

MORE PEP SEEN IN BIBLEMEN'S DRILL TUESDAY

Varsity Shows First Real Fire Since Game With Kansas Uni.

FIRST STRING CHANGE

Brown Takes Mathis' Place At Quarter in Last Night's Practice.

By MURLIN SPENCER.

Nebraska showed the first real fire Tuesday night that has been evident since the Kansas game more than a week ago. Every man was on his toes, and plays were clicking with good results. None of the overconfidence so evident in practice last week could be seen, and the varsity evidently realizes that the game with the University of Iowa this Saturday will be anything but a set up.

Brown Replaces Mathis.

Only one change was seen in the first string lineup. Louis Brown was in at quarter in place of Mathis. Brown is the man that returned one of the Missouri punts thirty yards in one of the most spectacular plays of the game.

The first part of the evening was spent in dummy practice for the backfield, while the line was sent through a separate workout. The remainder of practice was spent working on an offense. The first string lineup consisted of Hokuf and Fruka, ends; Rhea and Baordstone, tackles; Greenberg and Koster, guards; Ely, center; with Brown, Frahm, Young and Kreizinger making up the backfield.

Passing Combination.

A passing combination of Long to Packer and Young to Kreizinger was functioning smoothly with a good percentage of passes being completed for gains.

Coach Browne's freshman team gave the varsity their first taste of Iowa plays.

A long scrimmage will be held today in Memorial stadium, with the Cornhuskers going up against the first year men.

THE starting lineup for the Huskers at Iowa City this Saturday may have a new face in it. Louis Brown was calling signals for the varsity Tuesday night and gave a good account of himself in the workout. "Brownie" has spent most of his time on the bench this season but it looks as though he was putting in a bid for honors at this late part of the year.

The Husker passing defense also showed signs of really developing into something. Long to Packer and Young to Kreizinger were the two combinations that proved most effective. It takes a lot of optimism, however, to get excited about Nebraska's aerial offense when one remembers the exhibition in the Missouri game. The pass offense in the game with the Tigers fizzled terribly with the exception of one or two nice passes.

EVEN though Nebraska cannot play Notre Dame again, one of the men who once wore the Scarlet and Cream will be in the lineup which opposes the Rockne team this week end.

"Reb" Russell, who wore the crimson jersey for one year, is now one of the powers in the Northwestern backfield. Reb has enjoyed a good year up at Evanston and critics are speaking quite favorably concerning his line plunging ability.

While enrolled at Nebraska, Russell was forced to confine his activities to signal calling with the exception of one or two games. The few times he carried the ball in the late part of the season he had all the earmarks of a real line plunger and his development at Northwestern has lent proof to this belief.

TWO all-state men, when they were in high school, are carrying the brunt of Nebraska's offense this year which goes to show that some men selected on such mythical elevens are really deserving of the honor.

Bob Young, the red haired flash from Norfolk, was chosen an all-state halfback while attending Norfolk high school. According to some of Young's high school mates, he was one of the flashiest men in the northeastern part of the state and the Norfolk team was built around him.

Buster Long, the Wyoming cowboy, was chosen on the Wyoming all-state team and led his team to a state championship his last year in high school while attending the public schools at Buffalo, Wyo. Reports of men who played on this team with Long are that he was the class of Wyoming that year, a real triple threat man.

WITH the scheduling of the 1931 A. A. U. championships for Lincoln, Coach Schulte probably executed a dance of joy. It is the ambition of Schulte to enter a team in the junior division of this meet which will have a chance of winning the team trophy.

Members of the Nebraska varsity squad this year and any alumni who would care to get in shape to compete would once more wear the "N" suits in an effort to bring further glory to Nebraska.

IN talking with several of the track men now in school, the wish was expressed that the men competing for Nebraska in this meet should represent the "N" club, rather than merely saying they were from Nebraska.

This idea was an excellent one. The "N" club is the logical group which should sponsor the entries of Nebraska in this epochal meet and it is to be hoped that the suggestions of these two athletes will meet with the approval of the "N" club.

PITT SPORTS EDITOR LAUDS CORNHUSKERS

Says Nebraskans Have Good Line That Knows How To Fight.

Cornhusker brand of football rates in at least one eastern institution according to sporting writers in the Pitt Weekly.

Bob Lytle, sports editor of the Pittsburgh university students' paper pays a tribute to the fighting qualities of the Nebraska football players in this manner:

"After watching Pitt stop Carnegie within a step of the goal line it is a little easier to realize why the Panthers failed to push the ball over against Nebraska. The Cornhuskers have a great line and those Nebraska boys do know how to fight. Pitt's line faced the same situation last Saturday and the Tartans failed just like the Panthers failed at Lincoln. A strong line is plenty effective against even the best attacks when the distance to the goal line is only a few feet away."

This same sports writer has proved to be a poor guesser as to the outcome of Pitt games. He picked Pittsburgh to defeat Notre Dame 21 to 0 and the score turned out to be 35 to 19 in favor of Notre Dame! He predicted Pittsburgh would wallop the Cornhuskers 14 to 0 and the contest ended in a scoreless tie.

IOWA U BEGINS TO GET SET FOR HUSKER BATTLE

Hawkeyes Are Spurred On By 19 to 0 Victory Over Penn State.

POSSIBLE .500 AVERAGE

Team Encouraged to Beat Nebraska With Better Percent in View.

IOWA CITY, Ia.—Fresh from a 19 to 0 triumph over Penn State, the University of Iowa entered preparations for the game with the University of Nebraska here this week end. The prospect of finishing the season with a .500 percent average is arousing the Hawkeyes and they will be set for the invasion of Dana X. Bible and his Cornhuskers this Saturday.

The Old Gold exhibited a fine pass defense against Penn State last week. Penn State completing only six out of twenty aerial attempts. Encouraged by their showing against the easterners, Ingwersen's men are confident they will close the 1930 season with a win.

Long Time Since Meeting. All the players on the two squads this year were probably playing grade school football when the Huskers and Hawkeyes last met on the gridiron. Captain Lohman, the Devines, Slater and Beidinger romped on Paul Dobson's scarlet shirts for an 18 to 0 win on the old Iowa field.

Coach Ingwersen is expected to pull several surprise plays on the Cornhuskers, plays he has been saving all season. A win over the Bible squad would not only increase Iowa's prestige but would turn a very mediocre season into one of satisfaction.

Iowa is preparing not only to entertain the football team but also to greet about 1,000 Cornhusker followers. The occasion designated as Iowa and Nebraska day, is planned as a rally for civic club members of the adjacent states. The Hawkeyes' grid record for the season:

- Iowa 28, Bradley 12
- Iowa 6, Oklahoma Aggies 6
- Iowa 12, Centenary 18
- Iowa 6, Purdue 20
- Iowa 7, Detroit 3
- Iowa 8, Marquette 7
- Iowa 19, Penn State 0

HELEN LOHMEIER LEADS IN CANDY SALES AT GAME

For the second time during the season Helen Lohmeier won the first prize as highest saleswoman in the W. A. A. concessions at the Missouri game Saturday. Virginia Larson took second place which was closely contested by the amounts sold by Mary Poole and Janie Lehnhoff.

Mildred McGilney was the highest saleswoman of "hot dogs" and will receive an award.

More than one hundred fifty girls reported to sell. A similar number will be permitted to sell at the Thanksgiving game. Any girls desiring to fill the positions vacated by persons going home for the holidays, should notify Clarice McDonald in her office in the armory or Bereniece Hoffman, concession manager.

K-AGGIES TO MEET CENTER THIS WEEK

'Praying Colonels' From Kentucky Will Play at Manhattan.

MANHATTAN, Kas.—Center college will come here Saturday to meet the Kansas Aggies, who are coached by Bo McMillin. Center's most illustrious alumni and All America quarterback of a decade ago.

It was while Alvin N. "Bo" McMillin was leading the "Praying Colonels" that the little team from Kentucky jumped from obscurity into the headlines by defeating Harvard and West Virginia. After the surprising feats of the Center team they were selected by the late Walter Camp as one of the great teams in the country.

Defeated West Virginia. The defeat of West Virginia was all the more startling to the sporting world as West Virginia had been picked as the national champions before their upset at the hands of the "Praying Colonels."

The Center-Aggie game this year was arranged largely because of McMillin's connection with the Kentucky college, for unless the Colonels have improved much over 1928 when they came into the Big Six conference and lost to Missouri 60 to 0, the result will not be much in doubt.

ing for Center are Cronkite and Swartz, the former being one of the best tackles in the conference in addition to doing a great deal of punting. Swartz plays end, halfback and fullback, sometimes all in one game, and opponents never know whether to watch him as a ball carrier, pass receiver or blocker.

The Aggies will meet the University of Nebraska at Lincoln on Thanksgiving day to close their 1930 season.

Freshmen at the University of Colorado were required to paint "Beat Utah" on their pants as part of the pep demonstration before Colorado's final football game Saturday.

IOWA DEAN DENIES RUMOR OF CAR BAN

Robert E. Rienow Declares His School Not Taking Such a Measure.

IOWA CITY, Ia.—Denial that the administration of the University of Iowa was contemplating a rule prohibiting students from the use of automobiles was made here by Dean Robert E. Rienow. According to Dean Rienow, rumors that the administration might take such a step arose from the fact that a census of student cars was being compiled. This step, he said, was taken following two automobile tragedies recently, and on the recommendation of the men's Panhellenic council.

"Naturally, with the agitation that has arisen following the two tragedies," he added, "the attention of the administration has been drawn to the student car problem and, as should be expected, administrative officers of the university are giving serious consideration and study to the problem to the end that if anything constructive and helpful can be done to remedy the situation and prevent such accidents in the future, it will be done."
