Nebraska - Pitt Game Broadcast Next Saturday Brings Memories Of First Broadcast 9 Years Ago

Recollections of the history-making broadcast from station KDKA, Pittsburgh's 50,000 watt "pioneer broadcaster," of the Husker-Pitt football classic played at Pittsburgh in 1921 will be recalled by ardent Nebraska supporters, when the Nebraska-Pittsburgh football game goes on the air from station KFAB at Memorial stadium, Saturday.

Played at Forbes field, National league baseball park, where prior to the construction of the huge new Panther stadium, all Pitt games were played, the contest marked the initial encounter of the two schools.

Huskers Win. The Cornhuskers pulled out with a 10-0 victory in as thrilling a fray as ever witnessed by the East. The Pitt eleven, coached by the famous "Pop" Warner, had two or three all Americans in the lineup and was rated by scribes and football sages alike "the pride of the East."
