

Scarlet Eleven Is on Edge for Sooner Game

HUSKERS WIND UP PRACTICE SESSIONS

Coach, Fighting Bad Weather Conditions, Expects to Put Powerful Team Against Sooners Saturday; All Except Richards in Good Shape

FIGHT WITH OKLAHOMA IS FIRST SINCE 1925 Bible Is Highly Pleased With This Week's Exhibition of Football and High Spirits; Southern Also Send Eleven Inspired by Old Feud

Cornhusker football wound up its two weeks of practice for the Big Six conference game with the Oklahoma Sooners on Memorial stadium field tomorrow. Coach Dana Bible has been severely handicapped the entire week with reverse weather conditions but he expects to send a powerful and high spirited Scarlet and Cream football eleven against the southern team in Saturday's renewal of Nebraska's fight for the second football championship in the Big Six conference. The Husker pigskin mentor will have his entire squad in shape to hurl against the Sooners with the exception of Ray Richards, stellar Cornhusker tackle who was injured in the Kansas game.

The snow which has covered Memorial stadium field for the past three days was swept off this morning and athletic officials hope to have a dry field for the game Saturday. Weather conditions are predicted to be the best for the big Sooner tilt Saturday and a crowd of from 15 to 25 thousands is expected to witness the Huskers meet the southern eleven.

Saturday's game with the Sooners will be the first time an Oklahoma eleven has played the Cornhuskers in Lincoln since 1925. It was in that game on Memorial field that Choppy Rhodes, now coach of the freshman team, played such a brilliant game against the southerners, scoring the first Husker touchdown. The Nebraska eleven came out on the long end of the 12 to 0 score.

It is evident in the camp of the Cornhuskers that the Nebraska morale is at high tide for the Oklahoma game tomorrow. Although practice has been held inside for the past week, Coach Bible has instilled a great amount of fighting spirit into his Scarlet charges and he hopes to put the Sooner tilt in the bag and drive on for the all-important clash with the Kansas Aggies at Manhattan. But three games remain between Coach Dana Bible and his first championship at Nebraska. The Sooner and Kansas Aggie hurdles seem to be the highest and should the Nebraska eleven make these two, it stands a good chance of coping off the 1929 flag.

Wednesday night's session out at the state fair grounds was a snappy exhibition of Cornhusker spirit for the coming game and Coach Dana Bible made no effort to cover up the fact that he was highly pleased with the way his eleven is coming along for this Oklahoma game. Thursday night's drill was the last strenuous practice session before the Sooner tilt and Friday afternoon Bible hopes to get out on the sod for a short workout in the open, the first since Monday afternoon. Should Memorial field be in condition Friday afternoon it will be turned over to Coach Ad Lindsey and his Sooner

FROSH FOOTBALL TEAM PULLS OUT TO K. O. SOONERS

Rhodes, Lehman Take Trip With Twenty-four of Yearling Squad

HOLD LAST WORKOUTS Eleven's Pass Offense and Defense Clicks Nearly To Perfection

Coaches Rhodes and Lehman, along with their freshmen gridsters are to pull out, by way of the Union Pacific, at 1 p. m. today. Twenty-four men will make the trip and Senior Manager John Brown will attend them in person. Yesterday the frosh worked out for the last time before the Boomer game. Pass offense and defense was the subject matter at hand. The ball took on the shape of a basketball before long, but Dunn continued to flip it to the ends and backs. The defense was working nearly to perfection, and the passes that were successful were very few in number.

Before the practice started, most of the men were out indulging in a mud and snow battle. After about fifteen minutes of battling for the ball and tripping any one that was in the way, they bore a very close resemblance to ditch diggers. Choppy didn't mind the exhibition, as it allowed the men to let off some excess steam, but if one of the managers had been present, his thoughts might have been rather blue. Some laundry or other will be the sole benefactor of the battle.

Oklahoma is plenty proud of their yearling football team, and Sooners are "Believers."

Nebraska is going to have to look to her laurels if they expect to finish an all victorious year. Lots of faith has been oozing out of the Sooner camp, in regards to their supposedly supreme freshman team, but Choppy is of the opinion that the bigger the reputation, the greater the victory. In his mind, there is nothing gained in winning from an inferior team, but to "take" the good ones is what counts. As an example, he points out the bitter struggles that Nebraska and Notre Dame played over a period of so many years.

Captain Lehman has developed a powerful, out light line, and against a team that is much heavier, they are going to have to show aggressiveness to the nth degree. If the line is able to hold, it is expected that the "Huskerlings" are going to pass frequently. Roby should show to better advantage, as a dry field is much more to his liking. Mathis will be out there again showing the opposition that weight is not everything.

Due to the length of the trip, only twenty-four men will be taken on the trip. Several men that were able to play nearly good enough will not be taken, but it requires money to take a large
