INTRA-FACTIONAL TEMPEST IS SEEN TO BE IMMINENT

Political Lids Expected to Be Blown Off When Parties Meet.

OFFICERS TO BE NAMED

Blue Shirts Have Problem; Yellow Jackets Must Rejuvenate.

By The Observer.

Altho campus politics is on the surface formally closed for the current year since Tuesday's election, the political lids of the respective Blue Shirt and Yellow Jacket factions will be blown off in party meetings of the next week or two. Along with the rampant debate which is bound to ensue, the factions will elect their officers for next year.

Blue Shirts are expecting much ado because of the agricultural college upheaval in the council election when Alpha Gamma Rho members of the faction split from the party line to write in the name of Thomas Snipes, their intra-faction nominee who lost the candidacy to Glen LeDait, a Farm House blue shirt. As it so happened Snipes gathered enough supporters to win the election by a two vote advantage.

Is Reoccurrence.

Much the same manner of occurrence took place a year ago when the Farm House split from the faction alignment. In their case, however, they ran their man on the ballot as an Independent, officially registered and entered. This year there will be further cause for complaint since Alpha Gamma Rho was given a candidate, Irving Walker, in the engineering college, who also was also successful in the Tuesday balloting.

Arthur Wolf, Blue Shirt president, would make no statement as to how the controversy might end or what action might be taken. Certainly there is ground for much speculation on the ultimate outcome of the difficulty, and there will undoubtedly be a fluent verbal duel before the affair is finally settled within the faction.

Within the Yellow Jacket faction.

Finance Secretary Gunderson Walks To Own Funeral at Meeting Held at University of Kentucky Last Week

By MARVIN SCHMID.

Why aren't the university faculty, student body and others connected with this institution of higher learning—sad, mourning? Although funeral services were held last week, with the usual array of mourners, ministers, undertakers and pall-bearers for our beloved cash collector, L. E. Gunderson, no one around sees to even care. Very few sad faces are to be seen.

Perhaps the answer is that any one owing the university any money can yet, even after the Gunderson rites, trek into the university finance office and see him, apparently very much alive.

Cortege Walks. It all came about in this fashion. Upon the closing session of the twenty-first meeting of the association of University and College Business Officers held at the University of Kentucky, the members attending lined up at the steps of the university commons and stood with bowed heads and serious faces while they moved slowly down the steps and along the walk toward the corner of the building a cortege. This was led by Lobb of the Mayo Foundation as minister

'20 YEARS AFTER' TO BE THEME OF ANNUAL RAG FETE

Daily Nebraskan Staff to Hold Annual Banquet Tonight at 6:30.

"Twenty years after" is the theme which will be followed at the annual Rag banquet which sixty members of The Daily Nebraskan staff will attend this evening at the Lincoln hotel. Dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock. A program in the form of a staff reunion in 1951 will follow.

The Raggers, staff scandal sheet published on the occasion of the Rag banquet every year, will be distributed at the dinner. This issue is being edited by Frances Holyoke, women's editor of The Nebraskan, assisted by Jack Erickson, member of the staff. Slander and libel in generous quantities against many of their co-workers on The Nebraskan are promised by Miss Holyoke and Erickson.

Those on the toast list will speak as though the banquet were being held twenty years from now. Mystery surrounds the fate of many of the journalistically inclined celebrities. Gene Robb, as one of the political leaders of 1951, will preside at the banquet and introduce his co-workers.

CHILDREN'S THEATER PLANS PRESENTATION

Lincoln Children to Appear In 'How Dog Turned The Trick.'

IS LAST PLAY OF YEAR

With a cast composed entirely of the junior pupils of Miss Pauline Gellatly, the Children's theater will present "How the Dog Turned the Trick," on Saturday afternoon at the Temple theater. This is the fifth and last of the series of plays which have been presented this year under the sponsorship of the Lincoln Junior league.

The play was written by Vivian B. Howser, dramatic instructor of Omaha, and has been presented with great success in several cities. Lincoln children will see some of their favorite playmates such as "Little Boy Blue," "Red Riding Hood," "Mother Hubbard," and others come to life on the Children's theater stage.

"The Dog Who Turned the Trick" is the one for whom Old Mother Hubbard has been trying to find a bone all these years. The scene opens with Little Boy Blue fast asleep under his haystack. He has lost his horn and he is powerless to call his sheep and cows which have drifted into King Cole's corn. Mother Hubbard's dog comes to the rescue and before he is thru helping Little Boy Blue, he has earned enough money to buy a new gown for Mother Hubbard and a bone for the cupboard.

The play has a note of novelty in the songs and dances which are introduced and which make all the much-loved characters of nursery rhymes even more real. Miss Ruth Haberly has arranged for group singing between acts.

Those who have assisted with the play include: Dances, DeLellis Schamek; music, Jane Wicker-sham; singing, Aileen Neely; assisting, Lucile Cypriansen and Kathryn Pohlman; scenery, Clarissa Bucklin; costumes, Betty Jonas.

The cast of characters for "How the Dog Turned the Trick" follows: King Cole, George Mueller; Boy Blue, George Blackstone; Red Riding Hood, Anne Kinder; Tommy Tucker, David McShane.

BARBS PROTEST AGAINST RULING; PETITION SENATE

Appeal Made in Accordance With Constitutional Grant—Williams.

KELLY REMAINS SILENT

Former Barb Leader Says Rules of Counting Were Violated.

As an aftermath of Tuesday election, in which Barb candidates were declared ineligible following distribution by the Barb faction of printed handbills, the faction filed an appeal late yesterday to the faculty committee on student affairs of the university senate.

Alan Williams, long a power in Barb affairs, yesterday said that the appeal had been taken on the grounds stated in Article III, Section 2, paragraph 2, of the new Student council constitution, which reads:

"Any student, or organization, or member of the faculty of the university may appeal to the appropriate committee of the university senate whenever he feels that the Student council has either exceeded or misapplied its powers or has assumed an unwarranted jurisdiction. In such cases, the committee shall permit both the complaining party and the council to be heard, after which its decision shall be final."

Kelly Is Silent.

Robert Kelly, president of the Student council, had no further comment to make yesterday. He merely reaffirmed his stand and that taken by the council before the counting of ballots Tuesday.

Williams, in commenting on the Barb faction's appeal, declared that it was the Barb group's opinion that the new council constitution supplanted all old election rules. He pointed to Article IV, Division 5, paragraph 3 of the new constitution, which specifies that "each party or faction shall file a list of candidates." This, he says, conflicts with the rules of class elections as printed in the university catalogue, in which the statement is made that each candidate must file his own name.

Conflict Apparent.
"This conflict," Williams said, "is but one of the many apparent"

POINT SYSTEM FOR WOMEN IS REVISED

A. W. S. Board Recognizes Activities According to New Rating.

AIM TO DIVIDE HONORS

The point system for women, has been revised to some extent by the point system committee of the A. W. S. board and was presented to the board at the meeting Wednesday noon.

The aim of this system is to divide, among the different girls on the campus, the positions of prominence, rather than concentrate too many important activities on just a few girls. The activities have been divided into three groups, A, B, and C. A student may elect only one activity from group A, two from B, or one from A and one from B. In group C, a girl who has one activity in A, two in B, or one in A and one in B, may be a member of any organization in group C, providing she does not hold office in any of the organizations of the last named group.

Points Are Tested.
However, only 10 points will be allowed to sophomore women at any one time, and 14 to junior and senior women. It was decided that after one warning, all violations of the system would be brought before the A. W. S. court. All girls who are in doubt as to their eligibility according to point system as it now stands are asked by the board to make sure about it immediately. The co-operation of all organizations is urged so

DELTA SIGMA RHO ELECTS

Those initiated were: Prof. Lester E. Orfield, Alan Williams, Reginald Miller, Theodore Feidler, Edwin Faulkner, and George Hutton.

Further business disposed of was the selection of Carl J. Marold as delegate to the national convention in June, with George Hutton selected as alternate.

Prof. H. A. White, sponsor of the organization, suggested several amendments to the national fraternity constitution, and the local chapter went on record as favoring such amendments.

More than 185 members of Sigma Xi, honorary science, attended the initiation banquet held at the Cornhusker hotel last night. Fifty-two new members were taken into the organization. Seven faculty members, four active, and thirty associates were initiated. Two alumni were also taken into the society, and nine promotions were announced at the banquet.

Guest speaker of the evening was A. T. Hill of Hastings who was introduced by Chancellor Emeritus Avery of the chemistry department. Dean C. W. M. Poynter of the Medical college of Omaha gave the message to the initiates.

Dr. George L. Peltier, past president of the Nebraska chapter, gave the president's address on "Disease Prevention." Dr. Peltier summarized the work of the former presidents of the society in summarizing the advances made in the chosen field of research. He did not discuss the numerous epoch-making discoveries in the field of disease prevention, but rather offered a few striking examples of the failure to employ recognized preventives before a disease had assumed epidemic proportions and threatened the well-being.

Ag College Students Mourn Loss Of Judging Pavilion; Classes to Double Up for Remainder of Term

BY GEORGE ROUND.

Unlike the little school children who shriek with laughter when the small red brick school house burns down, students in the college of agriculture today are mourning the losses sustained Friday night when fire damaged the judging pavilion. What the college lost, the students lost also.

To the child, school would be over for the year if the school building burned down. He would be free. He wouldn't have to stay after school any more. But college of agriculture students taking animal husbandry courses will continue to take them at the regular time and be glad of it. Prof. H. J. Gramlich intimated last night that classes in the college will double up in order to accommodate the animal husbandry groups.

To Double Up.
"Since we have but two weeks of school left, it isn't going to be so bad," Gramlich said. "We will double up the best we can, having our headquarters in the south end of the meat laboratory. Some of our judging classes may be held in the open air. Otherwise we can accommodate them in the horse barn."

In addition to financial losses, the fire accomplished one other thing. It ended a picnic. Just as the students finished eating their lunch at the annual college of agriculture picnic about eight o'clock someone came running to the scene informing the students that the judging pavilion was on fire. Within a very few minutes the picnic ground was deserted save for one lone girl who stayed to guard the ice cream. About that time

EDMONDS NAMES RELEASE DATE OF 1931 YEARBOOK

Distribution Will Begin on May 29 According to Business Head.

100 PAGES ARE HUMOR

Feature Section Contains Group of Snapshots, Novel Cuts.

The thirty-fourth edition of the Cornhusker, University of Nebraska year book, will be released Tuesday, May 29, according to the announcement of Ed Edmonds, business manager of the 1931 issue. Purchasers may obtain their copy at the Cornhusker office in University hall any time after 8 o'clock Tuesday morning. Those calling for their copies are requested to bring receipts with them.

For the first time in history a Cornhusker will appear with a predominating theme featuring the entire issue. The 1931 edition will carry a historic background through the entire book of 550 pages. Not only is the theme one of the outstanding features of the 1931 editions, but the departure from stereotyped organization of the different sections is marked throughout the new Cornhusker.

100 Pages Are Humor.
A section of 100 pages has been devoted to humor included in which are several novel cuts. One of the features is a 24 page section of snapshots that should prove one of the more outstanding features of the new year book. The student life section is larger in the 1931 edition than ever before and features many a number of novel and unique lay-outs and some excellent drawings by Pickering.

Another of the features of the book will be the presentation of the sorority and fraternity layouts. A change in style and composition doing much to add interest in these sections.

The Cornhusker first appeared on the Nebraska campus in 1907 and has been issued yearly since that time. Prior to 1907 Nebraska issued a year book, the first to appear in the spring of 1890, entitled "The Sombbrero."

ORCHESTRA PRESENTS SIXTH DANCE DRAMA

Approximately 400 View Annual Presentation in Coliseum.

W.A.A. SPONSORS AFFAIR.
Before a crowd of approximately four hundred, the member of Orchestra, honorary dancing organization of the University of Nebraska, climaxed their year's work in a sixth annual dance drama, last night in the Coliseum. The program was presented under the auspices of the W. A. A. members who were in charge of the ticket sales and the ushering.

The big problem of the drama was the Rhythm of Life, presented in the first group. In this, the entire cast, interpreted the cycles of life, and how the three forces: Creation, Preservation, and Destruction go on and on with no one ever understanding their full meaning.

Interpret Moods.
Also in the first group were two numbers entitled Orchestra and Valse Triste. The former was a presentation of the spirit of the
