SUMMER ENROLLMENT LOOMS LARGER THAN LAST YEAR'S TOTAL

Late Registrations Bring
Number Up to 2,566;
Expect More.

Three Two Weeks Courses
Yet in Progress Draw
131 New Students.

Increased enrollment of at least 150 this year was foreseen by summer session officials at the University of Nebraska Monday when a report on registration showed that 2,566 students, or 147 more than the 2,419 enrolled up to this time last year, are taking summer work.

The 1929 grand total of 2,680 will be passed, officials believe, when registration figures for the regular summer term at the college of medicine in Omaha and for field courses in geology, agriculture and botany are added to the present total.

Two of the five two-weeks short courses offered this summer at the university ended Saturday. The coaching school, directed by the athletic department of the university and Dr. Clarence Spears, head football coach at the University of Oregon, had a record enrollment of forty-three besides several who were auditing the course.

For the first time the department of physical education for women offered a two weeks course for academic teachers who also have charge of physical education in their schools. Seventeen women signed up for this intensive course which included eight hours of class and field work daily.

The remaining three two weeks courses which began last Monday

EXTENSION DIVISION USES RADIO STUDIO TO CARRY ON WORK

From the radio broadcasting studio of the University of Nebraska on the second floor of Administration building will be sent out supplementary courses to those offered by the extension division this summer, according to A. A. Reed, extension director.

Lectures will be given throughout the summer on every Tuesday afternoon beginning today. The third Tuesday of each month will be used to answer written questions received from those taking the courses.

Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock W. K. Pfeiler will give an introductory talk on beginning German. His lecture series will continue every week at the same hour through the summer.

PROF. FRANKFORTER DEVELOPS SULPHUR REMOVING PROCESS

Prof. C. J. Frankforter this summer is working on the development of his new process to remove sulphur from petroleum products. The process is in a semi-plant scale of operation at present. Patents are to be granted soon, according to Professor Frankforter, who has been at work on it for two years.

Art Teachers Wed; Miss Emerson and Ben Benson Resign

Culminating an inter-departmental romance, Miss Tressa Emerson and Ben Benson, both instructors in the art department of the school of fine arts this past year, were married early in June, according to reports received by the school. They announced their resignation shortly before the close of the regular term.

Mr. and Mrs. Benson will spend the summer in Maine and in September move to Chicago where Mr. Benson has a position awaiting him.

Miss Katherine Faulkner, graduate of Syracuse university, has been secured to take Miss Emerson's place.

UNIVERSITY SEEKS NEBRASKA FOSSILS

Four Expeditions Work This Summer in Western Part of State.

Four fossil field parties from the university are spending most of the summer hunting and collecting fossils in the western part of the state. Two parties are working near Valentine and two in Furnas county. Two men compose each party and are museum assistants and advanced students in geology at the university.

Worthwhile fossils which they bring back to the university to be cleaned and mounted in the museum. They are working in the interests of the Morrill and Maiben collections.

These parties are sent out every year to investigate Nebraska's rich fossil beds, rapidly pillaged by other archaeologists. To keep the best of them in Nebraska, development funds were contributed to the museum at the same time Morrill and Maiben gave their collections.

House Rules for Women Students Same in Summer

House rules for women students in summer school remain the same as those in the regular winter session, according to Miss Amanda Heppner, dean of women. A slight variation exists in the time doors are closed at night.

On week nights during the summer they remain open to 11 o'clock, 30 minutes longer than in the winter, but on Friday and Saturday nights close at midnight, 15 minutes earlier than the academic term last year.

Following are the regulations as given by Miss Heppner:

1. The residence of men and women in the same lodging house is not approved and is not permitted unless the circumstances are unusual. In this case permission must be granted by the dean of women.
2. A woman rooming women students is expected to provide for their use until 11 o'clock, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, a reception room on the first floor, properly lighted. All rules referring to the reception rooms apply also to the piazzas.
3. The doors shall be locked not later than 11 o'clock except Friday and Saturday evenings, when the doors shall be locked not later than 12 o'clock.
4. All girls shall have their rooms in order by 1 p. m. for inspection.
5. All girls shall report to the housemother where they are going and register in the sign-out book according to rules.
6. Each house shall elect a house committee to co-operate with the housemother and act as a penalizing board.
7. The house committee and housemother are empowered to inflict penalties for violation of these rules. When necessary they are to report to the dean's office.

PHI DELTA KAPPAS INVITE ALL MEN TO MEETING THURSDAY

All men in summer school, particularly those interested in school problems, are invited to attend the second summer meeting of Phi Delta Kappa Thursday evening at the Y. M. C. A.

C. Ray Gates, superintendent of schools at Grand Island, will be the speaker of the evening. Mr. Gates, according to P. G. Johnson, president of Phi Delta Kappa, is an outstanding school administrator in Nebraska.

Phi Delta Kappa is an honorary educational fraternity but its summer meetings are not limited to members of the organization.

Ralph Phillips Has Position in Indies

Ralph Phillips, B. Sc., in chemistry from the university this June, has accepted a position on the island of Aruba, Dutch West Indies, with the Pan-American Oil Refining company as refining chemist. He is working with two other Nebraskans who went to Aruba last year. They are Ralph Deeds and Kenneth Myers.

Oury Will Replace F. F. Jewett Sept. 1, Dispatches Indicate

Col. William H. Oury, new commandant of the Nebraska R. O. T. C. unit, is due to arrive at the university to take up his duties Sept. 1. Lieut. Col. F. F. Jewett, commandant here for the past five years, will remain for two weeks after Colonel Oury reports for duty to acquaint his successor with the work and the particular problems on the Nebraska campus.

Cafeteria Here Serves Thousand Meals Each Day

One thousand meals a day are served at the Temple cafeteria. Five hundred students swarm there for lunch every noon, three hundred breakfast there, and two hundred take supper there.

Cafeteria patrons this year are more numerous than in 1929 but scarcely as many as in 1928 and earlier when two six weeks instead of one nine weeks session were offered.

Increased demand for salads is the most noticeable change in the diet of summer and winter students. Fresh fruits and fresh vegetables are also popular with the vacation school attendants. Dairy products, as in winter, come from the state agricultural farm at the agricultural college.

Actual preparation of meals is in the care of eight full time workers, but twenty university students—seven men and thirteen women—serve over the counters and do other work in the cafeteria.

558 Graduates Taking Work in Summer School

With 558 advanced students registered, the enrollment in the graduate college this year is thirty-eight above the 520 registered last year. Its registration is larger by some 150 than during the regular winter term.

Marked is the increase in the number working toward degrees. Of the 1929 summer graduate students, 305 were studying for advanced degrees while this year 364 are candidates.

ENGLISH TEACHERS GO ON VACATIONS

Staff Not Teaching Summer
Classes First Time in Twenty-Two Years.

Outdoor vacations, tours of Europe, summer teaching, and research study are taking up the time of the University of Nebraska English instructors.

For the first time in twenty-two years, Prof. F. A. Stuff is not teaching in summer school here. Instead he is spending the summer at his cottage on Pelican lake, Minn.

Miss Louise Pound, professor of English, has been engaged by Columbia university to teach courses in English language this summer. She will leave for New York City within the next few days.

Prof. S. B. Gass is taking his vacation in Colorado. Mrs. C. E. Brunig is touring Europe and will see the Passion Play at Oberammergau.

N. E. Eliason is taking graduate work at the University of Iowa. C. E. Boyd has left for his home in New Jersey. Prof. R. D. Scott, Prof. Lowry C. Wimberly, Prof. H. A. White, Miss Mabel E. Strong, and Miss Ruth Odell are teaching in the summer session here.

Bronze Button Recalls Early State History

"Button, button, who has the button?"

The familiar story of the childhood game changes when the button falls into the hands of E. E. Blackman, curator of the Nebraska State Historical society.

A well-worn bronze button, bearing the name of an early English button maker, was found a few days ago by L. E. Benson in his field near Fullerton. Miss Laverne Benson, a summer school student at the university, gave the button to the historical society.

The button was picked up by Mr. Benson in the center of what was once a sod enclosed Pawnee Indian village. The button evidently was an English military uniform originally.

On the face of the button is the outline of an early type boat without sails plowing through rough waters. The sun is also shown sending its rays in all directions over the sea. Over all hovers an eagle with a scroll in its beak. Writing on the scroll is indistinguishable, so badly is the button worn.

On the back of the button the name of the maker, "T. Biddle, Drury Lane," is still visible.

As it was common in colonial times to commemorate the deeds of a country by symbolizing them on buttons, Mr. Blackman believes it highly possible that this button was designed after the arrival of the relief expedition which reached the starving Pilgrim fathers after their first winter of hardships here in America.

Mr. Blackman believes that the button probably belonged to some adventurous trapper who bartered the then brilliant piece of metal for Indian produce.

ALL LUTHERANS IN VACATION SESSION INVITED TO PICNIC

All Lutheran students in summer session are invited by Rev. Erck, Lutheran pastor, to attend a Lutheran student picnic Friday, June 27.

Students are asked to meet at the Temple at 5:30 Friday evening with autos if available. The picnickers will go to Antelope park or to the college of agriculture campus where they will play games before and after the lunch is served. A committee of students will prepare the lunch at cost.

Capt. Skinner Goes To Vancouver Camp

Capt. Russell Skinner, for four years instructor in military science at the University of Nebraska, has been transferred to barracks at Vancouver, Wash. He is now on a leave of absence and will report to Vancouver on his return. He will be succeeded by Capt. Walter F. Scott who comes to the university from Fort Banning, Ga. Captain Scott will arrive in Lincoln July 15.

SECOND MIXER NEXT FRIDAY PLANNED FOR VACATION STUDENTS

Faculty Members Appointed
To Take Charge of Fun Program.

Men Invited; Dancing Added
To Entertainment; No
Admission Charged.

Definite provision for a second All-Summer School mixer to be held this Friday evening at Grant Memorial hall was made Monday by R. D. Moritz, director of the summer session, when he appointed a faculty committee to take charge of the program.

Members of the faculty committee are: E. W. Lantz of teachers college, chairman, Miss Marjorie Easterbook of the department of physical education for women, and Herb Gish, athletic director. Miss Frances H. Ash, Lincoln recreational director who had charge of the first mixer last Thursday night, will serve ex-officio on the committee.

Dancing will be included in the mixer program Friday night which will be interspersed with games, according to Miss Ash. Special games and dances to promote an informal and friendly feeling at the mixer are being arranged.

Men as well as women are included in the invitation to attend. No admission charge is made and the mixers are open to all summer session students.

Purposes of the mixers are to provide recreation and a means for students in the summer session to get acquainted. The mixer committee meets today to make plans for the entertainment Friday evening. Future of the mixers depends on the attendance Friday and the reaction of the summer students to the idea.

METHODISTS WILL HAVE OPEN HOUSE SOMETIME IN JULY

Open house for Methodist students attending the summer session will be held at the Wesley Foundation house early in July, according to Rev. W. C. Fawell, student pastor.

Rev. Guy Cutshall of the Iliff theological school in Denver will be in Lincoln two weeks during the first part of July, according to Rev. Fawell, and will preach at St. Paul's Methodist church.

Rev. Mr. Cutshall spent several days on the Nebraska campus last winter and spoke to a number of religious and social groups at that time on educational and religious problems.

ORFIELD STUDIES MODEL LAW CODE

Prof. Lester B. Orfield of the college of law is engaged in making a comparative study of the code of criminal procedure adopted by the American Law institute, a group of nationally known legal experts, and the Nebraska code of criminal procedure.

On the basis of this study, Mr. Orfield will write an article making recommendations as to whether or not the state legislature should adopt the model code.

Summer Nebraskans Distributed at Five Places Semi-Weekly
