May Take University Test During Spring

PLAN HELPS STUDENTS

High school seniors may take entrance examinations to the University of Nebraska while still in their senior year according to a new plan announced by A. A. Reed, university examiner.

Subjects in which they may take examinations in high school for university entrance are algebra and English for all freshmen students. Freshmen in the College of Engineering must pass an examination in algebra.

Three Classes in English

The present plan is to permit students to take examinations at the beginning of the school year in English and to divide the pupils into three classes, those failing to take English O get no credit, those who are average take the regular work and those who have had a sufficient amount of high school English are permitted to take English I.

The high school seniors, under the new plan, will take the tests under the supervision of high school supervisors and will receive their ratings by July 1. If they are deficient they can make up the work during the summer and pass another examination upon entrance.

Y. M. C. A. SPONSORS STUDY OF INDUSTRY

Students Seek Summer Jobs To Learn Practical Side of Issue

Plans for student industry groups which are made up of college students who enter industry as manual workers for the summer vacation period, and meet as a group once or twice a week to exchange experiences and discuss other issues have been announced by the national student Y. M. C. A.

Students Decide to Work Because of the difficulty in obtaining a true understanding of industrial problems from text books, which do not include the human values with the economic facts involved, many students have determined to "find out for themselves," by entering industry as manual workers, hunting their own jobs, living on their own wages, and working day by day under the same conditions as their fellow workers.

This approach is both scientific and educationally rewarding to the student who finds himself a part of an industrial situation, a participant observer of the problems of both men and management. A number of college men are spending a period of years in the venture. Some will spend one whole year but the majority are to devote six weeks or two months of the summer vacation to this project.

Workers Will Meet Weekly Each group comes together once or twice each week to exchange and evaluate experiences. A competent leader is provided who is able to secure interesting speakers to address the group and to be questioned by them.

College men and women, members of the faculty, students in professional schools, graduate students, social or religious workers, and those workers in industry who are willing to share experiences with the groups may join. It is important that applicants be in good health, that they should have had some work in sociology and economics, and that they

NEW APPROPRIATION SATISFIES BURNETT

Chancellor Thinks Governor Weaver Now Favors Huge Increase

BILL GOES TO SENATE

"Governor Weaver is in full accord with the increase in the University appropriation," declared Chancellor E. A. Burnett when interviewed yesterday about the $662,500 increase in the University budget over the amount recommended by the governor last January, which was reported out of the house finance ways and means committee Tuesday morning.

Wanted New Building

Chancellor Burnett said he was disappointed because the $150,000 asked for a Home Economics building on the College of Agriculture campus had not been granted but that he was well pleased with the increase in the budget.

The bill will have to pass the senate yet but no opposition is expected there, according to the chancellor.

"Everyone seems to be in favor of the increase," he said. "After the bill has passed the senate, it will take about thirty to sixty days before work is commenced on the new heating and lighting plant."

Agricultural Group Intends To Go to Western Part of State While Others Make Tour of Omaha Industries

Annual inspection trip of students in the College of Engineering will be divided into two separate groups this year, the agricultural engineers leaving Saturday, April 13 on a trip through the western part of the state and all other engineers leaving Monday, April 15 on the trip to Omaha and Blair.

A requirement for graduation makes it necessary for every engineering student to make the trip, either in his junior or senior year.

The student has the privilege of choosing between the long trip, which is usually made to Chicago and lasts a week, or the short trip, which is held every other year and happens to fall this year. Last year the engineers went to Chicago.

Such a provision is made for the convenience of those students financially unable to make the long trip. Every student must make a report of the trip upon his return.

Colbert Directs Trip The trip this year is under the direction of a faculty committee with J. P. Colbert, instructor in applied mechanics, as chairman.

The complete program of the trip follows. It will be noted that the separate schedule for the agricultural engineers will be at the beginning of the program for each day.

On Saturday, April 13, the agricultural engineers will leave Lincoln in automobiles for western Nebraska. Inspection of the irrigation pumping plant near Aurora.

DOCTOR HARMS WARNS AGAINST SORE THROAT

University Physician Fears Spread of Diphtheria, Scarlet Fever

MANY CASES ARE NOTED

"It is very desirable that each and every case of sore throat be examined by a physician in order that the rapid spread of diphtheria and scarlet fever may be checked," advised Dr. Charles Harms, university physician.

All sore throats are 'infectious and catching,' hence the rapid spread. Many of them are mild cases of diphtheria or scarlet fever and it is impossible for a layman to tell the difference.

FACULTY DISCUSSES SCIENCE CONVENTION

Committee Secures Miller Of Cleveland, O., to Lecture Here

A faculty committee met Wednesday to arrange the program for the thirty-ninth annual meeting of the Nebraska Academy of Sciences which will be held here May 3 and 4.

There have been a number of light cases of these two diseases about the campus and one fraternally, the Acacia, was quarantined for a time with diphtheria. There is no sure method of guarding or any other treatment which will ward off the diseases, according to Doctor Harms.

It is usually true that one does not have scarlet fever again after having it once, but diphtheria may be had any number of times, according to the physician. The most likely age for contracting either disease is from five to ten years of age but there is evidently an exception to the rule from the number of university students who are taking ill with one or the other disease.

Diphtheria or scarlet fever, however, may be 'carried' by some one who is immune to them. It is thought that this was the origin of the first case in Lincoln. There were ninety-seven cases of scarlet fever and seventeen of diphtheria in Lincoln last month, according to Doctor Harms.

COUNCIL NAMES SABATA TO HEAD VARSITY PARTIES

Hold-Over Juniors of Group Are Standeven, White, Ayres and Raikes

ELECTION DATE IS SET

Representatives Decide to Have Annual Spring Voting May 7

May 7 is the date set for the spring elections by the Student Council in its meeting yesterday. Selection of Ray Sabata as Varsity party chairman and the election of the junior hold-overs for the Student Council for next year comprised the other business taken up at the meeting.

The spring election date falls on Tuesday, May 7, one week after the Pan-Hellenic banquet which is held April 30. The date was shifted from April 30, suggested by Eldred Larson, to May 7 because of the banquet.

Omit Faction Names

Four seniors at large and thirteen juniors representing each college and school in the University will be elected to the Student Council at the spring elections. In addition three members of the publication board will be chosen.

The Council also decided to omit party affiliations from the ballots at the spring election. Bruce Thomas, chairman of the committee to investigate the proposal to include the party names on the ballots, reported that the political organizations were not officially recognized by the University. It was therefore deemed wise to omit the party names.

Four Members Hold Over

Joyce Ayres, Ralph Raikes, Gretchen Standeven and Ruth White were the junior members of the Council elected to hold over for the Council next year. They will sit with the members of next year's council to be elected May 7. Seven candidates applied for the position of Varsity party chairman and two women for the position of secretary to the chairman. Three others were declared ineligible for the chairmanship. The eligible candidates were Ray Sabata, Jack Elliott, Frank Moeckler, Charles Lawlor, John Lindbeck, Elton Fee and Ben Cowdery. Elizabeth Craft was selected as secretary to the chairman.
