

SOCIETY

As the time approaches for the presentation of the Prom girl the suspense and interest increases. Candidates for the honor are: Dorothy Silvis, Kappa Alpha Theta; Margaret McKay, Kappa Kappa Gamma; Georgia Wilcox, Chi Omega, and Alice Connell, Gamma Phi Beta. The climax of the prom, which takes place Friday at the coliseum, will be the novel presentation of one of these candidates.

Military Brawl Planned by Delta Phi Gamma.

A clever party is planned for Saturday by Acacia chapter of Delta Phi Gamma, in the form of a Military Brawl, a takeoff on the time honored military ball. The party is to be staged on the third floor ball room of the fraternity house, and centers about the presentation of the dishonored colonel whose formal introduction will be attended by appropriate ceremony. Professor and Mrs. E. W. Lantz have been selected as chaperones, and Ed Hann's orchestra will provide music for the party. Forty or fifty couples are expected, among them several out of town alumni.

Pirate Ships Will Be Scene of Phi Gam House Party.

A pirate ship will be the setting for the Phi Gamma Delta house party Saturday evening at which the Hi-Way Robber orchestra will play. Novelty stunts will entertain the forty-five couples. Chaperones will be Mr. and Mrs. John L. Champe, and Professor and Mrs. Gayle Walker. Edwin May and Lyman Kneagy from Beatrice, Howard Kennedy, William Ewer, George Gessman and Henry Smith all of Omaha, are planning to attend the party.

Tea Given by Industrial Staff Saturday Afternoon.

One of the features of the industrial conference which will meet here this week end is a tea at Ellen Smith hall from 3:30 to 5 on Saturday afternoon. Miss Catherine M. Egan will pour. The tea table will be decorated in yellow and green. In the receiving line will be Miss Bernice Miller, Evelyn Adler, Ruth Hatfield, and Lyndall Brumbach. Members of the Industrial staff will act as hostesses.

Theta Chis Entertain at Informal House Dance.

An informal house dance will be given by the members of Theta Chi on Saturday. Mrs. Anna Knapp, housemother, and Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis will act as the chaperones.

Phi Kappa Psi announces the pledging of A. Adams and Kenneth Howard of Lincoln.

John Waechter of Ames, Ia., has been a guest at the Phi Psi house during the week.

Jack Houck, Phi Delta Theta, spent the week end at his home in Omaha.

Carl Willard of Grand Island, Phi Delta Theta, spent the week end at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Campbell in Wahoo.

NEGRO OF TODAY IS VESPER DISCUSSION

(Continued from Page 1.)

tions as professors, musicians, artists and inventors, who have given distinct contributions.

"Negroes," continued Mr. Kerns, "have likewise contributed to the biological sciences. They have gone as far into the study of human life as possible." Mr. Kerns, also, stressed the fact that negroes are very prominent in the field of literature.

Unemployment is Serious.

"Unemployment," continued Mr. Kerns, "is a serious problem among the negroes." This is caused largely thru the little intimacy of the negro and the white races. "Negroes and white people do not know each other well enough," stated Mr. Kerns.

After the abolition of slavery, negroes came in large numbers from the south to the north, with habits and ideas in their minds. Instead of finding a brotherly attitude between the white people and the negroes, they found that the northerners had a rather bitter attitude toward them.

This situation has forced the negroes to become more alert, more watchful. More equal justice has been given them in the south, but in the north such things as race riots have come about—as in Chicago, and other large cities.

Tells Incident.

Mr. Kerns told of an incident of a white man, who had said that if he could find a negro who could conjugate a Greek verb, he would think he had found a soul. "It is too bad," continued Mr. Kerns, "that this individual did not live to see and know the negro who, not only could conjugate a Greek verb, but one who established a

Without Fire and Sword

By MEREDITH NELSON
And HOMER DEADMAN

During the long history of mankind, man himself has been evaluated in any number of terms, from a nonentity to an ultimate value. In all this time, man has continued his strivings and his searchings after that which was best and that which was good. Man's joy and life has been in the search for truth for the sake of truth. In no other way can we satisfactorily interpret the losses and the sacrifices that man has experienced in living his life. For man could have avoided many of these sorrows if he had lived alone for pleasure, but this was not his aim... he sought after the truth. Man has been searching after truth and what is truth? Truth is that which is good. Truth is God. God is truth and beauty, the ultimate terms of cosmic understanding by which the life of man achieves an interpretation of value and goodness without which life is meaningless and inexplicable. God becomes then the eternal value of the life of man. Man lives to seek after this ultimate value, never finding it completely but always seeing it in the far-flung reaches of his experiences and his thoughts. Man gives the last and the highest devotion to God, for to him God is the meaning of the whole being of man, and how, now, does man conceive of human personality?

In these concepts of the ultimate value of God as the great evaluator of persons, human personality becomes the end term of the whole universe and the end in itself of the cosmic order. This concept does not allow us to claim for himself with sophomoric conceit the knee-bowed worship of all other existent bodies in the cosmos, but it does allow and constrain man to do his best toward his fellow men that the conduct may be allowed for any man. Man should act so that all of his acts may in turn be done toward him by other men and that all men may thus be recognized as beings in themselves. Every man, then, however weak and poor and degraded he may be, becomes of value because he is a human personality and because he is so looked upon by God. This concept does not thus resolve itself from altruism of man but from the very nature of the truth or of God from which man gains a meaning for his life, his thoughts, and his experiences. Human personality becomes for us the greatest thing in the universe because it is in the nature of God, and God is in it; God and human personality become mutually dependent; they are co-existent.

This is the highest religion, the high seriousness of life, the richest experience of man's brief days. 'This is the poetic grasp of value and the imaginative interpretation of the universe in all of its manifold workings. Man becomes the co-worker, the co-creator with God. Until now God has worked and until now, as far as man has been religious, man has worked. It has been a vast partnership that has worked thru all of the process of the universe. Man has always been reaching and searching for these religious experiences by which he achieves the high seriousness of life and becomes the companion of God. On the lonely hilltop in the dark of night with only the stars to guide; in the face of a little child coming to one thirsting after the truth; in the aid of the needy found by one's roadside; in the deepest affection and communion of thought and feeling with a friend; in the social willing of evil from the world; by the deep seated longing and working for social justice; and by the serenity of life in the face of death—in and by such things as these does man work with God and God with man, each striving and creating with the other. It is the last devotion of the universe. Is this last devotion beyond us? Is man capable of this last devotion and this high religion? In man's mind we find the possibilities for this ultimate insight into the final good and in the experiences and in the thoughts of the greatest creators among men of all time we find this last devotion as the fundamental basis of their whole creations. It takes but the creative imagination of an Isaiah, a Dante, a Shakespeare, or a Tolstol to make clear to man the meaning of the high seriousness of life. It is possible for us, too, in our mad whirl of social life on our campus to go apart from fellow students and worship God and gain from that experience a sense of co-existence with God and realize the high seriousness of life. It is simply the truth of God to be realized by all men.

Three former Jayhawker track athletes have been honored by the National Collegiate Athletic Association. James Bauch, for putting the shot 49 feet, 11 inches, in a Big Six meet; Melvin Thornhill, for his discus mark of 155 feet, 11 inches, also committed in a Big Six meet; and Willis Ward, with a discus throw of 145 feet, 6 inches, made in the Drake relays, were all placed on the 1930 track honor roll of this association.

WRECK HUSKERS CHANCE FOR TIE

(Continued from Page 1.)
guard position being excellent. His seven points made him second high man for Nebraska.
The Cornhusker's inability to keep control of the ball was one of the main reasons for their defeat. Both teams played about the same type of ball, a man for man defense with a fast breaking offense.

First Half Slow.

The first half of the game was uninteresting and slow, with Kansas Aggies stealing the spotlight. Nebraska started all of the second team with the exception of Hokuf and Davey. This team, made up of Matusch, Conklin and Stipuly played most of the first half before the regulars were inserted. Nebraska was trailing at the end of the half, 11 to 19.

The second half was an entirely different matter. In the first four minutes of play Nebraska made 9 points while holding the Aggies to 3. The Aggies still led by a pair. Skradski made a follow in shot for the Aggies and Macley sank a long one for Nebraska, making the score 24 to 22 with the Huskers still trailing. Davey got a free throw and followed it almost immediately with a field goal to put Nebraska in the lead 25 to 24.

From that time on the lead changed back and forth. First one team led, only to drop behind a few minutes later. With seven minutes to go a long shot by Auker put the Aggies in the lead, 28 to 27, but Koster came in from the side to give Nebraska the lead once again, 29 to 28.

Hokuf Ties Count.

With only four minutes to go, Fairbanks gave the Aggies a one point lead, but Hokuf tied the score with a free throw. Vohs, substitute forward, came in from the side to give Kansas Aggies their winning basket. Nebraska failed to score in the last two minutes of play, Conklin missing his free throws in the last twenty-five seconds of play.

The Huskers play the Oklahoma Sooners here Saturday night in the last game of the season.

Summary.

Nebraska	fg	ft	pf	ft
Matusch, jr	2	2	0	4
Davey, jr	1	2	0	4
Conklin	2	2	0	4
Stipuly, jr	1	0	2	2
Hokuf, jr	2	3	0	7
Skradski, jr	2	2	1	8
Koster, jr	1	0	3	2
Totals	11	8	10	30

Kaggies	fg	ft	pf	ft
Skradski, jr	3	1	1	7
Nico, jr	2	2	0	4
Conkrite, jr	4	1	4	9
Auker, jr	1	0	3	2
Saindak, jr	3	2	1	8
Wiggins, jr	0	0	0	0
Vohs, jr	1	0	2	2
Totals	14	6	13	32

Officials: E. C. Quigley, St. Mary's; Dwight Ream, Washburn.

EXTENSION MEN HOLD CORN, HOG MEETINGS

Department Sponsors Group Talks to Farmers on Hog Production.

Hog lot sanitation, proper feeding, use of modern equipment, and larger litters of pigs are a few of the principals advocated by the animal husbandry men of the extension department in their corn and hog meetings in the various counties over the state.

These meetings, sponsored by the extension department, have proved interesting and beneficial to the many farmers who attend each gathering. W. Derrick, extension animal husbandryman, tells the group of new methods in economical hog production and advises them on any phase of hog raising about which they may inquire.

D. L. Gross, extension agronomist, handles the corn side of the meeting by recommending varieties suited to the farmers own land and telling them of better methods of corn production.

The extension department plans to have at least one of these meetings in every county in the state. The meetings were only an experiment at first, but such interest was displayed by the farmers that the department has decided to make them a regular feature.

PLAYERS CHOOSE 'FASHION' AS A HIT FOR MONTH

(Continued from Page 1.)
everything that is English—anything that is foreign, regardless of her husband's finances and her personal qualifications.

"Fashion" represents the age-old struggle of youth and love against money, social prestige—and mustached villains. From

GIRLS' BASKETBALL RESULTS

Alpha Xi Delta 23, Kappa Alpha Theta 6.
Delta Zeta 15, I-X-L 6.
Games scheduled for 7 o'clock were postponed.

AWARDS ANNOUNCED FOR RADIO AUDITION

Students Between Ages of 18 and 25 Eligible For Contests.

Announcement has been made by the Atwater Kent foundation of the fifth national radio audition, offering $25,000 in cash awards and musical scholarships. This contest is open to any man or woman between the ages of 18 and 25 years, anywhere in the United States.

In the four previous contests the college students have in each case been among the finalists.

Selection of candidates for final awards is made by joint ballot of radio listeners and professional judges. The awards are as follows:
Two first awards of $3,000 and one year scholarship each.
Two thirds awards of $2,000 and one year scholarship each.
Two fourth awards of $1,500 and one year scholarship each.
Two fifth awards of $1,000 and one year scholarship each.

The headquarters of the fifth national radio audition are in the Albee building, Washington, D. C., and the organization of state and community committees to take charge of preliminary tests during the spring and summer months will begin at once.

A required course in the use of the library has been suggested by a faculty member of the University of Oregon for the purpose of aiding students to do their work in the shortest possible period of time. An astounding ignorance of methods of obtaining library material has been demonstrated, not only by freshmen but also by upperclassmen, so that such a course has become almost absolutely necessary, it was stated.

COUNCIL WILL TAKE UP BOARD VACANCY

Walker Declares Essential Someone Be Added to Publication Board.

Robert Kelly, president of the Student Council, yesterday announced that the matter of filling the vacancy in the publications board caused by the recent resignation of Cyril Winkler, senior student member of the board, would be taken up at the regular meeting of the council next Wednesday.

Gayle C. Walker, director of the school of journalism and chairman of the publications board, said yesterday that in view of the large amount of business which will come before the board in the spring that it was highly desirable that the vacancy be filled. However, Mr. Walker believed that it would be improper for the board to undertake to fill the position.

Winkler, senior in the college of agriculture, resigned from the board last week when he left school to take a position with the St. Joseph, Mo., Stockyards company.

The resignation leaves only two student members on the board. These are Don Easterday, sophomore, and William Comstock, junior. As organized the board consists of three student members and five faculty members. The present faculty members of the board are G. C. Walker, J. E. Lawrence, John K. Sailer, H. E. Bradford and C. H. Oldfather.

The important work which will come before the board in the spring will be the appointment of next year's staff to the Cornhusker and Agganwan and first semester's staff to The Daily Nebraskan.

The new members of the board which will be chosen at the spring elections will not take office until next year.

Fred Grau, senior class president, said yesterday that he did not know whether the matter of filling the vacancy would be considered at the senior class meeting held this morning at 11 o'clock in social science auditorium.

WINTER NUMBER OF SCHOONER IS MAILED

Work of Favorite Writers Featured in Current Literary Issue.

The winter number of The Prairie Schooner, Nebraska literary magazine, is in the mails today. It features work of favorite contributors.

The keynote of the magazine, according to Prof. L. C. Wimberly of the English department and editor of the publication, is happiness. "This," the editor declared, "was done partially through a desire to relieve the gloom of economic depression and partially in response to complaints from its readers that the magazine had been too solemn in the past."

Many of the old contributors have work in this number including stories by Edythe Squier Draper, and Frederick L. Christensen had essays and articles by Nellie Jane Compton and Martin Severin Peterson. Christensen and Peterson are associate editors of the Prairie Schooner.

Roderick Lull of Portland, Oregon; Stanley Mengler and Miss Francis Morley of Lincoln; Elijah L. Jacobs of the Central Missouri State Teachers college are among the new writers for this periodical.

The usual number of poems of various kinds are included as well as "Midwestern Writers," "Crossroads," "The Ox Cart" and "Biblicaliana." "The Dog in the Manger" has been revived by William F. Thompson of the English department. Mr. Thompson appeared on the stage here last fall. He has also appeared with the University Players since coming here to reside.

CHARLES MARSHALL, American tenor, who will be heard as "Canio" when the Chicago Civic Opera company presents "I Pagliacci" at the University of Nebraska coliseum, March 17.

Your Drug Store

It won't be long now 'till Spring. Stop at our Soda Fountain on the porch.
WHITMAN CHOCOLATES
GILLIAN'S CANDIES
The Owl Pharmacy
143 No. 14 & P Sts. Phone B1068

Spring Chapeaux

—in youthful interpretations!

3.50 - - - - 5.00

HALO HATS with soft rolls or high brims. WATTEAU VERSIONS so quaintly flattering. TRICORNES, BICORNES and new TOQUE EFFECTS. Sisols, baku braids, peanut straws and rough straws. With a flower, a feather or other pert trim—as worn by more expensive models.

—Fourth Floor.

Miller & Paine

LINCOLN NOW!

You've never seen this new electrifying Clara before!

CLARA BOW NO LIMIT

with Stuart Erwin—Harry Green

RAMSAY TO TALK TO SENIOR CLASS AT 11 THURSDAY

(Continued from Page 1.)
"Launch an educational campaign as to the benefits of a union."
New impetus has been given the movement since last week's election of class presidents in which the Blue Shirt faction which pledged its support to the movement for a union was unanimously victorious.
Today's meeting may take up the matter of a permanent gift by the senior class to the university. The promise of such a gift was also made in the Blue Shirt platform. Probably, however, Grau stated, the meeting will be entirely occupied with the discussion of the union.

Good Food
Reasonable Prices
Convenient Location

White Star Cafe
134 South 11th Street
Lincoln, Nebraska

We have recently added to our regular menu, the "Economy Lunch," which we sell for 25c.

Today's Special—Wed.
Peanut Butter and Jelly Toastette
Pineapple and Pimento Salad
Any Soft Drink
.30c

RECTOR'S
13 & P

WHEN THE ROLL IS CALLED FRIDAY NIGHT IN THE COLISEUM WILL YOU BE THERE?

DON'T MISS

BEASLEY SMITH

AND HIS N. B. C. ORCHESTRA

Get Your Prom Ticket At the BOOTH IN SOCIAL SCIENCE