

ALPHA CHIS WIN FROM D. G.'S BY SCORE OF 12-4

Contest Eliminates Delta Gammas From Intramural Basketball Tourney.

DELTA ZETA IS VICTOR

Beats Alpha Phi by Score of 9-4; Semi-Finals Set for Tonight.

Alpha Chi Omega eliminated Delta Gamma from the intramural basketball tournament when they defeated them by a score of 12 to 4 in a fast game filled with enthusiasm at the women's gymnasium last night. Delta Zeta defeated Alpha Phi by a score of 9 to 4 in the round robin of Class B tournament.

Kyline Staveland was high scorer for Alpha Chi Omega with eight points. Charlotte Lehrach as jumping center played a good game. For the losers, Dorothy Thurston, running center, was fast and an all round player. Jean Rathburn as guard prevented her opponent from making many baskets by good guarding.

Enthusiasm from spectators for both teams ran high throughout the game. The first half of the Alpha Chi-Delta Gamma game although slow, was marked by a more even score of 4 to 2. At the beginning of the second half, a pretty intercepted pass by Jean Rathburn started the ball down to the Delta Gamma goal and ended in a neat, clean basket by Elizabeth Reimers. For a while, it looked as if the Delta Gamma's were staging a comeback, but a few seconds later, the Alpha Chi forward sunk two pretty ones, and the chance was lost. Tonight, the semi-finals will be played in the gymnasium from 8 to 9 o'clock. Sigma Kappa will play Phi Omega Psi and Alpha Chi Omega will play Delta Zeta. The winners of each game will meet each other in the finals tomorrow night. Kappa Alpha Theta team two and Kappa Delta team two will play at Hancock tonight in the Class B tournament.

SIGMA KAPPA CAGERS WIN FROM PHI MUS

Kappa Delts Beat Gamma Phis; Semifinals Wednesday.

Sigma Kappa, with good floor-work, won over Phi Mu by a score of 12 to 7 in a basketball game played Monday night. Esther Jensen, manager of the Sigma Kappa team scored eight of the twelve scores made, ringing the basket at nearly every opportunity.

In class B, Kappa Delta, team two, won by a score of 16 to 5 from their opponents, Gamma Phi Beta, team two. Because team two of the N'Ergette group dropped out, necessary changes were made in the schedule class B.

Delta Gamma and Alpha Chi Omega will clash in one of the best games in the season Tuesday at 5 p. m. in the women's gymnasium. Teams from class B who will play Tuesday at 5 p. m. in the Hancock gymnasium are: Alpha Phi, team two versus Delta Zeta, team two; and Kappa Alpha Theta team two versus Kappa Delta, team two.

Semifinal games of class A will be held Wednesday at 5 p. m. in the women's gymnasium. The final game in class A will be held on Thursday in the women's gymnasium at 7 p. m. All women students are invited to attend the games.

BETAS AND A. G. R.'S ENTER CAGE FINALS

Phi Gams and Kappa Sigs Go Down in Semi-Final Basketball Play.

Beta Theta Psi and Alpha Gamma Rho will fight it out Thursday evening, March 4, on the coliseum floor for the interfraternity basketball championship. Such is the reward resulting from the 17 to 15 defeat the Betas managed to inflict on Phi Gamma Delta and the decisive 27 to 11 trouncing that the A. G. R.'s dealt out to the Kappa Sigs five last night. A one point victory of 12 to 11 over Delta Upsilon advanced Delta Tau Delta to the semifinals in class B.

At the end of the first quarter of the Phi Gamma-Beta game, the Phi Gams led 3 to 2 but were headed early in the second period, and never again held the advantage. At half time an 8 to 8 tie existed but early in the third period a pair of sinkers from the foul line by Westcott and a long hooped shot by Kuba placed the odds in Beta's favor. At 11 to 8 the best the Phi Gams could do was reduce this to a two point lead before the final whistle.

The A. G. R.-Kappa Sig engagement was a landslide in favor of the former boys after the first quarter. The host scored 14 to 3. Alpha Gamma Rho, and the Kappa Sigs were unable to score once from the field until Ultram snugged one late in the third period. In the fourth quarter the A. G. R.'s scored almost at will.

FEAR OF FALLING DOWN KEEPS COEDS FROM WEARING LONG SKIRTS ON STREET.

(Continued from Page 1.) back. For evening, it is the opinion of many university men that they are all "o. k.", but enthusiasm is wanting in their approbation of the new fad. Many of them say that the long skirts cover up a multitude of sins—bowed legs, spindly ankles, and lower extremities that are fat, unbroken by ankle or knee joints and in general, just slabs of muscle and brown and avoirdupois.

Down in Back. One man was heard to say that the dresses would seem better if worn backwards, since they seem to be going down in the back, both at the neck and hem line, and up in the front. As a general rule, however, university women have not accepted long skirts for street and campus wear. The inherent fear in the mind of every woman is falling down, and probably in the family annals of each coed lies the record of one female ancestor who disgraced herself by tripping on the street corner and attracting the attention of several gentlemen. "History does repeat itself," says the coed.

"History does repeat itself," says the coed.

Micena then arrives with a message from his mother and he follows her.

In this act, Micena sings one of the most appealing melodies in operatic literature: "Je dis, que rien me m'importune."

In the last act one sees the outside of the arena, where a bull fight is about to take place. The strains of the well known "Marche aux Haras" are heard. Escamillo, the hero of the occasion, is there with Carmen, and her kypse friends warn her that Don Jose is in search of her. She is afraid but seems to conceal herself. When Don Jose meets her he tries to remind the old love she had for him, but she recklessly scoffs at him, and when the news of Escamillo's triumph in the arena is brought to her she boldly exults in it. Jose is infuriated and stabs Carmen, who falls just as the victorious Escamillo enters upon the scene.
