

UNIQUE ORATORIO IS PRESENTED BY CHORUS GROUP

Recently Organized Choral Union Offers Creation of C. W. Cadman

LARGE NUMBER PRESENT

Howard Kirkpatrick Directs Number of Students in New Cantata

University of Nebraska Choral Union, under the direction of Howard Kirkpatrick, presented the oratorio, "The Father of Waters," by Charles Wakefield Cadman, in the last concert of the year at the school this morning in the Great Memorial hall. A special orchestra of fourteen pieces played the accompaniment.

The story of the oratorio dealt with the history of the Mississippi river—its source, its discovery by De Soto, and its crossing by explorers—with the driving out of the Indians and the coming of the whites, and ended with an expression of the spirit of freedom that is characteristic of the new world. Solos and vocal ensemble were: Hester, Viola Butt and Jack Wheelock.

Director, Viola Butt and Jack Wheelock.

Other soloists were: Harold Hollingsworth and Theodore Diers.

Quartet, Harold Hollingsworth, Jack Wheelock, Roger Robinson and Lloyd Robinson.

Large Enrollment

The orchestra consisted of the following instrumentals: first violin, Carl Stockelberg, Emanuel Wabnow, Ethel Owen, and Valentin Callor; second violin, Herbert Wise and Ernest Harrison; viola, Lee Henningsway; cello, Herbert Gray; bass, Mark Pierce; clarinet, Harry Waffel; flute, Lawrence Tyler; horn, William Quirk; trumpet, Harry Ziegenbein; piano, Fieda Graham Ziegenbein.

Emily Gibbons, Alumna, Writes of School Life in Old Montana Saloon

Changing saloons into educational buildings is one thing the eighteenth amendment has done for Montana, according to Miss Emily Gibbons, graduate of the University of Nebraska in '27, and now principal of the schools at Navajo, in an article contributed to the May issue of the Nebraska Alumnus.

"As I read the March number of the Alumnus and noted the many Charter Day programs throughout the nation, I wonder if any one would be interested in one lonely alumna who listened to the program out on the plains of north eastern Montana with a friend who consented to tune in on KFAH." Miss Gibbons begins, adding that the promiscuous comings and goings of the R. O. T. C. band as the fickle atmosphere permitted, reminded her of the parade in the evening at old Nebraska.

In speaking of her school building in Navajo, the writer says that "The first year I was here it was down near the railroad, and the back end still had the sign, SALOON, so it could be seen from the train. The building was moved on school land and remodeled last summer."

Snapshots depicting the interesting features of western life were enclosed with her article, the group including one of last year's picnic of the pupils and their parents. Two boys were the only ones brave enough to have their pictures taken with the principal, Miss Gibbons declares, adding that they knew nothing of climbing trees having been raised out in the prairie.

Dies in Accident

Enoch Holmes, Hastings, who was a former student in the College of Pharmacy, died following an automobile accident last Sunday morning. Funeral services were held yesterday at Hastings. Mr. Holmes was a member of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

FACULTY MEN SPEAK AT SCHOOL EXERCISES

Many Instructors Are Called Upon to Give Addresses at Commencement

Several members of the university faculty have been secured, through the extension department, to give commencement addresses at high schools in Nebraska and neighboring states.

Yesterday addresses were given by the following: Dr. W. H. S. Morton, principal of Teachers College high school, Smith Center, Kansas; H. E. Bradford, professor of vocational education, Ironton; Dean T. J. Thompson, Shickley, and Chancellor Burnett, Red Cloud.

Those scheduled to speak today are Professor Bradford, Deshler; Doctor Morton, Ansley; H. C. Fisher, professor of rural economics, Tama; G. R. Chubburn, professor of applied mechanics, Harlan, Iowa.

Tomorrow Professor Bradford will speak at Beatrice at the eighth grade graduation of the Geese county high school.

Dean W. E. Sealock spoke yesterday at Creston, Iowa, Prof. R. D. Morris at Adams, and Prof. O. C. Weidemann at Springview.

Back-Slapping Brings Hordes of Armed Bugs

Back-slapping has come into vogue in the Daily Nebraskan office. Student Publication Board selections have not been announced, but a horde of mosquitoes have invaded the office. Reporters who worked yesterday evening had a hilarious time keeping their fellow workers from being devoured.

A game has been originated by the more original reporters. Contests are run at a typewriter, and the light from a bulb toward the ceiling throws the shadows across the paper. French books are then employed to bring the points to a perfect three-point landing on the desk.

The mosquitoes, strange to say, have entered into the game in the spirit. They have called their forces from all points of the campus. Reserve squads are detailed to take up the duties of those who fall in the game.

'Pub' Board Creates Sports Editor Office for Daily Nebraskan

Applications for sports editor of the Daily Nebraskan for the first semester of the 1929-30 year will be received until 3 o'clock this afternoon (Friday) at the office of the School of Journalism, U hall 104. Regular application blanks and data are necessary in making applications.

The Student Publication Board announced the creation of a sports department of the Nebraskan at the Thursday meeting. This position will be in addition to those positions on the paper which are remunerative.

Anxious Students Await Final Word From All-Mighty Publication Board

Aspiring Journalists Pace Floors of U Hall; Sing Songs; Play Tag; to Ease Nervous Tension

Hopes were high but misgivings were equally great among the would-be big newspaper and publication men gathered in the Nebraskan, Aegwan and Cornhusker office Thursday afternoon. Upstairs the all-powerful publication board was meeting to decide the fate of many students and to dole out the positions.

Alternately hoping that they would be called before the board and then hoping that they wouldn't, most of the aspirants were in a state of high strung anxiety. The publication board always provides a teaser to the most fervent hope by requesting that all applicants be in University hall while the board is meeting.

Going before the publication board is like meeting an old acquaintance—one knows what they are saying but not what they are thinking. Appearing before that august body is worse than giving one's photograph. If photographs were ample the publication board would receive several pictures of "Wicklund Snell."

Reporters were many in the Daily Nebraskan office Thursday afternoon but workers were few. The huddle system was being used by groups of aspirants to discuss the relative possibilities of this and that candidate for some position.

Cadet Bandmen Are Praised by Major Baird in Inspection

The long, hot, dusty hours of drill which the R. O. T. C. Band has put on during the past season were rewarded Wednesday when Major Baird, in charge of the annual regimental inspection, praised the cadet musicians for the appearance they made during the maneuvers.

"You have a fine band," the Major told Director William T. Quick, after he had inspected the musical unit.

The bandmen will make several more public appearances before school is out.

Schooner Poem Is Reprinted in Illinois Paper

The Jacksonville (Illinois) Daily Journal reprinted a poem from the Prairie Schooner in a recent issue in the "Magic Light" column, edited by John Kearns. This was "The Cosmic Call," by W. T. Davis. Commenting upon it the editor said:

"There is an increasing number of good magazines being published by students of literary organizations in colleges and universities throughout the country. The movement is commendable in one way at least—it goes to demonstrate that literary style will not crystallize. It is a vital, changing fluid force—or nothing at all."

"Contributors are not limited to students either, but there is an effort to produce scholarly and at the same time progressive publications, appealing to those who have definite standards of form and taste."

YEARBOOKS CONTINUE TO BE IN BIG DEMAND

1929 Cornhusker Receives Favorable Comment From Reviewers

Sale and distribution of the 1929 Cornhusker continued satisfactorily yesterday, according to members of the staff who supervised the work. The second day's program of Cornhusker distribution used up practically the entire supply provided by the business staff.

Continued comment on the campus has favored the 1929 Cornhusker. Numerous students have stated that this year's book is superior to that of any other year. The book is larger by about fifty pages than other yearbooks, containing new features, as well as elaborations of former issues.

Work on the 1929 Cornhusker was started last fall, continuing up to a few weeks ago when all copy for the book reached the printer. Staff for the 1929 Cornhusker will be selected this week by the Student Publication Board, and that staff will start its work next fall.

CURATOR ATTENDS SOCIETY MEETING

E. E. Blackman Returns From Convention National Research Council

E. E. Blackman, curator of the Nebraska State Historical Society, returned yesterday from a trip to St. Louis, Mo., where he attended a two-day archeological conference held by the National Research Council of Washington, D. C.

The purpose of the conference was to discover various exploration processes and to determine some archeological problems which had been brought to the attention of the Research Council.

Most of the nationally known archeologists from the Mississippi valley attended the conference. A number of interesting talks and papers were presented, according to Mr. Blackman.

CLASSES DISPLAY STUDENT ART WORK

The annual exhibition of student work done by the classes in painting and drawing in the School of Fine Arts is being held this week in gallery B of Merrill hall.

The work on exhibition is representative of the better class of work done by the art students. Examples of oil paintings, water colors, sketches, commercial art, and stage design may be seen.

Sigma Delta Chi Inaugurates Ivy Day Film Sale

All original pictures used in the 1929 Cornhusker will be sold at the Cornhusker office Ivy day under the auspices of Sigma Delta Chi journalistic fraternity. The prices will be much lower than customary for such photographs, according to William Mentzer, editor of the Cornhusker and on the committee in charge of the sale.

Some of the best pictures are of athletic groups and action photos of football and other sports events. All original pictures will be available at the sale as well as variety and novelty panels. It will also be possible to purchase pictures of juniors and seniors appearing in the Cornhusker.

This year is the first time such a sale has been inaugurated. Besides Mentzer, others on the committee in charge are Gordon Larson, managing editor of the 1929 yearbook and Neal Gomon.

OLE BUCK SPEAKS TO NEWSPAPER WOMEN

Journalist Tells of Many Advantages to Be Had on Country Paper

"Newspaper work is the most fascinating and most interesting work in existence," declared Ole Buck, member of Nebraska Press association in a talk before twenty journalism students at a luncheon at the Nebraska hotel yesterday noon. Mr. Buck discussed the country newspaper opportunities at the meeting, sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, journalistic society.

Mr. Buck believes that the country office is the ideal place for young women to begin their work because they may gain experience and at the same time have an opportunity to experiment with their own ideas, an impossible feature in the city field.

NEBRASKAN GOES INTO NEW SPORT ENDEAVOR

Student Publication Board Calls for Applications For Bureau Head

Applications for a sports editor of the Daily Nebraskan for the first semester of the year 1929-30 are being called for today by the Student Publication Board. Applications must be in the office of the School of Journalism by 3 o'clock this afternoon, to receive consideration of the board which will go into session at that time to complete the appointments on the three publications. The Daily Nebraskan, Cornhusker, and Aegwan.

The new position of sports editor on the staff of the Nebraskan was created to facilitate writing for the great volume of sport news that must necessarily pass through the Nebraskan office. The new position will be remunerative in proportion to the salary scale of the remainder of the staff.

The Student Publication Board adjourned yesterday afternoon without making any announcement as to the progress of the session.

GREEK SOCIETIES PLAN FUNCTIONS ROUND UP WEEK

Twenty-Three Fraternities And Sixteen Sororities Will Fete Alumni

BANQUETS PREDOMINATE

House Dances and Smokers Follow on Program Recently Set

Sixteen sororities and twenty-three fraternities are planning banquets or other special entertainment for alumni who return to the campus for Round Up week, according to an announcement from the Alumni Association secretary.

Banquets at the chapter houses or hotels of the city, dances and picnics have been arranged by the active chapters of the Greek letter organizations. Three sororities have chosen the University club as the place for their banquets. The Alpha Delta Psi have set June 1 at 7 o'clock as the time for their alumnae banquet there, while the Phi Omega Psi will entertain the evening before, May 31, at 6 o'clock. At 6 o'clock, May 30, the Delta Zetas will hold their banquet, also at the University club.

Many Banquets

On May 21, the Phi Sigma Kappa will banquet at the Cornhusker hotel at 6:30 o'clock, preceding their house dance. At the same time the Kappa Delta sorority members will entertain for their alumnae in another room of the Cornhusker.

The following evening the Delta Upsilon will hold a banquet in the Chinese room of the Cornhusker at 6:30, and at 6:15 the Tau Kappa Epsilon members gather for their alumni banquet there at the Cornhusker.

At the Lincoln hotel June 1, the active members of Alpha Xi Delta will give their banquet honoring returning alumnae, and the Delta Tau Deltas will entertain at a banquet in the ballroom of the Lincoln.

The Alpha Chi Omega members will have their banquet at the house June 1, at 6 o'clock, and following it they have a house dance scheduled. The same day the Eta Chi hold their banquet at the chapter house.

House Dances Scheduled

Four groups are holding entertainments both on May 31 and June 1. Members of Delta Sigma Phi at the chapter house and dance there the next evening. The Sigma Nu will have a banquet, followed by a house dance, the evening of May 31, and the next evening they plan to have a smoker at the house. The coeds in Chi Omega will entertain at a banquet at the chapter house June 1, while the evening before they will have a house dance. The girls in Phi Mu have scheduled a dance at the house for (Continued on Page 2)
