WHO ARE MAIN WORLD Cornhusker Prom Expenses Appear Negligible in Comparison to Amherst

Editor's note: University of Nebraska students like to talk of the Military ball, the Interfraternity ball and the Junior-Senior Prom as the three big parties of the year and in the same breath complain of the price. Persuing through other college papers we may find what it costs to stage a truly "big" party. This is clipped from the Amherst Student.

In an effort to make it possile for most of the undergraduates s attend both Junior Prom and ound Robins, the dance committees have been co-operating for several weeks to reduce the prices of these dances to the lowest porsble figure. As a result the prices have been cut to considerably less than they have been in the past years.
