AYRES DEFENDS ALL-UNIVERSITY PARTY PROPOSAL

Plan Provides Four Events One Sponsored by Each Academic Class.

OPPOSITION COUNTERED

Author Believes Idea Will Bring Cooperation of Barbs and Greeks.

In view of the coming action of the Student Council concerning the proposed All-University party plan conceived by Joyce Ayres, the author of the plan made the following statement to a Nebraska representative:

"I believe the council's action on the party plan will determine, in a large measure, the future status of co-operation between the two major groups on the Nebraska campus, that is, the Greeks and the barbs.

"The council has had due time in which to consider the plan," he continued, "and its decision should be formed with no little amount of intelligent thought."

Some Opposition.

When questioned concerning the opposition to the plan, Ayres answered:

"Of course there has been opposition. I have found, however, that the greater part of it has come from those who are individual or group conscious. Those who think in terms of the university as a whole can see the merits of the plan. In my opinion, the proposed party plan is an expression of university consciousness."

The plan under consideration was published verbatim in an earlier issue of The Daily Nebraskan and has been before the council for the past several weeks. It provides for a joint sponsorship of All-University parties by a committee composed of members from the Student Council, the Barb executive board and the presidents of the four academic classes. It is designed to improve the relations between the fraternity and nonfraternity groups.

Plan Before Council.

At the inquiry of the reporter as to the possibility of the passage of the plan by the Student Council, Ayres replied that he was not a prophet but that he was confident the council would act wisely and according to its convictions.

He stated further, that should the proposal pass the council and the faculty committee on student affairs, it should be referred to the student body by referendum at the next general election.

UNUSUAL MOTIF FEATURES NEW PLAYERS SHOW

Direct Attack Is Made on Mechanical Trend of Present Age.

IMAGINATION IS TAXED

Doctrine of Supremacy of Love and Sacrifice Is Preached.

Something new and different is being shown in "R. U. R.," the play which is being produced by the University Players this week at the Temple theater. A direct attack is made on the mechanical trend of the present age while the doctrine of the supremacy of love and sacrifice is preached.

Imaginations were taxed when playgoers were urged to comprehend conditions and problems of the future when man had surpassed all his former achievements and actually produced mechanical men faster and more perfect than nature. Not a few gave a shudder of horror when the business manager spoke nonchalantly of troughs full of brains and livers or spinning mills turning out yards of nerves and veins.

ROBOTS KILL OFF MEN.

The directors of the company all fall in love with her although she marries Harry Domin, the business manager because he is the first one to ask her. The second act of the play deals with a period ten years later. Due to the urgings of Helena, the plant physiologist has made the robots so perfect that they have rebelled and are slaughtering mankind all over the world.

In the last act all the humans on the island except one get killed. In the epilogue the robots are uneasy because they cannot produce any more robots. The secret formula having been lost. Two of the robots, however, were made so perfectly that they become human enough to fall in love and so all humanity is saved.

Richard Page as Harry Domin and Faye Williams as Helena take the leads. Mr. Page as the business manager impressed the audience with his business like manner, and amused them immensely with his ten minute courtship of Helena. Miss Williams is very

Helen Whitmore, Candidate for Prom Girl, Chief Interests Are Drama, Journalism and Hunting

Editor's Note: Following is the second of a series of four interviews with candidates for Prom girl. Two more will appear dealing with the life, habits, and whereabouts of the candidates.

By Fred Grau.

One of the most interesting girls on the campus, one who commands the attention of all, is Helen Whitmore, one of the four candidates for Prom girl. Of her personal appearance it might be said that she has eyes that make one forget how badly he flunked analytics and hair that would make a prospector pan it for gold.

She falls from Valley, Neb., and it was there that she spent most of her early life. In high school her activities were too numerous to mention, most of them being along dramatic and journalistic lines. Miss Whitmore was assistant editor of the Valley high school "Mule." "The Paper With a Kick," and took the lead in various dramatic offerings of the school. During her senior year she was awarded a prize for the most talent displayed by any member of the play cast. Her summers were spent swimming, riding horseback and assisting in the newspaper office of her father.

Attended Rockford.
Before entering the university she attended the Rockford school for girls at Rockford, Ill. Since coming to college she has taken a prominent part in various activities on the campus.

R. O. T. C. LEADER WILL BE GIVEN NEW COMMAND

Col. Jewett Has Served Over Allotted Term Of Four Years.

OURY IS REPLACEMENT

Former Nebraska Student Receives Orders to Take Over Unit.

Lieut. Col. F. F. Jewett, commandant of R. O. T. C. forces at the University of Nebraska for the past five years, will be removed to a different post some time in early summer, according to word released from the student military department Monday. Col. William T. Oury, who has been federal instructor to the national guard at Philadelphia for the past four years, will replace him.

Colonel Jewett stated Monday that although he knew of Colonel Oury's orders of transfer, he himself has received no orders yet and consequently does not know where he will be assigned. Colonel Jewett said he did not know exactly when he would be ordered to leave. He has been assigned to the command of R. O. T. C. camp at Fort Crook for next summer and this might continue his stay in Nebraska a little longer. There is nothing definite about this, however.

Jewett Exceeds Time.

Although the regular army detail is only four years, Colonel Jewett spent five years at Nebraska, securing an extension on the last year which enabled him to stay. The colonel came to Nebraska from Fort Leavenworth where he was a student in the advanced army school for training officers for higher commissions and staff work. Before that he spent four years with the organized reserves at Pittsburgh.

Colonel Jewett graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1901. He joined the army early in 1902 and recently completed, a month ago, twenty-eight years of service as a commissioned officer. He has held commands in the Philippines and spent three and a half years in France during and after the World War. He made two trips over during the conflict. The first one was with the eighty-second division of infantry and the second with the eight division. He was assistant chief of staff with the latter named group. After the war, the colonel served thirteen months as embarkment officer at Brest.

Graduated in 1897.
