CORN COBS GET PERMISSION TO SELL PROGRAMS

Concession Given to W.A.A. Last Year Goes Back To Pep Group.

ELLIOT CALLS MEETING

Chapter of Pi Epsilon Pi Gets Principal Funds From Game Sales.

Corn Cobs, men's pep organization of the University of Nebraska, have regained the right to sell football programs in the stadium, according to an announcement made by Jack Elliot, past commander of the organization, yesterday. The Women's Athletic Association sold the programs last year but previous to that the selling right has always been in the possession of the Corn Cobs.

Corn Cobs will hold a meeting in room 203 of the Temple tonight at 7:30 for the purpose of electing new officers and new members. The membership this year will total sixty and will include non-fraternity as well as fraternity men. Program concessions will be in charge of Herbert Gish, director of athletics, and "Jimmie" Lewis, track instructor. The program selling idea, originated by Gish and Elliot, is in part: Programs will be sold in the stadium until the game begins and after that in specially constructed booths in the ramps.

Regaining of the program selling right is especially advantageous, according to Elliot, since program concessions furnish the main source of revenue to the organization. The Corn Cob organization is not a concessional one, however.

The real purpose of Corn Cobs, Nebraska chapter of Pi Epsilon Pi, national pep fraternity, is to maintain and build up Cornhusker spirit. Corn Cobs are always in evidence at football rallies, games, and other places where organized spirit is essential.

Each Corn Cob will buy a football season ticket this year and the chapter will occupy a block in the cheering section.

VESPERS PRESIDENT WILL GREET COEDS

Weekly Hour of Worship Is Sponsored by Y.W.C.A. Of University.

New and old university coeds will be greeted officially, formally and informally, by the university Y. W. C. A. Tuesday at the first regular Vespers service of the year, which will be held at Ellen Smith hall at five o'clock. Sue Hall, president of the association, will welcome the girls who attend the service, and outline briefly the work which is being planned for the year. Helen Griggs, chairman of the Vespers staff, will lead the meeting, and introduce the individual members of the cabinet, who will explain the particular fields which their staffs cover. A special program of music has also been planned.

Vespers is a quiet hour of worship sponsored each week by the university Y. W. C. A. To older students the weekly service is a tradition. New students are urged to attend the first meeting, not only to become acquainted with the plans and scope of the organization, but also to be introduced to the traditional spirit of the service, and to be welcomed into the association.

Nebraskan Prepares Aid to Freshmen; What and Why of Buildings Related

(By Bill T. McCleery.)

For the benefit of freshmen, The Daily Nebraskan wishes to present a directory of campus buildings.

Social Sciences is so called because of the heavy social duty that is carried on around the pillars. The simplest way to find that structure is to look for a crowd.

Andrews hall is the building across the drill field. One usually walks over there, a distance of some miles, only to find that he should be in Annex or some other distant place.

RESIGNATION OF LAUGHLIN BRINGS ANOTHER VACANCY

Resignation of Vernon Laughlin from the business staff of the Daily Nebraskan makes one more vacancy to be filled at the next meeting of the publication board. Application for the following positions will be accepted in the school of journalism office, University hall 104, until Wednesday at 5 o'clock: Awgwan, one business manager; Daily Nebraskan, two assistant business managers.

Application blanks are available in the office of the school of journalism. The publication board will meet at its next meeting. The other two vacancies were caused by the resignations of John Lindbeck, business manager of the Awgwan, and Nathan Levy, assistant business manager of The Daily Nebraskan.

MANY ATTEND RITES FOR C. C. ENGBERG

Rev. Inglis Pays Tribute To the Former Executive University Dean.

BURNETT IS PRESENT

Funeral services for Dr. Carl C. Engberg, University of Nebraska, professor of applied mechanics, chairman of the student publication board, and former executive dean, were held from the Vine Congregational church at 1 o'clock Monday.

A great many faculty members attended the services. All who wished to do so were allowed to excuse their class and pay their last respects to their comrade and friend. Among those present at the service were Chancellor Burnett and former Chancellor Avery. The many floral tributes were of great beauty.

Scripture reading, a tribute from the Rev. Irving Inglis, pastor of the Vine street church, with which Dr. Engberg had been connected for many years, a prayer offered by Rev. S. I. Hanford, and three songs constituted the service. J. H. Heinman sang "Crossing the Bar," that Dr. Engberg was a personal friend.

The pallbearers were:

S.M.U. GAME WILL BE SENT OUT BY CHAIN

National Radio Network Will Broadcast Play By Play Results.

For the first time in history a game played in Memorial stadium will be broadcasted over a combined network of radio stations when the Southern Methodist Mustangs meet Nebraska on the home field Oct. 5. The Columbia chain of fifteen stations will broadcast "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and "In the Sweet Bye and Bye."

Rev. Mr. Inglis in his tribute to Dr. Engberg said, "He was able to come into intimate and personal contact with the numberless people he met. He was a man of sufficient courage to be able to deal honestly even when disagreeable work had to be done. In spite of the fact that his duties as executive dealt involved many cases of discipline, even people in that kind of contact as was as unnumbered."

JEWETT ORDERS NEW UNIFORMS FOR R.O.T.C. BAND

Burnett Forms Committee To Raise Money For Permanent Fund.

EIGHTY CAPES BOUGHT

Department Hopes to Send Musicians One Long Trip Each Year.

Eighty new scarlet and grey military capes have been ordered for the University R. O. T. C. band, it was announced today by Col. F. Jewett. The capes, which will be worn in addition to the present uniforms, are cadet grey in color, lined with scarlet. Fifty new capes have also been ordered for the band. Colonel Jewett announced.

Oct. 3 has been designated by Col. F. A. Kidwell, in charge of the military supply depot, as the official date for bandmen to receive their uniforms. It is hoped that the new capes and caps will be on hand at that time, in order that the band may wear them for its initial parade of the season, Oct. 5.

Plans Underway. The new equipment will be paid for with money raised by a committee consisting of Colonel Jewett, John Selleck and the alumni secretary. The committee was appointed last spring by the chancellor. Plans are now under way, according to Colonel Jewett, for raising money for a permanent fund.

Hitherto, band equipment needed has been paid for out of the college's own military maintenance fund, as the government does not equip the R. O. T. C. band. In the future, however, this committee appointed by the chancellor will devise means for subscribing funds for the band. Colonel Jewett stated.

It is hoped that by buying various parts of new uniforms each year, in a few years the band will have entirely new uniforms.

A football trip to either the east or west coast once every three years is also tentatively planned by the committee. In this way, every man who plays in the band three years will be given an opportunity to make one long trip with the band during his college years.

TIMMERMAN PLANS STUNTS FOR SECTION

All Students Admitted to Cheering Division for 50 Cents Extra.

A cheering section that will surpass in both size and quality those of previous years, is predicted by Douglas Timmerman, chairman of the Innocents' committee in charge.

Both men and women will be admitted to the section this year. Since the extra charge for seats in this section, the most desirable in the stadium, is only fifty cents, a large number of applications is expected. Applications for places in the cheering section are made in the same manner as those for regular seats, by leaving check and student identification card at the student activities office in the coliseum. If a greater number of applications is received than can be filled, the extra fee will be refunded.

New stunts and moving stunts have been worked out and are now complete in blueprint form. Stunts for the initial game of the season, with Southern Methodist, are now complete and ready for the first practice, which will be held as soon as members of the cheering section are selected.

DIRECTOR NEEDS MORE STUDENTS IN CHORAL UNION

A request for more students to enter the University of Nebraska choral union was issued today by Prof. Howard Kirkpatrick, director, who emphasized the cultural training derived from singing with the union.

"Fifty minutes of singing choral music is an inspiration," he said, "a real stimulus for the next hour of study."

Choral union rehearsals are at 11 o'clock Monday and Wednesday mornings and at 3 o'clock Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. An hour of credit is given each student for attendance at two of the periods during the week.

No extra fee is to be charged students who register for the course at once, Professor Kirkpatrick pointed out today. The choral union is a part of the school of fine arts.

Sandahl Calls for Contributing Editors Applications for contributing editors to The Daily Nebraskan will be received until 5 o'clock Friday in the office of Clifford F. Sandahl, editor, room 4, University hall. All students other than freshmen are eligible to apply. Application blanks may be secured from the editor.

OFFICIALS CLOSE FRIDAY NIGHT TO CHURCH AFFAIRS

In keeping with a university custom of long standing, next Friday evening will be a closed night for university parties. At that time church receptions throughout the city will be held in honor of new students coming to Lincoln. Principally these are sponsored by young people's groups, Christian Endeavor societies, Epworth leagues and similar organizations.

Sunday has been set aside as all-university Sunday in Lincoln's churches. Special services have been planned by several. Others have arranged their morning worship hour to be of more than usual interest to young people.

'ALUMNUS' CONTAINS ENLIGHTENING FACTS

New Issue Stresses Work Of Graduates With Campus Story.

GIVES KEEGAN TRIBUTE

Nebraska alumni are no longer in the "dark" for the new Nebraska Alumnus is out with all the latest news of events past and present on the university campus.

The magazine is complete with news of old and new graduates. A successful attempt was made to classify the graduates of 1929 with regard to the work in which they are engaged for the following year.

Although the teaching profession seems to have attracted the largest number, many other lines have been entered, and many former students are grouped under such headings as engineers, in business, lawyers, dentists, doctors, nurses, pharmacists, advanced degrees, going on to school, and miscellaneous.

The old grads were not slighted. News of former alumni from 1880 to 1928 is under the direction of an article in the magazine gives an (Continued on Page 2.)

GEOLOGY STUDENTS VISIT MANY STATES

Prof. Cehramm Conducts 4,300 Mile Tour Over Western Areas.

A 3,000-mile field trip was made this summer by thirteen geology students under the direction of Prof. E. F. Schramm. The entire trip was made by automobile. The class left Lincoln June 17 and returned July 26.

Those who made the trip were: Albert Hornaday, Emery Blue, Wayne Jacobs, Louis Lukert, Clarence Nelson, Ed armalee, Howard Thompson, William Schulz, Jerry Svoboda, Richard Ullstrom, Clarence Bushy and William Boucher. Colorado, Utah, Arizona, Kansas and Nebraska were visited. The class made a detailed geological and topographical map of the alunite district at Marysville, Utah. Professor Schramm stated that alunite was coming into prominence because of its use in the potash industry and because of its high aluminum content.

Follow Wide Scope. The class visited and studied steel and copper mines, salt works, caves, oil fields, cliff dwellings, petrified forests, meteor craters, canyons and deserts. They walked fifteen miles down the Grand canyon of the Colorado river observing the formation of the canyon. The painted desert, the meteor crater in Arizona; the Mesa Verde national park in Colorado; the Russell county oil fields of Kansas; Bryce canyon, Mount Baldy mining district and the Timpanogas cave in Utah were among the interesting places visited.

MANUAL SENT TO SUPERINTENDENTS

The Nebraska high school manual for 1929 compiled jointly by the university and the state department of education, is now off the press. It is being sent to the superintendent of every high school in the state.

The high school manual contains a course of study for the different courses offered in a high school, such as college preparatory, vocational, normal training and commercial. With the aid of this manual the courses of study are usually arranged in a high school.

REGENTS ERECT WOMEN'S DORM FOR NEXT FALL

Construction of First Unit Begins Soon; Property Is Purchased.

STATE GIVES $300,000

'Social Expert' Features Plans for New Home For Women.

Plans for the latest and most extensive improvements concerning the University of Nebraska recently announced by the board of regents have to do with a system of girls' dormitories, ground for which has been purchased on North Sixteenth and Seventeenth streets. Construction is to start within the next few months so that three of the dormitories will be ready for occupancy next fall.

The frontage on Sixteenth street purchased for the dormitories extends from the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority house to the south boundary of the Sigma Chi house. On Seventeenth street, university property extends northward 600 feet from university terrace. State appropriation for these sites was $200,000. A sum of $100,000 is to be expended in erecting the first three dormitories.

Units House 300. The program will take years to complete, but immediate plans call for the construction of three units of dormitories to begin this fall and ready for use next fall. The three units will be expected to house about 300 to 350 girls. The complete building program will provide room for at least 850 girls.

The new dormitory plans give evidence that the university officials have taken a definite stand toward the problem of housing university girls. Their erection will mean a breakup of the present private home and rooming house system in which students are scattered in groups. It will mean the opening of social and recreational opportunities for a large percent of students who have felt its lack in the past.

Architectural plans have not been made in detail, but the general scheme of perspective is to have the central unit of the proposed buildings facing Sixteenth street, set back from the street and flanked right and left by (Continued on Page 4.)

CHURCH RECEPTIONS WILL BE ON FRIDAY

Big Sister Board Outlines Plans for Week-End Social Events.

Big sisters will take their little sisters to church receptions Friday evening and to regular church services Sunday, according to plans announced Monday night by the Big Sister board after a meeting in Ellen Smith hall. Friday, a closed night for university parties and social functions, has been designated as the date for church receptions throughout the city.

Sunday is to be all-university go-to-church day. During the summer, contact between big and little sisters was established. Big sisters were assigned little sisters and wrote to them. Little sisters, in return, replied with another letter telling of their university plans.

The Big Sister movement, started several years ago on the Nebraska campus, has grown into a major activity. It is a means by which new women students at the university may better become acquainted with campus customs, traditions and other students enrolled here. Big sisters meet their little sisters, talk with them and introduce them to their friends.

ROKAHRS GET BID FOR CONSTRUCTION OF HEATING PLANT

A bid of $110,350 received from a joint commission of regents and the capitol commission the contract for the construction of the joint heating and lighting plant for the University of Nebraska and the state capitol. Rokahr & Sons Construction company of Lincoln made the bid.

At the joint meeting which was held Saturday morning at the university were Governor Weaver, W. E. Hardy and Judge W. H. Thompson of the capitol commission and all members of the board of regents with the exception of John R. Webster of Omaha.

Augwan Refunds on Basis of New Rates

All persons who have purchased Augwan subscriptions at the old price of $1.25 per year will be refunded the balance due them in accordance with the new rates if they will call at the Augwan office, basement of "U" hall, between 3 and 5 o'clock any afternoon between Tuesday and Friday.

John Ames, Acting Business Manager.

Students Must Get Drivers' Licenses From Home County

Students who have not obtained their driver's licenses must do so before October 1. These licenses must be obtained from the student's home county where applications may be made at the county treasurer's office.

Students unable to go home may make application by mail after swearing before a notary public that the application is correct. All Lincoln students and out-state students may obtain a license at Lancaster county treasurer's office.

PRAIRIE SCHOONER GETS EARLY START

Representative Nebraska Literary Publication Widely Praised

SIKES IS NEW MANAGER

The fall edition of the Prairie Schooner, Nebraska's literary magazine, is now under preparation and will be issued early in November, according to Prof. L. C. Wimberly, editor. It will contain the usual number of interesting articles, stories and poems by various middle western and student authors. One feature of particular interest will be a story by Mrs. Guy Spencer, wife of the noted cartoonist of the Omaha World Herald.

Charles E. Sikes, a senior in the college of arts and sciences and a frequent contributor to the magazine, has been appointed business manager of the Prairie Schooner for this year, replacing Ted Hartman.

The summer edition of the Prairie Schooner, of which five hundred copies were published, was issued Aug. 8. It may now be obtained at the news stands. This issue contains material which represents Nebraska students, including Richard House, Lyman L. Ross and G. LaSelle Gilman and also writers from three different mid-western states. The writings merit positions among the best of authors.

In this last issue the editor, Lowry C. Wimberly, quotes a letter from Edward J. O'Brien, eminent literary critic, who writes of the publication, saying: "The quality of its stories, articles and poems is such that the Prairie Schooner ranks with the Midland, the Frontier and not more than one or two other American periodicals, as the most significant expression of American life which we possess. I know that New York editors watch it carefully and English men of letters to whose attention I have called it find that it gives them a clearer picture of American life in its creative aspects than most American periodicals."

'Y' FROSH COUNCIL MEETS WEDNESDAY

Meeting Marks Sixth Year Of Organization's Work Among New Men.

The first meeting of the year of the freshman Y. M. C. A. council will be held at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening at the university Y. M. C. A. rooms in the temple, according to William Kaplan, chairman of the committee on freshmen work.

The meeting will mark the start of the sixth year of the council, and will be devoted to outlining a program for the year's work, Mr. Kaplan said.

A general statement of the aims of the council is to be made at the meeting. Students who attend the meeting will be divided into groups for discussion of the work. Discussion leaders who have been given so far are: Ray Ramsay, alumni secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; C. D. Hayes, secretary; and Mr. Kaplan.

The council is open to all freshmen men in the school. Mr. Kaplan pointed out today.

"Most freshmen were given an invitation to attend the meeting at the time of the general freshman convocation," he said. "To those who were not there, I wish at this time to extend another invitation to attend the meeting."

Today at the age of sixteen he enters Nebraska for an engineering course. Working on his grandparent's farm near Springfield where he was taken by his mother after their home had been broken by death, he had not hindered his education. Seven perfect attendance

AWGWAN PRICE IS REDUCED TO TEN CENTS COPY

Yearly Subscriptions Are Placed at 75 Cents; New Features Added.

PAPER RETAINS SIZE

Editor Murray Announces Change; Alumni of Nebraska Help.

(By Bill McGaffin.)

Price of the Awgwan, University of Nebraska humor magazine, has been reduced from twenty-five cents to ten cents a copy, according to an announcement made Monday by Ray Murray, editor of the publication. Yearly subscriptions to students have been cut from $1.25 to seventy-five cents and mail subscriptions have been reduced from $1.25 to $1.00. Block subscriptions of twenty-five will be sold to fraternities and sororities for $15. These blocks formerly sold for $25.

Although the price of the magazine has been drastically cut to less than half of the former amount, Nebraska's fun publication retains its former size and type and with the addition of many new features and much more life.

Low Priced Magazine. "This is a new Awgwan," declared Murray in an interview with a Nebraska reporter yesterday, "and it is not only the greatest publication value ever offered students and alumni of the University of Nebraska but also the lowest priced college humor magazine in existence anywhere today."

Clever advertising, lauded by the student publication board effected the financial status of the magazine for a time and caused some doubt as to the continued existence of the publication, according to Murray. He stated that this has all been overcome, however, by a new business system recently adopted.

Reason for the change in price, according to the Awgwan editor, is to increase the circulation from what it has been in former years (Continued on Page 2.)

STUDENT DIRECTORY STAFF BEGINS WORK

Secretary Hayes Reports Large Distribution Of 'N' Books.

Work was started Monday on the directory of students attending the University of Nebraska, published annually by the Y. M. C. A.

The directory, which will contain an alphabetical list of faculty members as well as students, their telephone numbers and addresses, probably will make its appearance on the campus the first week in November. C. D. Hayes, Y. M. C. A. secretary, said today.

Other features of the volume will be a listing of students under the various fraternities or sororities to which they belong, and list of other campus organizations, including the names of the presidents of each.

The list of names which will appear in the directory is to be posted within a few days for corrections. Announcement of the posting of the list, which will be hung in the Social Sciences building, will be made in The Daily Nebraskan.

Distribution of "N" books, containing vital campus facts for freshmen, was reported today at "Y" headquarters to be slightly in advance of that of last year.

Secretary Hayes said that approximately 1,650 of the books have been distributed so far this year. He urged new students who have not already done so to get their books at once.

An announcement was made Monday that new students who failed to get red cards for the books due to non-attendance at the freshman convocation could procure the books at the Y. M. C. A. on presentation of their identification cards.
