FORMER STUDENT MADE FINANCIAL EDITOR OF SUN

Carlton A. Shively, appointed financial editor of the New York Sun recently, to succeed Franz Schneider, Jr., is a former student of the University of Nebraska. Mr. Shively served with the American army in France during the world war, and after the armistice became associated with the Bedford Petroleum company in Paris. From there he went to the Philippine Islands and remained a year with the Pacific Commercial company in Manila.

Reaching New York in 1929, Mr. Shively joined the financial staff of the Evening Post, remaining there until March, 1925, when he and Mr. Schneider, then the financial editor of the post, joined to the New York Sun.

Mildred Orr, Prom Girl Candidate, Has Had Varied Career in Carrol's Vanies, Players, Kosmet Shows

Editor's Note: Following is the first of a series of four interviews with candidates for prom girl. Beginning with today's issue an interview will be published every day concerning the "life, habits, and whereabouts" of the candidates.

By Sally Pickard.

If you should meet a little Irish girl whose coal black hair and gray green eyes fascinated you that might be Mildred Orr, one of the four candidates for Prom girl. Born in Wichita, Kas., though she won't tell when, her collegiate education consists of a year at Wichita university, a year and a half at Nebraska and two years in New York City, where she studied musical comedy and drama in a professional school. Playwriting study at Columbia completed her New York work.

As announced this morning, she will play one of the leading roles in Kosmet Klub's spring musical comedy, "Sob Sister."

Although Miss Orr was taught by stage directors and she danced in one of Earl Carroll's yearly "Vanities," she claims she is more interested in drama and playwriting and in the "big city" turned her thoughts to the stage, in the role of an understudy to one of the leads in a Broadway production. Her dramatic ambitions were about to be realized when she was taken ill and was forced to give up work on the stage.

Movie Experience.

What's in a manure? Miss Orr might have been a movie star if she had not succumbed to the vanity of woman. As she relates her interesting experience with a moving picture studio, when the silver screen, while waiting in the studio an hour for a scene to be "shot," she decided she needed a manure, left and by the time she returned the scene had been taken

SOCIALIST CANDIDATE DEPLORES MILITARISM

Norman Thomas Thinks That Compulsory R. O. T. C.
Training Is Bad.

SAYS U. S. HAS CASTES

Norman Thomas, socialist candidate for the presidency of the United States in 1928, who will address a university convocation in the Temple Friday, March 7, does not think university R. O. T. C. units make men like the idea of fighting wars, according to the views he expressed in a talk before a recent convocation at the University of Iowa.

He states that compulsory R. O. T. C. in colleges and universities are a subtle and effective means of militarizing the mind of the coming generation through a mental goose stepping and pretentious and pompous for campus parades.

But they do not make men like the idea of fighting in war. "The Germans didn't think of fighting as a pleasure," he says, "but a system of militarism does bring about the acceptance of war."

Mr. Thomas believes there is a caste system in the United States, with class lines based on distinctions of money and position. He thinks there is one justice for the rich and another for the poor, who bear the brunt of demands for law enforcement and are unable to buy freedom. "Otherwise," he asks, "why would Wall street criminals go unconvicted while Sacco and Venzetti suffer death?"

The presidential nominee deplors the presence of wage slavery. He does not think that chattel slavery still exists in the United States, but under the present system he says a farmer fears the banker who holds a mortgage on his land, worker fears employer, and preachers often cringe before the money whip exercised by wealthy church backers.

People are afraid to act and do as they think, in Mr. Thomas' opinion. He believes they do not even vote as they think. In connection with this, he gives the ex-

FARMERS' FAIR BOARD APPOINTS GROUP CHAIRMEN

Every Student in College
Of Agriculture Is on Committee.

DATE IS SET FOR MAY 3

Parade Is to Be Feature
In Annual Play Day
Festival.

General plans for Farmers Fair have been made according to announcement of the committee. Farmers Fair is the annual festival of students of the college of agriculture, and is scheduled for May 3 this year.

Committees have been appointed, chairmen named, and preliminary duties assigned. Promoters, publicity men, and heads of the various divisions into which the project is split are busy organizing students on the campus. Every student must be on a committee.

The Farmers Fair board has selected the committees on the basis of last year's experience, according to Elvin Frolik, '30, chairman of the board. The success of the 1929 fair will be reflected and amplified in this year's fest. Frolik intimated, because heads of committees have been chosen on past performance.

Flower Show.

Two new features are being added to the lines of entertainment and exhibit this year. A horsepulling contest will be introduced, Dwight Anderson being chairman of the committee that will make arrangements for this attraction. Another added feature will be a flower show. Hollis Van Kleef will be head of the committee attending to details of this floral exhibit.

The parade opens the entertainment for the day. Many committees have been named which will operate under a parade executive committee of which Emory Fahney is head. Phoebe Searies is co-chairman of the committee.

An annual pageant has always proved to be a feature show attraction, and this year Niesje Lakeman is chairman of the committee arranging for this presentation.

A light horse show will again be included on the program. The first show of this kind was held last year and drew a great deal of attention. Intersorority riding will probably be included in the show.

DEMAND IS GOOD FOR PROM DUCATS

Cobs Have Entire Charge
Of Sales; Campaign
Ends Wednesday.

375 COUPLES EXPECTED

"With entire charge of ticket sales placed in the hands of Corn Cobs, a great number have been sold to date and a complete sell-out is promised," Kenneth Gammill chairman of ticket sales, declared yesterday. "We have sold more tickets during our early sale than was previously expected."

Blocks of tickets have been reserved by representatives of each fraternity and early sales reports are to the effect that at least 375 couples will be present. According to the plan of the committee two ballrooms in the Lincoln hotel will be able to handle a crowd of 400 couples.

"Although the ticket sale has been heavy," Gammill stated, "the Corn Cobs are still pushing the sale of the ducats until next Wednesday when final reports must be made. We have plans that will accommodate a large crowd with ease."

Attractions of the prom this year center on two orchestras, the College Club of Omaha, and the Collegians, augmented by twelve pieces. The entertainment arranged and the original plan of decoration will be announced later.

Final balloting on prom girl will take place at the Lincoln hotel, the night of the prom. All tickets taken up to 10:15 will be counted for the selection, as the 1930 prom girl will be presented at 10:30 in the main ballroom.

A special number will be used instead of the customary march. Committee of George Kennedy and Miriam Wiggensborn is arranging for the presentation which will be original and lend itself to the surprise effect of the occasion.

PANEL CHAIRMAN REBUKES NEWS RULE

Mrs. Irving E. Brown Says
Dates of Parties May Be Published.

PHI OMEGA PI ADMITTED

"The national congress of Pan-Hellenic decidedly oppose publicity on all fraternity matters, except listing of the pledges," stated Mrs. Irving E. Brown, national chairman of college Pan-Hellenics. "The names of the parties, however, may be listed in the social calendar," according to the Pan-Hellenic chairman.

"If there have been any infringements on this rule in other colleges, it is not due to a consent by the congress, but due rather to lack of support of the faculty and the fraternities with the national council," she declared.

"In the recent meeting of the congress in Denver, short open rushing seasons with as simple rushing rules as possible, leaving the details to each campus, was advocated," Mrs. Brown explained. She would give no opinion on local rules, declaring that she was not acquainted with the campus regulations and existing conditions.

Freedom of Masonic Regulation. "A point of interest to you," she went on, "might be that Phi Omega Pi has just been admitted into associated membership of national Pan-Hellenic. Because of their former Masonic restriction, they could not be admitted before."

"An innovation, and one that I feel is a big step forward, for Pan-Hellenic, is the extension of the national congress to include representatives in the next convention to meet in two years. Invitations will be sent to each college which is a member of Pan-Hellenic, although they are by no means compulsory," and with these words Mrs. Brown concluded the interview.

She will talk to an open meeting of the Pan-Hellenic representatives and other interested Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock in Ellet Smith hall. Her topic will center around a report from the meeting of the Pan-Hellenic congress.

NEBRASKA DROPS FINAL CAGE MIX TO HAWKS 36-35

Huskies Threaten Kansas
Lead in Last Moment;
Fail to Click.

BISHOP LEADS SCORING

Scarlet Clan Trails Thru
Entire Battle; Maclay
Leads Blackmen.

Rallying furiously, but not quite soon enough, the Cornhusker basketball team lost a thriller to Kansas, 35-36, to close the cage season Saturday night in the Coliseum. Nebraska hopes ran high in the final forty seconds of play, when Grace capitalized on a technical foul committed by the Jayhawks, cutting the visitors' lead to but one point, but Kansas stalling coupled with natural Nebraska over-zealousness, kept the score as it was.

The Jayhawks were off to an early lead, with Bishop's three baskets before the Huskers broke into the scoring column. But Witte, coming in fast, took a pass from Fisher to count two points. An under basket shot by Fisher, who was fouled in the act of shooting, and the two free throws made good, evened the score.

Maclay Counters.

Maclay snagged a long one, Hokuit converted a free throw into a point and had their efforts nullified by two field baskets by Cox. Two baskets by Maclay, while Bishop and Thompson went right on dropping them in.

Nebraska rallied as the second half started, and drew up even with Kansas, 24-24. But Bishop tallied on three field goals and Bausch sank a free throw, while the best the Huskers could do was collect an underbasket shot by Maclay and a free throw by Witte. Kansas called time out with the score standing 31-27 in their favor.

Following the timeout, Bausch made a neat follow shot, and Grace made good on two free throws and a basket to end the Jayhawk scoring. The Cornhuskers were missing enough baskets to beat the Montana State team, had they been sinking as they should, but the only times the ball would sink was on one of Grace's long shots and one of Hokui's follows.

Grace Sinks Shot.

With forty seconds to play, and the score 35-36, Witte grabbed the

DISARMAMENT IS TO BE DEBATE SUBJECT

Pospishil, Fishbaugh Will Appear Against North Dakota Team.

Lloyd L. Pospishil and Earl C. Fishbaugh will represent Nebraska in a debate with the University of North Dakota at the Thomas Jefferson high school, Council Bluffs, Ia., on the evening of March 6. The discussion has been arranged for the teachers association of the school.

Pospishil is a new debater this season, having appeared first in the radio debate with Denver university on Nov. 29. He also appeared last Tuesday at the Plattsmouth high school in the debate with Kansas Agricultural college, and at the Omaha Central high school on Friday in the debate with the Iowa State college. He is a member of the Delta Theta Phi fraternity and a graduate of the West Point, Neb., high school.

Fishbaugh is a veteran. Fishbaugh has already engaged in several debates, and he was on a championship team at the Shenandoah, Ia., during his course in the high school there. He is a member of Delta Theta Phi fraternity, the university band and Corn Cobs. On Jan. 9 he appeared first for the University of Nebraska in the split team debate over KFNZ at Shenandoah.

The subject of the debate on March 6 will be, "The nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament, except such forces as are needed for police purposes." The time of speaking will be eight minutes for the first round, and six for the refutation. There will be no decision rendered.

NEBRASKAN PROBES MAY QUEEN VOTING

Nominees on Alan Williams' Slate for May Queen
Criticize Barb Leader's Action; Several Girls
Unaware of Their Candidacy.

MISS M'GAHEY STATES TO ELECTION HONESTY

Sororities Also Join in Campaigning for Favorite
Sisters in Race for Ivy Day Honors; Mortar
Boards Are Backed in Polling.

Dissensions in the barb ranks, vigorous objection to political efforts of Alan Williams and other barbs, identity of several Mortar Board and May queen candidates, and proof that the election was honestly conducted came to light Saturday with The Nebraskan's investigation of Wednesday's balloting.

That the election was absolutely on the square was vouched for by Miss Florence I. McGahey, faculty member of the Mortar Board advisory committee, who checked the number of ballots with the names on the junior-senior list Saturday afternoon. Three hundred and four votes were cast for May queen and according to the list checked by Mortar Board, 309 girls voted. The discrepancy of five probably is due to the fact that some girls voted for Mortar Board only, Miss McGahey said.

Criticize Williams. Criticism of Alan Williams' tactics in calling a meeting of barb girls to propose a slate for May queen and Mortar Board was voiced by five of the six girls on his Mortar Board slate and by Meredith K. Nelson, former chairman of the Barb council.

The barb slate, typed on small slips of paper and distributed to a number of barbs, read as follows: May queen, Viola Butt; Mortar Board, Elizabeth Williams, Ruth Hatfield, Ingeborg Nielsen, Lucille Ledwith, Esther Gaylord, Irmgard Krekeler.

Miss Viola M. Butt, senior whose home is in Omaha, is enrolled in the college of arts and sciences and the school of fine arts. When asked Saturday if she knew before Wednesday that she had been put on the barb ticket for May queen she declared that she would not discuss the matter. She said she did not wish to be quoted at all, that she was opposed to The Nebraskan giving the matter any publicity and that she did not approve of the way such things were handled by The Nebraskan.

Meredith Nelson, in his criticism of Williams, submitted to the editor of The Nebraskan, hopes that "the student body will not condemn the barbs in general or the barb council or those whose names were on Williams' ticket for the mess which Williams creates."

Williams' coed caucuses were held the first of last week at his home. Among girls present were two of his candidates for Mortar Board and Caroline White and Leona Lewis, active barb workers.

All on the barb Mortar Board slate were interviewed Saturday with the exception of Miss Ingeborg S. Nielsen, Teachers college junior, who went to her home at Omaha over the week end and could not be reached.

Ruth M. Hatfield, arts and sciences junior, Lincoln, declared, "Alan asked me to come to his home one evening the first of last week. A group of barb girls greeted me when I arrived, a little late. They had discussed a barb slate for Mortar Board and May queen but I did not know that I was to be run. I am ashamed that such a thing has happened. I think we barbs should be anxious to cooperate with the best intentions of sorority people. Certainly it is a girls' affair and Alan Williams should be a disinterested party."

Lucille Ledwith, another arts college junior of Lincoln, declared "When Alan asked me to come to a meeting at his home I refused emphatically and told him I would have nothing to do with it. I told him I did not want to be run by the barbs for Mortar Board. I am sorry it all happened as it did, because above all, the May queen election should be a clean election. I did not know I was being run until a girl told me the day of the election."

Express Dissatisfaction. Elizabeth Williams, a college of agriculture junior whose home is in Lincoln, said, "I certainly did not know I was going to be on the barb slate, or that the barbs even had a slate, until Wednesday morning, the day of the election. I think they should have stayed out of politics entirely in this election. I am very sorry that I happened to be listed as one of their candidates."

Irmgard J. Krekeler, Gothenburg junior, declared, "The fact that I was on the barb slate came as a surprise to me. I knew nothing of it until Wednesday morning. I was quite disappointed. I am not active in university affairs and do not believe it was fair for them to run me when only truly representative girls should be considered for Mortar Board."

Esther Gaylord, Lincoln junior, was another girl who opposed the barb slate, though she attended one of Williams' caucuses. She declared that she didn't want to be listed on the Mortar Board slate and was sorry when she found her name included.

Sororities Campaign. Barbs were not alone in their May queen campaigning. Members of Alpha Chi Omega endeavored to elect Miss Vivian Fleetwood, Mortar Board officer, though Miss Fleetwood says that she requested that they make no campaign in her behalf. Miss Fleetwood's home is in Lincoln.

Alpha Phi representatives called several sorority houses soliciting votes for Lucille Coker, one of their members who lives at Sutherland, Neb.

Members of Delta Gamma voted for Julia Rider, president of Mortar Board, but did not solicit votes outside their own house. Miss Rider, however, did not know that the campaign was being carried on Delta Gamma's said.

Other sororities supported favorites sisters also, but carried on no campaigns within or without their houses in any organized manner.

Mortar Board Candidates. Two students came to The Nebraskan office Saturday saying they had been asked to vote for Edna Schrick, Alpha Xi Delta and member of Mortar Board, and Gretchen Standeren, Phi Mu and Mortar Board member. Both of these girls and their sororities, however, denied any such campaigns. Other women in the sororities said that both Miss Schrick and Miss Standeren requested that no effort be made to elect them for May queen.

Another girl mentioned for May queen around the polls was Ruth White, agricultural college senior and member of Phi Omega Pi, though that sorority denies any effort in her behalf was made by its members.

From the barbs came many objections to Williams' political maneuvering. Outside the realm of May queen gossip, a barb student, W. G. T., in his contribution to the Student Pulse today, says that the barb All-University parties are not representative of the barbs, let alone the university. He says that many barbs have repudiated Williams' leadership and that the parties are no different than the average public dance.

Nelson's article also appears in the Student Pulse column today. It upholds The Nebraskan in its criticism of Alan Williams in Thursday's editorials. "He has no right to identify the barb council with his political endeavors in any way," Nelson says.

COMMITTEE REDUCES CHICAGO TRIP COST

Faculty Makes Arrangement
For Buses to Make Spring Tour.

Recent developments indicate that bus transportation may be used for the engineering inspection trip to Chicago this spring at a greatly reduced rate. According to Professor C. J. Frankforter, faculty chairman of the trip committee, the probable cost per man will be about twenty-four dollars for the round trip. This figure is approximately twenty dollars less than the railway and pullman fare.

In view of the recent developments it will not be necessary for engineering students to state by March 1 their intentions of making the Chicago trip, as had been previously announced. The final deadline for applications to make the inspection trip, according to the committee, will be Saturday noon, March 8.

According to Professor Frankforter, it will be absolutely necessary for the committee to know how many men will be making the trip, in order that plans now under way may be properly completed.

HARRIET NEWENS IS TO PRESENT SENIOR RECITAL

Harriet Newens will present her senior recital at the First Christian church, Wednesday evening, March 5. Miss Newens has been studying in the class of Herbert Gray.
