COEDS WILL COMPETE IN MERMAID CONTEST

Capitol Beach To Be Scene of Water Carnival May 28, 4:30

Shake the moths out of your suits, gals, and cut down on those goup sandwiches and get ready for the big swimming meet May 28, at 4:30 in the old swimming hole on the Playground of the Middle West, or is it Capitol Beach?

The fastest swimmers will have a chance to exhibit their prowess and the beginners may show the judges that they can sink quicker than their opponents. For those who are inclined to be a wee bit silly when floating, events have been planned for them that will make them look and feel like Harpo Marx.

Must Register.

A list of the future Olympians must be turned in at the Intramural office by the intramural representatives not later than May 18. After the list has been handed in, teams will be organized. Any girls who have not signed up for the meet will be assigned to teams on the day of the meet. Captains of the teams are asked to think up clever names for their teams, perhaps a resemblance of the girls to whales, octopuses, porpoises, and even jellyfish will lighten this task. For each aspirant entering, five points will be given her team, and if she happens to be on a winning team she will be awarded fifteen of said marker.

Program.

Hold your breath, here comes the program:

Side-stroke race 25 yards.

Remember, this is the final wind up of the girls' athletic season. They do say about 125 gals entered last year. Let's make it a bigger and better one. Give your name to one of the captains of the teams:

Mildred Gish, Mary Alice Kelly, Josephine Orr, Ruth Keir, Jean Robinson, Helen Baldwin, Flo Binkley, Jean Whitney, Gertrude Clark, or Maxine Stokes, who is in charge.

Oh yes, in case of rain we'll see you June 1, same time and same place.

A. G. R.'S., TEKES FAVORED WIN TROPHY

Delta Tau Delta Close to Two Leaders; A. G. R. Ahead 40 Points.

THREE SPORTS TO PLAY

The right to possess the Jack Best intramural trophy for next year apparently lies between Alpha Gamma Rho and Tau Kappa Epsilon, with Delta Tau Delta given a good chance to annex the title of intramural champion if the first two fraternities show any signs of faltering in the race.

Alpha Gamma Rho at the moment is on top of the heap with 599 points, while the Tekes have scored 559 counters for second place. Delta Tau Delta is not far behind with a total of 550 tallies. Baseball, golf and horsehoes are the intramural activities which remain on the program.

A. G. R.'s Favored.

The A. G. R.'s are the favorites to annex the championship because they are in the finals of the horse-shoe tournament against Phi Kappa and since they came thru to win the baseball title of League I.

The Tekes, however, are close on the heels of the A. G. R.'s and according to the dope are slated to triumph in intramural baseball. The Tekes whipped all opponents in League III. In League IV the Tekes and Phi Psi's must play to decide the championship while Sigma Alpha Mu is showing the way in League V. The champions of the leagues will be pitted against each other as soon as the winners in each division can be determined.

May 15, 1901.

The junior class entertained the seniors at a reception at the armory. The deans of the different schools of the university and heads of departments received invitations to be present. Music was furnished throughout the evening and dancing followed the reception.

The Nebraska reprinted an article which appeared in the Minnesota Daily, and heartily endorsed the sentiments therein, which were after this manner: "Attention should be called to the habit of some of the young ladies of sitting on the stairs in the Main building just at the time when every one is going to class. It would not be so bad if the ladies in question did not persist in draping their skirts in such a position that it is either necessary to step all over them or risk breaking your neck by jumping."

Despite the fact that both the interfraternity and sorority council had passed the semester pledging rule, rushing at Nebraska was as strenuous as ever. Because of the coming of 200 or more eligible high school students for Fete day, to be held later in the week, there would be much entertaining at the various sorority and fraternity houses, and several group dances had been planned in honor of the visitors.

Miss Howell was holding nightly rehearsals on the senior play, which swelled the weekly number to ten. The show was to be very elaborate, featuring a fairy ballet, and a supporting chorus of twenty dancers. Nearly 100 people were to take part in the production, making it the most ambitious spectacle ever put on by university students. The play was "Midsummer Night's Dream."

A three day campaign was launched in order to send Jack Best to California for his vacation. California was the place seventy-six-year-old Jack had longed to see, and it was hoped that the sunshine and the sea air would put him in condition to go on with his work at the university. The "N" club, which was sponsoring the trip, had placed contribution boxes in the principal buildings on the campus.

The glee club gave as its annual opera "The Quaker Girl." The costumes had been ordered from Omaha for over twelve weeks, and the stage settings were entirely different for each act.

Under the want-ad column the following advertisement appeared: "LOST—A post card picture of a dead man on the campus between Bessey Hall and P. O. Return to Student Activities office."

The athletic board of the university signed a five year contract with Henry F. Schulte to continue in his work as head track and cross country coach at Nebraska. Coach Schulte was completing his seventh year at the university. Among the track champions which Schulte had turned out were Simpson, hurdler; Scholz, Olympic star, and Locke, sensational sprinter. Plans were being formulated for the laying of the cornerstone of Morrill Hall on May 29, the last day of the fifth Alumni Roundup. The placing of a bronze box to be set in the cornerstone was to be a main event on the program. The box was to contain a book written by Mr. Morrill, pictures of the Morrill family, of Chancellor Avery, the Regents, and Professor Barbour, as well as a roll of the names of persons connected with the museum and the department.
