By GUY CRAIG.

Nebraska's decisive victory over the Kansas Jayhawkers featured the week's play in the Big Six. The Nebraska win leaving Oklahoma at the top of the Big Six standings while Kansas and the Huskers are tied up for second place. The standings at this stage of the game are more surprising than ever when one remembers that not even the most enthusiastic Oklahoma supporter expected the Sooners to be at the top when practice began.

The Missouri Tigers served notice on Nebraska fans that the game at Lincoln this week end will not be the set-up Husker followers expected when they trounced Iowa State. The Kansas Aggies bowed their heads in defeat to the University of West Virginia in the other game of the week end.

Missouri climbed out of the cellar by virtue of their defeat of the Cyclones and still have a possible chance at the title though it is so remote a possibility that little consideration can be given to it. The Tigers took to the air to gain their first conference victory of the season. Collins and VanDyne crossing the goal line after receiving passes. The Missouriians beat Iowa State at their own game, gaining 112 yards by way of the aerial route while the Cyclones connected on only three attempts. The victory stamps Missouri as a real threat to the Nebraska team this week end. Gwinn Henry's team having developed rapidly in the last two weeks.

The Kansas Aggies, after gaining a touchdown in the first few minutes of play, wilted before the West Virginia attack and lost an inter-sectional game to the Mountaineers. This is the third time this year that the east has won against members of the Big Six in inter-sectional conflicts. The West Virginia backfield did not open up until the third quarter and from that time on out the Aggies did not have much chance.

Little Doubt Felt. Nebraska's defeat of Kansas was not exactly an upset but the Husker victory left little doubt as to the supremacy of Coach Bible's pupils. Taking the offensive early in the game when an alert Husker forward captured a Jayhawk fumble, Nebraska played "heads up" football throughout the remainder of the game and there was little doubt as to the final outcome. Nebraska played the kind of football the coaching staff had expected it to play and the result was a decisive victory.

The famous "goal line defense" of the Huskers was again in evidence, the Nebraskaans turning Kansas back when it looked as though the Jayhawkers were going to push over a touchdown. To cap the climax, the Huskers swarmed through the line and dropped the famous Mr. James Bausch for a four yard loss on an attempted end run when the insurance salesman was attempting to rush across the touchdown.

Greenberg, Rhea Star. Elmer Greenberg played the best defensive game he has shown all year, intercepting two passes in addition to his tackling to show that linemen are also to be considered by the opponents. Hugh Rhea was all over the field and in every play. Several times during the afternoon he went through the line and ran the ball carrier down from behind when he was attempting to circle the other end.

In the games this week end Kansas will have a chance to topple Oklahoma from the top of the Big Six when the two teams meet at Lawrence. A Kansas victory will place the Huskers, Oklahoma and Kansas in a tie for first place if Nebraska succeeds in turning back Missouri in a homecoming battle here in Lincoln. Kansas Aggies and Iowa State will tangle in the other game of the coming week end.

Construction of four all-weather tennis courts was recently started at the University of North Carolina. The hard surface will consist of a deep layer of crushed rock which will be treated with a layer of oil poured on while hot. Before the oil cools, a layer of cedar sawdust will be spread on and packed with a heavy roller.

received its first results on Nov. 20, 1920, when the first official university Dan's Day was held at the University of Illinois. More than 2,000 fathers attended the exercises.

"PHOG" ALLEN is quoted by the Chicago Tribune as saying that "The Big Six needs Kansas more than Kansas needs the Big Six." This startling information may come in for a little bit of argument as there are very few organizations in which the members are greater than the organization itself.

Sentiment about the Jayhawk campus seemed to be that Missouri is at the bottom of the entire affair and the Kansas followers are determined to take out their spite on the Tigers. It's human nature to start throwing the blame on somebody else when you do not have an adequate defense and Kansas is no exception to the rule. It's simply the old army game of "passing the buck."

STADIUM gossip has it that Hugh Rhea should be numbered among the greatest tackles Nebraska has had. Elmer Greenberg deserves All-Conference recognition for the way he has played this year. Missouri is going to be a tougher nut to crack than Kansas was. Lawrence Ely resembles Hutchinson and should develop into a great center. One of the loyal Cornhuskers who went down on the "Special" slept through the game. Boys and girls were not separated on the return trip as planned. It was Ely and Kreizinger instead of Frahm who stopped Jim Bausch for a four yard loss when Kansas was threatening the goal. A great amount of glass was found broken in the Kansas stadium after the game. If all the liquor consumed last week end was placed in a pond it would float a battleship. The game Saturday was quite "rough."

SEPARATION of men and women on the special train was not such a howling success. There was plenty of howling but the success of the plan is doubtful. The general plan seemed to be to allow everybody to settle. Then one of the chaperones would run down the aisle and order all women to the back of the train. When the coeds arrived in the last three cars they would find the seats had all been taken and they would immediately start a stampede toward the cars up in front in a frantic search for their dates.

At periodic intervals this process would be repeated until even the faculty supervisors tired of the commotion.

And to think—the idea of this plan was to allow students to get a little sleep!

HAROLD FRAHM drew credit for the first field goal of the Big Six calendar year. Frahm's kick carried about thirty-four yards and when it soared over the top of the uprights it had about ten yards to spare.

Frahm also played a fine defensive game during the afternoon and gave a nice exhibition of ball lugging. His efforts during the afternoon boosted him into second place in the Big Six scoring race. James Bausch of Kansas holds the leading position, although failing to score against Nebraska.

WITH Missouri looming before them, Nebraska squad members are not going to have any rest this week. The Tigers from Columbia have performed an about face and stand a chance of knocking the Huskers off their perch if the team here gets too cocky. Missouri has had the unhappy faculty of being able to upset Nebraska plans several times in the past and this year may be no exception. After the fine licking handed out to Kansas it would be a shame to ruin the good work by allowing over-confidence to lose a game.

Gwinn Henry, according to statements published Sunday, is quite pleased with Missouri's showing in the last two games and is pointing towards Nebraska. A win over the Huskers would change a season from bad to wonderful for the Bengals and it is a safe bet that Missouri will "shoot the works" this Saturday.

BIBLE STRESSES MISSOURI POWER IN TALK MONDAY

Points to Showing Tigers Have Made in Last Two Contests.

TEAM GETS LIGHT DRILL Huskers Come Through K. U. Tilt Stiff and Sore But Uninjured.

A slightly bruised and weary Nebraska football team began preparations Monday night for the battle with the Missouri Tigers this week end. The game with the Bengals is the occasion for homecoming and several thousand alumni are expected to be in the stadium for the battle Saturday afternoon.

No serious casualties were suffered in the Kansas game but the entire squad showed the effect of the hard playing. Bruises and bumps were very much in evidence, though none of the injuries are likely to prove serious enough to keep any man out of the game with Missouri.

Bible Stresses Power. After a short talk in which Coach D. X. Bible stressed the power Missouri has displayed in the last two games, the squad was sent through a dummy scrimmage. Coach Bill Day's Nubbins will present Missouri plays for the varsity to look over later in the week but the Monday night workout was merely exercises to get the kinks out of muscles.

Missouri, after a bad start, has done an about face to win both of its last two games, with Drake and Iowa State. The decisive win scored over Iowa State is an indication of the strength of the Tigers as Nebraska barely eked out a 14-12 victory over the Cyclones. Comparative scores mean little, however, as Nebraska has shown a marked improvement since their game with Iowa State.

Huskers Hold Edge. Since 1911 the Huskers and Missouri have met on the gridiron twelve times. In an even dozen engagements Nebraska has won seven games, Missouri three and two battles have ended in ties. The Tigers have proved to be one of the worst stumbling blocks to Nebraska in the past few years. In 1925 they won a 9 to 6 victory, and the following year they pulled one of the biggest surprises of the year when they turned back Nebraska 14 to 7. In 1927 they duplicated their victories of the past two years when they managed to squeeze out ahead, 7 to 6.

In 1928 Nebraska got back into the win column when they plastered a 24 to 0 win over the Tigers, completely outclassing a strong Missouri team. Last year Nebraska was lucky to get a 7 to 7 tie at Columbia. Missouri is coming to Lincoln with a team that has everything to win and nothing to lose. If they are licked the followers of the Missourians will say they expected it. If they win it will be a big season for Missouri. And with the power Missouri has displayed in the last few games, the battle this week end is going to be a tough one to win, in the opinion of veteran observers.

KANSAS CONSIDERS BID TO CONFERENCE

School Asked to Send Group To Student-Faculty Meetings.

LAWRENCE, Kas.—The University of Kansas has received an invitation to the national student-faculty conference to be held in Detroit, Mich., Dec. 27 to 31. This conference will discuss the definite need of serious thought on important campus questions. Chancellor Lindley has expressed his approval of the conference by a letter sent to Sam Carter, president of the Y. M. C. A., in which he said, "I sincerely trust that our students and faculty will appreciate the significance of the conference and share in the benefits thereof."

Prof. Henry Werner, chairman of the committee will issue invitations to an interested group of students and faculty members for a meeting within the next two weeks to prepare some preliminary information for the use of the national committee. The committee will also consider promising representatives for the university. The quota for K. U. is one faculty member, two students, the chan-

John Uhl, Social Sciences Janitor, Has Been Football Fan Since 1880

BY CARL BEEKMAN.

Old John Uhl, the chubby, good natured janitor of Social Sciences, has been with the university since 1880 and only on rare occasions has missed a Nebraska football game.

He can scarcely remember the first game at which he was a ticket taker but he can recall some of the interesting incidents. The game took place on a rough field where Bessey hall now stands. Crude wooden bleachers were erected to accommodate a crowd of about 400 people, and a smaller stand for the university band of about twenty pieces. There were about fifteen men who were financially able to purchase football suits and five more who played with just ordinary street clothes. If twenty men showed up to play in the game it was considered a large one.

Six Hundred Big Crowd. In the early days of football at Nebraska, 600 people at a game was considered an enormous crowd. Papers would exclaim for weeks on the large crowd if just afternoon.

John got a great laugh out of telling a story about Judge Hayward's son from Beatrice. It seems that the paternal relative had forbidden his son to play football. But as all sons do, this particular one disobeyed his father's wishes and played. The judge seemed to get the idea that his son was playing so, the next game, he came here and found his son was out on the gridiron. Before the game was over the judge became so impressed and interested in the game that after it was over he complimented his son on the way he played.

John was not only a ticket-taker at all of the football games but he also collected them at all the "hops" at the downtown hotel and city auditorium.

Huskers Not to Meet Jayhawks, Gish Announces

By action of the faculty representatives at the recent meeting held to investigate charges of subsidization and recruiting against Kansas university, the Jayhawk school will not be included on the 1931 football schedule of Nebraska.

This statement was made by Herb Gish, Nebraska athletic director, yesterday. The Kansas university game for next year was automatically canceled by this action, Gish said.

GAMMA PHIS ENTER SPEEDBALL FINALS

Win From Kappa Deltas in Fast Passing Game by 6 to 0 Score.

In the semifinals of the women's speedball tournament last night the Gamma Phi Beta's won from the Kappa Delta's by a score of 6-0. This victory places the Gamma Phi's in the finals against the Phi Mu's Wednesday night.

The Gamma Phi's opened the first quarter with a passing attack toward their goal, but were kept from scoring by the good guarding of Alice Jensen of the Kappa Delta team. One goal was made when Alice Buffet caught the ball which was thrown by Margaret McKechnie.

The second quarter opened around the Kappa Delta goal but they were not able to score. However, the Gamma Phi's completed two passes for goals when Martha Sterriker passed to Herma Beckman making the score 4-0. Martha Sterriker again passed to Alice Buffet which made the score 6-0.

Both teams played very hard in the third and fourth quarters but were unable to change the score. The Kappa Delta's were not able to get within scoring distance of their goal due to the good guarding of the Gamma Phi's.

The finals promised, to be a good game of professional speedball with most of the scores made by the aerial route. Both the Phi Mu's and the Gamma Phi Beta's use passing in preference to kicking, so it will be up to the girls to use all of their basketball technique, especially guarding.

400 attended it. At one time the athletic department guaranteed the Minnesota team $1,600 if they would play here and students were held spellbound at this large figure. This figure compared with one of today would scarcely purchase the train tickets to a game at Minnesota.

BOWLING FOR COEDS BEGINS THIS WEEK

Practices Already Started; Official Tournament Starts Monday.

Coed bowling enthusiasts will have an opportunity to display their prowess next week when the women's intramural tournament will begin. Practices may be held any day this week at the Lincoln Bowling Parlors.

The tournament last year was won by the Sigma Eta Chi group, with the Alpha O's as runnersup. As was the procedure last year, there are five players on each team, and only one major is allowed on each team. Nov. 17 will begin the tournament which will be of round robin nature. The teams will be divided into leagues, and the team winning the greatest number of games in its league will enter an elimination tournament between the league winners for the title. Games will be played between 4 and 6 o'clock each evening. If team members cannot play at the time set, they are asked to notify the office one day before the game. In case of forfeit, the team reporting for the game must bowl the game. A game will be forfeited after one team has waited fifteen minutes after the hour set for their opponents.

If substitutes are used in a group that has more than one team entered, they may not shift from one team to another, but must remain constant to one team.

Representatives are asked to notify the intramural office not later than noon of Nov. 14 of group entries. A group may enter as many teams as it desires. Julia Simanek, intramural head of bowling, will answer any questions regarding this sport.

Practices will continue this week. Groups desiring to enter teams that know nothing of the game may receive instruction any hour on any day this week at the bowling parlors.
