

THIRD STUDENT PARTY WILL BE HELD TONIGHT IN HUSKER COLISEUM

Ventilating System Insures
Comfort; Arrangements Completed.

Large Crowd Is Expected
Present For Week-End
Dance Program.

With the entire coliseum for a dance floor, summer session students will hold their third party beginning at 9 o'clock this evening. Orchestral arrangements are completed, the cool ventilation system will be in operation, and several new entertainment features will be provided for the evening, according to members of the student executive committee.

Grant Memorial hall was originally engaged for use on every Friday evening of the summer session but as long as large crowds continue to merit it the coliseum will be used as a dance floor. Last week's party, with an attendance of over 500 students, set an all-time record for summer session parties.

Lantz Comments.

Enthusiastic over the favorable reaction which the summer student body is giving to recreational affairs is Prof. E. W. Lantz who says:

"We are highly pleased with the spirit with which this summer's student group has entered into the fun programs which are being arranged for their enjoyment. We are extremely fortunate to be able to use the coliseum because of the cool temperature which its ventilating system provides and if students continue to give their attendant support we shall be able to use this building for most of our functions."

Members of the student executive committee, which was first organized this summer as a means of letting summer students make their own party and recreation arrangements, have expressed their gratification over the manner in which students have co-operated with them in the recreational program.

In addition to tonight's affair, another party has already been arranged for next week. The fourth affair of the summer will be a university sports party, including a picnic and dance for all summer school students. Further announcements and details pertinent to this fête will appear next week in the Summer Nebraskan and on the bulletin boards around the campus.

Prof. W. K. Pfeiler, of the University of Nebraska department of Germanic languages, addressed the Optimist club at the Cornhusker hotel last Thursday and characterized the French question of national security as the keynote of the European problem of unity.

Germany, he said, is desirous of meeting its international debts as quickly as possible. First, however, he reminded, Germany must be given a chance to create values.

THOMAS LECTURES ON LITERATURE AND LIFE

Large Audience Hears Harvard Professor in Convocation.

Giving numerous illustrations of the manner in which literature is closely related to life, Prof. Charles Thomas Swain of Harvard university spoke on "Literature and Living" to a large audience in the auditorium of Social Sciences building Wednesday morning in the first university convocation of the summer.

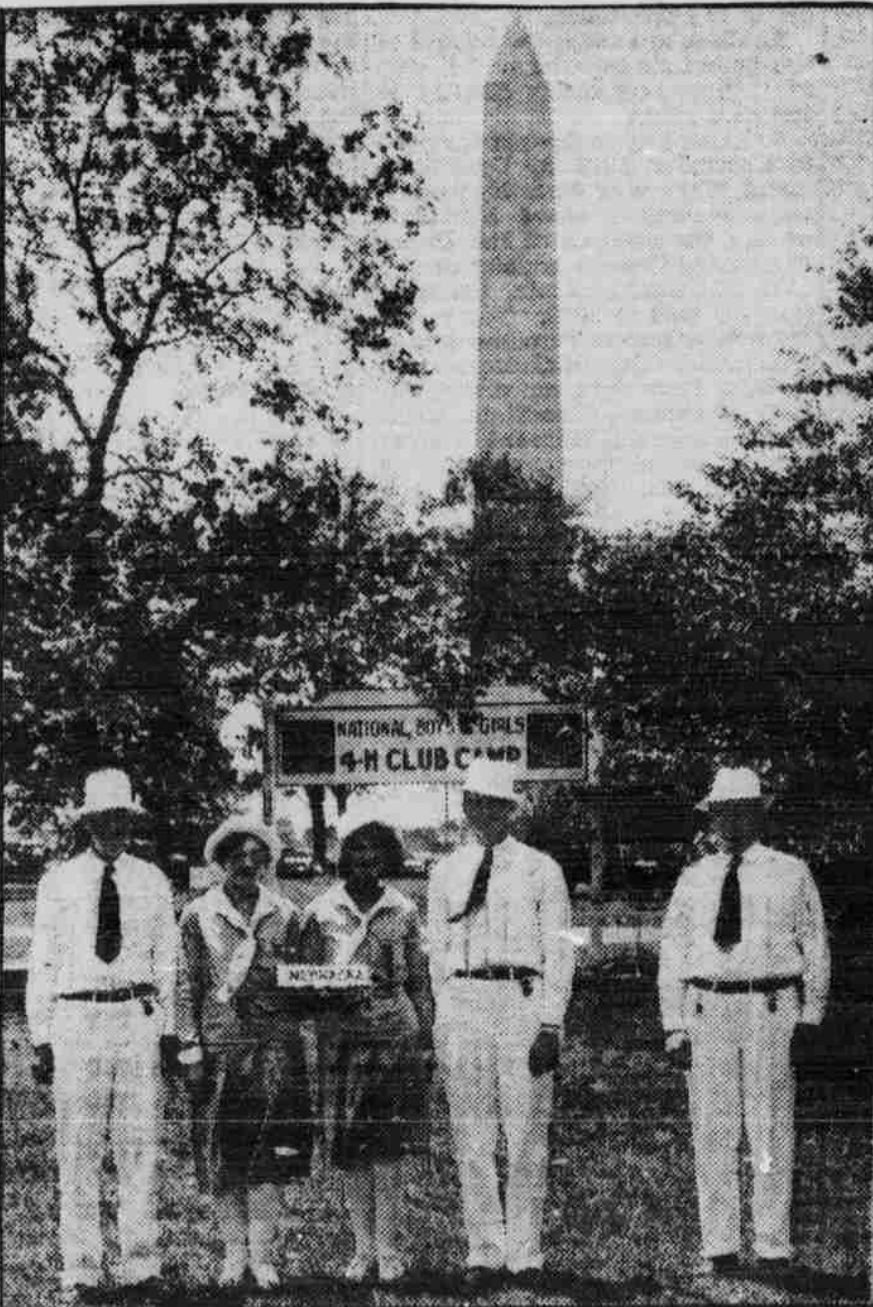

A greater appreciation of nature is obtained by the study of literature, the Harvard professor pointed out. Especially is this true in the field of poetry where the great theme of nature may be more adequately expressed, he stated.

"If we, as teachers, have been omitting the field of human relations in our instruction we have been negligent," Professor Thomas said, commenting upon the relation of literature to human nature. He showed how this field is of sufficient importance that at Yale and the University of Chicago, departments devoted entirely to subjects in that field have recently been established.

A comparison of the Nebraska capitol and the structure of a literary masterpiece was made by Professor Thomas in speaking of the relation of literature and the arts. Stressing the beauty and vision embodied in the mural painting in the capitol library room, he pointed out the similarity of the effect obtained by viewing

SEATON EXPLAINS WHY STUDENTS CAN'T PARK CARS ON DRILL FIELD

New Mall Will Take Place of Drill Field; Faculty
Must Move Cars.

Ten Electric Fans Added To Library; Limited Funds Prevent Improvements.

"Limited appropriations make it impossible to provide for many of the requests made by students in regard to improvements on the campus," stated L. F. Seaton, yesterday in reply to the numerous letters which The Nebraskan has received recently complaining of inadequate parking facilities and heated conditions at the library.

"Why can't we park on the drill field? It isn't being used this summer and look at all the vacant space which, if it were only thrown open to the use of the students, would eliminate the present parking problem," point out students in their complaints written for the "Student Opinion" column. Finances would not be the obstacle there, they argue.

Long a "Sore Spot."

For many seasons the drill field has been the "sore spot" of the city campus, Mr. Seaton said, explaining why students are not being permitted to park their cars at that location. Dirt would be blown from the field into the surrounding buildings, adding to maintenance costs and making it difficult to keep classrooms clean.

By securing the plot of ground adjacent to the heating plant, plans for moving the drill field were completed last year and beginning next fall the R. O. T. C. unit will receive their outdoor training on the new field, according to the operating superintendent.

Will Start Grading Soon.

Grading will be started within the next few weeks to convert the former drill field into a Mall similar to Memorial Mall east of the stadium. The whole plot will then be seeded to blue grass and the "dust storms" on that part of the campus will be a thing of the past.

"Thus, instead of permitting additional cars we shall even have to close the field to the single line of cars owned by members of the faculty which are now allowed on the south side," Mr. Seaton stated. When the Mall is paved, parking conditions on the campus will be limitations as those imposed by greatly improved. But with such the recent university appropriation, it will be improbable whether such campus improvement plans
