

ALUMNI CHOOSE RAY RAMSAY AS NEW SECRETARY

Executive Council Presents
Officer Who Succeeds
Harold Holtz

TRANSFER ENDOWMENT

Cash Goes to Student Loan
Fund for Use of Only
Juniors, Seniors

At the executive council meeting of the University Alumni association, held Friday morning it was announced that Ray Ramsay, 28, was elected to succeed Harold Holtz, 47, as secretary of the organization. Mr. Ramsay has taken a prominent part in campus activities as an instructor in dramatic art, and as director and member of the University Players, and as an announcer at football games. He also has served as an announcer at radio station KFAB. Arthur A. Dobson, president of the association, presented Mr. Ramsay, the retiring secretary, with a gold watch as a token of his efficient work during the past seven years that he has served in that capacity. Mr. and Mrs. Holtz were presented with life memberships to the association.

It was announced in the secretary's report that the executive committee had voted to transfer funds from the endowment fund to the student loan fund of the University. On the loan fund, seniors are eligible for the loan, as it is considered that undergraduates have not proved themselves. The loan fund is not restricted to any particular college. The amount to be loaned to any one individual is not to exceed $300 with $25 as the maximum amount assigned to each applicant per month. It was suggested that an effort be made to have all loans distributed from a central office in order to prevent duplication.

Gerald E. Griffin, editor of the Alumnus, presented his report, and the meeting adjourned to reconvene at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

SERVICE FOR TEACHERS WILL BE ON THURSDAY

Forty-Two Teachers College
High Students Listed
As Graduates

Commencement exercises for Teachers college high school will be held in the Temple theater, Thursday, June 6, at 10 o'clock. Forty-two will be graduated this year. J. A. Jernstrom, superintendent of schools at Auburn, is scheduled to address the class on "The Salt of the Earth."

Dean W. E. Sealock of Teachers college, will present the class to Chancellor E. A. Burnett who will give the diplomas. W. H. Morton, principal of the high school will preside at the exercises. The invocation will be delivered by the Rev. Ray E. Hunt, Christian student pastor for the University of Nebraska. Mr. Hunt will also pronounce a benediction after the program.

As well as the commencement address, the program includes a bass solo by Milo Dier, entitled "O'er the Billowy Sea" by Smith; a violin solo, "Valse Bluette," Drigo-Auer, by S. W. Alstadt, director of the orchestra; and two vocal solos by Ruth Haberly, contralto; "My Ain Folk" by Lennon; and "In My Garden" by Liddle. The high school orchestra will play for the exercises.

PRESENT STAFF CEASES DUTIES ON DAILY PAPER

Nebraskan Workers Leave
Offices for Newly Elected Men

GRADUATION HAS EFFECT

Editor, Business Manager,
Many Assistants Are Going Out

With today's issue of the Daily Nebraskan, the staff members appointed for the second semester of the school year 1928-29 relinquish their various duties. Next fall, with the appearance of the paper again, the news staff recently selected will assume the tasks of publishing the University of Nebraska official daily.

Twelve paid staff members and some fifty unpaid reporters, contributing editors, business and editorial assistants, have borne the brunt of the work during the semester. Aside from the changes caused by graduation, practically the same personnel will compose next semester's staff with the exception, of course, of a number of promotions.

Hammond Enters Work

Dean E. Hammond, 29, Holdrege, is the retiring editor-in-chief, having been managing editor during the first semester along with Maurice W. Konkel, 20, Cheyenne, Wyo., who has served as associate editor the past semester.

Following his graduation June 8, Hammond intends to enter the employ of the Holdrege Citizen, of Holdrege.

YEARBOOKS ARE STILL AVAILABLE

1929 Cornhusker May Be Obtained in Office
Next Week

Students who have reserved copies of the 1929 Cornhusker and who have not yet obtained these books are requested to do so this week. Members of the Cornhusker staff will be on duty at the office in the south basement of University hall all week.

Approximately 100 extra copies of the yearbook are available to those who have not yet purchased the 1929 Cornhusker, according to Bruce H. Thomas, business manager. "Persons wishing to get Cornhuskers will be able to obtain them next week," stated Thomas. "Possibly no staff members will be present at the office during examination periods, but they will work there during the time between hours."

Staff Puts Out Campus Breeze For June Issue

An "Extra" has been published by the Cornhusker Countryman staff and was released last week. Since there was no June issue of the College of Agriculture student magazine, it was decided to publish an eight-page news sheet called "The Campus Breeze." It is now available for free distribution. A summary of the 1928 Farmers Fair has been written by the manager, Robin Spence. Although Farmers Fair is not conducted as a money making proposition, this year's presentation did a little better than to break even, he says. Donald Facka interviewed all the College of Agriculture senior men and gave an account of what line of work they will be in next year, as another feature of this special issue. Teaching and farming draw the greatest number of graduates according to this survey.

JIM ELLIOTT WINS NET TOURNAMENT

Jim Elliott won the interfraternity singles tennis title for Sigma Phi Epsilon, when he defeated Clinton Woodward, Acadia, in straight sets yesterday morning in the Coliseum. The scores were 6-4, 6-3. The match was the last in the final league. Durlach, who won the non-fraternity tournament, defeated Elliott in the afternoon for the University title, 6-3, 4-6, 7-5.

KELLEY TAKES FIRST IN INDIVIDUAL COMPET

Omaha Sophomore Receives
R.O.T.C. Cup Award for
Second Time

For the second consecutive year, J. Whitney Kelley, 31, Omaha, won the annual individual compet, which was held in the Coliseum Friday afternoon. J. C. Belda, 31, Omaha, placed second; and Jack Houck, 32, also of Omaha, placed third. The judges were Captain Boatwright, and Captain Hurlless, of Fort Crook. Ben Cowdry, 31, Omaha, was adjudged the best sophomore student in the department of military science, and received an award of twenty-five dollars in gold. The D. A. R. prize of twenty-five dollars in gold to the winner of the essay contest on the subject, "Benefits I Have Received from Military Training in the University," could not be awarded, since John P. McKnight, 36, Auburn, the winner, was not present.

A silver shield, bearing the names of the members of the rifle team, was presented by Col. Earl McCullough, of the Omaha Bee-News. The trophy is the William Randolph Hearst award for the rifle team scoring third highest in the middle western district.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION HEADS

Newton T. Buckley, North Platte, is the new president of Nebraska's Alumni association. Ray Ramsay will take the position of secretary in the association. Buckley was graduated from the University with the class of 1905, and is now engaged in commercial work. Ramsay has been with the University as an instructor in the department of dramatics.

Two Hours May Make or Break College Record

"Crack 'em, sonny, and you'll be a Phi Beta Kappa." Which does sound rather humorous but 'tis true. Final examinations make and break the outstanding students of the Cornhusker institution. Grades are made and lost within the short space of two hours.

Lights flicker late in the night, while care-worn, tired students peruse volumes, thumbing the pages, seeking definite knowledge for their examinations on the morrow. Crib sheets are made, memorized and thrown away. Breakfasts are hastily eaten while the student reads his "polly sel" or "history" amid bites of buttered toast. Pencils assume keen edges, while inkwells add to the college man's preparation. Tedium hours of study, give way to hectic two-hour periods. Feverish writing completes the semester work and dubious looking undergraduates emerge from the campus building, sip their usual "coke" and begin to cram for the next ordeal.

Exams are over, trunks are packed, smiles mingle with affectionate glances toward the "old university" and its fair coeds. Students leave for the year, while teachers grade papers and college continues with education for the Nebraska's men and women.

FRANKFORTER GIVES PERSONNEL OF CAMP

Nebraska Graduates and Former Students Are Commanders

Prof. C. J. Frankforter of the chemistry department has announced that the following Nebraska graduates and ex-students will be among the twenty-two officers assisting him this summer in the C. M. T. C. camp at Fort Crook. Professor Frankforter who is a lieutenant-colonel of infantry in the Officers' Reserve corps and second in command of the 355 Infantry, organized reserves, will command the C. M. T. C. battalion.

These men are already officers in the 355th Infantry, or will be assigned to that regiment upon graduation from the R. O. T. C. at Nebraska. Some of the men have had World War experiences. The list is as follows: Captain L. C. Erskine, Hastings, 1913; First Lieut. H. C. Harper, Lincoln, 1918; First Lieut. C. K. Junge, Lincoln, 1921; First Lieut. N. C. Kenny, Lincoln, 1923; Second Lieut. John H. Kellogg, Lincoln, 1926; Second Lieut. D. F. Sampson, Central City, 1927; Second Lieut. V. Z. Brink, Lincoln, 1927.

DR. LOUISE POUND GETS INVITATION

English Instructor Will Attend Conference in
New Haven

The American Council of Learned Societies has invited Dr. Louise Pound of the department of English at the University of Nebraska to attend a conference on an atlas of American dialects to be held at New Haven, in connection with the linguistic institute of the Linguistic Society of America, on August 2 and 3, 1929. The invitation carries with it the payment of traveling expenses and hotel bills. An atlas of American dialects has long been planned by the present section of the Modern Language association of America, and the members of the group are cooperating with the Council of Learned Societies in preparing for the conference. Most of the sessions of the conference will be devoted to criticism of the plans for constructing the dialect atlas.

CAMPUS GROUPS FETE ALUMNI AT SPECIAL DINNERS

Fraternities and Societies
Bring Round Up Week
To Conclusion

PICK ASSOCIATION HEAD

Ivy Day Ceremonies, Class
Breakfasts Feature
1929 Occasion

Completing one of the most successful Round Ups, according to visiting alumni, old graduates were feted last night at special banquets by campus fraternities and societies. Beginning Thursday morning with the Interfraternity sing and the traditional crowning of the May Queen, the Round Up festivities included class breakfasts yesterday morning, an outing at Capitol beach Friday night, and election of new officers by the various classes present for the reunion.

Thursday morning's activities made way for the more important all-university activities of the afternoon which were climaxed by the tapping of the Innocents and the making of the Mortar Boards for 1929-30.

The alumni council met Friday morning with delegated representatives from the alumni. Ray Ramsay, '26, former instructor in the department of dramatics and at present announcer for KFAB radio station, was elected to succeed Harold Holtz, resigned, as secretary of the alumni association.

Literary Society Celebrates
Palladian literary society, one of the oldest on the campus, held its annual Round Up dinner Friday evening, which featured the number of banquet held for alumni. The alumni frolic at Capitol beach was featured by a dramatic presentation by members of the University Players.

Saturday morning the University club, recently opened in the Stuart building, was the scene of class breakfasts. The classes of '29, '28, '26, '25, '24, '23, '22 and '21 entertained and elected officers for next year.

ENGINEERING ALUMNI PAY VISIT TO COLLEGE

Hickman, Holding, Hurlless,
Hyde Come Back for
Annual Round Up

Among the alumni who returned for Round Up and who visited the College of Engineering was Arthur L. Hickman. Hickman studied electrical engineering while in the University and graduated in 1914. He is now affiliated with the Delano Motor company in Delano, California.

Another of the alumni visitors at the College of Engineering was George C. Holding, '25. While in school he studied civil engineering and is now employed in the valuation department of the Union Pacific system in Omaha.

Captain Visits Engineers
Capt. B. F. Hurlless, ex-18, was another of the engineering visitors of the week. He is in active service at Fort Crook and was in Lincoln acting as one of the judges for the R. O. T. C. competitive drill.

Alvan L. Hyde, graduate from the College of Engineering in architectural engineering, who was a caller at the executive office of the college this week, is affiliated with Dwight James Baum, architect, of New York City.

JOURNAL REVIEWS ARTICLE

The June number of the Quarterly Journal of Speech has a review of Prof. H. A. White's article on "The Recent Trend in Debating," which originally appeared in the English Journal for April, 1929.
