Two hundred and thirty-three thousand volumes are housed in the University of Nebraska library, ranging from five-eighths by seven-eighths of an inch in size to 21 3/4 inches by 15 inches in size. The smallest book is about two-thirds the size of a postage stamp, and contains 139 pages.

COUNCIL FACES PLAN OF FELLMAN'S AGAIN

Delegates Will Consider Proposition for Vote Of Student Body.

WOULD ALLOW FACTIONS

Further consideration of the plan for proportional voting in student elections, which is advocated by David Fellman, will be made by the Student council at its meeting Wednesday night at 5 p. m. Second semester elections will be held on the third Tuesday of the semester, which falls on Feb. 18.

All amendments to the constitution of the Student council must be referred to the student body at a general election. If the opinion of the council is favorable to the plan it will be submitted to all students for their approval at this election.

Under the proposed system, students would vote for factions or parties, not for individual candidates. Thus the faction receiving the most votes would be able to put in office the largest number of its own nominees, selected within the faction.

The faction receiving the next largest number of votes would win a smaller, but proportional number of offices, to be given to its nominees. No one party would win every office; each party would be allowed a certain number of offices, depending upon the votes polled.

RAMSAY EXCELLS IN PRESENTATION QUEEN'S HUSBAND

University Players' Veteran Insures Success by Adaptation.

CAST SHOWS FINESSE

Misses Orr, Drayton Star In Respective Roles Of Production.

Ray Ramsay as the timid, henpecked king won the admiration of his audience by his splendid portrayal of that role in Robert Sherwood's comedy-satire, "The Queen's Husband" given by the University Players at the Temple theater this week.

Mr. Ramsay carries his part with the ease and skill of a professional actor. His shy, hesitant walk, his timid, questioning smile, his appropriate lifting and lowering of his eyebrows stamp him unquestionably as the subdued husband of a domineering wife. The very way he peeps in the door before he enters the room, and the meek, submissive tone of voice he uses, at all times add materially to his characterization of the role.

"Ray" is Himself. As the dominated king, his one asset is his superb sense of humor. While the queen, the prime minister and the revolutionists take themselves and the affairs of the country seriously, the king merely smiles to himself and when the queen isn't around, plays checkers. Despite his seeming inferiority as a ruler, the king soon holds the respect and approval of the audience for he proves to be the only one who unselfishly thinks of someone else besides himself.

Mr. Ramsay declared recently (Continued on Page 3, Col. 1.)

SENATOR PERIN DIES SATURDAY AFTER ILLNESS

Superintendent of Ag Farm Succumbs at Lincoln Residence.

SERVED FORTY YEARS

Burnett, Avery and Burr Tribute to Memory Of Pioneer.

Senator W. Perin, who for forty years had been superintendent of the agricultural college farm, died at his home at 3285 Orchard street at 5 a. m. Saturday morning. Mr. Perin had been confined to his home for several months following several serious operations.

Chancellor E. A. Burnett in commenting upon his death stated: "In the passing of Mr. S. W. Perin, superintendent of the university farm, the university has lost an outstanding character. For forty years he has given loyal and devoted service to the institution. Born in a pioneer country with limited school opportunities, he homesteaded in Custer county when it was largely unbroken prairie.

"From there he came to the college farm in 1880 while it was still undeveloped and without any definite educational program. For many years he had charge of all university field work but as programs were worked out by which this work was assigned to technical departments his work became more and more general and related more to administration.

CORN COBS DISCUSS PEP AT CAGE GAMES

Cheerleaders Have Committee To Investigate; Meet At A.T.O. House.

Student pep as displayed for basketball games was the chief topic of discussion at a meeting of Corn Cobs Thursday night at the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity house.

After some discussion by members of the organization, the matter was placed in the hands of a committee composed of Carl Hahn, Lloyd Jeffries and Don Erion.

No plans were made toward setting a definite date for the spring initiation and dinner party, which will probably be held early in May. A committee was appointed to work on the matter, consisting of Wendell Groth, Paul Sterkie, Kenneth Van Sant, and Fred Grau.

A suggestion that pledges be named at the end of the year, rather than in the fall, was made, but no action was taken toward the adoption of such a system.

Date for the next meeting of the club was announced as Feb. 6 at the Sigma Nu house.

Any student or group of students who have not secured their exchange tickets at the reduced rate offered to students of the university may do so at any time Sunday or Monday by calling Mildred Olson, B3012.

The public sale of reserved seats always attracts a large number of patrons during the first few days that it is open, so students are urged to get their exchange tickets early, in order to secure the best possible reserved seats.

Mortar Boards Head. Members of fraternities and societies who are acting as delegates for Mortar Board in the sale of the tickets in organized groups, may check in their money to Mildred Olson at Elson Smith hall any time Tuesday afternoon, from 2:30 until 5 p. m. Later hours for checking in money or tickets will be announced in The Daily Nebraskan.

Nearly four hundred reservations have been received from Wesleyan university, and more reservations are expected from Oatner, Doane and Peru colleges. More than $1,000 for opera tickets has been taken in at the student activities office to date.

Reduction Offered. Members of Tassel, women's pep organization, are assisting the Mortar Board members in the ticket sales on the university campus, and in Lincoln. An effort is being made to afford every student the reduced rate of 15 percent on tickets of $2 or more. In order to secure this rate, it is necessary for students to buy the tickets in blocks of at least twenty-five, but no limitations are laid on those composing the block, nor do the tickets all have to be the same price, nor reserved together. This makes it possible for tickets to be purchased and reserved independently of the others in the block.

ELLIOTT CLAIMS SAVING

President Believes Less Money Can Buy More Goods in Plan.

Fraternal Buyers Cooperative association has filed a petition for a non profit in corporation. The board of directors elected included James Elliott, president, Sigma Phi Epsilon; Harold Swenson, Phi Kappa Psi; Robert Horney, Delta Chi; Russell Joynt, Delta Tau Delta; Alton Orendorff, Pi Kappa Phi; and Richard Kelley, Delta Theta Phi. Prof. E. F. Schramm is faculty advisor.

Cooperative buying, in the three months trial, has proved very successful according to Elliott. Several fraternities are petitioning to join the group, which already includes seventeen members.

Mail Wholesale? A new phase of buying is taken up every week, and now the proposition on laundry and mail is being considered. In November, the first month of operation for the fraternity buyers, the business amounted to over three thousand dollars, and has steadily increased since then. Otto Baumann, Delta Tau Delta, is treasurer-buyer, and is bonded for a five thousand dollar guarantee.

The reason for the good credit of the organization, the president said, was due to the fact that everything was run on a cash basis, and that securing better prices was possible.

A regular meeting is held by the corporation the second and fourth Tuesday of the month. The board of directors meet more often.
