

Basketeers Clash With Kansas to Close Season

SQUAD WILL MAKE FINAL APPEARANCE

Game With Conference Leaders Marks Destiny of Husker Team; Grace, Witte and Lewandowski are to Complete Careers on Cage Floor.

BLACKMEN HAVE CHANCE TO DEFEAT JAYHAWKS

Kansans May be Tired After Tilts With Iowa State and Creighton on Two Preceding Nights; Thompson Apt to Enter Conflict.

Coach Charley Black's Cornhusker team makes its final appearance of the season Saturday Coliseum, clashing with the conference leaders, Kansas university. The game is scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

Three members of the squad will be making their last appearance as representatives of Nebraska on the basketball floor. Harve Grace, "Dutch" Witte, and Adolph Lewandowski, all three-year men in the sport, are completing their college cage careers. All three of the men will probably see service in the game Saturday, according to Coach Black.

The close of the basketball season will not mean curtains for the athletic activity of Grace and Witte. Both men were regulars on last year's baseball team, and may be expected to repeat this year. Lewandowski is also a baseball prospect, or a possibility in tennis.

Jayhawks on Team. The Jayhawks come to Lincoln from Omaha, where they tangled with the fast Creighton Bluejays tonight. They moved over to Omaha from Ames, where they played Iowa State last night. It is reasonable to believe that the Kansans may be a trifle worn to say the least. Iowa State has been going hot in the last few games, and Creighton is no setup for any team.

"Ruh" Thompson, Kansas basket expert who has been out of the lineup for the past two weeks, may be back in the game Saturday night.

Huskies May Win. Kansas has a 27-20 victory over the Nebraskans this season, winning it in a game played at Lawrence. However, such a score is meaningless in attempting to dope a game being played three weeks afterward. Anything might happen Saturday night. In fact, there is all sorts of reason to believe that the Huskers may come through with a win.

Regardless of the outcome of the game, the Nebraskans will finish the season in the first division. A victory might mean a tie for first, or a second.

The probable starting lineup, according to Coach Black, will be Morris Fleber and Harve Grace, forwards, Don MacLay, center, and Steve Hokuf and Dutch Witte at guards.

AMES SQUAD PLANS NUMEROUS MATCHES

Cyclone Tracksters Have Schedule of Varied Outdoor Meets.

AMES, Iowa, Feb. 27.—Two dual meets, four relay carnivals, the Big Six outdoor meet, the state meet and the national collegiate meet are included on the outdoor track schedule of Iowa State college, announced by T. N. Metcalf, director of athletics.

Although the site for the state track meet has not been chosen, there seems little doubt that it will be renewed this year, since several schools are in favor of it, according to Metcalf. A complete Cyclone team probably will compete in the Drake relays, both dual meets, the Big Six meet and the state meet.

The schedule: March 28—Track relays at Austin, Tex. March 29—Southern Methodist University relays at Dallas. April 18—Kansas relays at Lawrence. April 25, 26—Drake relays at Des Moines. May 8—Missouri at Ames (dual). May 11—Drake at Ames (dual). May 21, 24—Big Six Championships at Lincoln, Neb. May 31—State meet (place undecided). June 4, 7—National Collegiate Championships at Chicago.

RESERVES HOLD FIRST OF SERIES OF CONFERENCES

The first of a series of meetings of the class in girls reserve leadership was held Thursday afternoon at Ellen Smith hall. A leadership certificate will be granted by the national board of Y. W. C. A. at the close of the course.

Violet Ann Olson, secretary of the girl reserves in Lincoln, gave a short talk at the initial meeting. Helen Day is in charge of this branch of activity.

IOWA MATMEN STAND CHANCE FOR SECOND

AMES, Ia.—Five Iowa State college wrestlers will make their final appearance in State gymnasium when the Cyclones tangle with Kansas Friday night. Those who will be wearing the Cardinal and Gold for the last time in a dual meet are: Captain Hugh Linn, Shelby, 138 pounds; Kynard McCormick, Woodward, 118 pounds; Merlin Hansen, Harold, S. D. 148 pounds; Harry Schroeder, Denison, 158 pounds; and Ralph Goodale, Marshalltown, heavyweight.

The three other regular members of the squad whom Coach Otopalik will start against Kansas, Cole, 128 pounds; Johl, 158 pounds; and Nelson, 178 pounds, will be available for competition next year. By winning from Kansas, Iowa State will be assured of a tie for second in the Big Six conference.

TRACK SQUAD PLANS SATURDAY TRYOUTS

Compet Will Determine Men for Conference Indoor Meet.

LAMSON MAY PERFORM

What Nebraska tracksters may do in conference circles this spring will be shown to some extent Saturday, when final tryouts before the conference indoor meet at Columbia, Mo., March 8, will be held.

Nebraska's squad, to be determined in the tryouts Saturday, will include a few old faces and a number of new ones this year, since seasoned competitors are lacking in several events. Bob Ostergaard, who has turned in three dazzling performances for the Huskers already this year, is one of the few men who practically are assured of the trip to the conference meet. His work at Kansas City, when he won the Shannon Douglas cup in the 600-yard event has made him one of the outstanding men of the squad.

Lamson May Go.

Willis Lamson, Nebraska hurdler who has not run since the first of the year due to an injury, is another who probably will draw an assignment for the meet as he is now in condition. Petz, Thompson and Smutny are other hurdling possibilities. Cobe Tomson, broadjumping champion of the conference last year, is another who probably will be on the list. Other events have few outstanding performers, and representation in them will depend on the tryouts Saturday.

The indoor meet will be the last of the season for Coach Henry Schulte's speedsters, with the possible exception of the Illinois relays. If Nebraska competes there, only a few outstanding men will be sent to the meet.

Fun Party for Girls In Sophomore Class Is Planned by Group

Sophomore commission is giving a sports party for all sophomore girls. Meet and grin relays will be the main events of the party, which about a hundred are expected to attend. The meet will be staged in Ellen Smith hall from 4 to 6 p. m. All sophomore girls are cordially invited and plenty of action is promised.

Helena Skinner is general chairman of the party. She is assisted by Bernice Hoffman in charge of the games, Paula Eastwood in charge of the menu, and Jean Rathburn and Dorothy Thurlow, who are planning the decorations.

BRADEN INTENDS TALK TO DINNER GROUP TONIGHT

Dr. S. B. Braden, of Kansas State university, will address a dinner group at the First Christian church, Sixteenth and K streets tonight. His subject is not announced but it is expected to be upon some vitally interesting religious question.

Dr. Braden has held the Bible chair at Kansas, where he accomplished a very constructive piece of religious educational work. All students are cordially invited to attend. Reservations may be made through the church office, at fifty cents a plate.

GRAPPLERS WILL MEET TIGERMEN IN RING TONIGHT

Individual Champions Are Scheduled to Clash in Home Meet.

WIN WOULD MEAN TIE

Huskies Boosted to Second If Gain Victory Over Mizzou Squad.

Nebraska wrestlers will make their last home appearance of the season tonight when they meet Missouri's best at the Coliseum at 8 o'clock. A win would give them a clean sweep in home meets, for Kansas and Iowa university already have fallen before the Husker grapplers in their own ring.

More than a clean sweep for home meets will be at stake for the Cornhuskers, however. A victory over the Missouri squad, which includes some of the fastest men in the conference, would boost Coach Johnny Kellogg's proteges into a tie for second place in Big Six circles.

The show will embrace among its actors far more than the usual number of men of championship caliber. Adolph Simic, Husker star who was the class of the Big Six in the 155 pound group last season, will be Nebraska's only champion representative. The invaders' squad includes two: Robbins, 175 pounds, and Sappington, 135 pounds.

Bob Hunt will face Robbins in what will probably be his greatest test this year, while Rees, a veteran performer for Nebraska, will draw the assignment against Sappington. A win for either of the Huskermen would boost their stock greatly, and would make Nebraska one of the favorites in the Big Six meet March 6.

The Nebraska squad: 115 pound, Kosowski. 125 pound, Weber. 135 pound, Rees. 145 pound, Magaret. 155 pound, Robertson or Simic. 165 pound, Skinner. 175 pound, Hunt. Heavyweight, Adams.

KAPPA PHI WILL HOLD INITIATION AT SUNDAY MEET

Kappa Phi, Methodist sorority, will initiate thirty-nine girls at their regular initiation service at St. Paul M. E. church, Sunday, March 2 at 3 p. m. The following girls will be initiated:

W. A. A. INTRAMURALS

Hello, folks. Back again after giving you a brief rest. Cheer up—the worst is yet to come. Now that all mental gymnastics are over for another quarter we'll get down to physical gymnastics, which isn't quite such a strain on the intelligence.

Extra! Extra! All about the big carnival. Alpha Delta Theta breaks over and wins first prize for the most up and coming booth. The created a "Wonderland" all their own. Features of the booth included a garter with the slogan, "The Danger Line," underneath. Tut, tut! Imagine paying a nickel to see that. Any way, let's give the little girls a hand. Fat Schneider was the guiding genius of the booth—three hooplas!

The house is haunted! No, it's just the Kappa Deltas. They dragged out some of their best skeletons and with a few added shocks (electric) and the aid of a dark passage managed to create a real haunted house. Haunted with what? Well, use your own judgment. The other books didn't stand a ghost of a chance when it came to placing second. The Kappa Deltas just walked off with it. We'd like to learn their secret. Paula Eastwood must have had first hand acquaintance with some real notorious inhabitants of the other world—notorious like the diving walrus.

Ah, yes, there are also some honorable mentions—painful to relate. The Delta Gammals kicked through with kisses cheaper than hot dogs—"nut said! Chi Omega also rated with something entitled "volatile vitaphone." We'll guess with you. Anyway, there must have been something to it, besides the name. Sounds pretty good.

Everything from African sunsets to rats and mice were running loose in the coliseum. You paid your money and took your choice and oh, what a graft! One booth staged a big swimming meet for the benefit of the blind music society and the Alpha Xi Deltas put on a freak show—now what was the object of such advertising? W. A. A. drew much trade with two throwing booths—these men go strong for cave-man stuff. The Kappas staged a "believe it or not" booth—what couldn't we believe!

Books Collected by Dr. Orr Contain Fantastic Medical Theories of Past

The exhibit case near the entrance of the main library displays an extensive and valuable collection of ancient medical books, loaned to the University of Nebraska by Dr. H. Winnet Orr, prominent physician in Lincoln. All of the collection was secured by Dr. Orr in his travels throughout Europe, including a part of it during the past summer.

Portentious and well bound, these books were printed at the time when many medical phenomena and superstitions were linked hand in hand. One of the writers, James Keil, who lived in the late seventeenth century when medical science was quite unknown, was disillusioned by his theory that the circulation of the blood was in some way connected with Newton's law of gravitation.

"The Treatment of Gun Wounds" finds one writer advocating the use of boiling hot oil as a salve. Though guns and ammunition had been in use only about 150 years, he tells of his experiences with the British army during the American revolution where he adopted more modern methods of treatment for wounds.

Inspection of one of these books indicate that the German and Dutch were forerunners in botany, physics and medicine. Written by Michael Ettmuller, a professor of botany, anatomy and surgery at Leipsic, one small leather bound volume, dark with age and frayed, is bound together by silk threads. Another book is that of a German professor at Oxford, in 1660, who was first to write a book of scientific importance upon the anatomy of the brain. His book is illustrated by Sir Christopher Wren, the famous architect.
