At the Big Six conference track meet Friday and Saturday on the Memorial stadium track, 170 broad muscled athletes from six great universities will pour out their energy in leaps, runs and weight heaves with hopes of acquiring individual and school honors.

The field of those competing is fast and versatile. Three Big Six record holders will defend their marks. Ray Putnam, Iowa State two miler; Cobe Tomson, Nebraska broad jumper; and Hager, Iowa State high hurdles title holder, will personally accept the challenges of conference contenders.

The K. L. Jayhaws, piloted by the brilliant all around performances of Big Jim Bausch, who will not compete this year, were outdoor champs last season. According to a dope sheet prepared by Jimmy Lewis, Coach Henry F. Schulte's right hand man, Kansas is favored to repeat with Nebraska and Iowa State pushing close behind.

In dual meets during the season the Cyclones and Huskers fought to a tie and then Schulte's spikers nosed out a 3 point victory over the Jays a little later. The Cornhuskers were also triumphant in the Big Six indoor last winter.

All Have Champs.

Every school in the conference has some outstanding slow men who execute their events with sparkling ease and assurance.

Nebraska's big shot is Hugh Rhea, 200 pounds of shot heaving machinery. Rhea has met no stimulating competition since the exit of Jim Bausch of Kansas. Bob Ostergard was Schulte's pole and joy in the 440 but a muscle pulled in the Kansas dual has him limping about unable to work out.

Iowa State has Putnam, a 416 mile; Lambert and Nagel, two swift half milers; Hager, 14.6 seconds high hurdler; and a speedy sprinter named Wells.

Kansas boasts of two dash men who skimmed the century in 9.8 seconds in a dual meet at Miss on Saturday. They are Rahm Sichel and Joe Klauer. Sichel negotiated a 21.3 second 220 heat also at Missouri.

Coffman is Vaulter.

Jayhawker Coffman set a K. U. record of 13 feet 7 in the pole vault recently. Trueblood, a teammate, threatens 13 feet in that event quite often. Flick and Kite scamper over the high and low hurdles in sensational fashion and Bryan throws the javelin 170 feet and up.

Kansas State is the under dog of the meet, according to the prophets. Ehrlick, a high jumper, however, is recognized as leap star of the Big Six. He has marks of 6 feet 2 and 5 inches in that event. Socolofsky has thrown the discus 135 feet for the Aggies.

The Soomers take pride in presenting Glenn Dawson and Clifford Mell. Dawson is regarded as the best two miler in the conference while Mell won the Big Six indoor broad jump and surprised for a first place in the Texas relays. The fight in this event between Tomson, present record holder, Gray and Hege, all of Nebraska, and Mell of the Southerners, should be one of the high spots of the track party.

 college an independent is running, while law college and the college of agriculture is represented only by a Blue Shirt.
 Due to an insufficient number of hours the previous semester or to minor fluctuations three candidates have been eliminated from the ballot which appeared in Sunday's Nebraskan. Jane Youngson, woman candidate from the college of business administration, was eliminated due to an insufficient number of hours last semester. This was due to an auto accident which forced her into the hospital for nearly two months making it impossible for her to carry the 12 hours required for eligibility.
 Pitzer Junior.

Marshall Pitzer, Yellow Jacket from law college, was taken from the ballot, not because of scholastic ineligibility but because he is a junior in the school rather than a freshman as the council requires. Failure to meet precisely with council eligibility requirements also eliminated Fred Wanek, Blue Shirt, who was listed in dental college.

Women candidates are eligible in every case as independents, having affiliated themselves with no political parties. It is also understood that they will not mark a party preference on any ballot in order that equality between men and women in council representation will not be altered through any act of theirs which might give the men an extra number of votes under the proportional representation system.
 With all pre-election campaigns out of the way and all vote-grabbing schemes for the current day in full swing voters may expect much ado as what is expected to be the largest election in campus political history gets under way.
 The college of law is represented by only one candidate, Lloyd Pospishil, a Blue Shirt. Pospishil is a member of Delta Theta Phi, won the freshman debate cup three years ago, is on the varsity debate squad and is an honor student.

SHUCKS

by Leonard Conklin

RETRACTION - Retraction - Retraction.

Shucks is "on the spot." There seems to be a venal, vile, scurrilous, blackguard, dastardly, surreptitious plot abroad to discredit the Shucks column.
 We didn't write "Shucks" Thursday last. Yet Friday morning out pops a half column of senseless nothings under a Shucks caption. "Pins, Pins, Pins—Poor old fire and sword—constitution—Sig Alphas—imagine Shucks talking about things like that—stuff that would never be found anywhere but in "No Man's Land."

THIS Ultimatum to "No Man's Land," to the news editor, printer or whoever is responsible for this latest atrocity: "Keep these extraneous scribbles under the right names and where they belong."
 It's had enough to get credit for the things one actually does write. A lawyer has been retained and Shucks intends to sue the Daily Nebraskan, the University, the Governor and the United States for extreme mental agony, fraudulent misrepresentation, aggravated forgery, and everything else imaginable.

THIS thousand of high school boys here Friday and Saturday had something that all the coaching, pounding and swearing in the world can't pound into some university teams be they football, basketball or track.
 It's the will to win, the do or die fire, the grim determination that nothing else in the universe matters but this race—this jump—or this weight heave that causes these high school lads to make 12 foot five pole vaults and 23 feet plus broadjumps, performance of varsity Nebraska or Big Six calibre.

University athletes, if they are good, seem to get the idea that they are doing someone a favor when they display their prowess. There is no limit to the heights that some Cornhusker sportsmen might have attained if they had been inoculated with the right "Fight to the Death" needle.

THERE is a real fracas going on in intramural sports. With the results not tabulated in playground ball, golf and horseshoes, Alpha Gamma Rho leads all Greek clubs with Tau Kappa Epsilon second and the Delta third.
 The A. G. R's have won their league in baseball, and are in the finals in horseshoes. The Tekes, however, last year's Jack best champs, have the vote of the prophets for the baseball title which carries 100 more points than either of the other sports toward the capture of the great cup.

GOLF mornings, tennis noons, swimming afternoons, picnic evenings and motoring nights—the weather is sporty enough but hardly a scholarly influence.

NEW YORK PICTURES ARE EXHIBITED HERE

THREE CLUBS REMAIN IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

Sig Chis Defeat D. U.s in Friday Bout; Sigma Nu, Delts Vie.

Elimination from the intramural golf tournament has clipped off contending organizations until only three remain. The Sigma Chi link warriors cracked out a 7 1-2 to 4 1-2 victory over Delta Upsilon golfers for a cinch on second place in that sport on Friday afternoon.

A controversy rages in the other bracket between sigma Nu and Delta Tau Delta over which team is deserving of the right to vie with Sigma Chi for the championship. The Sigma Nus claim a 6 to 6 tie, while the Delts have reported a 6 1-2 to 5 1-2 win. The dispute has been submitted to Rudy Vogeler for adjustment.

Sorenson Wins
 In the D. U.-Sigma Chi bout, Carlyle Sorenson pocketed 2 1-2 points for Delta Upsilon at the expense of Leonard Conklin. Buss Lohr dropped three points to Carl Hopewell of the Sigs, Clem Mertz, Sigma Chi, lost the first nine three down to Jack Lieben and came back with a warm finish on the way in to finish the eighteenth three up on the second nine. An extra hole gave the point on the eighteenth to Lieben.

At this juncture the score was tied at 4 1-2 all. Chi Galloway crushed Tappin of the D. U.'s in the deciding match with little difficulty birdieing number 12 to toss triumph into the hands of the Sigma Chis. The finals will probably be played off this week as soon as the Delts-Sigma Nu argument is settled.

Mr. Heller and his quartet played four numbers. E. V. Telle, instructor in romance language, then sang three numbers.
