

BAPTISTS WILL TELL OF STATE ASSEMBLY

B. Y. P. U. Arranges Service Centering On Annual State Meet.

"A Day at Assembly" will be the theme of the university B. Y. P. U. group Sunday evening at the First Baptist church, Fourteenth and K streets. The service will be led by Miss Averyl McCroft, of the devotional life commission. A dramatic presentation of a typical day at the assembly will be given by several members who attended last year.

The assembly is an annual state-wide convocation held at Grand Island college for all Baptist young people. Religious instruction and recreation for ten days are the main features of this affair. It will be held in August this year, immediately after the close of the summer session.

The regular Sunday evening social hour will precede this meeting, at 5:30. The stewardship mission will have charge.

At the 12 o'clock university class M. A. Hyde will continue a discussion of the prophets of the Old Testament. Election of officers for the coming year will also be held.

while Mrs. Pollock pointed out that Mortar Boards selected girls who had shown the true attributes of scholarship and leadership in order that they might give further service to the students as members of the senior honorary. That Mortar Board, was organized as Black Masque, a local group in 1904, and went national in 1921, was explained by Mrs. Pollock who said that the group was primarily intended as a stabilizing influence.

A short outline of the history of Innocents is included in Dr. Condra's annual introductory speech, prior to the moment when thirteen junior men are struck to the ground on Ivy Day each year. Innocents were organized on the campus in 1902 and this year marked the twenty-ninth tapping ceremony.

The group is no longer self-perpetuating, Dr. Condra declared, but instead they are selected by the Innocents and an alumni committee on selection. He announced that Mr. O. J. Fee, Sioux City; Mr. Verne Hedge, mayor of Lincoln; and Dean Ringer, Omaha postmaster; were among the former Innocent alumni who had returned for yesterday's ceremony. In addition Joyce Ayres, an Innocent last year, and Mr. L. P. Skinner, president of the group in 1914 were presented to the audience.

Being sure that all junior men were on their feet and that most of the ripe juniors had been "spotted," Dr. Condra cleared a circle in the center of the rectangle to form what he chose to term the "court of the Innocents."

William McCleery this year's Innocent's president went first into the field to dash Dick Devereaux to the sod as new president. Other members of the senior men's honorary followed in quick succession to "get their man" until the thirteenth man remained to be tapped. At this point the traditional stall ensued and the annual difficulty of locating the last Innocent occurred, despite the fact that he was quite plainly evident to many who were in much less favorable point of vantage than Innocents themselves.

As has always happened in the past the thirteenth man was finally found and the ceremony, the festivities, and the gayeties of Ivy Day were once more completed.

Innocents Prominent.

Concerning the merits and activities of the new Innocents there is the following to be said: Richard Devereaux the new president is secretary of the Interfraternity council, was last year the head of the Interfraternity ball, has been active on the engineering Blue Print, and is an officer in the R. O. T. C. regiment. He is a member of Kosmet Klub.

Edward Faulkner, vice-president, is a member of the Student council, assistant business manager on the Daily Nebraskan, vice-president of the Interfraternity council, member of Kosmet Klub, Corn Cobs, editor of the Student directory, and former assistant managing editor of the Cornhusker yearbook.

Arthur Mitchell, the new secretary of Innocents is primarily a newspaper man. He is managing editor of the Daily Nebraskan, a member of Sigma Delta Chi, president of Corn Cobs, and Interfraternity council representative.

Cobe Tomson, treasurer of Innocents has been active in track circles during his school career, and belongs to the "N" club. He is a past president of the university Y. M. C. A. and was the Yellowjacket for junior class president last semester.

Robert Kinkaid is managing editor on the Cornhusker yearbook. He was chairman of the junior-senior prom committee, vice-president of Corn Cobs, is staff officer in the R. O. T. C. and belongs to Scabbard and Blade, military organization.

Faction Leader.

DAISY CHAIN LEADS FOR MAY QUEEN

Colorful scenes from the impressive Ivy Day celebration held on the University of Nebraska campus Thursday morning. At top is the daisy chain that preceded the queen in the procession. In the center is shown the queen of the May, Miss Betty Wahlquist, and attendants immediately following the crowning ritual. Miss Wahlquist stands in the center flanked by Miss Esther Gaylord of Lincoln, maid of honor, stands at her left and slightly below.

At the right, Ed Westcott of Plattsmouth, president of Beta Theta Pi, accepts the winner's cup in behalf of his fraternity which was awarded first place in the interfraternity sing, a part of the annual Ivy Day program. Carl Hahn, member of Sigma Nu and president of Kosmet club, is making the presentation.

of the Interfraternity council. He is on the Student council, belongs to Corn Cobs, is a member of Sigma Tau, has been active in Blue Print publications and other engineering college activities.

Hugh Rhea is worthy of Innocents if only for his athletic accomplishments. As a football tackle he made one all-American eleven and was also selected for first team in the Big Six conference. His track fetes with the shot-put have brought credit upon himself and his school as he has shattered mark after mark. In addition he is president of the junior class and was last year the sophomore member on the publication board.

Richard Bell is treasurer of Corn Cobs, belongs to the Interfraternity council, and is prominent in many activities on the agricultural college campus.

Wallace Frankfort is a past president of the Blue Shirt political faction. He is Corn Cob secretary, member of Kosmet Klub, and is connected with the Cornhusker yearbook.

Ag Leader.

Boyd von Seggern is editor of the Cornhusker countryman, member of the Student council, Corn Cob society, news editor of the Daily Nebraskan, and belongs to various honorary groups including Sigma Delta Chi.

William McGaffin is managing editor of the Daily Nebraskan, member of the Student council, Kosmet Klub, Corn Cobs, Gamma Lambda and Sigma Delta Chi. He was also a member of the Junior-senior prom committee and is on the Awgwan staff.

Several upsets were noted by those who aspired to be "in the know" in things "politique" on this campus. The absence of one man in the new group was alarmingly conspicuous, as was the presence of one other. Some surprise was expressed concerning the choice of officers. Contrary to expectations in some quarters the bars got no one to succeed Alan Williams. Three fraternities, Sigma Phi Sigma, Phi Kappa Psi, and Alpha Gamma Rho obtained representation though they had no member in this year's group. The Phi Delta Thetas lost representation in addition to the bars and Delta Upsilon had only one man selected as compared to last year.

they announced the May queen's approach with a trumpet blast.

Next in the procession were the freshman attendants, Jean Kinman of Omaha, Alpha Delta Pi, and Leola Schill of Alliance, Alpha Xi Delta. Following the freshman attendants were the sophomore attendants, Helen Baldwin of Omaha, Alpha Phi, and Margaret Chevront of Lincoln. These were followed by the junior attendants, Margaret Day of Lincoln, Kappa Alpha Theta, and Roseline Pizer of Omaha, Sigma Delta Tau, and the seniors, Frances Holyoke of Omaha, Delta Gamma, and Georgia Wilcox of Scottsbluff, Chi Omega. The attendants wore organdie dresses, Kate Greenway style, in pastel shades of peach, blue, lavender and yellow. Their dainty nose-gays and colored mits were in keeping with the style of their hats and dresses.

The tiny flower girls, Harriell and Juanita Low, twin daughters of Professor and Mrs. H. E. Low, dressed in pink ruffled, Kate Greenway dresses and poke bonnets, followed the attendants from the four classes, scattering rose petals before the Maid of Honor, Miss Gaylord, who preceded the May Queen.

Miss Gaylord in Green.

Miss Gaylord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Gaylord of Lincoln, wore a pale green, lace dress and hat and carried pink roses. James Harley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Burke Harley of Lincoln, carried the crown of Ivy for the May Queen. He wore long green satin trousers and a full white satin blouse.

The May queen, with her two train-carriers, ended the procession. Miss Wahlquist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wahlquist of Hastings, wore a shell-pink lace dress. Her train was carried by Virginia Coleman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Coleman of Lincoln, and Brooke Westover, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Westover, formerly of Lincoln. Miss Coleman wore a dress of pale pink tulle and carried long-stemmed roses of shell-pink. Master Westover wore long green satin trousers on a full white satin blouse.

When the May Queen reached her throne the crown was placed on her head by the maid of honor. Following the crowning, the Ivy Day poem was read by Wattle Thurlow of Auburn, author of the "planting" of the Ivy. Fred Grau, president of the senior classes, walked with George Koster, representative of the junior class in the absence of President Hugh Rhea, walked to the throne. Grau handed the Ivy to the May Queen who in turn handed it to Koster and the two walked back into the crowd. Koster planted the Ivy.

ANNUAL EXTENSION CONFERENCE CLOSES

Carl Jones Appears On Thursday Morning Program.

The annual north central state agricultural extension conference held at the college of agriculture this week came to a close Thursday noon. Sixty extension workers from thirteen states were attracted to Lincoln for the conference which lasted three days.

Carl Jones of the Kentucky agricultural extension service appeared on the Thursday morning program. Jones told of Utopia clubs which are organized in his state similar to 4-H clubs in Nebraska. He said the Utopia clubs attempted to attract older youths than the 4-H clubs. Jones is a former Nebraskan man.

The family club was discussed by A. J. Killiston of Minnesota in another feature talk Thursday morning. He spoke of the club in relation to the family.

DEAN WORCESTER BELIEVES HONORS CONVOCATION EMPHASIZES POSSIBILITY OF BROADENED ACADEMIC ACTIVITIES.

Scholarship is intended to mean that the recipient has done something more than merely pass the course with little or no regard for the instruction it contained. It means that real proficiency has been achieved. Those with high averages in the university are thereby given much better opportunities and all that goes with them.

Speaking of the Honors Convocation itself, Doctor Worcester declared that one of its greatest advantages is the advertising it gives to high scholarship consistently maintained. Freshmen and students new to Nebraska are thus introduced to the desirability of good scholarship and early realize that it is an important feature of university life.

Students Show Ignorance.

"It is remarkable how few students are aware of all of even the better known honorary societies," continued Doctor Worcester. "Upon questioning some students in another school about the honor organization to which they might become eligible, I found that some of them did not know the name of such organizations as Phi Beta Kappa, and even some of the graduates did not know of its existence. My viewpoint is that if scholarship is actually as important as we think and try to show, then it should be advertised through a student's entire collegiate career. We should let students know that a scholarship award can be just as desirable and important as a football letter."
