LINCOLN POLICE BAN SERENADES AFTER MIDNIGHT

Chief Johnstone Also Asks Nebraskans to Rally Without Cars.

BACKS DEAN'S BULLETIN

Thompson Says Greek Song Fests Disturb Public Unnecessarily.

Serenades by university students will not be allowed in Lincoln after 12 o'clock, midnight, according to a statement made by Chief of Police Johnstone, Tuesday. This rule will be strictly enforced, according to the chief.

Students are also requested by Chief Johnstone to leave their cars at home on future rallies. Statements similar to the two above were issued in a bulletin by Dean T. J. Thompson Monday and were supplemented by the police department.

Johnstone stated that many complaints have been received from Lincoln people who have been disturbed by serenades held after 12 o'clock. He declared that if fraternities desire to hold serenades they will have to arrange them at a different time than has been customary in the past.

Comments on Rallies.

In commenting on rallies, Johnstone stated that unless cars were left at home on such occasions someone might get seriously injured because of the speeding and reckless driving exhibited by drivers of the cars. It would at least be advisable for car rallies to keep away from the congested districts of town, Johnstone said. Two drivers were arrested for speeding and reckless driving on the last rally held before the Pittsburgh-Nebraska football game. Two hundred other than two should have been arrested, however, according to police chief.

Johnstone also stated that serenades and rallies held in the downtown business district are a nuisance and interfere with the personal rights of the citizens of Lincoln and interfere, as they so often do, with the scholastic attainment not only of the serenaders but of the serenaded. Before you decide to hold another serenade, please give these matters consideration.

MISS APPLEBY GIVES EXPLANATION OF LIFE

Vespers Service Includes Informal Discussion About Religion.

HELEN McANULTY LEADS

"Completely surrendering ourselves to something worth it and undertaking the difficult things, comes to mean life that really is life, rising above a purely selfish view," stated Miss Erma Appleby, Y. W. C. A. secretary at Vespers Tuesday evening in Ellen Smith hall.

"We are not always sure of God because we let go of the standards that were our conception of Him. Many of us dabble in doubtful things to try and find life, the thrill and zest we're afraid to miss. Life means a creative life, not only for ourselves, but for others. The most difficult things are the really creative ones, and we try to live a full creative life through the growing knowledge of God."

"God often seems uncertain to us. Science seems to foster this feeling, somewhat. The university tends to weaken our ideals and standards, and we follow the crowd because so many nice people do it. We all want God to be a sustainer of goodness no matter how small that goodness is. Life brings us the reality of God and kinship with Jesus."

Helen McAnulty led the meeting which was the annual candle lighting service of the Y. W. C. A. Special music was furnished by the choir.

HICKS BELIEVES IN ESTABLISHING GENERAL STUDY

Dean of Arts and Sciences College Recommends Cultural Work.

WOULD BE TWO YEARS

Deplores Specialization in One Course Prior to Basic Education.

Two years of general culture studies are an essential basis before a student is ready to enter into a specialized course, in the opinion of Dr. John D. Hicks, dean of the college of arts and sciences. Not only is this essential, but such an end seems evident from the trend of thinking, he believes.

In the earlier years of the university and up until a period not so many years ago, it was customary for freshmen to begin their higher education with a series of general culture studies. Today most of them strike out at once into specialized courses.

Deplores Tendency.

"I greatly deplore this tendency," stated the dean. "Technicians are not necessarily educated men and women. Many a man who is a master in his own specialized field is little more than a 'dumb bell' as far as his general knowledge of life and affairs are concerned. Sometimes even men whose feats have dazzled the entire world in the realms of science and invention fall into this classification."

"That the university under its present organization makes it possible for a student to secure a degree as a result of efforts directed entirely along professional lines seems very sad to me."

Specialization Increases.

Specialization, according to Dean Hicks, has been getting a firm grip during the past few years. "This became remarkably noticeable," he stated, "at freshman day this fall when we tried the experiment of dividing the 2,000 members of the freshman class into their various colleges."

"When all the strictly professional groups had been placed in their separate divisions, there was left a group of about 600. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5.)"

BARB COUNCIL TAKES NEXT PARTY SLOGAN

All-University Affair Will Be Held Homecoming For Students.

SECOND DANCE OF YEAR

"Let's go to the all-university party" is the slogan of the barb council, sponsors of these parties, in urging all students of the university to attend the second all-university party to be held Saturday, Nov. 2.

According to Allan Williams, chairman of the barb council, preparations are quickly being rounded into shape for the second party of the year. 3,500 personal invitations are being sent out to students.

Includes All Students.

"This party includes all fraternity and nonfraternity students on the campus," added Williams. "The aid and cooperation of all groups on the campus is necessary to put these parties across. All-university parties offer students a chance to become better acquainted with one another."

Refreshments, a varied vaudeville program, and dancing to a ten-piece orchestra will feature the program of the evening. Plans have not yet been completed for the orchestra and vaudeville program.

Party Promises Success.

According to Ruth Hatfield, one of the barb leaders, this next party, during the homecoming, promises to be a great success. "The first party was successful; almost 800 students attended," she stated.

PROCEEDS FROM GREEK BALL GO FOR KLUB DEBT

Fraternity Group Offers Profits From Formal To Ex-Sponsors.

DISCUSS RUSHING RULES

Chairman Presents Plans For Improvement on Old Condition.

Profits from the interfraternity ball, formerly handled by the Kismet Klub, but last year given to the interfraternity council, will be presented to the Kismet Klub by the council this year. This decision was reached by the council at its meeting Tuesday night in Merrill hall and will assist the Kismet Klub in paying off its debt.

The problem of controlling fraternity serenades was discussed by the council. Suggestions were made that all serenades be registered with the council, that bans on serenades be prohibited and that the taking of girls on them be discouraged. A committee composed of Fred Gray, chairman, Wesley Mays and Carl Hahn was appointed to investigate the matter and formulate a plan to remedy the present situation.

Discuss Rush Week.

The rush week situation was again taken up by the interfraternity body. Charles Lawler, chairman of the rushing committee, made a report suggesting a plan involving a triplicate rush card. One of the copies of the card would be filed with the council.

It is the plan to have the rushing rules printed on the backs of the cards and hold the freshmen responsible for obeying them. Suggestions were also made that the freshmen go to the various fraternity houses instead of having the fraternities go after them, that freshmen be limited to five calls during rush week and that rush week be cut down to two days.

Give Two Members.

Incorporated in the bylaws passed at the meeting was a provision that each fraternity select two representatives, one active and the other an alternate. The active member must be of junior standing or better and in good standing with his fraternity and with the university. The alternate member must be at least a sophomore and must be in good standing with both his own organization and with the university.

A publicity committee composed of Carl Hahn, chairman, Donald Carlson, and Kenneth Van Sant, was appointed to answer all adverse criticism of the interfraternity system and to issue news favorable to it. It was stipulated that all publicity to be sent out must be approved by the interfraternity council and by Dean T. J. Thompson.

WEATHER INTERFERES WITH YEARBOOK SALE

Thirty Individuals Outside Organizations Assist 1929 Cornhusker.

Due to unfavorable weather conditions progress of the Cornhusker sales campaign, launched Monday morning, has been slow during the first part of the campaign week. Thirty individuals, not included in organizations, are enlisted in the selling program.

Besides the rainy weather which has proven such a decided hamper, the Missouri football trip has also held down the sales, according to the business manager of the publication.

Cornhuskers are selling for $4.50, a reduction of 10 percent on the regular price, during the campaign week. This is the only time such a reduction will be made. People who wish to be sure of their 1930 Cornhusker should buy now, according to the business manager, as only a limited number will be published this year. Too many books have been left over in previous years and because of this a smaller number of 1930 Cornhuskers will be printed.

The prize for the state contest was a bronze paper weight, engraved with a miniature chess board and his name. It is said that he could play a game of checkers in one room and at the same time carry on three games of chess with other players in other rooms, by using his own numeral system of calling the moves, and win all four of the games.

WEIDEMANN NAMES THREE INTERESTING PLACES VISITED DURING TRIP TO ROME

Three of the most interesting places visited by Dr. C. C. Weidemann, of teachers college, during the course of his sojourn in Rome last summer were the catacombs, St. Peter's cathedral and the coliseum.

The catacombs, of which there are twenty-eight, are found outside the walls of Rome. They were put there because it was sure death for a Christian to enter the city before Christianity was sanctioned by the Roman emperors. These vast labyrinthine are about 900 miles in length and are constructed one story upon another. In some places there are about seven stories in the catacombs, connected with each other by stairways cut in the living rock.

Find Christian Bodies.

The bodies of more than two million Christians have been found in the catacombs. Contrary to common belief the catacombs were not secret as it would have been impossible to conceal from the pagans and so many corpses. Fortunately, however, the Romans respected the graves of all people and it was thus possible for the Christians to employ them not only as tombs but as places of refuge in times of persecution.

Walls Are Painted.

The walls of the catacombs, according to Professor Weidemann are covered with interesting crude painting of symbols and allegorical and biblical subjects.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL IS ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING PLACES VISITED DURING TRIP TO ROME

St. Peter's cathedral is one of the most interesting buildings in the world. The edifice itself is immense, being 631 feet in length and crowned by a dome 448 feet above the pavement. It is filled with wonderful works of architecture, including the best efforts of such geniuses as Michael Angelo, Bernini, Canova, Bracci and countless others.

Coliseum is Wonder.

One of the true wonders of Rome is the coliseum. It is the most elaborate amphitheater in the world. It was here that gladiators killed one another and Christians were turned to the lions for the benefit of the Roman populace.

The immensity of the structure can be imagined when one considers that it would accommodate over 80,000 spectators. The arena where the struggles took place was so called because it was covered with sand, which gave the fighters a firm footing and absorbed the blood. Around the arena was a wall, high enough to protect the Romans from the wild beasts in the center. Covering the entire structure was a huge canopy which protected the crowd from the elements and admitted light through a hole in its center.

Was Badly Treated.

The coliseum was the worst treated of all the Roman buildings. It was partially demolished when the Italian baronial families formed the habit of using it as a (Continued on Page 3, Col. 4.)
