Pamphlet Indicates Professors of Today Have Heavier Teaching Load

In the last ten years the teaching load of the faculty has increased 61 percent. These facts and others are revealed in a pamphlet published through the chancellor's office. Last year in one semester there were 184 classes with a registration of 50 or more students, 74 classes with a registration of 75 or more students, and 24 classes with a registration of 100 or more students.

The University of Nebraska is asking for a $263,000 increase in the budget for the next two years for the purpose of enlarging its faculty and for the payment of better salaries.

The university believes that it can produce an increasingly large number of highly outstanding men and women. It would like to have a few salaries sufficiently attractive to secure and hold the best known men and women. It would like to have a few worthwhile prizes hung up to be striven for.

SEVERAL GROUPS FAIL TO FINISH PICTURE TAKING

In accordance with the Cornhusker staff announcement that the deadline for having pictures taken for the year book is definitely set at Saturday noon, Nov. 16, it is necessary that societies and fraternities have their pictures taken before this date if they wish to have sittings.

The following are to appear at Townsends: Phi Mu, Sigma Kappa, Zeta Tau Alpha, Sigma Alpha Mu, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Nu, Sigma Phi Sigma, Tau Kappa Epsilon, Xi Psi Phi.

The following are to report to Hauck's: Phi Omega Pi, Sigma Delta Tau, Theta Phi Alpha, Phi Kappa Phi, Sigma Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Theta Chi, Theta Xi, and Zeta Beta Tau.

MIDWESTERN AUTHORS WRITE FOR SCHOONER

Literary Magazine, Due Out Monday, Contains Many Local Articles.

Five hundred copies of the Prairie Schooner, Nebraska's literary magazine, are just off the press and will be on sale at all newsstands Monday, according to Prof. L. C. Wimberly, the editor. This fall number includes short stories, articles and poetry by student, faculty and mid-western writers of note.

Mrs. Josephine Spencer, of Omaha, who appears for the first time in the Prairie Schooner, has written a short story entitled "Ola's Freedom." Mrs. Spencer is the wife of Guy R. Spencer, the eminent cartoonist of the Omaha World Herald. Her works have been printed in various magazines for several years.

Thelma Sealock, a former contributor and student at Nebraska, has submitted "The Lamp," a short story which appears in this issue. "Reverend Flansburg," a short story by Dexter Hyatt also appears.

Students Contribute.
Several articles of unusual interest are included in the fall number. A light essay on "The Habit of Taking Bath" is written by Gerald Humbert, a graduate student of Nebraska. "Arland: A Cowboy Paradise" is by Charles Lindsay, an instructor in the department of history at Nebraska. Mr. Lindsay knows a great deal about pioneer Wyoming, its people and events, and has specialized in history of the frontier.

Gilbert H. Doane, head of the university library, writes an essay on the gentle art of letter writing, entitled "Is The Gentle Art Lost?"

L. C. Wimberly, professor in English at Nebraska and editor of the Prairie Schooner, has written his usual survey in the "Ox Cart" and an article on red headed people. Mr. Wimberly also discusses Edward J. O'Brien's new book "The Dance of the Machines."

This is included in the "Ox Cart." The usual amount of poetry appears in the fall number. Loren Elsiey, a student at Nebraska, is the author of "Poison Oak." Richard House, an undergraduate and an assistant in the English department, writes a poem called, "I Remind a Lady," which is almost brutal in its frankness.

LAW GRADUATES GO INTO MANY FIELDS

Sixty Percent Practice in Nebraska; Pershing Is Former Student.

Graduates of the University of Nebraska law school are practicing in thirty-three states, one territory of the United States, and one foreign country. About 60 percent of those who graduated remained in Nebraska, statistics show, while of the remainder, one is residing in the Canal Zone and one in Canada.

While most of the graduates of the law college are practicing the legal profession, some have branched off into other fields and it is interesting to note that the one who is perhaps the most distinguished graduate, Gen. John J. Pershing, has forsaken law for soldiery.

The figures available show that about 80 percent of those who remained in Nebraska are practicing law and that about 69 percent of those who have migrated are following the profession. Of those who are not engaged in an active practice of law, the majority have become bankers. Others have favored the insurance business, the field of education and the publishing business.

UNIVERSITY INSTALLS CAMPUS FLOOD LIGHTS

Two New Ones Are Put In, Completing Program of Illuminating.

Flood lights to penetrate campus shadows on dark nights have been installed on the roofs of Chemistry hall and the teachers college building. These lights will serve to illuminate the sidewalk from Social Sciences to teachers college and from Social Sciences to Bessey hall.

Installation of flood lights on the campus was started last spring following the appearance of a frequent prowler who frightened coeds as they walked to the libraries and evening classes through the campus. Darkened stretches around University hall, the library, Brace laboratory and the armory now are flooded with light.

The walk between Social Sciences and teachers college, until recently was darkened even more by high bushes and shrubs. These have been set back from the walks to prevent any possible prowler from lurking there.

Installation of the two new flood lights, according to L. F. Seaton, operating superintendent of the university, completes the electrification of the campus at night.

NEBRASKA STUDENTS DRIVE 1,240 CARS

Report Shows One of Every Five Drives Automobile To University.

One out of five university students drives an automobile to school, according to a report released Wednesday from the office of T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs. There are 1,240 cars owned or driven by university students and there are approximately 6,500 students enrolled in the institution.

Of the number of automobiles brought to school by students, 774, or about 60 percent, bear Lancaster county license plates, the report shows. Many of these, most of them residents of Lincoln, drive from outlying parts of the city and from other sections of the county.

The remaining 466 cars belong to students living out of the county. Several out-of-state cars are also driven by University of Nebraska students.

LARSON EXPECTS 400 AT ANNUAL DAD'S LUNCHEON

Tickets Are in Possession of Steward of Each Fraternity.

SALE CLOSES FRIDAY

Speakers Include Weaver, Burnett, Thompson and Schulte.

Four hundred tickets for the Dad's day luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce Saturday noon are expected to be sold by the innocents society, according to Gordon "Gus" Larson, chairman of the Dad's day committee. Larson stated that between four and five hundred tickets had been distributed for sale among the different fraternities on the campus.

The average attendance at such luncheons in past years has been between three and four hundred, according to Larson. He said that he saw no reason why the attendance should be any lower than the average this year. Instead, he thinks the attendance this year will exceed the average.

The definite number of tickets sold is not yet known as the report will not be made to James Musgrave, chairman of ticket sales committee, until tonight. Fraternity stewards and others who have tickets for sale are urged by Larson to hand in the tickets they have not sold by tonight or Friday night at the latest. This is necessary to give the innocents the approximate number of persons planning to attend.

A full program of entertainment has been provided for the luncheon. Included on the list of speakers will be Chancellor E. A. Burnett, Governor Arthur J. Weaver, Dean T. J. Thompson, Henry F. Schulte, and R. E. Campbell, president of the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce.

Besides the noon luncheon, Nebraska dads will be entertained by the Nebraska-Oklahoma football game Saturday afternoon, and by various other organization functions at different hours of the day. Dad's day is an annual event at the University of Nebraska. Date of the day is always set for one of the major football games of the season.

PLAYERS ENTERTAIN PRISONERS OF STATE

Dramatic Group Presents 'John Ferguson' at Reformatory.

PLAY OPENS NEXT WEEK

University Players gave a private pre-showing of the play, "John Ferguson," by St. John Ervine, at the state reformatory Wednesday evening. Public performances of the production will be given at the Temple theater for one week starting Friday, Nov. 15.

This is the second play of the University Players schedule and in contrast to the previous one is a domestic tragedy. It concerns the life of the Irish peasant farmer, John Ferguson, who finds his greatest consolation in the words of the Bible. Ill health, the loss of his farm through foreclosure of the mortgage, the arrest of a family friend for suspected murder he accepts without protest because he firmly believes that in accordance with the Bible, "Joy cometh with the morning."

Mr. Ervine carefully builds up the play to show how fate works against this individual. He thus clearly expounds his own view that man is a victim of blind chance and his salvation depends not on God but upon his own endeavors. The result is a mixture of chance and character motivation. It was this play which established the New York Theater guild on a firm basis.

The cast includes many favorites who have often appeared before Nebraska audiences, such as W. Zolley Lerner, Mercedes Ames, Joy Storm, Doris Hosman, Edwin Quinn, Richard Page, Paul Miller and Maxwell Jones.

Single admission tickets may be purchased for seventy-five cents.

Chancellor Burnett Grets Dads

The University of Nebraska extends the fathers of its students a hearty invitation to visit the university Saturday, Nov. 16, the usual Dad's day.

We feel that a closer relationship between the university, its students, and their parents may be brought about through such gatherings. Arrangements have been made for a noon luncheon and a football game in the afternoon, as well as an opportunity for the parents to visit their sons and daughters in their college environment and visit the university itself.

We hope that the father of every student will be able to be with his son or daughter next Saturday. Very truly yours, E. A. BURNETT, Chancellor.
