BURNETT DISCUSSES GROWTH OF CAMPUS

Chancellor Cites Need for Building Restrictions Around School.

OUTLINES DEVELOPMENT

Chancellor E. A. Burnett outlined a plan for development of the University of Nebraska campus before the city planning committee Thursday at the chamber of commerce. He stated the importance of protecting the university from those who want to speculate in real estate values around the campus. The plan for the development is centered around the mall from Tenth to Sixteenth streets, and it is necessary that the land be acquired gradually.

Speculators tend to slow the progress by asking exorbitant prices for the property. Investigation of a piece of land that had changed hands after the university plan was announced indicated that the owner planned to establish a filling station on it. The city council refused him permission to do so. The chancellor said that he feared other industries were apt to come in unless every precaution were used. The authority of the city may be limited, he said, and it is necessary that they use every safeguard possible.

"The present zoning ordinance is satisfactory," the chancellor said. "When we have all the land we (Continued on Page 2.)"

Marvin Paul, Husker half-back, will probably see action against the Tigers, while Paul Marvin is one of Coach Gwinn Henry's proteges. That doesn't prove that one's last name has to be Paul to be from Nebraska or that his first name must be Paul to be from Missouri.

STEWARDS CONSIDER CO-OPERATIVE BUYING

Fraternity Officials Meet To Discuss Plan for Saving Money.

Fifteen stewards representing various fraternities on the university campus, held a meeting at the Delta Tau Delta house Thursday night to consider a plan drawn up by James Elliott, Sigma Phi Epsilon steward, whereby the fraternities here will organize into a group fraternal co-operative buying association.

The plan involves group buying of necessary commodities such as coal and food, by an association of fraternities, thus enabling its members to effect a large saving on such articles.

At the initial meeting of the association last night, Elliott was elected president, and invitations were sent out to all fraternities on the campus to attend the next meeting to be held at the Delta Tau Delta house next Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, to further plans of the group.

The plan, according to Elliott, is being used by nearly all of the fraternities at eastern schools at a great saving to them. Recently several schools of the Big Six have adopted this system of co-operative buying. Elliott believes that by proper co-operation between fraternities here the plan will be successful.

SOME 800 FANS WILL MAKE TRIP TO MIZZOU GAME

Husker Students Climb in Autos, Pullmans and Freights Today

TOTAL EXCEEDS RECORD

Approximately Two Times Former Number Will Witness Classic

Somewhere in the neighborhood of 800 University of Nebraska students will leave Lincoln today aboard conveyances ranging from Ford to Cadillac and freight trains to pullmans for Columbia, Mo., where the Cornhuskers meet Coach Gwinn Henry's Missouri Tigers in historical combat Saturday.

At an early hour yesterday afternoon about 720 students had purchased or reserved tickets for the game, and indications were at that time that the final reservation list would exceed the 800 mark.

The 800 students will be the largest group to attend a Missouri-Nebraska game at Columbia in the history of valley football. Two years ago, 400 supporters of the Scarlet and Cream made the trip to Columbia, setting a record. The number this year far eclipses that total.

Six hundred tickets for the game were delivered to Nebraskaans here. The remainder, those who reserve seats late, will get their tickets at the men's gymnasium on the Missouri campus between 8 and 12 o'clock Saturday morning.

SHRUBBERY IS MOVED AS PROWLER CAUTION

Workmen Take Out Bushes Along Teachers and Social Sciences.

Shrubbery lining the walk extending from Twelfth of Fourteenth streets, just north of social sciences and teachers' college buildings, is being moved today by workmen as a precautionary measure against prowlers.

Four floodlights have been ordered by the purchasing department and will be mounted on nearby buildings to light up the drill field and surroundings, according to L. F. Seston, purchasing agent for the university.

Botany Students Have Opportunity For Experimentation in Greenhouse

The greenhouse at the University of Nebraska is maintained by the botany department for purposes of experimentation, decoration, and beautification of the campus.

Experiments on the various phases of plant life are being carried on constantly by botany students. At present experiments are being made on Carter beans, sunflowers, sweet peas and balsam plants. The object of the investigation is to discover how much water the plants as a whole require, how rapidly the plant and how many roots develop from the plants. One experiment is being made to determine how plants respond to foreign substances in the water. For example, some plants are put in plain water and some in water containing iron, and a check is made to ascertain which grows most rapidly. Soil experiments are also made. A number of Cocktail plants have been put in soils of varying moisture content and the rapidity and strength of their respective growth is tabulated. Shrubbery and plants for campus flower beds are grown in the greenhouse. There is one jasper plant, a tall, cactus like growth that is set out on the campus during the summer and taken into the greenhouse in the winter to prevent its freezing. A number of palms are kept in the greenhouse to be used in decorating the coliseum on various occasions.

There are a good many blind alleys on the way, but usually after fifteen or twenty trials the rat is able to do so speedily and accurately find his way to the eating room. After he is able to do this, the number of
