Committee.

Eddie Jungbluth's collegians, a novel prize contest, and a general valentine theme are some of the outstanding features which will be presented at the All-University party to be held at the coliseum Saturday night, according to Alan Williams, chairman of the barb council in charge of the event.

"In the contest which we will conduct as the last and crowning feature of the party we feel that we have something which will provide a source of interest and amusement," Williams asserted.

Audience to Judge Calls

The general idea of the contest is a test of one's ability to recognize bird calls. A radio entertainer, who specializes in the imitation of bird cries will give ten imitations of well-known birds. Members of the audience, who will have slips which are to be passed out at the point of entrance, will fill in the calls as they believe they recognize them, and deposit their judgments as they leave. The four persons who turn in the most nearly correct slips will receive a dollar apiece as a prize remuneration. Names of the winners will be announced in The Daily Nebraskan next week.

Letter to Be Opened.

The signboard, southeast of pharmacy hall, has been decorated in the form of a Valentine letter to all University of Nebraska students. This letter is to be opened revealing an open invitation to the party with a description of the program, entertainment, and party arrangements, will be opened later in the week.

A full program of entertainment will be presented in addition to the bird-calling contest. Williams announced. The nature of this program is not to be revealed until later in the week, it was declared.

Staples, Exhibitor, Tries to Teach New Americans to Save Indian Crafts

By ART WOLF
"I don't know where the Indians came from and the Lord knows where they are going," said B. L. Staples in speaking of his exhibit of Indian art and craftsmanship in Morrill hall yesterday. "It is my purpose," he added, "to teach the new Americans the beauty and the need of preservation of the arts and crafts of the old Americans."

Staples stated that his exhibit was the only one of its type in the United States and that his purpose in showing these things was to educate America in the necessity of preserving these old arts. He is making collections to provide material for research work. "I am interested in their work, their own arts and crafts, and not in pictures and statuary made about them," he added.

Staples and his exhibit left Gallup, N. M., on Tuesday, January 27, 1931, for a tour of 29 states. Their itinerary includes some sixty engagements and will cover almost 15,000 miles. Their visits and exhibits are made only by invitation.

Highlights in their itinerary are presentations at Marshall Field and company in Chicago, the Worcester museum in Worcester, Mass., Grand Rapids library in Grand Rapids, Mich., Twentieth Century club in Washington, D. C., and Miss Chapin's school in New York City. On April 4, Mr. Staples will broadcast over the National Broadcasting chain.

Two regular sessions of nine and six weeks and six special sessions ranging from one to four weeks in length make up the program for the university summer school session for 1931. A special four weeks session on vocational agriculture will be offered from June 8 to July 3. In this session four courses adapted to the needs of agricultural teachers will be offered.

MARIONETTE DRAMA SCHEDULED FEB. 15

Miss Marjorie Shanafelt Makes Set of Puppets For Production.

An array of puppets consisting of witches, charming princes, demure princesses and a host of other fairylike characters have been completed by Miss Marjorie Shanafelt of the University of Nebraska museum staff and will be first used at a marionette play Feb. 15 in the Morrill hall auditorium.

A cast of university students who will be pulling the strings on the miniature players behind the scenes is already at work rehearsing for the first production. The fairy melodrama, "One Eye, Two Eyes, Three Eyes," will be the initial play featuring Miss Shanafelt's marionettes.

Two performances are being planned for the afternoon of Feb. 15. The first one will be given at 2:15 o'clock and the second at 3 o'clock in order to accommodate the crowd of children expected to attend the free program. If all are not able to see the play in the two performances, it will be repeated the following Sunday.

Miss Shanafelt has made and clothed all of the puppets for this first play. She has talked with puppet operators in Omaha recently to get plans for a series of plays she expects to give at the Morrill hall children's programs this season.

TASSELS TO DIRECT CORNHUSKER SALES

Over-Supply of Yearbooks Formerly Brings New Plan—Selleck.

SET GOAL 2,000 COPIES

A consistent over-supply of Cornhuskers, resulting each spring from the purchase of more yearbooks than are purchased by the students, has resulted in the new plan of disposing of copies of the annual, according to John K. Selleck, director of the student activities fund.

"For a long period of years we have had a surplus of from 100 to 700 Cornhusker yearbooks annually," Mr. Selleck pointed out. "Due to the excessive cost of printing an annual such as the Cornhusker and the monetary loss which inevitably accompanies an over-supply, we have found it necessary to institute a new system."

"This year the Cornhusker staff will be allowed to order only as many books as are ordered by students in advance. There will be absolutely no extra books for sale in the spring.

The final sales drive for the 1931 Cornhusker is being conducted during the current week under the sponsorship of the Tassels. This drive is to continue through Wednesday of next week, after which date no copies will be sold. There will, of course, be no possibility of reopening sales in the spring because there will be no extra books available.

Twelve hundred copies of the yearbook were purchased by students during the sales campaign last fall. Staff members and Tassels are now working toward a goal of 2,000 copies in order that completion of the book on the scale originally planned may be insured. Sales prices for the present drive are $5 cash or $5.50 on the installment plan with a $3 down payment and $2.50 on delivery of the book.

The editorial staff of the yearbook reports that work is progressing rapidly toward the completion of what they hope to be one of the best annuals in recent years. Special emphasis is being placed on the Cornhusker, and an original set of engravings are expected to add materially to the value of the book.

MORTAR BOARDS WILL SELL OPERA TICKETS

Include Resident District Cavans as Part of Service Program.

Mortar Board, as part of their service program for the year, will assist the university in its sale of tickets for the operas "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Il Pagliaccio" to be presented March 17 by the Chicago Civic Opera company at the university coliseum.

Each of the ten members of Mortar Board has been given a list of citizens in order that the residential district may be thoroughly canvassed.

This is the fourth season of grand opera at the University of Nebraska. The Chicago Civic Opera presented "Il Trovatore," "Faust," and "Carmen" to capacity crowds and Mortar Board is endeavoring to give everyone an opportunity to witness this year's performances which promise to be as colorful and spectacular as the preceding ones.

Members of Mortar Board are assisting in the opera performance under the auspices of the university and according to members of the women's senior honorary it is one of the outstanding musical treats of the season. Each Mortar Board member will personally supervise her list of prospective buyers in order that every citizen may have the opportunity to attend the opera.

SALES CAMPAIGN FOR GREEK BALL APPROACHES END

Set Limit on Tickets Sold
Not to Be Exceeded;
Price Is $2.50.

MOTEN'S BAND TO PLAY

Fourteen Recording Artists
Will Furnish Novel
Entertainment.

Interfraternity ball tickets are selling rapidly and Dick Bell, in charge of ticket sales for the affair, admonishes students who have not yet obtained their tickets to do so at once as the sales must not exceed the limit set, and that limit is being reached. The tickets for this mid-season event are selling at $2.50 and may be obtained at the book stores and from an Interfraternity council representative.

Benny Moten and his band of 14 Victor recorders will play for the fifth annual Interfraternity ball in the Cornhusker ballroom that has been scheduled to take place Saturday night. Moten's aggregation is well known throughout the country and Moten himself is famous as a composer of blues tunes.

Some of Moten's compositions are "Moten Stomp," "Kansas City Shuffle," "Band Box Shuffle," and "New Vine Street Blues." Other selections included in Moten's roster are "St. Louis Blues" and "Jelly Roll Blues."

Plays Varied Program.
The band plays a varied program of blues, stomps, and waltzes. Each member of the band is a talented entertainer, and each one will take a turn at amusing the dancers between dances and at intermission.

Robert Kinkadee, in charge of decorations, announced that he would release details of the decoration scheme tomorrow. The general plan will be in the nature of the modernistic fraternity row.

Chaperones selected for the ball are Prof. E. F. Schramm, Prof. and Mrs. T. T. Bullock, and Prof. and Mrs. F. C. Harper. Invitations have been extended to Chancellor and Mrs. E. A. Burnett, Dean and Mrs. T. J. Thompson, Dean and Mrs. J. E. LeRouge, Miss Elsie Piper, Capt and Mrs. R. G. Lehman, and Prof. and Mrs. C. J. Frankforter.

The ball is not limited to fraternity men, according to Marvin von Seggern, general chairman of the affair, but is open to all university students.

Provision has been made for increased checking facilities at the Cornhusker in order to get away from the usual 11:30 fight for wraps.

BLUE PRINT IS RATED 'A' FOR FOURTH TIME

January Engineering Sheet Commended for Good Editorial Work.

NEW BRIDGE DESCRIBED

The January issue of the Nebraska Blue Print, engineering college publication, was rated "A" according to word received from the headquarters of the Engineering College Magazines Associated. This is the fourth time that the Blue Print has received this rating out of the five issues put out this year. Ratings are based on the editorial content, appearance and general condition of the publication.

The January issue contains a description and the method of construction of the Ambassador bridge across the Detroit river, connecting the cities of Detroit and Windsor, Ontario. This bridge is one of the largest in the world, the main span being 1,550 feet long and reaching across the full navigable width of the river.

A story on Prof. C. J. Frankforter's new process of extracting sulphur from petroleum, and an article on the new university power plant are also contained in this issue. "The Largest Air Dock in the World," the massive airship hangar recently completed at Akron, Ohio, is an article by John T. Coffey, Jr., describing some interesting features of that immense structure. Numerous other items of interest to engineers are also contained in the January number.

4-H MEMBERS TOTAL THIRD OF AG ENROLLMENT

Pointing out that 4-H club members over Nebraska are progressive boys and girls, State Club Leader Frisbie showed this week figures that one-third of the students enrolled at the college of agriculture during the first semester were former club members.

Frisbie showed by his figures that there are more former 4-H club boys enrolled at the college than former club girls. His chart proves that out of the 591 students in the college for the first semester, a total of 171 come from former 4-H club ranks.

Nearly one-half of the freshmen boys enrolled at the college the first semester are former club members. The percentage of former club members taking home economics is less, but this may be explained by the fact that many of the majors in that department are girls coming from towns and cities in Nebraska.

DEBATE COACH SETS DATE FOR TRYOUTS

Aspirants Will Argue On Freed Trade Question Thursday Night.

Debate tryouts to pick two teams from the University of Nebraska on the free trade question will be held Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock at the coliseum. Tuesday by H. A. White, varsity debate coach. Tryouts will be held in room 106, University hall.

MILITARY STOREROOM TO ISSUE UNIFORMS

Kidwell Announces New Men In R.O.T.C. May Have Drill Suits.

The military storeroom is now ready to issue uniforms to new students who have made their initial registration for military science at the beginning of the second semester. Col. F. A. Kidwell, director of the military stores department announced yesterday.

There is a good assortment of sizes on hand, he reported, and there should be no difficulty in giving applicants a proper fit.

Men who are now drawing uniforms should first make their deposit of $10 for drill suits at the finance secretary's office in the administration building. They will then receive a receipt, which when presented at room 4, Nebraska hall, will entitle them to a drill suit.

During the past four months there have been 1,480 basic uniforms issued. Colonel Kidwell said. In addition, there have been 79 uniforms drawn by juniors enrolled in the elective advanced course. Bandsmen have been issued 82 suits since the beginning of the year.

Mrs. Livingston Baldwin Crane Seeks Manners Book in 'Ladies of the Jury'

By ROSELINE PIZER.
Wanted! A new book on etiquette! A volume to cope with the problem of how to act in court. For further information see Mrs. Livingston Baldwin Crane any evening this week at the Temple theatre where she is "Lady of the Jury."

Mrs. Crane (Miss H. Alice Howell) is having an extremely difficult time with court etiquette. The judge, whom she knows personally, refused to give a civil answer to her excuse for being late to court and she told him that intimate friends of theirs were leaving the city that very day and she had said good-bye to them, and she very pointedly suggested that he leave the courtroom for a few minutes and perform the same courtesy.

"My ignorance of court etiquette is appalling," Mrs. Crane lamented when interviewed, "and I hope the court will be patient. I have always gone in the best society and I do want to commit a faux pas. What will my friends say?"

Mrs. Crane says that she is learning by experience although

Advices Changing of Placque Awards.

Marvin Von Seggern, 32, West Point was elected president of the Interfraternity council at a meeting of that body in Morrill hall last night. Edwin Faulkner, 32, Lincoln, was unanimously elected vice-president and Richard Devereaux, 52, Omaha, was made secretary-treasurer for the coming year.

Von Seggern has been active in council affairs for the past two years having been chairman of the council of the committee which recommended the minimum 72 average for initiation. At present he is chairman of the Interfraternity ball committee. He is also managing editor of a publicity committee, a member of the Corn Cobs. He is affiliated with Pi Kappa Alpha.

Officers Experienced.
Faulkner has served on various committees for the council and is also present on a publicity committee. Faulkner is a Phi Kappa Psi. Devereaux last year was chairman of the committee in charge of the Interfraternity banquet and this year acted as chairman of a committee to get a new placque design. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega.

Before relinquishing the chair to Von Seggern, President Fred Grau recounted the year's work of the council and thanked the council for its co-operation. He thanked Professor Schramm, Professor Frankforter, and Professor Harper for their assistance during the year and also thanked the office of the Dean of Women for its co-operation.

He stated that he believed the greatest thing the council had done this year was the establishment of a rule fixing the minimum initiation grade for fraternities at 72. He stated that the council had been highly commended on this step.

Grau Favors Change.
He also recommended a change in the method of awarding the placques. The present system awards placques to the fraternities with the least hours down. He stated that he believed an advantageous change could be made so as to allow the organizations with the highest averages to receive the awards.

Marvin Von Seggern, chairman of the Interfraternity ball committee, announced that all ball tickets were to be checked in by Friday evening at 5 o'clock. He stated that he would be in his office from 9 to 12 o'clock Friday morning and 2 to 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. The office is the Blue Print office in the Law building.

the experience is somewhat painful. She has already learned that the most address her friend, the judge, as "Your Honor." Imagine her chagrin! And she must rise too. Mrs. Crane is so truthful herself that at first she did not dream of doubting the word of the attorney for the prosecution. When she said she should prove the defendant guilty, and she was all ready to go home, but she is learning—oh, yes, she is learning fast.

Miss Pratt, also a jury woman, is something of copy-cut in asking questions of the witnesses as soon as Mrs. Crane does, but her questions are always of a religious nature, and the prejudiced judge always sustains the attorney's objections to them.

"Ladies of the Jury." Fred Ballard's hilariously funny comedy will be presented throughout this week at the Temple theatre. The play is highly amusing and is produced very well. The twelve members of the jury, with Miss Howell playing the leading role of Mrs. Crane, are well cast and play with a professional skill and deft touch which bring out the comedy in the play.
