NEW LOAN FUND ESTABLISHED BY DR. BORROWMAN

Former Instructor Gives Fund for Geologists and Chemists. DONATES 2,000 DOLLARS One Hundred Dollars to Be Distributed Each Year by School.

Creation of an annual scholarship of $100 for chemistry and geology students by Dr. George Borrowman, formerly on the faculty of the University of Nebraska and now a consulting chemist in Chicago, was announced Saturday by Chancellor E. A. Burnett of the State University. Dr. Borrowman has set up a trust fund of $2,000 with university authorities, the proceeds to go annually to some deserving university student.

Dr. Borrowman took advanced work in organic chemistry in 1907, received his master's degree in chemistry from the University of Nebraska, and in 1916 his Ph. D. degree. In 1908 he was promoted to adjunct professor, in 1912 to assistant professor, 1913 to associate professor, 1918 to professor. He resigned in 1918. The next two years he spent as a research chemist in New York City. Since 1920 he has been consulting chemist. His professional work has been in the fields of chemistry of minerals and waters, ore and water analysis, water softening, etc. While at the University of Nebraska he discovered boronite, a water softening compound.

Wife Also Graduate. Mrs. Borrowman was formerly Miss Mildred Parks of Lincoln. Mrs. Borrowman graduated from the University in 1902 and received her master's degree in 1907. She was an assistant in the department of chemistry.

"My work at Nebraska was in inorganic chemistry and my graduate research activities were chiefly in the chemistry of minerals and waters, which subject is still my principal scientific interest," wrote Dr. Borrowman in creating the scholarship. "I was associated with Dr. Barbour in working out my doctor's thesis. I had his assistance in a number of ways in the development of my process for softening water with greensand. I desire, therefore, that my funds be applied to establishing a scholarship for worthy students pursuing work in the departments of chemistry and geology. The scholarship will be named in honor of Dr. Borrowman. It will probably be awarded first in January, 1931.

IS SLOW DRAG MELODY

"The Interfraternity Ball," official theme song of the fourth Interfraternity Ball has been composed by "Frankie" Sherman, University of Nebraska song writer, and will have its premier presentation at the ball, next Saturday night at the Cornhusker hotel. This melody which follows a long list of ever popular college tunes composed by "Frankie" during the past year has been selected by the ball committee as the most representative song hit for this occasion. It will be played and sung during the evening by the orchestra and a number of favorite songsters.

University of Nebraska students are already familiar with many of his college novelty hits, such as "Lonely Me and Lonely You," "Baby, What's Your Excuse," and his latest number "Cherie." According to the composer this tune is very symbolic of the occasion, a slow drag melody should be a great hit.

Practically all of the music for this formal has been especially prepared and will include a number of college melody songs and novelty pieces. Leo Beck and his eleven piece band will furnish the music. A great array of new and different music has been promised which will include many of the most popular campus tunes.

Thomas Vanderhoof, sophomore of the University of Nebraska, who was stricken with pneumo-coccal spinal meningitis Sunday, is unimproved, according to reports from the Lincoln General hospital Monday. He was reported to be in a critical condition Monday afternoon.

Groundhog Retires to His Den; Is Reluctant to Express His Opinions

By LaSelle Gilman.

"I have nothing to give out to the press," was the gruff response of A. Groundhog, when approached for an interview Sunday noon. Groundhog has been living in seclusion, during the past few months, but it was thought that he might put in his appearance sometime during Sunday. A crowd had gathered before his residence to greet him if he should come out of seclusion.

About noon Groundhog appeared at the door of his residence, clad in a lounging robe, and he glanced over the assemblage fretfully.

"What's the meaning of this crowd?" he demanded of press representatives. "Can't my public leave me in peace for a few weeks more?"

"That's up to you, sir," he was told. "You are to decide today if you will remain indisposed for the next six weeks or not."

Groundhog appeared grumpy and irritable during his brief sojourn out of doors. He requested police to disperse the crowd.

"I've got a bad hangover from exam week," he explained reluctantly. "I don't see why folks should celebrate that!"

ALL REPORTS OF UNSATISFACTORY GRADES ARE DUE

Students' Continuance in University Approved by Committee.

CONSIDERATION IS URGED

Dean Recommends Classes Be Held Entire Hour If Possible.

Preliminary reports of unsatisfactory scholarship of all students were due at the office of the dean of student affairs yesterday, February 3, in order that the scholarship committee may pass upon the student's continuance in the University of Nebraska during the coming semester. According to a letter issued to the faculty by T. J. Thompson, dean of student affairs, Dean Thompson requests the instructors to consider carefully each case lest action not fully warranted be taken against the student by the scholarship committee.

In his letter the dean of student affairs advocates the practice of holding all classes this week for the full period, if possible, since it is during these first few days, he believes, that the student formulates his attitude toward the work of the entire course. The early impression the student receives from a course is reflected in the quality of his work throughout the semester.

Necessary changes in registration are to be made this week, according to the dean's statement, but only extraordinary circumstances should cause a student to make the change. When it is necessary for the student to register, he may find the assignment committee in the west end of Graham hall from 9 to 12 o'clock and from 1 to 4 o'clock each day this week.

On or after Monday, Feb. 19, students are to be admitted to new classes only with the permission of the instructors or the heads of the departments, stated Dean Thompson.

BIG SISTERS SPONSOR DINNER FOR WARDS

Event Planned for Friday In Ellen Smith Hall; All Invited.

A Big and Little Sister dinner especially in honor of all new women students will be held Thursday night, Feb. 6, in Ellen Smith hall at 6 o'clock. This year's big sisters, as well as the little sisters will act as hostesses to meet the newcomers. A special program, as well as music for dancing, will be provided during the evening as entertainment.

All big sisters are urged to start the new semester right by inviting their little sisters to attend the dinner with them. Big sisters are not expected to buy the dinner tickets for their little sisters, but simply to ask the younger girls to go with them to the dinner. Any girl who would like to have a little sister either because they have never had one, or because the girls assigned to them previously have left school, or never reached the university, are invited to attend the dinner to meet some of the new students who will come to the function to meet a big sister.

Tickets for the dinner are on sale for fifty cents, and may be secured from any member of the Big Sister board, or from any of the book stores near the campus. Letters in the Y. W. C. A. office in Ellen Smith hall.

A novel feature is to be initiated this year in the fraternity and sorority sections; the pictures of the housemothers of the various groups will be included in the section layouts. The photographs should be taken before Friday afternoon, also.

Organizations with no contracts for space in the new yearbook should secure them at once. The book is to be laid out differently this year, according to the editor, and space may be limited. PLAYERS OPEN FRIDAY WITH 'ENTER MADAME'

Production Is Work of Gilda Varesi and Dolly Byrne.

IS AN AMUSING COMEDY

"Enter Madame" by Gilda Varesi and Dolly Byrne has been chosen as the next play to be given by the University Players and will open Friday, Feb. 7, at the Temple theater.

The fifth play to be given by the players this year is an amusing comedy of temperament. It displays the moods and whims of a great prima donna who has little time for her husband or son, but is continually moving from place to place for the sake of her art.

Husband Property. Her husband becomes a mere piece of property—an attendant to hold her dog. He naturally rebels and goes to another woman for solace.

Plot Unusual. "Enter Madame" had a long and prosperous run in New York City. The plot is based on the life story of Elena Varesi, the mother of one of the authors. This former first lady of the Italian opera whose sweet voice and unforgettable charm made her welcome every season in all the citadels of opera from Berlin to London came from a long line of illustrious musicians famous throughout Europe.

An illness which caused her to lose her voice banished her from opera and made her seek some distant land to forget. She went to Chicago taking her daughter, Gilda, with her and established herself as a music teacher.

Daughter Co-Author. The daughter, who is a co-author of the play, favored the stage and bent every effort to achieve success there. Although her efforts were often praised, she failed to star. With the writing of "Enter Madame" based upon her own mother's life her name became well known.

Single admission tickets for this play may be purchased at Rosa P. Curtice for seventy-five cents. Those who hold season tickets and wish to change them for a more convenient time may do so if at least forty-eight hours' notice is given.
