SIZE OF HALL LIMITS SALE OF TICKETS TO 350

Admission Price to Annual Cornhusker Banquet Is Set at $1.

COLISEUM IS TOO LARGE

Committee Selects Ramsay To Introduce Other Speakers.

Tickets for the Cornhusker grid-iron banquet which will be held in the Venetian room of the Hotel the Venetian room of the Hotel Lincoln Friday night, Dec. 13, will go on sale Monday, according to the Innocents society which is sponsoring the affair. Attendance at the baroust will be limited to at the banquet will be limited to 350 this year since it is being held at a downtown hotel with much less room than the coliseum where the dinner has been given in previous years. Tickets have been distributed among the thirteen members of the Innocents society and will be sold on the campus and in fra-ternities commencing tomorrow. Price is $1.

Old Plan Abandoned

Reason for holding the affair down town and thus limiting the attendance, according to the In-nocents, is because facilities at the coliseum will not permit effcient enough service. Nine hundred attended at the coliseum last year and it was very difficult to satisfactorily accommodate so many Athletic authorities have expressed the hope of some day equipping the coliseum with a full size kitchen which will enable such gatherings to be held there.

Ray Ramsay, secretary of the Nebraska Alumni association was announced yesterday as toastmaster of the annual banquet honoring Cornhusker lettermen. Letter-men, but not the remainder of the varsity football squad, will attend the banquet. They will be an-nounced the first of this week and will be present next Friday night as guests of honor, occupying positions at the speakers' table. Bible Will Speak

The speakers list will include Coach Dena Bible in a review of the season and outline of prospects for next year. Coach Henry "Indian" Schulte in a resume of Cornhusker football history, and Captain George Farley who will give a short talk and perform the feature event of the evening announce the new football captain by tossing him the pigskin at the end of his speech.

Vaudeville acts, from the pub-lix theaters, donated by Charles Shire, manager of the chain, will furnish entertainment throughout the banquet. Plans are also being made to use some local talent in the evening's entertainment, according to the Innocents.

A sixteen foot red and white "N" will be electrically lighted and placed at the head of the speakers table as part of the decorations. Pennants of all the Big Six conference schools will also be used. These will include Kansas, Kansas Agricultural college, Missouri, Oklahoma, and Iowa state college besides Nebraska.

PLAYERS' CAST HAS MANY OLD FAVORITES

And Cornelia Ayres Take Leads.

PLAY OPENS NEXT WEEK

Herbert Yenne, Walter Vogt. Betty Craft, and Cornelia Ayres been selected to portray the leading roles in the third produc-tion of the season, "Lady Windermere's Fan" to be offered by the University Players at the Temple theater from Dec. 13 to 19 inclu-

Yenne will take the part of Lord Windermere, a very virtu-ous, dignified English gentleman. This role will be an extreme contrast to the one Mr. Yenne first appeared in this season in "The Royal Family" where he was the boisterous, irratic, devil-may-care on of a theatrical family.

Miss Craft will appear as Lady Windermere, the beutiful and irreproachable wife of Lord Win-dermere who despite all her vir-tute allows jealousy to enter in and almost wreck her entire life. Miss Craft won recognition last year by her excellent acting in the Shakespearian offering of the players, "A Mid-Summer Night's Cornelia Ayres having demonstrated her acting ability in lead-ing parts in "The Outsider," and "He and She," has been given the task of portraying Mrs. Erlynne in "Lady Windermere's Fan." Mrs. Erlynne is the irresistable widow with a past and a future. The men flock to her, and even the perfect Lord Windermere is seen with her constantly.

Oscar Wilde, the author of this four act comedy, has proved his dramatic ability in this play. He is a master in the technique of arousing suspence, and can hold the interest of his audience throughout. The play abounds in extremely clever sayings and intensely embarrassing situations. Mr. Wilde seems to have use for society. He places himself defintely on the side of the sinner. He seems to believe the philosophy which he once puts into the mouth of one of his characters when that individual exclaimed in comparing sinners and saints, "Saints have a
