Next meeting of the committee will be held in the Cornhusker offices, basement of University hall, at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon.

REGENTS WILL FIGHT SLASH, STOKES SAYS

Member of Board Declares Bryan Budget Will Cripple School.

OMAHA, Neb.—Regents of the University of Nebraska will fight to have the legislature overturn Governor Bryan's economy program so far as the university program is concerned, Dr. A. C. Stokes, regent, said Tuesday.

"If Governor Bryan will not budge from his position our only recourse will be an appeal to the legislature," Dr. Stokes said. "The governor's budget cripples the university and the medical school and college."

Dr. Stokes said the governor not only eliminated every appropriation for improvements at the medical college but cut the maintenance appropriation from $450,000 to $375,000.

"Of course we can get along without a new home although the present home is inadequate and a fire hazard, but we are in dire need of additional laboratory"

POLITICS REVIVE AFTER DORMANCY SINCE LAST FALL

Factions Holding Meetings As Second Semester Vote Approaches.

MILITARY ISSUE QUIET

Fate of New Student Council Constitution Still Is Unknown.

BY THE OBSERVER.

With second semester elections only twelve days away, a new student council constitution resting in the hands of a faculty sub-committee, and the compulsory military drill issue brewing with strange quietness there is much to think about in the line of things political.

Both campus factions, the Yellow Jackets and Blue Shirts alike, having disposed of Interfraternity council elections, have turned their eyes to the coming campaign. Secret meetings are frequent and the proverbial pot is seething with traditional fervor.

The Blue Shirts, possibly a bit confident in view of their sweeping success in the fall battle at the polls, will undoubtedly attempt to duplicate.

Will Attempt Comeback.

Opposition to this attempt, however will not be lacking for the Yellow Jackets, naturally imbued with the spirit of revenge, will attempt a comeback. This is not entirely impossible either, in view of their showing last spring. They will have a new argument in their favor which may have a slight psychological effect—they lived up to a campaign pledge and subscribed the number of new A-wags which they pledged in the fall.

As for the barb vote and campaign, that is always a doubtful element. The non-fraternity representation on the campus easily outnumbers the strength of either faction. The big barb problem lies in effecting an organization which will bring their representatives to the ballot box. If this can be accomplished, which is unlikely at (Continued on Page 3.)

OHIO STATE SENIORS TO GRADE TEACHERS

Value of Faculty Members Will Be Determined by New System.

ATHENS, O. Seniors at Ohio State will be asked during the spring quarter to pass judgment on the teaching ability of members of the faculty in whose classes they have been. Their replies will be used by the university in helping to determine the value of individual members of the teaching staff.

Final approval of this student grading of faculty members has been given by President Rightmire upon recommendation of the Student Senate faculty grading committee.

Questionnaires which will be used for senior students to grade their professors and instructors will be drawn up by the senate committee with the help of Dr. Ralph W. Tyler of the bureau of educational research.

Grading System Planned.
Dr. Tyler is devising a grading system and method of tabulation which will be used in handling of the questionnaires.

The seniors will probably be asked to give their personal estimate of members of the teaching staff on such matters as interest towards students, fairness in grading, liberal and progressive attitude, presentation of subject matter, sense of proportion and humor, self-reliance and confidence, personal peculiarities, personal appearance, and stimulating intellectual curiosity.

Results obtained on the questionnaires will be available only to President Rightmire, the board of trustees, and administrative officials.

The questionnaire results will furnish President Rightmire with the student viewpoint on faculty members.

Aims at Closer Contact.

The student grading system is one of the many projects included in President Rightmire's new personnel program in which he aims to form closer contact with the students.

A method of grading the faculty was suggested to the senate at a meeting in the autumn quarter. Consensus of opinion seemed to favor such a system. A committee was appointed to confer with administrative officials and to collect data and information from other universities where students grade the faculty.

STUDENTS WARNED TO BUY YEARBOOKS NOW

Publication Board Secretary Says No Copies Will Be Sold Later.

An emphatic last warning was officially sounded Wednesday afternoon when John K. Selleck, secretary to the publication board, announced that students have less than a week remaining in which they may purchase a 1931 Cornhusker. Only the number of books sold by Feb. 11 will be ordered, according to the official decision of Mr. Selleck. The letter follows:

To all students:
It appears that many students are still under the impression that copies of the 1931 Cornhusker will be placed on sale at the time of distribution of the book in the spring. It should be definitely understood by all that the management of the 1931 Cornhusker will not be allowed to order any extra books in excess of the number sold by Feb. 11. It is sincerely hoped that all students desiring an annual will place their orders immediately.

JOHN K. SELLECK,
Sec'y Pub. Board.
Students will have ample opportunity to purchase a yearbook before the final sales date, Feb. 11, is reached as an extensive organization of sales forces has been arranged. All members of the Tassel pep club are selling the annual as well as Cornhusker staff salesmen. A booth is being maintained in Social Sciences hall for sales purposes and staff members have been placed at different points on the campus.

Sales prices on the 1931 Cornhusker are $5 cash or $3 down and $2.50 upon receipt of the book in the spring.

'Ladies of the Jury' as Presented By Uni Players Includes Veritable Fashion Show of Bedroom Attire

Have you attended the style show being presented by University Players this week in the Temple theater? Of course, you have heard that it is a play called "Ladies of the Jury." But play or no play, the last act is the best style show featuring sleeping apparel that has been presented in Lincoln for many moons. The Co-Ed Follies will have to go some to beat it.

A pale cornflower blue negligee fashioned of shimmering lustrous satin and trimmed in blue marbled (looks like dyed ostrich feathers steamed up a bit) was one of the features of the revue. A delightful young miss modeled a clever pair of lounging pajamas—pink satin trimmed in lovely ecru lace. The blouse or top or whatever you may call it was a sort of Russian smock effect and the trousers stretched from wing to wing, so wide were they, but they were managed beautifully.

Coolie Coat Worn.

One petite model found her way about in the ever popular coolie coat inspired with Chinese motifs, and another in a complete black satin outfit of Chinese origin with oriental dragons embroidered in heavy gold.

For the sidery woman, a pale blue creation with many folds twisted bands, and a wide sash to hold the whole mass together, was suggested. For more practical purposes, a dark red tailored robe of a material resembling the cream colored trousers so popular on the campus was shown.

The gentlemen were not forgotten at this show, either. The height of smartness for male attire in evening wear (later in the evening) was represented by a black wool robe trimmed in royal blue. The material is imported.

The revue starts promptly at 7:30 p. m. and will be presented every night this week.

NEW DEMAND FOR INVESTIGATION OF UNIVERSITY MADE

Dr. Claire E. Owens Asks Probe of Conduct of Administration.

HOUSE WILL VOTE TODAY

Five Others Sign Resolution After Move by Whited Tabled Tuesday.

Agitation in the state legislature for a university investigation yesterday was given another prod when Dr. Claire E. Owens, feminine legislator in the house, proposed a legislative investigation of the administrative conduct and affairs of the University of Nebraska and teacher's college.

The resolution sponsored by Dr. Owens in conjunction with five other representatives is the second legislative demand for a university probe. The first resolution relating to a quiz of university conditions was presented last Tuesday, by Whited of Douglas county, who asked that Anton Jensen, critic of university management, and Chancellor Burnett appear before the house to determine the veracity of Jensen's charges. Whited's resolution was tabled.

Asks Immediate Action.

Dr. Owens, in her resolution, requested immediate action and a record vote. Objection was raised to consideration at the time and Speaker Kier explained that under the rules it must go over one day unless the house, by sixty affirmative votes, should override the rule. The resolution's chief sponsor did not press the request further but later declared that when it comes up today she will ask for a roll call.

The introductory list for the latest investigation resolution includes the following: Dr. Claire E. Owens, Exeter; John Washington Porter, Boone; W. F. Crozier, Osceola; Walter M. Burr, Adams; all Democrats; and George M. Byrnes, Adams; Dr. J. Morrow, Seward; republicans.

Jensen Issues Statements.
Prior to the opening of the legislature and interfraternity negotiations, Anton Jensen, former University of Nebraska instructor who left the faculty several years ago, has been issuing anti-administration charges in the form of letters addressed to members of the state law-making body.

The first formal reaction to his statements was shown when Representative Whited introduced his Burnett-Jensen quiz resolution which was tabled. The most recent motion—such has been sponsored by Dr. Owens will probably be passed by the house today.

KUHR NAMED EDITOR SHORT COURSE PAPER

Cramer Is Managing Editor; Eight Reporters Are Given Positions.

Merton Kuhr of Blair is the editor of the new farm operator's newspaper, according to an announcement made by H. K. Douthett, short course director at the college of agriculture. Boys enrolled in the short course are Nebraska farm boys here for a short agriculture study during the slack work months on the farm.

At the same time, Douthett announced that Morris Cramer of Aurora is the managing editor of the paper. Eight news reporters have been selected to work on the new publication.

Original plans call for the publication of the newspaper in two editions between now and the middle of March when school is out for the short course boys. The first publication is expected by next week. Copies will be distributed to every farm boy attending the short course.
