MANY COEDS ENTER PROM GIRL CONTEST

Candidates May File Until Friday; Election on Next Tuesday.

Indications that many sororities would enter candidates in the race for the Prom girl was evidenced last night as a canvass was made of sorority houses by committee members. Applications will be received until Friday, Feb. 14, at 5 o'clock at the student activities office in the coliseum.

Sororities wishing to enter coeds in the contest for the traditional honor of Prom girl should make application immediately, according to Don Carlson, chairman of the committee, because of the fact that all names must appear on the ballot at the general election next Tuesday.

Senior women who have made twenty-seven hours during the preceding two semesters and at least twelve hours during the last semester, are eligible for competition. According to previous arrangement, the 1930 Prom girl will receive considerable publicity in newspapers and periodicals.

AG. CONVOCATION SCHEDULED TODAY

Wyoming Rancher Will Show Motion Pictures of Animal Life.

At two general convocations to be held at the college of agriculture Tuesday at 11 a. m. and 4 p. m., moving pictures of animal life taken by Charles J. Belden, noted animal photographer of Pitchford, Wyo., will be shown. The convocations have been arranged at the two different hours to enable as many students to attend as possible since no classes are to be excused at either hour.

Belden has taken a great many still pictures but in recent years has developed into a wizard at taking movies, according to Prof. H. J. Gramlich of the college of agriculture. The Wyoming man is a graduate of an eastern university and is now operating one of the largest cattle and sheep ranches in that state.

Pictures taken by Belden are used in leading magazines such as the National Geographic.

MISS FAY STARS IN PRODUCTION ALL THIS WEEK

G. Walter Vogt Plays Part Of Husband; Gestures Are Realistic.

COMMENT IS FAVORABLE

Jere Mickel Takes Role of Modern Son; Falls In Love.

Given Thiza Fay displays unusual acting ability in her presentation of the role of Madame Lisa Della Robbia, the temperamental prima donna in "Enter Madame" which is being given by the University Players at the Temple theater this week.

Miss Fay who speaks Italian phrases with the rapidity and ease of a native is very convincing in her part. With her dark hair and coloring she looks the part, and her voice which she raises and lowers frequently add to the validity of her characterization.

Miss Fay is ably assisted by G. Walter Vogt who is cast as her husband, Gerald Fitzgerald. Mr. Vogt who has received much favorable comment in the numerous other parts in which he has played during the year, upholds his standard in "Enter Madame." His gestures and facial expressions are both natural and realistic. Mr. Vogt seems to be in his right element in emotional roles.

Jere Mickel, as the son John, of this unusual family, is also a favorite. Mr. Mickel typifies the current impression of the modern college boy who thinks his family is a responsibility to him rather than that he is one to them. He is supposed to be in love with Aline Chalmers, played by Gertrude Sullivan, but unlike his emotional mother, he is very calm and collected about it.

Other members of the cast are: Prudence Brown as Mrs. Flora Preston, the widow who almost wins Gerald Fitzgerald away from his wife; Paul Miller as Mr. Fitzgerald's servant; Valerie Worrell as Madame's personal maid; Edwin Quinn as Archimede, Madame's Italian chef; Paul Thompson as her doctor; and Eleanor Foley as her secretary, Miss Smith.

The action of the play takes place in a bachelor's apartment in Boston. Single admission tickets may be obtained at Ross P. Curtice for seventy-five cents. The evening performances start at 7:30 p. m.

Hiking Long Distances Is Professor Gass' Hobby and Choice Recreation

By MARGARET TINLEY.

"Would walking be called a hobby?" asks Prof. S. B. Gass of the English department. "If it would, then I have a hobby, one that I have always enjoyed."

Tramps through the mountains of Switzerland, the lanes of England and valleys of Germany as well as along the prairie roads of Nebraska and rough trails of the Sierras have given Mr. Gass experience enough to be called an authority. "In France, one time, I started a bicycle trip but after losing my way, trying to find it by inquiries in half-French, and attempting to get through muddy roads in an unending rain storm, I turned around and took the train," he laughed.

Several years ago he was one of a quartet of professors of the university, all keenly interested in hiking. Recently the group has been broken up but Professor Gass still enjoys long walks when time and weather permit.

A stout stick and a light pack are the essential paraphernalia of the vagabond, Professor Gass explains. The walking stick must be well worn to the hand, be light but strong and preferably have a loop to hang on the arm so that the hand may be free at times—to light the pipe or to pick up interesting objects found along the road.

Fine days in Nebraska offer the most delightful walking weather of any Professor Gass has known. Along the Platte valley there is nature scenery that rivals any country's. A trip to Crete is one of his favorite Saturday jaunts.

Disagreeing with Hazlitt and Stevenson, perhaps the most famous literary tramps who have written of their hobbies, Mr. Gass believes that a soldierly walk is

Temperatures in State Vary From 110 to 31 Below

Weatherwise Nebraskans who watch the thermometer, measure the rainfall and forecast Jack Frost's first visit to the tomato vines, had a busy year during 1929, judging from the data that has been compiled on Nebraska by the United States weather bureau on the University of Nebraska campus.

Temperatures in the state varied all the way from 31 degrees below zero to 110 in the shade, and rainfall averages for the year reached record proportions with a record of 57.15 inches falling at one point in the state. For the entire state, the average temperature was 47.9 degrees, as compared with 49.9 degrees during 1928. Average rainfall was 23.09 inches.

"Drier, slightly cooler than normal, deficient sunshine, excess cloudiness," was the way the report summed up the state.

NEBRASKA TANK TEAM DEFEATS IOWA STATE

Mockler Batters His Own Time; Cornhuskers Win Relays.

BREAK VALLEY RECORDS

AMES, Ia.—(Special to The Daily Nebraskan)—The Iowa State college swimming team, champions of the Big Six conference last year, was defeated by University of Nebraska natators here tonight in the first meet of the year for both teams.

Leading by two points at the beginning of the last event, the 300-yard medley relay, the Cornhuskers put the meet away 40 to 35 when Cannon, swimming the last 100 yards, nosed out Captain Burtnor of Iowa State in a driving finish.

Cannon led by three yards when he took the water and the handicap was too much for the Cyclone leader to overcome. Weid, Iowa State backstroke, outswam Mockler, conference champion in the first 100 yards, but Patafina, Nebraska's breaststroke, opened a wide margin over M. Smith.

The Cornhuskers took first in five of the nine events and bettered one Big Six conference record when Mockler swam the 150-yard backstroke in 1:58.7, ten-tenths second faster than his own conference record. M. Smith of Iowa State bettered by 16 seconds the conference record in the 440-yard free style when he swam the distance in 6:5. Hestbeck of Nebraska was a close second. All three winners finished well under the conference mark.

50-Yard Dash Featured.

Although not swam in fast time, the 50-yard dash was the feature race of the meet with B. A. Smith of Iowa State and Young and Amato of Nebraska finishing in a bunch. The judges gave Smith first and Amato second. The time was 21.1. Amato came back to win the 100-yard free style with a finishing sprint that carried him ahead of Unser of Iowa State.

Sutherland, Nebraska's only contestant in the fancy diving event, placed second to Fleig, Iowa State sophomore. Chicken of Iowa State, Big Six conference champion last year, was third.

AMES, Ia.—Rudy Vogeler's Nebraska swimming team edged out a narrow 40-35 victory over the Iowa State team in a dual swimming meet here Monday night. Two valley records were broken. Mockler of Nebraska bettered his Kansas Continues Winning Streak for 4 Big 6 Contests.

SEVEN PLAYERS USED

Defensive Work Good With Outcome Doubtful Till Last Minutes.

(Special to The Daily Nebraskan)

LAWRENCE, KAN.—Feb. 10.—A fighting Jayhawker quintet kept its record spotless tonight by winning its fourth consecutive Big Six basketball game from Nebraska, 27 to 20. The game was featured by good defensive work with the outcome in doubt until the closing minutes of play, when baskets by Ramsey and Ranson put the contest on ice.

The score at the half was 11 to 7. Starting play in the second period with a rush, the Huskers scored five points to put them out in front. Half the Nebraskans tallies were made from the free throw line.

Harvey Grave, who sprained an ankle in the game with Oklahoma Saturday night was in the game tonight, and accounted for three points. Coach Black used but seven players, working Witte at forward and Davey at center.

Scoring honors for the evening went to Bishop Jayhawk forward, who connected four times from the field, and four times from the free throw line. Morrie Fisher was high for the Nebraskans, collecting six points on a field goal and four gift tosses.

MANY SIGN UP FOR 'SOB SISTER' TRYOUT

Members of Chorus Will Be Picked Tonight; Cast On Wednesday.

ALL URGED TO COMPETE

Definite action toward the staging of "Sob Sister," Kosmet Klub's spring musical comedy, will commence Tuesday night when applicants for the chorus and female pianists try out before a committee of club members. Tryouts will start at 7 o'clock in room 203 of the Temple building and from the appearance of the application bulletin posted in the College Book store and the reports of many who have not yet signed it, a large number of candidates will be present.

Another tryout for principals of the show will be held in room 203 of the Temple Wednesday night, starting at 7 o'clock. Tryouts for the chorus does not bar trying out for principal parts, however. Those interested are urged by the club to try out for both as it will make for greater efficiency in selecting the final personnel of the 1930 production.

Girl applicants for the female chorus will be graded largely on dancing ability. This chorus will specialize more in dancing than vocal work. Male applicants for the chorus, on the other hand, will be judged almost entirely on singing ability. Present plans call for a female chorus of ten and a male chorus of like number.

University scholarship requirements for participation in activities will apply to all candidates for any phase of the show. Kosmet Klub members especially urge all who took part in the Thanksgiving Morning revue or who have had any stage experience to be present at the Tuesday and Wednesday tryouts.

Two novelty curtain skits will supplement the five acts, each of several minutes length, chosen by the A. W. S. committee from the twenty-one suggestions submitted by the organized groups in January.

Assisting Miss McChesney with plans for the Coed Follies is Katherine Williams, Peg Houser is chairman of the committee for posters, and Sally Pickard chairman of the program committee. SORORITIES SAY PANNEL RULING NEEDS REVISION

Accounts of Their Parties Should Be Printed Say Women Heads.

MAJORITY FOR CHANGE

Eleven Out of Twenty-One Coed Groups Favor Different Plan.

Eleven out of twelve sorority presidents who could be reached Monday declared themselves in favor of changing in a rule of the Panhellenic association which excludes all men of sorority parties to which men are invited from publication.

"I see no reason why The Nebraskan should not publish news of sorority downtown parties," said Gladys Lamme, president of Alpha Omicron Pi, when interviewed yesterday.

"I can see no harm in the publication of news of sorority parties and am personally in favor of it," stated Prudence Brown, president of Alpha Phi.

Many Give Opinions. Helen McChesney, president of Delta Delta Delta and a member of the Panhellenic council believes the Panhellenic rule should be changed so as to permit publishing of news of sorority parties.

Betty Craft, president of Delta Gamma, is perfectly willing that such news be published providing the Panhellenic rule is favorable. Janet Winter, president of Gamma Phi Beta, declared, "I am personally in favor of The Nebraskan publishing such news but not the downtown papers."

Lucille Nordholm, president of Alpha Xi Delta; Betty Jonas, president of Chi Omega; Irene Shelburn, president of Delta Zeta; Margaret Shepard, president of Sigma Kappa; Mary Louise Lang, head of Theta Pi Alpha; and Edith Woodruff, Zeta Tau Alpha's president; all expressed themselves as being in favor of publication of such news by The Nebraskan.

Althea Marr, president of Kappa Kappa Gamma, was the only one of the twelve interviewed who was not heartily in favor of the plan. She prefers that only the time, place and date of sorority parties

HISTORICAL SOCIETY GETS CONTRIBUTION OF WALNUT CRADLE

One of the recent contributions to the state historical society collection is a handmade walnut cradle, which was the heirloom of Mrs. C. C. Engberg, wife of the late Dr. C. C. Engberg. The cradle was made by John Devolon, at Wheelwright, Ohio, in 1843. It was brought to Exeter, Neb., a few years later by covered wagon. The cradle originally had rockers, but constant use since it was first made soon wore them out.
