

Bible Will Use New Men in Iowa State Battle

LINEUP WITH MOST FIGHT WILL PLAY

Nebraska's Trouble So Far Seen as Lack of Fire; Brown, Manley Will Be Quarters, Long, Tail Back, Frahm, Kreizinger, Halves.

FRONT WALL DEPENDS ON WORKOUT SHOWING

Ely Practically Sure to Start; Penny Is Moved Up From Nubbins Backfield and Will Make Trip To Ames; Work Against Varsity Good.

BY GUY CRAIG.

Nebraska's lineup for the Iowa State game at Ames this week end will probably see plenty of revision before the team takes the field Saturday afternoon. This fact was very much in evidence Tuesday when the coaching staff began to lay plans for the invasion of the Cyclone camp.

Lewis Brown and Bob Manley will draw the quarterback assignment against Workman's team, both of these men having shown more class the past week than any other candidates for the signal calling position.

New Man at Tailback. Another new man, Buster Long, will probably start at the tailback with Frahm and Kreizinger holding down the other two assignments. Long has held the reputation the past few years of being erratic but seems to have gotten rid of this failing and is playing steady consistent football. He is practically the only triple threat man on the team who can punt, pass and run with any degree of consistency.

The trouble with Nebraska in games so far this season has been that they lack explosion. When the ball is snapped the team is dull and lifeless, not charging as they should and the lineup which will face Iowa State, in the opinion of the coaches will be the outfit that has the most fire and fight.

Ely is practically the only lineman who has been showing the required fight so far and is practically certain to start. The remainder of the front wall depends largely upon the showing made in workouts the rest of the week.

Penny to Varsity. Lee Penny, Tabor, Ia., ball lugger, has been performing in sensational style on Coach Bill Day's nubbins and was moved up to the varsity Tuesday. This fiery backfield man may be able to inject some of his fighting spirit into the Husker lineup.

Tuesday night Bible had two teams going through dummy scrimmage against the nubbins who were running Iowa State plays. The first team had Prucka and Hokuf at ends, Broadstone and Rhea at tackles, Greenberg and Justice at guards and Ely at center.

The backfield was composed of Brown and Manley at quarter, Kreizinger and Frahm at halves and Young at fullback.

Second Crew. A second crew had Byrnes and Milne on ends, Eno and Hulbert, tackles; Koster and Gartner, guards and McPherson and Maasdam at center. Long, Marrow, Pack and Perry formed the backfield. Another backfield sent into the fray late during the workout had Mathis, Packer, Paul and Nelson carrying the ball.

Penny was working with the nubbins Tuesday night but will be shifted up to the varsity and make the trip to Ames. His work against the varsity the past few nights has been outstanding and it is highly probable that he will see action against the Cyclones.

Captain Joe Lehman will go to scout the Pittsburgh-Syracuse game at Syracuse and bring back plays for the nubbins to demonstrate for the varsity.

The team leaves Lincoln Thursday night, arriving in Ames the following morning. After working out on the Ames field Friday afternoon they will go to Des Moines for the night, returning the next day for the game. They will leave for Lincoln immediately after the game.

IF NEBRASKA had given more thought to Oklahoma and not talked about the Kansas and Iowa games all the time they might have won that game last Saturday. This is the opinion of one of the Nebraskans who followed the team to Oklahoma last week end.

Maybe the score would have been different—and then maybe it would have been just the same.

Every team in the Big Six "points" for Nebraska and they would rather win that game than any other on their schedule. That's the trouble with being a champion, every other son-of-a-gun in the mob is gunning for you.

WHEN a team plays inspired football against a team that is only luke warm, the outcome is likely to be quite disconcerting. In this case Nebraska was playing a team which was better than they were in every department of play.

The Sooners—out-yarded, out-downer, out-passed and out-fought Nebraska and there can be no denial of this fact.

To state it plainly—Oklahoma had the best team on the field Saturday and all the talking and regrets in the world cannot alter that fact.

Coach Bible, far from being disheartened by the surprising reversal, believed that this defeat would make the Huskers stronger in the games to come. The morale of the squad, in his belief, has not been shattered and the Huskers will come back to play better football because of this beating.

That's one thing that designates a true champion, the ability to come back after you have taken one on the chin.

If Nebraska can come back they will have to pull together as a unit and not allow any little petty malices enter into their playing. Too often these little things cause a team to become disorganized and their team play suffers accordingly.

IOWA State this week end offers a real problem and there is liable to be plenty of excitement over in Iowa when Nebraska steps on the field.

The Cyclones were licked by Illinois but only by seven points and that isn't such a disgrace.

Coach "Dopey" Workman has fourteen veterans back this year and has developed a team which promises to take the Ames crew out of the "weak sister" class and place them up at the top as one of the potential champions.

WHY all of this excitement about Kansas? They have won two games this year, one from Creighton and one from Haskell. Neither of these teams are considered very strong and should have been comparatively easy for the Jayhawkers.

Creighton was rimmed 20-0 by their own freshmen last week and Haskell had been licked quite decisively in their first game of the season.

their belt the Kansans are receiving the plaudits of the assembled multitudes and being crowned as the champions.

The Kansas Aggies are pointing for this battle with Kansas according to reports filtering out from Manhattan and Coach Hargiss and his pupils may have a pretty long afternoon this Saturday.

At least it will offer something to judge from.

IT WOULD seem as though the Nebraska backfield is in for a bit of a change. The four men—Mathis, Frahm, Young and Kreizinger—have not been hitting it off so smoothly and something has to be done to pep up the team.

The solution may be found in a shifting of the backfield.

Spectators at the Oklahoma game said that the line was opening holes while the Sooner secondary was forced to do most of the tackling. If the line opens the holes for the backs then something is wrong with the backfield if they can't make the needed yardage.

Fumbles, wild throws and what not stopped several Husker attacks before they got a chance to start.

Students Want New Caribbean Policy

PRINCETON, N. J.—(IP)—A new Caribbean policy for the United States was advocated by a group of Princeton students as a result of the three month intensive study of the history and conditions of Haiti.

This policy, asked by the students, calls for the immediate evacuation of the American forces in Haiti and the abandonment by the United States of its position as sole arbiter in the Caribbean region.

USUAL IMPEDIMENTS SHOW IN BROWNMEN

MAY NOT HURT CHANCES

By CLIFF SANDAHL.

The ever-threatening impediments in the progress of any football team are beginning to show themselves in Coach Browne's first year pupils at the University of Nebraska.

These two detriments, injurious and ineligibilities, though serious, perhaps may not have a very deteriorating effect on the yearling squad when it takes the field at Memorial stadium Saturday of this week against the Oklahoma frosh.

Among Browne's first stringers, two of the most promising highlights in freshman football history are unable to practice this week. Fred Murray, former star halfback for Omaha Tech, is out of football clothing because of a bad shoulder while Ken White, Kimball, another half-back prospect, is strutting around on crutches.

Bad Couple.

Harold Holmback, Beatrice, one of the foremost among the freshman nubbins, has also been unable to do his best on the field of late because of a bad ankle. It is believed, however, that after he fully recuperates he will be switched to first squad position.

The first team men who will leave the yearlings and join Bill Day's varsity nubbins are Frank Rain, Fairbury; Harold Schmitt, Lincoln; William Summers, Beatrice and Floyd Belders, Cambridge.

Frosh nubbins who are out are E. Mead, Hamburg, Ia., and Verne Weller, Pender.

Lineups.

In the scrimmages of the past two days, Brownie has been trying out two complete sets of men. The lineups have been as follows:

FIRST SQUAD	SECOND SQUAD
Ellis, Omaha	Lunney, York
Boogan, Selma	Pfegrove, Lin.
Bishop, Lin.	Malone, Holdrege
Jones, Omaha	Mossman, Falls C.
O'Brien, S. Omaha	Debus, Sabetha
Austin, Lin.	Scott, Col. View
Roswick, G. I.	Armstrong, Lin
Rauer, Lin.	Taylor, Beatrice
Masterson, Lin.	LaBounty, Curtis
Norwood, York	Minnick, Orwida
	Bowwell, Reva.
