Great Churchill From Oklahoma Is Again Unable to Play Up to Reputed Form; Red Jerseys Lead At Half by Score of 11 to 9.

By DON CARR.

Charley Binek's squad of Cornhusker basketballers took the Oklahoma Sooners into camp to the delightful tune of 35 to 20 on the field house maples last night. The game was a thriller for the first half, then the Huskers proceeded to take command of the tilt, and quickly ran up a lead that the Oklahomans were unable to even come close to.

Don MacLay was the outstanding man on the floor, connecting with the hoop for an even 21 points. Whenever he prepared to shoot, someone would casually mention that the scorekeepers should add two points to the Scarlet and Cream total. Under the basket, this elongated Husker center was at his best, and repeatedly tipped the ball through for two pointers.

Steve Fisher was the smoothest guard on the floor last night, continually breaking up the Sooner offense. Several times two and three men would bear down on this versatile athlete, but he nearly always was equal to the job, and stopped most of the Sooners' offensive plays.

Scarlet Clicks Well. After the Cornhuskers hit their stride, they were a machine that would not be denied, and rolled up a larger total on the Oklahoma team than even the highly touted Kansas team was able to. It has been many a day since the Huskers have clicked as well as they did last night.

Mammoth Huskers Battle For Privilege of Making Trip. Morris Fisher and Harve Grace were teaming better with MacLay than they have been able to at any time this year. Both of these basketballers showed an immense amount of fight, and were better on defense than they ever have been.

Oklahoma opened the fray with a rush when they tallied successive baskets by Roberts and Noble. Nebraska then entered the scoring table when Witte dropped in a gift toss, but Culbertson and Churchill came back with a free throw apiece. Noble then dropped in a nice shot from the side to make the score stand 8 to 1 in favor of the Sooners.

Game Is Close. At this stage of the game, Fisher and Grace entered the Nebraska lineup, and immediately things began to happen. First Lew made good a gift toss, then MacLay tipped one in, and came right back with a pair of charitable tosses. Roberts then made a free throw, but Mac came back with a gift toss and a field goal to make the score knotted at 9 all.

At the opening of the second half May dropped in a free throw, but Lewandowski terminated a long dribble with a beautiful one-handed shot from the side. Churchill countered with a free throw, and MacLay came back with a dribble in shot that put the Huskers ahead 11 to 9.

Nebraska then began to pile up their total when Grace tipped one in, then MacLay sank three in a row on some nice passes from Fisher, and Fisher countered a short shot. MacLay then came back with another tip-in shot that put the Blackmen out ahead 27 to 15.

Nebraska Is Fouled. Witte replaced Lewandowski, and the Sooners made two points by way of the foul line. One of these fouls was called by Quigley for the Huskers not returning the ball to him fast enough. Churchill then countered a field goal to make the score 27 to 18.

Maclay then rang up two field goals, and Witte made a beautiful shot from the side to put the Huskers ahead 33 to 18. Churchill tallied a desperation shot, and Grace slipped in a short shot to end the scoring activities of the evening, with the score standing at 35 to 20.

Showman Quigley. Referee Quigley was in his customary mood, that of a real showman. He is one of the most versatile sport arbiters to appear on Nebraska fields. It takes a person with a magnetic personality to get the crowd to cheering him when he calls a foul on the crowd, but he did this very thing when the Cornhusker followers booted one of his decisions.

Nebraska's basketball team looked like they had the goods last night, and if they continue to function with the same smoothness they did last night, they can-

The Missouri-Nebraska game at Columbia Saturday proved to be everything that we predicted at this end of the line. The Tigers were given a favorable edge over the Huskers and that is just about all the Edwards crew had after the last whistle had sounded. The Blackmen with their revamped lineup which included Witte and Davey at forward and Hokuf at guard proved to be an effective combination. A fast aggregation lacking in height but making up for it in speed is just about the best Charley Black can gather together to represent the Scarlet on the court. Hokuf at guard has possibilities of turning into the best back court man Nebraska has seen in several seasons. At present the Crete athlete is handicapped with lack of experience in varsity circles but he is ably demonstrating that this will not be a stumbling block for any great length of time. His work with Lewandowski on the home court has met with the approval of the home court followers and before the season hits the midway, Hokuf will excel at his guard post as he did on the terminal of the Husker forward wall this fall on the gridiron.

Three games on deck for the Huskers this week make it a full week for the Scarlet. Oklahoma last night on the coliseum hardwoods, Iowa State in the Ames field house Wednesday night and the Iowa Hawkeyes the guests of Nebraska Saturday night. Ames has shown plenty of power on the hardwoods so far this season, and is going to be anything but a practice game for Nebraska. The Huskers are not doing things in a half-hearted fashion this week so are not slighting any of the Iowa schools. The University of Iowa five will be in Lincoln Saturday for one of the first court meetings between the two schools in a number of years. Missouri was barely able to nose out a defeat when the Tigers met the Hawkeyes so another court battle is on the line for Husker home fans.

Oklahoma, 1929 Big Six champions, again fell before the pennant drive of the conference teams, when the Iowa State Cyclones visited Norman last week for a friendly game between the two extremes of the Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Athletic Association, commonly known in the outer world as the Big Six. Ames knocked the Sooners for the southern team's second conference defeat, having previously been defeated by Kansas. With this much evidence on hand, it is quite proper to say that Oklahoma has had its day and the 1930 Sooners are not turning out to be what is known as being hot. Only the great Tommy Churchill remains for "Scotty" McDermott to build his Oklahomans this year and when valley guards have played against Churchill for two years, they have just about figured out his weakness and when he gets going for a flock of baskets, he is halted before he gets under way.

Kansas, the Big Six team which appears to be the class of the conference so far, had an easy time with Iowa State last week and put a 37 to 16 defeat against the Cyclones. Indications point to a powerful scoring machine coached by Mr. Allen. Headed once again by Jim Bausch, the Wichita flash, the Jayhawkers continued their victorious campaign for their title as basketball champions once again. The Cyclones, having previously defeated Oklahoma, were touted as one of the contenders in the conference but their weak attempt against Kansas leaves them in the doubtful column until the season gets farther under way.

Oklahoma A. & M. journeyed up to Manhattan Saturday for a non-conference game with Kansas State but found the Big Six five a trifle too much for them and was their ability to toss in free throws that cinched the game for the Farmers down at Manhattan. Seventeen points gained from the gift line bolstered the Aggie score sufficiently enough to put the game on the proverbial ice. Two Stillwater players left the game with four personals each while a total of eighteen fouls were called in all, the Aggies making seven-teen of them count.

COED BASKETBALLERS MAY SCHEDULE GAMES

Several Periods Are Still Open for Intramural Practices.
DEADLINE IS JAN. 29
All girls' intramural basketball teams must schedule their own practices at the intramural office this week. Several of the good periods are already taken, and team representatives are urged to come in early to select convenient times for practices. All teams are asked to practice at least four times before the tournament. Groups wishing to enter more than one team in the tournament may enter one team in class A and the other in class B. A list of all members of teams is to be submitted to the intramural office before Jan. 29. The list will be considered the final team lineup for the contest.

The revised practice schedule for this week is as follows:
Tuesday, Jan. 21.

... and a Telephone man brought them together

In the Bell System research and development are not confined to engineering laboratory. These methods are applied also to the commercial side of the business, to make telephone service more and more useful. An example is the classified telephone directory, with its convenient listings by trade and profession, for quick and easy reference. Or take this other use of the classified directory. Telephone men analyzed advertising and merchandising. They saw that prospective purchasers of advertised products often did not know where to buy them. They developed a plan for listing these dealers under their brand name in local "Where to Buy It" directories—a genuine service to buyer and seller alike.
