1930 YEARBOOK DISTRIBUTION TO START MONDAY

Cornhuskers Will Be Sold During Day at Office, Campus Booths.

PRICE IS SET AT $5

Annual Is Bound in Brown Imitation Leather; Many Features Included.

Nebraska's yearbook, the Cornhusker, will make its appearance on the campus Monday. It was announced Saturday by George L. Kennedy, business manager.

The books are to go on sale at a booth in Social Sciences building and in the Cornhusker office in University hall. They will be distributed to those who previously have paid for them at the Cornhusker office, Mr. Kennedy said. Arrangements have been made for a large staff of clerks to aid in selling the book. "Plenty of people will be on hand to give you your copy after 8 o'clock Monday morning," Kennedy stated Saturday.

The book this year has more than 600 pages, and is bound in brown imitation leather. New features, which are being kept secret until the volume is distributed, have been added to the book in great numbers this year.

Sale Price $5.00. Mr. Kennedy today advised those who have not paid for their copy of the book but desire to get one to be on the scene early Monday morning. "There are only a few extra copies, and it will be necessary to purchase them early," he said. The price will be $5.00.

The 1930 Cornhusker represents the entire year's work on the part of the staff. Arthur Bailey is editor of the volume, and has directed its preparation. He was aided by Kenneth Gammill and Al Wahl, managing editors. Mr. Kennedy, business manager, has been aided by Morton Richards, circulation manager, and Ed Edmonds and Norman Willy, assistant business managers.

FLOWERS HOLD SWAY IN ELEPHANT'S HALL

Grim Habitat of Skeletons Transformed by Spring Blossoms.

EXHIBIT CLOSES TODAY

Grim skeletons of animals of bygone days in a miniature flower garden in elephant hall in Morrill hall as the flower show is in full swing for two days of exhibition, May 17 and 18. Rows of flowers of many kinds are being shown by the fifty-seven exhibitors, and the university contributed many tropical trees.

Mural paintings of prehistoric life forms the background to a rock garden at one end of elephant hall. In the foreground of the garden is a pool. Several kinds of mosses and nearly fifty varieties of evergreen trees surround the pool. Tables of flowers lead from the pool to the surrounding halls. Sassa Wins Prize. Jacob Sassa, Omaha, was awarded a bronze medal for the best life, J. H. Bratt, Bennet, won the trophy exhibit. The most artistic arrangement was awarded to Mrs. Eagen. The most meritorious exhibit was awarded to Mr. Bratt.

Judges of the artistic exhibit are Dwight Kirsch, assistant professor in drawing and painting, Evelyn Metzger and Mrs. Ralph Graham. Howard Judson of Omaha is judge of irises and peonies. C. C. Wiggins, president of the garden club, is in charge of the exhibition.

University Booklet, 'What a Girl Can Do,' Tells of Women's Opportunities

Opportunities for university women are discussed in a booklet on "What a Girl Can Do," published by the University of Nebraska. Six thousand of the booklets were printed to be sent to all women graduating from high schools in the state.

"The field of home economics makes it possible for the girl to prepare herself for such a profession, and at the same time secure training for the open big responsibility which more than 80 percent of the women enter—that of managing a home of her own," the booklet reads in the introduction. "There are over one hundred different vocations open to women trained in home economics."

Home making is the first of the vocations included, in one's own home, as assistant in mother's home, or as consultant or director of dormitory or large group family. The booklet declares, "The home-maker today to be successful must know much about how to select food, clothing and furnishings and how to manage her time, her money, and her relations with other people."

The big problem has become one of selection and of management. The home economics courses in home management includes foods

Success of Barb Leaders Will Not Necessitate Passing Out of Council

Williams Outlines Work of Nonfraternity Group in Past Year; Activities Are Staged for All Students.

Editor's note: A report has been circulated about the campus to the effect that the Barb council would cease to function since the recent successes of the barbs in various organizations and activities. The following article was written for The Nebraskan after a thorough investigation of the circumstances. Barb accomplishments of the past year and their future plans were learned by The Nebraskan and are published below.

BY POLITICUS.

Conversation overheard in the corridor of Social Sciences: "Well, I guess the barbs ought to be satisfied now that they have an Innocent and three members of the Student council. I don't suppose there'll be much use for a Barb council anymore."

"I don't know about that. I think Williams might have something to say about that." True enough. Alan G. Williams, barb boss, is an Innocent and he and two other barbs are members of Student council for next year, meeting with satisfaction to all concerned in their ranks, but that isn't going to throw their Barb council out of commission, he maintains. "It would be silly to quit working now," the nonfrat leader insists, "for the barbs are just

LARGE CROWDS VIEW LINCOLN HORSE SHOW

George Brandeis Takes Prize in Saddle Class; Jane Beaumont Places.

FAULKNER HORSES WIN

Lincoln's second annual horse show closed last night after a two day showing which was attended by approximately 6,000 people. It was held at the state fair grounds on Friday afternoon and evening, Saturday afternoon and evening, and was sponsored by the Junior league and the chamber of commerce.

The feature event Friday evening was the $300 stake for three gaited saddle horses. George Brandeis, Omaha sportsman, topped three places, including a first. Shannon C. Douglas of Kansas City took second and third. Mr. Brandeis' horse, High Noon with B. E. Tucker up won first money in this event.

Miss Louis Wins. Mary Virginia Louis of Omaha received the blue ribbon awarded to the best lady rider. Miss Louis was one of the youngest riders in the show. Miss Mercedes Augustine of Grand Island was second and Miss Jane Beaumont was third. Dr. and Mrs. Walter E. Wright of Tulsa were the judges of this event.

First and second in the hunters and jumpers was taken by the same rider, Miss Mary Anderson of Minneapolis on horses owned by Grove M. Porter of Nebraska City. The judges, W. J. Kennedy of St. Joseph and Gordon Baker of Lincoln were forced to rule out two entries who refused to take the jumps in two trials.

Mrs. Bert Faulkner on Nana of the Faulkner stables took first money in the five gaited horse class. Second prize went to Gale Dare owned and mounted by James E. Foster of Omaha. Mrs. Dick Rogers of Lincoln on Sally Murphy, owned by Bert Murphy of Omaha was third.

Excitement was created in the single ponies not more than forty-eight inches in height event. There were a large number of entries and the drivers were for the most part very young. Miss Mary Virginia Louis won the event driving Silver Star.

LANDSCAPING CONTRACTS TO BE LET SOON

Contracts for landscaping the ground on the east and west sides of the stadium will be given some time next week, according to reports circulated yesterday. The plans include sidewalks to go completely around the stadium, flower beds, two flag poles at the head of the two flower beds to be on the east side, and sodding down the rest of the space.

Ellery Davis, Lincoln; Arthur Dobson, Lincoln, and Clyde Dempster, Beatrice, are the members of the building committee of the Alumni association which met recently and completed the plans for the landscaping. Work will probably commence some time in June and be finished about midsummer.

1,500 EXPECTED FOR ROUNDUP FESTIVITIES

Ray Ramsay Outlines Plans For Entertainment of Returning Grads.

LAW BARBEQUE SLATED

Approximately 1,500 alumni of the University of Nebraska are expected to return to their alma mater on June 6 and 7 for "Roundup" according to Ray Ramsay, Alumni secretary.

The annual law barbeque at the Auto club Friday noon, will start the week end which will include a University Players' production, a faculty reception, class breakfasts for the classes of '28 and '29, and the luncheon at the Lincoln hotel on Saturday noon.

The class of 1910 is the honor class this year in accordance with the custom that the class which was graduated twenty years ago be the honor class. This class will have a breakfast at the University club Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. The class of 1898 will have a breakfast at the home of Fred Humphrey, 642 South Seventeenth on Saturday at 9 o'clock.

Agee to Speak. Newton Buckley, North Platte, president of the Alumni association will preside at the luncheon on Saturday until the business part of the meeting is over and will then turn the meeting over to Glen Mason, Lincoln, president of the honor class, who will introduce the speakers.

John Agee, Lincoln, will be the class speaker for the honor class. Chancellor E. A. Burnett will also talk. Announcement will be made at this time of the newly elected association officers. Most of the ballots which were sent out for the election, which was handled entirely through the mails, are in, according to Mr. Ramsay. Music will be furnished by the University orchestra, and Herman Decker, instructor in voice, will lead singing by the alumni.

SCHOOL CHILDREN MAKE INSPECTION OF MORRILL HALL

Morrill hall has been the interest spot of the campus during the last six weeks. Many groups of Nebraska school children inspecting the building and the museum collections. The students are given talks in many cases and guided through the museum to get the most benefit from inspections.

This week three classes of physiology students from Lincoln high school visited the museum to study the fossil man. Miss Marjorie Shanafelt lectured to the group on the men of the stone age and students were shown the casts of early men.

Regler Passes Out 623 Tickets Since Opening of School

Five hundred twenty first notice violations have been given out by L. C. Regler, campus policeman, since Sept. 29. He has handed out 103 second notice tags. These second notice tags cause the violator to appear in court and explain to the judge. Warnings have also been given in many cases, as for instance when some student makes a "U" turn in the middle of the block.

Stop buttons will in a short time be placed at both ends of the driveway back of the Social Science building. A private drive sign will also adorn this stretch.

Students Careless

In a tour about the campus starting down on Tenth street, Policeman Regler found that students are very careless about leaving valuables in their cars. In four out of ten cars on an average, the keys are left in the car, and the car doors and windows are left unlocked. Pockethooks and expensive robes are left on the seats of the car. The reason that the police do not have to deal with these petty robberies is that the cars are so open and any miscreant taking things might be seen.

These first and second taggers are tagged for some infraction of the parking violations. This might be parking in front of a red zone or a no parking sign. In many cases it is for using some private driveway for a parking space. Having been tagged once, they are seldom tagged a second time for the same thing.

MISS KLEEMAN AWARDED PRIZE BY NEW YORK U

Franklin Smith Fellowship of $650 Allows Year's Study of Retailing.

IS PANHELLENIC WINNER

Named in Honor Group This Year; Has Highest Grade of 1930 P. B. K.'s.

Moselle Kleeman, senior in the school of journalism, has been awarded the Franklin Smith fellowship of $650 at New York university. This prize is based on scholarship and experience and only two such awards are given each year. The award provides for a year of study in the school of retailing at New York university. Miss Kleeman will go there next September and will receive her M. A. degree the following June.

Miss Kleeman was ranking member of Phi Beta Kappa this year and received the Panhellenic award for the highest junior woman last year. She was an honor student at honors convocation, ranking among the upper three percent of the senior class, and also received the Sigma Delta Chi scholarship award, prize open to seniors in the school of journalism.

Miss Kleeman's work on The Nebraskan has been mainly connected with University Players. She was given this "run" to cover early in the year and has written all the reviews of Players productions besides numerous feature stories on work of the dramatists.

BIG SUMMER SCHOOL ATTENDANCE EXPECTED

Moritz Believes New Work Offered Will Attract Many Teachers.

A large increase in the enrollment at the summer session offered by the teachers college is expected this year over that of last, due to a number of new courses which are to be added, according to E. D. Moritz, director of the summer school.

Registration will be held June 9-10 at which in addition to the regular nine weeks session and a special course in "Vitalized Agriculture For Rural Schools" of previous years will be offered a six weeks course, a four weeks course in vocational agriculture, and four special two weeks courses which are as follows: rural administration, current teaching association, physical education for women, and athletic coaching for men. Due to the additional courses offered this year and the greater frequency that school boards offer increased wages to the teachers who attend summer school, it is evident that the enrollment at teachers college will be considerably over 2,500, last year's number, Moritz said.

FINE ARTS STUDENTS WILL EXHIBIT WORK

Products of Departments Will Be Displayed in Morrill Hall.

Annual student exhibition of the art department will open Tuesday, May 20, in gallery B in Morrill hall and in the corridor of the third floor. Examples of work by the students in all of the art departments will be on exhibit and will be open to the public over commencement week.

There will be examples from the work of the design department, according to Louise Mundy, assistant professor of drawing and painting. China and ceramics pottery will be on display by the students of Mrs. H. M. Brock and Emma P. Skulder, instructors in pottery.

Students of Dwight Kirsch, assistant professor in drawing and painting, will exhibit decorative masks, modeling and design. Drawings, paintings, and charcoal work will be displayed by classes under B. A. Benson, assistant instructor in drawing and painting, and Tressa P. Emerson, assistant professor of drawing and painting.

R. O. T. C. UNIT GETS ANNUAL ONCE OVER

Colonel Moorman Inspects 1,500 University Cadets.

EXHIBITS ARE STAGED

Fifteen hundred basic drill students of the university were inspected by Col. T. S. Moorman, R. O. T. C. officer for the Seventh corps area, Friday afternoon. The inspection of the twelve drill companies and the band began the annual government inspection of the Nebraska R. O. T. C. unit.

Saturday the administrative facilities of the military department were inspected. Monday Colonel Moorman will examine the class theoretical work of the advanced drill classes.

The inspection Friday opened with a regular formation review of all the companies and the band. Following this the individual troops were inspected. Company A was then chosen to execute a close order drill. Following this there was an extended order drill by company D.

The leading Rifles and the band then executed the guard march, after which one company gave a demonstration in setting up inspection for all companies except K, which was taken to the Russian flats north of the viaduct and put through extended order drill and other mass maneuvers.

Colonel Moorman has just completed the inspection of the R. O. T. C. units at the universities of Kansas, Arkansas and Missouri. Inspection of the Nebraska unit will be completed during the first part of the week.

Prof. Lawrence Vold of the college of law is the author of an article, "Sales Distinguished From Other Transactions," appearing in the current issue of the Dakota Law Review. This article contains the substance of one of the chapters of a new book which Professor Vold is now preparing—"A Handbook on the Law of Sales."

Axe Falls on Sororities at Hollins College; Establish Recreation Rooms

Hollins college, situated in the mountains of Virginia, is small as regards the number of students but exceeding rich in traditions and ideals. It is the oldest college for women in Virginia, having been founded in 1842. In spite of its smallness, Hollins is a representative college, its students coming from as far north as New Hampshire and as far west as Montana and always a large group from Texas. The members of the faculty are particularly well trained, experienced and capable; appealing greatly to the faculty is the large measure of academic freedom in the Hollins' atmosphere, which many say is entirely different from that of any other school they know about.

Hollins college lies seven miles from Roanoke, Va., an industrial city of about 65,000, which offers nothing particular in the way of amusements or advantages. With this background, the years between 1902 and 1921 saw the establishment of seven national sororities among a student body of about 350. Sorority membership meant much to the girls at Hollins, for it gave them a contact with the outside world which was not to be found in anything else.

Nothing of unusual importance

GAMMILL CHOSEN TO EDIT ANNUAL; STAFF IS PICKED

Edmonds Named Business Manager of Cornhusker For Coming Year.

ASSISTANTS APPOINTED

Nebraskan Personnel to Be Selected Saturday by Publication Board.

Kenneth Gammill, 31, of Beatrice, Colo., was appointed editor of the Cornhusker, university annual for next year at a meeting of the publication board held in University hall Saturday afternoon. Edwin Edmonds, 31, of Sumner, was made business manager of the year book. The new staff of The Daily Nebraskan was not announced.

Managing editors of the Cornhusker will be Otis Detrick, 22, of York, and Robert Kinkead, 22, of Cheyenne, Wyo. Assistant business managers will be Frank Gou, 22, Crawford, and Russell Mousel, 22, Hastings.

Gammill, who heads the new staff, is a newly tapped Innocent. He was chosen senior man at large to serve on the Student council next year, and was managing editor of the Cornhusker during the past year.

Edmonds, who is to handle the business side of the publication is also a new member of the Innocents society. He is a member of Kosmet Klubb and a Corn Cob, and held the position of assistant business manager of the Cornhusker the past year.

Detrick is a member of Pershing Rifles and of the Interfraternity council, while Kinkead is also a member of Pershing Rifles and a Corn Cob.

Frank Gou is a member of the Dramatic club, sophomore baseball manager, and on the Interfraternity council. Russell Mousel worked on the "N" book last fall.

Announcements of the appointments to the staffs of The Daily Nebraskan will be made next week, it was stated by the chairman of the publication board. At this second meeting of the board the purchasing agent and newly elected officers of the Cornhusker will be present to receive bids for the 1931 Cornhusker.

BABICH WILL DIRECT MASS BAND CONCERT

Program Will Be Given in Antelope Park at 4:30 This Afternoon.

A massed band will be featured by the Lincoln Musicians' association at a concert in Antelope park Sunday afternoon, May 18. The concert will begin at 4:30 o'clock. Directed by Arthur J. Babich, the band will be composed of more than fifty musicians, including vocal soloists, Fieda Graham Ziegenbein and Jack Wheelock will give vocal solos.

Improvements in Antelope park have been made by the park commission for the convenience of visitors. A new shell band stand has been erected and more stands have been added in front of the stand. The concert is open to the public, according to the association.

The program follows: "America," audience singing; march, "Samper Fidelity," Sousa; "Sonny Side Up," Henderson; vocal solo, "I Back," The Kiss; Arditi, by Fieda Graham Ziegenbein; overture, "Morning, Noon and Night," Supper; Stein Song; Colorado; vocal solo, "Mother's Voice," E. Walt, by Jack Wheelock; sacred paraphrase, "Pilot Me," Barnhouse; "Onward Christian Soldier," Operatic Potpourri; "Broadway Melodies," "Putting on the Ritz," Lamp; "The Star Spangled Banner."

occurred in the Panhellenic organization on campus until 1925. In that year it was decided that in order for a girl to have time to show her true worth, freshman bidding would be eliminated. Bids were to be issued the first Monday of the sophomore year after three days of concentrated rushing. Accordingly there was no bidding in the fall of 1925. Sophomore bidding was intended to make the freshman year one which would be undisturbed by any thoughts of sororities; there was to be no rushing during the freshman year nor during the summer preceding the sophomore year. Instead, however, it made for almost a year of rushing instead of a few weeks. By the fall of 1925 conditions had become such that some girls felt that Hollins would benefit by the elimination of sororities. After a very great deal of discussion upon the subject, a petition for the abolition of sororities was presented to the president of the college on March 11, 1929. The petition originated among the students and was signed by seventy out of a sorority membership of 152. The administration and faculty were unanimously in favor of the
