SERVICES HELD TODAY

Mrs. Alice L. Sanford, wife of the late Professor F. W. Stanford, of the University of Nebraska, died at her home, 2263 Sewell, at 8:45 Monday evening. She was fifty-six years old.

Mrs. Sanford had spent most of her life in the middlewest although born in New Jersey. When a child she moved to Jacksonville, Ill., later going to Chicago. She obtained her education at the Illinois college for women at Jacksonville. She was married to Professor Sanford at Elgin, Ill., on Dec. 26, 1905, and they came to Lincoln, where he was teaching.

H. H. Foster, dean of the College of Law, made the following statement regarding Mrs. Sanford, who had been his private secretary.

Friend of Students

"The law school has suffered a severe loss through the death of Mrs. Sanford. She was a very competent secretary, but it is not as such that the law students will remember her. Possessing rare refinement, tact, and sympathy, she became the friend and advisor of the 'boys' of the law school. All of them will read of her death with a sense of personal loss. Only a few of them realized the gallant fight that she has been making for over a year against a disease which had proved incurable.

The College of Law will close on Wednesday afternoon in order that proper tribute may be paid to her memory.

Mrs. Sanford is survived by a son, Frederick, and a daughter, Alice, both at home; a sister, Mrs. W. C. Brown of Oak Park, Ill.; and a brother, J. H. Dalbey of Denver.

Services will be held at the Sanford residence, 2263 Sewell, at 4:00 p. m., Wednesday, May 29th.

Physical Education Instructor Goes To Europe to Organize Girl's Camp

Miss Thorin Believes She Can Educate Sweden to American Ideas on Outdoor Camping Life

"Although Swedish people are very fond of hiking and outdoor life, girls' camps as developed in the United States, are unknown in Sweden," according to Kerstin Thorin, of the department of physical education for women at the University of Nebraska. With the idea of inoving American camping for Swedish girls, Miss Thorin has planned a camp near Gottenberg, Sweden, for this summer.

Miss Thorin, who was educated in Sweden, has taught in the United States for the past four years. During that time she has taught in Northwestern University, Illinois University, Columbia University, and for the last two years in the University of Nebraska.

Arranges for Counselors

In planning the camp program, Miss Thorin has arranged for counselors both from the United States and foreign countries. Both counselors and campers from other countries have been invited to attend the camp.

It is expected that this first introduction of a girls' camp in Sweden will result in a more wide spread interest in girls' camps of that country.

Miss Thorin will sail from Montreal May 31, on the steamship "Duchess of York" for Europe. She will spend several days in London before going to Sweden.

Tiny Musicians Serenade Nine O'Clock Class

Fourteen little five-year old musicians in new red uniforms serenaded Dean Sealock and graduating seniors of Teachers College with new kindergarten instruments yesterday between nine and ten o'clock classes. The concert was a surprise but students in the building at the time gathered to hear it.

Miss Clara Evans has trained the band which is from Bancroft public school, the demonstration center for student teachers of Teachers College. Cymbals, sticks, tambourines, two kinds of bells played like rattles, triangles, and even a drum were the instruments forming this unique band.

Concerts Opens At Ten

Just before the bell ending nine o'clock classes rang, the band lined up on third floor of Teachers College. Dean Sealock, the tiny light-haired leader, tapped on the back of a kindergarten chair with his mallet. A victrola started the melody, "Amarillus," and after an introduction the two pairs of rhythm sticks started beating. One after another the instruments played their parts, on time and in time.

At the end of the number the leader beat with his left hand as well as with his baton and all the instruments played together.

Most of the boys and girls in the band live in the heart of the fraternity and sorority house district and are familiar with the pleasures of night serenades. They were proud of the opportunity of making a serenade themselves.

The instruments themselves are not intricate but when they are played and when they must keep still. Regular sheet music would be too difficult for the five year old children so their pieces are written in picture music. When the bells are supposed to play pictures of bells are printed on the staff, the other instruments are represented in the same way. Other pictures represent the pauses or the parts in which all the instruments join. The new band suits are red trousers and high necked red jackets bound in white strips.
