CADET REGIMENT INSPECTION HELD IN DRIZZLING RAIN

Col. T. S. Moorman, Omaha, Reviews University Training Corps.

LOOKS OVER EQUIPMENT

Performance Of Military Tactics Gratifies Col. Oury.

Col. T. S. Moorman of Omaha, R. O. T. C. officers of the Seventh corps area, reviewed the university cadet regiment in front of the coliseum and in the stadium for the thirty-seventh annual government inspection yesterday afternoon.

The retreat parade was held on the pavement and mall in front of the coliseum because of mud on the drill field. Although excited during a drizzling rain, the review was one of the best he had ever seen by R. O. T. C. cadets, Col. W. H. Oury, regimental commandant. The colonel was very well pleased with the showing of the cadets.

Following the parade ceremony, the regiment was moved into the stadium under the east stand for inspection. The inspection included personal inspection of the cadets, color drill by a squad, a company and a platoon, extended order drill by a pick platoon, shelter tent pitching by a designated platoon, calisthenics, execution of mass commands by a designated group and tactical exercises by a war-strength company.

Col. Moorman spent Wednesday and yesterday forenoon inspecting the equipment and stores of the military department. He will make his official report after his return to Omaha, but seemed very well pleased with performance of the cadet regiment.

Yesterday's inspection with company and individual competes this afternoon on the football field inside the stadium will close the activities of the military department for the year. The R. O. T. C. band will play for the commencement day parade Saturday, June 6.

SPITALNY IS OWNER OF MUSIC LIBRARY

Collection Said To Be One Of Finest Privately Owned in U. S.

WILL PLAY HERE SOON

Phil Spitalny, famous NBC dance band conductor, whose orchestra is coming to a local ballroom Monday, June 1, is believed to own the largest and most valuable privately owned music library in the United States.

Thousands of musical selections and orchestrations are included in the library, so many, in fact, that when Spitalny left the Hotel Pennsylvania in New York, where he had previously conducted the roof garden orchestra, ten especially built trunks of unusual size were needed for packing the library. The manuscripts of the collection are insured for $65,000.

At Spitalny's home in the Edgewater Beach hotel where his orchestra has held sway during the past winter, a special room was turned over to Spitalny for the safe-keeping of his musical treasure. Built-in shelves, and a complicated index system were installed.

The library contains almost every type of musical composition ever written, from operatic scores and symphonies to the latest popular selections and orchestrations. Spitalny has personally collected the library during his years as one of the country's outstanding orchestra leaders, and the wide variety of its contents adds further proof of the versatility and ability to interpret any type of music for which Spitalny is famous.

However, Dr. Gibbons declares she is "more interested in people than in places."

Expectations To Get Shot. "I expect to get shot at by bandits," Dr. Gibbons remarked with a smile.

A tour of India, and northern India particularly, will be of especial interest to Miss Gibbons since her two sisters live in India. One sister lives in Madanapalle, where she is a medical missionary. The other is in Vellore, where she has charge of infant welfare work. Miss Gibbons expects to spend Miss (Continued on Page 4.)

PRIZE EDITORIAL WRITER HONORED BY JOURNALISTS

FORMAL BANQUET HELD

Walker Addresses Group Of Alumni, Actives, And Guest Pressmen.

In recognition of meritorious achievement in the field of journalistic enterprise the Nebraska chapter of Sigma Delta Chi initiated Charles S. Ryckman, Fremont Tribune Pulitzer prize editorial writer, into associate membership at the group's annual Founder's day banquet at the Shrine club last night.

Initiation ceremonies for the author of America's best editorial for the year 1930, "The Gentleman From Nebraska," were held at the preceding banquet. At the close of the dinner, in the presence of active and alumni members of Sigma Delta Chi and eminent local pressmen, who attended the affair as guests, Mr. Ryckman was presented with the official badge and certificate of the organization by William McGaffin, president.

In reply to the presentation made by Nebraska's Sigma Delta Chi chapter, Mr. Ryckman said: "It has made me very happy to become an associate member of such a group as this. I feel that Sigma Delta Chi recognizes those aspects of the newspaper profession which are the most noteworthy, the most valuable."

The leading talk of the evening was given by Gayle C. Walker, director of the school of journalism. Mr. Walker paid tribute to Mr. Ryckman's accomplishment in bringing the Pulitzer prize to Nebraska for the second time and (Continued on Page 4.)

Campus Calendar

Saturday. Social dancing class from 7 until 8:30 o'clock at the Armory. Sunday, May 31. "U-n-I" club banquet. First Presbyterian church, 17 and F streets, at 5 o'clock.

Last Gasp.

With this issue, The Daily Nebraskan officially ends its existence for the second semester period of 1931. No more papers will be printed after this morning. Over the shouts of relief, the tears, and the pounding of typewriters, we would like to make ourselves heard to express thanks for the fine co-operation displayed by the staff during the semester past.

Reporters, a few especially, news editors, women's editor, sports editor, columnists, and all are to be complimented. We are sorry we cannot say more. We have surely enjoyed working with you and we hope that the joy has been at least partially shared.

Before we go, we would also like to thank the advertising staff for their splendid co-operation these last few days in making eight column papers possible. They're really not a bad lot, however, and though the old news business side fight will probably go on forever, we have a pretty soft spot in our hearts for our business staff.

That's about all, now. It probably should have been all several paragraphs back. But at any rate—adois—good luck—and a happy future—this is for everyone!

A. W. S. DISCUSS POINT SYSTEM FOR ACTIVITIES

Board Members Settle On Number Offices Coeds May Hold.

HAVE SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of the A. W. S. board was held Thursday noon to complete the discussion of the regulations of the point system for women. It will read in this manner, "Candidates for offices or membership must see that they will be eligible within the point system, if they should secure the office, before they file. If a student has her quota in points or is over pointed, nominations must not be accepted until sufficient offices have been resigned to make her eligible. After a warning, all violations will be subject to penalty by the A. W. S. court." This new regulation is intended to divide activities, because, should it be necessary, a candidate must resign before the election.

It was also decided to keep the presidency of W. A. A. at eight points and that of Y. W. C. A. at ten. Editor and business manager of the Daily Nebraskan and AWG would also be deserving of ten points.

Ideas for new freshman activities to be sponsored by the A. W. S. board were given by Margaret Upton, chairman of the freshman activity committee and were followed by a discussion by the board.

WEATHER.

Mostly fair Friday; somewhat cooler southeast portion of Nebraska.

Ag Bulletins Are So Numerous Every Person In Nebraska Could Have Three

Enough extension bulletins are issued annually by the College of Agriculture of the University of Nebraska to supply every man, woman and child in the state with three of the pamphlets, and have 78,000 remaining for distribution outside the state, according to figures compiled by Milton Lux, editorial assistant of agricultural extension work.

The publications represent results of research work and investigations, and information calculated to assist in improving and increasing the efficiency of methods and home economics pursuits. Among the subjects covered in these extension bulletins are crops and sales, engineering, horticulture, animal and dairy husbandry, poultry, rural economics, forestry, insect entomology, and home economics.

There are three classifications of material in these publications, of which temporary extension service bulletins concerning 4-H club work, women's clubs, and miscellaneous information are distributed most widely. Four million copies of these bulletins are mimeographed annually. If the material is proven of sufficient value, through these trial distributions, it is later issued in printed form.

Of the station circulars regarding results of research and investigation, about 110,000 copies are distributed each year. Popular editions of these bulletins, containing practical applications of the research, are also arranged, and distributed to about 99,000 residents of Nebraska and adjoining states.

R. O. T. C. ACTIVITY WINDS UP TODAY

Military Corps Cadets Will Vie For Individual And Group Honors In Compet; Captains To Drill Companies; Platoons Will Compete.

CONTESTS WILL BE JUDGED BY ARMY OFFICERS

Pershing Rifles, Headquarters Company To Drill As Fourth Battalion Under Carl Hahn; Honorary Colonel, Sponsors To Give Medals.

University R. O. T. C. cadets will vie for individual and group drill honors at the thirty-seventh annual military compet in the stadium this afternoon. Compet, following regimental inspection yesterday, will close the military activities of the year.

Competition will consist of company drill, platoon drill and individual compet. First call is scheduled for 12:45 with formation at 1 o'clock.

In company competition all companies will drill under their own officers. The order of drill will be determined by drawing. The companies will be rated on conduct and bearing of officers, inspection, variety of movements, precision and correctness in the execution of movements, steps alignments and pivots, manual of arms and physical drill.

Best Squads Enter. Platoon drill entries will consist of one platoon of four squads per company, with total number of platoons not to exceed eighteen. Drill will consist of inspection, platoon close order drill and manual of arms. Regularly assigned platoon leaders will conduct the drill. The regiment will form inside the stadium at designated positions and proceed, one company at a time, thru eight blocks for the different parts of the maneuvers. In block 1 the judges will inspect the companies. In block 2 the companies will execute drill movements under their respective captains. Lieutenants will drill the companies in block 4. The companies will go thru physical drill in block 5. Block 6 is for platoon inspection, block 7 for close order drill and block 8 for manual of arms. Changes in blocks 1 to 5 will be indicated by the sounding of attention on the bugle. The changes in blocks 6, 7 and 8 will be indicated by the senior judges.

Justices of the competition will be officers of the regular army, national guard and reserve corps. Following is a list of the judges: Major Young, Captain Baumeister, Captain Fiegel, Captain Scott, Sergeant Richardson, Colonel Cunningham, Captain Criss, Lieutenant Dier, Sergeant McGinney, Colonel Overholser, Lieut. C. O. Lawlor, Lieutenant Utter, Sergeant Farris, Colonel Frankforter, Lieutenant Van Kirk, Lieutenant Trout, Captain King, Lieutenant Sampson, Captain Spoerry, Captain Harper, Lieut. O. J. King, Sergeant Garard, Captain Anderson, Lieutenant Turner, Sergeant Ashmore and two officers from Fort Crook.

The officials for the purpose of conducting, announcing and recording the competitive drill will consist of officers and non-commissioned officers of the military department.

Individual compet will consist of manual of arms and foot movements under the command of the regimental commander and adjutant. Three men from each company have been selected during the regular drill periods during the last few weeks to compete for individual honors.

Immediately upon the completion of the formation of the regiment at the sound of captain's call on the bugle, the winning company will move forward and take position in front of the colonel. The companies winning second and third in company drill will take places behind the winning company. The winning platoon will form on line with the winning company at its right. The "best basic" student and winners of individual compet will form at the right of the winning company.
