PRICE FIVE CENTS

ELECTIONS TAKE PLACE TODAY

GOMON EXPLAINS STAND TAKEN BY YELLOW JACKETS

Both Parties Hold Rallies At Sorority Houses to Drum Up Votes.

GIRLS SEEM IMPARTIAL

Both Faction Presidents Think Men Comprising Slates Capable.

By THE OBSERVER

Closing all final pre-campaign activity in the hopes of getting sorority votes, both the Blue Shirt and Yellow Jacket political factions last night conducted serenades, simultaneously making a verbal presentation of their slates to co-ed voters.

Explaining why the Yellow Jackets issued merely a formal statement concerning today's election instead of drawing up a party platform, Neal Gomon, president of the Yellow Jacket faction, yesterday chided the Blue Shirts for their political maneuvers performed by means of a faction plank.

"Last fall," declared Gomon, "the Blue Shirts issued a 'joke' platform, admitting that such planks were 'assumed' and that no one ever lived up to the pledges. At the second semester, however, they changed their tactics and again put out a serious platform, which, in all fairness to both groups concerned, it must be admitted was not lived up to even though they had a complete slate of candidates elected."

"Blue Fallacy." "We are inclined to believe," he continued, "that the Blue Shirts have committed a material fallacy by previously promising that if their men were elected at the second semester voting they would see that something of a permanent nature be erected on the campus. As yet we have seen nothing erected of such a nature although an entire Blue Shirt slate was elected and they have had three months in which to begin construction."

"The Yellow Jacket faction is heartily in accord with the new Blue Shirt recommendation that the drill field be moved to its new position, especially since it has previously been announced that such a transfer of drilling grounds will automatically take place this summer."

JANET SCHMITZ SPEAKS

Nebraska Graduate Talks to Social Case Classes Here Friday.

Miss Janet Schmitz, graduate of Nebraska and at present employed by the Mary Crane District United Charities in Chicago, spoke before classes of social case work Friday afternoon.

Miss Schmitz stated that it was almost impossible to do good by social case work in Chicago at the present time due to the gravity of the unemployment situation there. She declared, that only relief work can be done. She stated that the relief budget for her district which had formerly been $1,000 a week had increased to $4,000 during the past winter.

Miss Schmitz was graduated in 1929. She was a member of Zeta Phi and president of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority her last year. She plans to sail for Europe June 20 on a six month vacation tour. Until June 20 she will be at home with her parents in Hastings.

BLUE SHIRTS PRESENT PLATFORM

1. The Blue Shirt faction favors continued work looking to the ultimate erection of a student union building on this campus.

2. The Blue Shirt faction favors all university parties sponsored by the student council which would attract all groups, believing the council to be the only body which represents the entire number of university students.

3. The Blue Shirt faction favors an immediate start on the proposed swimming pool to be open to men and women alike, as outlined in The Daily Nebraskan, and financed by payment of a $1 fee per semester by all students.

4. The Blue Shirt faction favors the establishment next fall of a co-operative book exchange, where students can obtain books, in the courses which they are to take them, for their old ones, at only a nominal cost.

5. The Blue Shirt faction favors immediate removal of the field to its new location north of the coliseum and the immediate beautification of the area where the drill field now lies.

POULTRY FIELD DAY TO FEATURE EGG SHOW

Many Poultrymen Expected To Come to Lincoln for Occasion.

An egg show will be one of the features of the annual poultry field day to be held at the college of agriculture at Lincoln on Thursday, June 11, according to tentative plans for the day. Several hundred Nebraska poultrymen are expected at the college for the annual event.

There will be three classes of eggs for exhibitors. One will be for the farm flock which will be open to flock owners who had less than 500 hens on Nov. 1, 1930. The second class is being made up for the commercial flock owners who had 500 or more hens on Nov. 1 of last year. The third group will find hatchery men and produce dealers competing for top honors.

Prizes will be awarded the winners in each class. A brown and white class within each division will be made for individual exhibitors. Prof. H. E. Alder of the poultry husbandry department is in charge of the show. Entries will not be closed until June 11. All eggs will be on exhibit in the student activities building where the meetings will be held. J. J. Claybaugh, state extension agent in poultry husbandry, is the general chairman of the day.

In commenting upon the egg show, J. R. Redditt, poultry extension agent at the college, says it is being held in an effort to show people how to improve the quality of Nebraska eggs. The new candling law is going to make eggs sell on a grade basis throughout the year and for that reason should be more interest than before in quality production, he points out.

Yellowjacket Faction Objected to Its Name at First, Flaunts It Now

BY HARRY FOSTER.

Editors note: Material for this article was obtained from Munro Keizer, former editor of The Daily Nebraskan at the time when the names of the factions were changed.

What's in a name? The names Blue Shirts and Yellowjackets mean something to those of the campus realm even if they only signify haberdashery to the rest of the world.

The origin of the name Blue Shirt occurred prior to the spring election of 1927. The Yellowjackets had their name thrust upon them by the Blue Shirts who adopted the name "Blue Shirts" for the election. The "Oily Sixes" now dubbed "Yellowjackets" at first objected to their new name, but when the Daily Nebraskan took it up, and when the ratio in the Innocents selection was changed from a seven to six split to a ten to three verdict in favor of the new Blue Shirt faction, the old name of "Oily Sixes" lost its significance.

Change in 1927. The Daily Nebraskan under the editorship of Bill Cejnar wished to promote interest in the spring election of 1927. The "Slippery Sevens" changed their name and held special rallies before the election. A plan was decided upon whereby all member of that faction would don blue shirts in order that they might be distinguished from their rivals. The results of the Daily Nebraskan efforts were shown by the number of votes cast in the election. The election of 1927 was the biggest since 1921. Crowds of students flocked to the polls and the result was a clean sweep for the new Blue Shirt faction.

AG CLASSES MEET IN REGULAR SESSIONS

Professors Hold Sections Despite Friday Fire Damage.

Despite the fact that the judging pavilion was badly damaged by fire Friday, classes in animal husbandry on the agricultural college campus met in their regular sessions Monday. The classes were held in the meat laboratory and plant industry buildings.

No official word was forthcoming from Dean Burr's office Monday night as to plans for repairing or rebuilding the judging pavilion. It is thought, however, that definite arrangements will not be made until an architect has looked the building over. It is not known whether it will be possible to rebuild the structure.

Instructors in the animal husbandry department were busy Monday arranging their offices in a room in the south end of the meat laboratory. Records were being checked over which in most cases were damaged by the fire and water.

Mrs. Earl Nelson, a graduate of the college of agriculture, will start work this week to help organize girls 4-H clubs in Nebraska. She will spend two days in each of several counties where the county extension agents or assistant county agents have started their spring campaigns.

Mrs. Nelson was one of the first home economic champion club girls in Nebraska several years ago. Since that time she has attended the university, been employed as an assistant state extension agent in 4-H club work and for the past few years she has been a homemaker on a farm in Saunders county. During the entire time she has been an active leader in 4-H club work of one kind or another.

STUDENTS TO ENTER MEAT JUDGING TRIAL

Prof. Wm. J. Loeffel Will Give Training, Should Coeds Wish It.

The fourth annual meat judging and identification contest open to all students is to be held at the agricultural college Saturday morning, May 23, at 8 o'clock in the meat laboratory. There will be both men and women divisions. Preliminary training for such girls as desire it will be given next Monday evening at 4 o'clock in the afternoon in the meat laboratory. Prof. William J. Loeffel will give the fundamentals of meat judging and identification.

For the following four evenings interested groups will meet at the Wilson and company cooler at Seventh and M streets from 4 to 5:30 in the afternoon, where practice judging and identification will be given. This practice judging will be given only if enough students signify they desire it, according to Professor Loeffel. Girls who wish to enter the contest and wish this training are to turn in their names at the home economics office stating what nights they can train.

College Marriages Are Found More Successful Than Average Romances

Romances started in college result in the most successful marriages according to a survey of 100 co-educational institutions made by Rita S. Halde and published recently in Good Housekeeping magazine. According to the report there is now one divorce for every six marriages but the record of marriages resulting from college romances shows only one divorce for every seventy-five couples.

Nine Nebraska university professors were interviewed yesterday and it was found that out of the nine six married after college romances. One professor married a former student of his and the other two married girls they had known before they went to school.

Prof. L. W. Lancaster of the political science department married one of his classmates two years after graduation. Prof. J. O.

49 RUNNING FOR STUDENT OFFICES

21 Council Positions Will Be Filled; According to New Constitution, Half of These Will Go To Women; Eighteen Seek Posts.

SEVERAL INELIGIBLES DROPPED FROM LISTS

Identification Cards Required Before Ballots Will Be Given Out; Too Many Names Checked Will Disqualify Votes; Polls Open at 9.

BY THE OBSERVER.

Political fate of the Blue Shirt and Yellow Jacket factions as a whole, and 49 students in particular will be decided at the Temple polls between 9 and 5 today. During this balloting will be decided the choice of Student council and publication board representatives for the coming year.

Certain limitations and restrictions to be placed on voters and factions at the polls today have been announced by Robert Kelly, president of the student council, as follows:

"No student will be permitted to vote who does not have his own identification card. Each ballot contains voting instructions. If a voter checks more names than he is instructed to, his ballot will be thrown out. It does not matter if a student checks fewer names than listed on the ballot. In such a case the ballot is valid.

Special Students Out. "Following the practice of last year, both juniors and seniors will vote for senior members of the publication board. As pertains to the Student council positions students may vote only for the persons from their respective colleges and for the students who are running at large. Only regular students will be permitted to vote and only students who are registered in the graduate college at the present time can vote for the representative from that college.

"Article IV of the Student council rules of elections shall be strictly observed. Its provisions are thus: 'No votes shall be solicited at the polls or in the building in which the election is being held during election day. No money shall be spent on behalf of any candidate. No printed, mimeographed, typed, or otherwise published material in behalf of any candidate shall be permitted except the impartial announcements of the candidates appearing in the press. Any candidate violating these rules either in person or through his supporters shall therefore become ineligible.

Vote in Own College. "Where no candidate is listed from a certain college or where a voter has another choice the voter shall be permitted to write in a name and check it in the opposite box. In such a case the candidate, if receiving the largest number of votes and being properly eligible, will become a regular member of the Student council."

No faction has a full slate of candidates, the barb faction having the smallest group of all with only two candidates on the ballot. In dental college there is no candidate up at all due to ineligibilities which have eliminated the man who was to run from there. In Pharmacy (Continued on Page 4.)

YELLOW JACKETS MAKE STATEMENT

We, the members of the Yellow Jacket faction, in the absence of significant issues, feel that the ensuing election will be decided largely upon the basis of the character and ability of the candidates. We wish to point out that the Yellow Jacket faction has nominated candidates only where men of conspicuous ability are available.

We feel that the success of any student activity must depend upon the capacity of the students participation in its direction next year will mean the success or failure of the new Student council constitution. Able men and women should be awarded seats on the council in order that the council will realize the fullest measure of success under its new constitution.

The Yellow Jacket faction points with pride to the men it has nominated as possessing the requisite native ability and experience to administer efficiently the duties of office. On the basis of its well qualified candidates, the Yellow Jacket election solicits support at the election Tuesday.
