COUNCIL WILL PASS ON NEW CONSTITUTION

Proposed Plan Government To Be Considered at Meeting Tomorrow.

TO SETTLE PROBLEMS Status of Other Ruling Bodies Is to Be Decided.

Adoption or rejection of the proposed new constitution for the student council as the first step toward student government is the big item of business before the student council when it meets tomorrow afternoon. The draft of the constitution will be completed at the meeting of the constitution committee, headed by Edwin Faulkner, this afternoon.

Indications point against the adoption of the document in its final form in tomorrow's meeting. However, the general outline of the new plan with its principle provisions will be made then. The three big problems in drawing up the document will be settled at the meeting also. Subsequent work will consist of wording the document and final acceptance of the draft by the council.

Seek Power.

A student council with ruling power rather than powers of recommendation is the end toward which the council is working, Faulkner says. "The conception which the committee is attempting to put across is a student council of consequence in student affairs. It would form the connecting link between the faculty on the one hand and the student body on the other. The council at the present time has no powers. We would give it some definite authority."

The steps taken by the council toward adoption of a new constitution were begun last year during the second semester. The question of the powers of the body arose directly out of the wrangle over the abolition of minor class officers. Early in the second semester last year the student council took action and abolished minor class officers. The recommendation went to the faculty committee on student organizations which tabled the matter.

Origin of Wrangle.

In the meantime the minor class officers in three of the classes were elected. The council then passed another law abolishing the officers. From this situation arose the wrangle over the powers of the council which is to be settled at the council's meeting tomorrow. There have been several obstacles in the path of the council, chief of which has been the opposition of the various other student ruling bodies, mainly the Interfraternity council and the A. W. S. board. Champions of both bodies have

George Lee and His Band of Dusky Crooners Will Bring Melodies From Southern Cotton Fields to Campus

BY DONALDE CARLSON.

Out of the southland cotton fields, birthplace of the elemental rhythms of modern music, came George E. Lee and his orchestra two years ago to win acclaim as one of the best colored bands now broadcasting or recording. Now, known for their twelve Brunswick records and many radio broadcasts, this band will appear for the first time in Lincoln at the Military ball, Friday, Dec. 5, at the coliseum.

This orchestra, now under contract to play this winter in New Orleans, during the annual Mardi Gras and having just recorded three Brunswick tunes, "Lita," "Since I've Been With You," and "New Stuff," is rated along with Duke Ellington, Fletcher Henderson and similar popular bands as typifying the "jungle" rhythm.

Recorded St. James Infirmary. Nebraska students have heard few nationally known orchestras on this campus during the past several years and it was a "good day" for the military department when they signed this bronzed leader and his twelve horn blowers.

Last year George E. Lee and his band released "St. James Infirmary" followed by such records as "He's Tall, Dark and Handsome," "Ruff Scuffin'" and "Come Over to My House." A New York recording of "If I Could Be With You" was then made.

In all recordings and broadcast presentations George E. Lee and

DECORATIONS FOR FORMAL TO TAKE FORM OF CASTLE

Floor for Military Ball to Be Covered With Canopy, Flood Lighted.

PLAN COMMAND POSTS

Majors Will Occupy Corners As Hosts; Lounges to Be Provided.

Attempting a new theme of decoration for the coliseum, the twenty-second annual Military ball, Friday Dec. 5, will be given in a medieval castle, according to Capt. R. G. Lehman, in charge of decorations.

Entirely covered by a canopy upon which will be emblazoned military and university colors, the floor will be illuminated by flood lights. Greenery will cover the walls to further envelop the floor and hold the echo of the music.

Command Posts.

An original idea for Nebraska Military balls was conceived by the battalion commanders, Alan Williams, Burton Bridges and R. Stanley Day. In the four corners of the dance floor will be erected command posts which are an integral part of every battle.

Each major and his sponsor will be joint hosts during the evening at each one of these posts with the four company commanders and their sponsors in attendance. The fourth command post will be occupied by the "fourth battalion," consisting of the headquarters company, Pershing Rifles and the band. Punch will be served from each command post, chairs and lounges will be provided and a maid will be in attendance.

Special Arrangements for Band.

Special arrangements are being made for George E. Lee and his orchestra to enable them to carry out the theme of the medieval times.

Plans for the presentation of the honorary colonel are being kept secret, according to Lehman, for the reason of providing surprises for those attending the ball. It was hinted by him, however, that this presentation will be made in direct coherence with the general theme of decoration.

Several plans of decoration were studied before deciding on the medieval, according to Lehman, which was adopted because of its unusualness and the opportunities it lends for magnificent decoration.

KLUB CALLS FOR SPRING MUSICAL COMEDY PLAYS

Any Student Eligible to Enter Drama in Annual Contest for Prize.

REVIEW IN TWO WEEKS

Synopsis of Work Must Be Ready Week Before Holiday Recess.

A call for manuscripts for the spring musical comedy was issued by the University of Nebraska Kosmet Klub late yesterday. This is the official start of the annual contest held each year to obtain a play for the club.

Any student of the university is entitled to compete. Manuscripts should be of a length to require from an hour and a half to two hours for playing. Students entering a musical comedy in the contest must have a synopsis ready to present the club the week before Christmas vacation. The entire play must be written and ready to hand in the week following vacation.

Reward to Author.

A monetary remuneration will be awarded the author of the play chosen for the 1930 spring production of the club. Manuscripts which contain music with lyrics as well as dialogue, will be given extra consideration, according to Carl Hahn, president of the club.

The spring musical comedy is one of the main activities of Kosmet Klub on the university campus. Until last year, the show was regularly taken on the road and produced in various Nebraska towns. The show is usually an all male production, although the 1929 edition broke precedent with a mixed cast. Authors should keep in view, however, that the show may be given by an all male cast and should write their manuscripts accordingly.

The main idea, according to Hahn, is that the show be an entirely university affair—written and staged by students at Nebraska.

Fraternity Men Surpass General Scholastic Average of All Male Undergraduates, Says Alvan Duerr

The scholastic average of college fraternity men throughout the country is higher than the general scholastic average of all male undergraduates, according to a statement made today by Alvin E. Duerr, chairman of the scholarship committee of the Interfraternity conference. This statement was made in a report at the annual meeting of the conference at the Hotel Pennsylvania, New York City, to delegates of seventy national fraternities having a total membership of 750,000 men, of whom 60,000 are undergraduates.

The conference, which has during the last twenty-four years directed its efforts toward developing the last twenty-one years of operative element in the American system of college education, has for the past five years had special emphasis on scholarship. In each of those years the conference has made an exhaustive statistical survey of the scholarship of fraternity and non-fraternity men in 125 colleges and universities throughout the country where there are more than four fraternities. The data for such surveys was furnished by the administrative authorities of the colleges.

Consistent improvement. "Each one of these years," Mr. Duerr declared, "has shown consistent improvement over its predecessor. For the college year 1929-1930 the complete returns from 125 institutions having a male en-

BURNETT'S WORK IN AGRICULTURE IS RECOGNIZED

Chancellor Is Honored at Chicago Dinner Where Portrait Unveiled.

SPEAKER LAUDS CAREER

Gramlich Tells Nebraskan's Experiments in Animal Husbandry.

Chancellor E. A. Burnett was honored Saturday evening in Chicago when his portrait was unveiled for the gallery of the Saddle and Sirlin club at the annual banquet of the American Society of Animal Production. The chancellor was recognized for his superior work in the field of animal husbandry.

I. J. Gramlich, past president of the club, made the address in presenting the portrait. Gramlich traced the chancellor's career from the time he came to the University of Nebraska thirty years ago as head of the department of animal husbandry at the state agricultural college through his rise from the rank of professor to director of the experiment station, dean of the college of agriculture and lastly to chancellor of the university.

Praises Work.

Mr. Gramlich praised Chancellor Burnett's work in the experimental field, and declared that his work in developing the strength of bones in hogs was still looked upon as a masterpiece. He also stated that Burnett was the first experimenter in the feeding of wheat to cattle for fattening purposes. Gramlich recalled that the steer, Challenger, which won the championship at the International Livestock exhibition several years ago, was fitted and exhibited during Chancellor Burnett's regime at the agricultural college.

Chancellor's Reply.

Chancellor Burnett in reply stated that agricultural colleges are contributing more to fitting youth for life work than any other class of schools. The chancellor spoke extemporaneously and recalled that forty years ago there were no agricultural colleges in Nebraska and told how the development of such schools aided in the development of Nebraska.

James W. Riley, president of the association, greeted the chancellor in behalf of the organization. Dean Coffey, of the University of Minnesota, was toastmaster.

COUSINS TO DISCUSS TROUBLES OF INDIA

'Liberation in Education' Will Be Irish Poet's Subject Dec. 11.

India's troubles and her people as seen by the Irish poet and educator, Dr. James H. Cousins, who has spent thirteen years in school work in India, will be discussed in his address on "Liberation in Education" at the University of Nebraska convocation Dec. 11 in the Temple theater.

Dr. Cousins lived in India between 1915 and 1928, served as professor of English and principal in the University of Madras, founded and directed for six years the Brahmavidya Ashrama at Madras. This Ashrama was a school for the synthesis of the world-culture and included students and lecturers from all parts of the earth.

A graduate lecturer in St. Mahatma Gandhi's school at Ahmedabad as well as at numerous other Indian universities is a rank which Dr. Cousins still holds. His close association with the Gandhi school has given him an insight into the Gandhi movement which he will discuss briefly.

Dr. Cousins' primary interest is in poetry. He has written twenty volumes, most of which deal with his native country of Ireland.
