Awgwan.

Colleagues who cried when their Awgwan was unceremoniously taken from them last fall may have a pleasant surprise awaiting them. Dr. C. H. Oldfather, new member of the Student Publication Board, favors its return. Dr. Oldfather does not appreciate the full significance of the Awgwan's removal, we fear. Nebraska does have as much right to a humor magazine as any other college or university, but her students made a botch of it. Snappy stories included in the last Awgwan did not constitute the only reasons for its suppression, though they made a bad impression on the publication board. Pointies killed the Awgwan. Scheming student politicians, sporting management of the Awgwan as a feather in some embryo activity man's cap, made the editor's job a valuable push ball. Talented writers were directed into blind alleys and the Awgwan suffered. The publication board acted unwisely in suppressing the second issue of last year and in discontinuing publication of the humor magazine. If that body deemed the Awgwan unworthy of its position on the campus, a deferred suppression would have eliminated scarlet publicity which marched boldly into state papers. Had they waited two weeks after the distribution of the faulty issue, obscenity would not have been shouted to a scandal-thrifty public.

Now that the foul odor of that last issue has been wafted away by the breeze of time, Nebraska should take steps to regain her Awgwan. But the initiation of any move to reinstate the university's humor magazine should come from interested students. The publication board cannot make the Awgwan a success. What stupor has settled over the students of this institution that they allow their humor publication to rest peacefully in its grave? Other universities publish entertaining magazines, despite Dr. Oldfather's unappreciative comment on such gazettes. We find it hard to believe that the University of Nebraska, with some 6,000 students, is devoid of talent. Those who might make the Awgwan an outstanding collegiate humor monthly, however, seem content to spend their spare time in moving picture emporiums—laughing at another's gags. Will University of Nebraska students shoulder arms and march to battle for the liberation of their funny paper? Or shall we strew wilted lilies over a deceased student body?

Dr. Oldfather deserves credit for taking an interest in student affairs outside the stuffy confines of a lecture room. He is correct in stating that members of the publication board should be more actively concerned with the work of the staffs which they elect. If members of the board had been in touch with the Awgwan of last year, they would have foreseen the occurrence which caused their hasty action.

Campus politics play too important a part in publications to make selection of staffs by the editor-in-chief a practical plan. True, the editor would suffer for his mistakes in appointments. But some editors might become reconciled to such torture.

We present a final bouquet to Dr. Oldfather for his interest in student affairs. The university needs faculty members who are willing to give some of their time to the problems which confront student leaders and the organizations which they represent.

And they sold the School of Music for a song.

Why not charter a bus to bring fraternity men a block or three to school? That would help the parking problem.

New York Plans Learning Tower 25 Stories High

NEW YORK CITY (AP)—With the Tower of Learning, or Cathedral of Learning, at the University of Pittsburgh rapidly nearing completion, and plans being made for the erection of a twenty-five story educational center here, American education is continually getting more up in the air.

MARQUETTE PLANS MORNING GRID FOR THANKSGIVING

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Marquette university, not satisfied with having had the distinction of introducing night football to the collegiate Midwest last season, will present another novelty in college football this year when it stages the Thanksgiving day game with Butler university at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Marquette has recorded some of the best football turnouts on Thanksgiving afternoons, but college authorities believe that even more fans will be able to see the game if it is played in the morning. Members of the Marquette team are reported to be jubilant as they think of the Thanksgiving dinner they have been denied in the past, which now will be theirs after a well earned shower bath at noon.

Enrollment at K. U. Equals Last Year's

LAWRENCE, Kas., Sept. 22.—Registration at the University of Kansas passed the 4,000 mark near the end of the first week, equalling the registration at the same time last year. The first day or two the figures fell somewhat short but when full registration was under way, this year's figures ran ahead, and then settled even. Thursday evening the figures were exactly at a par with 3,985 registered on corresponding days of each year.

As in years past, practically every county in the state is represented in the university's enrollment, and in addition to Kansas, thirty-three other states and seven foreign countries have students at Kansas university.

Largest out-of-state enrollment comes from Missouri, with 367; 75 from Oklahoma and 29 from Colorado, Oregon, Washington, California, as well as Vermont and Rhode Island, are among the states represented. The foreign student contingent includes twenty-four from the Philippines, and fifteen from other countries.

OLDFATHER WANTS COMIC REINSTATED

(Continued from Page 1.) paper, according to the beliefs of the new publication board member. Student editors should be allowed the maximum of freedom with the minimum of faculty or administrative interference, in Oldfather's opinion, provided the editors are capable and know what is going on in the world.

"I favor the return of the Awgwan," asserted Dr. Oldfather. "I believe that the University of Nebraska has just as much right to a funny sheet as any other campus. Personally I could never see an 'ing funny in the college humorous gazettes, but they play a big part in the student life of every campus."

"My idea of remedying a difficulty such as arose with the Awgwan last fall would not be to discontinue the publication of the magazine. The thing to do would be to correct the fault at its source—the editor. Because one man let material be published which the average person considers indecent, is no reason to make the magazine suffer. The thing to do is to elect a new editor, I think that should have been done in the case of the Awgwan."

As concerns the appointment of an editor, and his assistants under the present plan of publication management on this campus, Dr. Oldfather believes that members of the board should take a more active interest in what the editor is doing. Informal meetings with the editors of the Nebraska and Cornhusker at six week intervals seems to him to be a practical policy. In this way it would be possible for the editor to report to the board as to the progress of members of his staff. Then when the time for semester appointments arrives the publication board would be sufficiently acquainted with the work of staff members to make meritorious staff appointments.

Favor Student Council. In conclusion Dr. Oldfather stated his beliefs relative to student government. He felt that the Student Council, under the present management of personnel selection should be given every possible encouragement by the faculty. He hoped that the sphere of student control in campus governmental affairs would widen rapidly and that they could be given permission to act almost entirely for themselves.

"After all," said Dr. Oldfather, "this university is maintained for the good of the students. Why not let them conduct their own affairs to the greatest possible extent?"

How to write better — more rapidly, and more easily —

Ask your dealer to show you a tray of Waterman's No. 7 fountain pens. He will place before you seven pens, identical in general appearance, but each with a different character of pen point. Try all seven. You will quickly find the one that suits your hand. You can get this same character of point in any Waterman's. And in any Waterman's you will also get the patented spoon-feed that delivers the ink at exactly the right rate without skipping or blotting, and Waterman's greater size for size ink capacity — no danger of running dry in the middle of a lecture or exam. There's a Waterman's for every taste and every purse. Newest are the Patricia and the Lady Patricia — the very last word in colorful beauty, as well as writing efficiency. The Patricia's five jewel colors, its great ink capacity, its extra large gold pen point and its aristocratic lines, make it the natural choice for the man who wants the best, ten dollars. A pencil to match, five dollars. The Lady Patricia is the pen women have wanted for years. A smart feminine clip locks it securely in belt, pocket or handbag. Choice of three smart colors. Slender and graceful, yet it holds plenty of ink. Five dollars — and three for the matching pencil. Every Waterman's is guaranteed forever against defect.
