DRAMATIC OPENER THRILLS PLAYERS' AUDIENCE MONDAY

Balderston's Time Fantasy
Proves Fascinating
Mystery Play.

INCLUDES DASH OF WIT

Humor Based on Reaction
Young Moderns to Old
English Standards.

Opening the current dramatic season, University Players gave the initial performance of "Berkeley Square" Monday evening, at the Temple theater. John L. Balderston's strange play based upon a curious conception of time turns out to be a mystery play without a solution but not without fascination and a dash of wit.

An able cast in an unusually fine setting carried the audience successfully from the twentieth century to the eighteenth and back again. Herbert Yenne plays the part of Peter Standish, the twentieth century young man in love with the past, who conceives of all time as one. Mr. Yenne plays his difficult role with fine understanding. In the last scene he exhibits his very fine talent for emotional interpretation.

Alta Reade as Helen Pettigrew, the girl with whom Peter Standish falls in love, makes a very appealing figure on the stage. From Peter, she too acquires an inkling of this strange idea of time. She is convincing in a role which might easily become fantastic.

Miss Zimmer Does Well.
Dorothy Zimmer, as Kate Pettigrew who first senses the mystery which surrounds Peter Standish, does not overdo her emotional acting. She acts well and is at ease on the stage. Clara Christensen as Lady Anne Pettigrew presents a very typical eighteenth century mother.

Robert Reade plays the comic character, Tom Pettigrew, the worry and the annoyance of the entire family. William Thompson is the Ambassador and adds a distinctive note to the cast.

By Dick Moran.
Eugene S. Robb, one of the five candidates for the Rhodes Scholarship from Nebraska, was actively connected with campus activities while in school. He received his A. B. degree in journalism two years ago, and last year he was working toward an advanced degree in political science.

Last year Robb was in charge of the University News Service, which supplies the papers of the state with news of the university. At the present time, Robb is employed in the editorial department of the Lincoln Star.

Marvin Von Seggern, senior in the College of Engineering and member of the Innocents society, was appointed editor-in-chief of the Daily Nebraskan by the publications board which met yesterday afternoon. He is to start his duties as editor immediately.

Marvin, brother of Boyd Von Seggern who was editor-in-chief of the Nebraskan when he fell and was forced to resign his position because of ill health, was the only applicant for the position. He has been a regular contributor to the Nebraskan for three years, but he has never held a position on the staff before.

Von Seggern has been active in extra-curricular activities during his college career. He has served on the editorial staff of the Blueprint, Engineering College publication, for three years. Two years ago he was an associate editor, and last year he held the position of managing editor of that magazine.

In addition to his work on the Blueprint, he is president of the Interfraternity Council, a member of the Innocents society, a member of the Engineer's Executive board, and a member of Corn Cobs, men's pep organization. Last year he was publicity manager for the Annual Engineer's Week.

He is affiliated with Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, a member of Sigma Tau, honorary engineering fraternity, and of Pi Mu Epsilon, honorary mathematics fraternity, and of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

In addition to his activities, Von Seggern has maintained a scholastic average of over 84. He is twenty-one years old, and his home town is West Point, Nebraska. Previous to his university journalistic work, he worked on his high school paper and his father's newspaper.

STADIUM RALLY SCHEDULED FOR HOMECOMING EVE

Mitchell Gives Preliminary
Plans and Outlines
March Route.

STARTS FROM TEMPLE

Workmen Installing Lighted
Speaker's Stand and Corridor Lamps.

The annual homecoming rally, largest of the year, will get under way at 7 o'clock Friday evening, it was announced Monday by Art Mitchell, rally chairman.

The rally will start from the Temple, where the band, Corncobs and Tassels will gather. They will parade up R street to Sixteenth, on Sixteenth north to Vine, and on Vine to the stadium.

Fraternity, sorority, and unorganized students have been asked to fall in behind the band and follow it to the stadium, where the rally proper will start at 7:30.

Workmen will begin at once constructing a lighted speaker's stand on the track in front of the east stadium. Lights will be strung through the corridors and in one of the ramps leading out to the stadium seats.

Mitchell explained that the rally would be held in the stadium for reasons of psychology and effect. "The plan has the hearty endorsement of both H. D. Gish, director of athletics, and D. X. Bible, head coach," Mitchell said.

Replaces Former Bonfire.
The rally will take the place of the annual bonfire rally staged at homecoming in past times. It was found necessary to do away with the bonfire when it was discovered that there was no place available for it.

The former site of the fire, the old drill field, has been prepared for seeding, thus putting to an end the custom of having the fire there.

Numbers of alumni are expected to attend the rally, in addition to the usual student contingent.

Although not announcing the speakers list, Mitchell said it would include men from various parts of the state. "They will be famous Nebraskans of former years," he promised. He indicated that at least one or two former football captains would address the group.

The program will feature the presentation by Prof. Gayle C. Walker of the Sigma Delta Chi cup to the writer of the best news story which appeared in the Daily Nebraskan the second semester of last year. Awards will also be made for the best feature stories.

Jack Erickson of Newman Grove received the cup last spring for the most outstanding news story, and Rex F. Wagner, of Burwell, the award for the best feature article. These awards were announced at the Honors Day convocation, held April 30 in the coliseum.

Those receiving the award at the Theta Sigma Phi banquet last fall were Cliff Sandahl and LaSelle Gilman for their respective news and feature stories.

DIRECTORY NEARLY READY

Student Handbook Will Be Distributed About
Nov. 1.

With work on the editorial and business sides of the Student Directory progressing rapidly, the 1931 student handbook is nearing completion, according to James Crabb, editor of the directory. The book will go on sale about the first of November.

All of the student lists have been corrected and fraternity and sorority affiliations added, and they are now in the hands of the printers. The faculty list was corrected and sent to the printers early last week.

The organization lists will be sent to the publishers as soon as possible this week, Crabb stated. Advertising copy is beginning to come in, and all of it will be in by the end of next week. The sale of advertising for the directory is progressing satisfactorily, according to Bill Comstock, business manager, and will be completed soon.

BALLOONS WILL BE SOLD SATURDAY BY WOMEN'S PEP CLUB

Gas Filled Balloons to Be Released at First
Husker Scoring.

A new tradition will be inaugurated on the Nebraska campus Saturday when Tassels, women's pep organization, will sell scarlet balloons with Nebraska printed on them in white letters. At the first touchdown which Nebraska makes the balloons will be released into the air by the spectators thus making a gorgeous display.

"These balloons will be filled with gas and will sell for ten cents a piece thus making it possible for every one to purchase one," stated Julieene Deetken, president of the organization. Tassels expect to make this the tradition at every Homecoming game.

"In order for this tradition to be a success it will be necessary for everyone to purchase a balloon," stated Miss Deetken.

"This plan is used by many universities at every football game when the home team makes its first touchdown, but it is planned to be used here only at the homecoming game so that we may add another tradition to our list," she added.

The balloons will be sold Saturday.

AG COLLEGE SENIOR WINS WORLD HONORS

Dale Bush Takes Champion
Dairy Judging Laurels at St. Louis Show.

AWARDED THREE PRIZES

Winning the championship of the world in judging dairy cattle and being thirty-six points ahead of his closest competitor, Dale Bush, senior in the college of agriculture, returned from St. Louis with a gold filled cane, gold medal and a Gladstone traveling bag.

The cane was presented by Successful Farming Magazine, the gold medal by American Dairy Science association, and the Gladstone traveling bag by Country Gentleman.

Twenty-three teams represented the United States and Canada agriculture schools, which totaled sixty-nine contestants. Bush totaled 1431 of a possible 1600 points. He did not win any one breed, but was most consistent in all breeds.

In 1925, Bush was on a vocational judging team which participated in a contest held at the college of agriculture, and received high placings in 4-H club work and became a member in 1926. In 1928, he was second high man in the state 4-H club contest.

"I owe my accomplishment to Coach R. F. Morgan, as I have been under his leadership since I have been in the university," Bush stated.

Coach Morgan was this year directing his tenth dairy judging team. "One thing I have wanted to do is to train a national high individual," he said. "I am proud of the team as a whole in the excellent showing they made at the contest."

Other Cornhusker 4-H entries in the St. Louis exhibition, sixteen in number, took more premiums in the 4-H club division per animal entered than any other state in the union. The sixteen Nebraska calves won a total of over $500 in cash awards in addition to the placings in the open class.

"The outstanding winning at St. Louis heads up a fine record for the Nebraska dairy club members," L. I. Frisbie, state 4-H club leader, says.

MORLEY SPEAKS AT CONVOCATION ON MAYA RUINS

American Archeologist Will Describe Excavations in South Mexico.

USES COLORED SLIDES

Year's First All-Student
Meeting at Temple at 11 O'clock.

Dr. Sylvanus G. Morley, well known American archeologist, will address the students at the first all university convocation, to be held in the Temple theater this morning at 11, on the subject of his work in southern Mexico.

Classes will not be dismissed for the convocation, according to a statement issued by Dean Thompson yesterday. "Dr. Morley is recognized as an authority in his field," Dean Thompson declared, "and he is a very interesting speaker. He will say many things which should be of interest to the students, and I urge all students who do not have classes at 11 to attend the convocation."

Dr. Morley, who for the past two years has been directing the Chichen-Itza project to uncover remains of Mayan civilization in Central America, will lecture upon explorations and excavations he has been conducting in the Mayan area in southern Mexico and Yucatan. Emphasis will be placed upon the importance of his discoveries in their revelation of the little known Mayan civilization.

To illustrate the lecture Dr. Morley will use more than seventy-five hand colored slides. This collection will include a series of photographs taken by Colonel Charles Lindbergh, who, in his South American tour of two years ago, was employed by the Carnegie Institute to make these photographs to aid its search for the hidden Maya field.

Dr. J. O. Hertzler, of the university committee on convocations and head of the department of sociology, will introduce the speaker. The university authorities expect a large attendance of both university students and Lincoln people because of the general interest in Dr. Morley's topic.

OCTOBER BLUE PRINT APPEARS WEDNESDAY

New Issue Features Article
By Student on Camp
Life at Ashland.

KOCH WRITES ON RADIO

The October issue of the Blue Print, engineer's publication on the campus, will be out Wednesday, according to Jerry Briggs, editor. The publication has some exceptionally interesting articles this month, says the editor. One which should be of special interest is entitled, "High Spots of Camp Life," written by W. H. Congdon, a junior in the civil engineering college.

This tells of the work and play of about forty engineering students at Camp Nebraska, located near Ashland, last summer.

An article written by Wesley Koch tells about Lincoln's system of radio entertainment. This is a description of the equipment and operation of a unique system of radio entertainment which gives the citizens of Lincoln a choice of three radio programs.

This month's Blue Print reproduces a paper which was prepared and delivered at the Southwestern Power conference at Kansas City in September by Prof. C. A. Sjogren. The paper, in dealing with the branch societies of national engineering organizations in each department, sets out ideas on how these activities can take a higher plane in the curricula of the various departments, and how it may arouse new interest in those departments.

A. L. Harvey, who graduated from the electrical engineering college of Nebraska in 1906, has an article in this month's issue entitled "Induction Motors and Starters with Reference to Torque Produced in Starting." Harvey is now employed by the Westinghouse Electrical Manufacturing company.

COUNCIL MEETING PLANNED

Body Will Discuss Lowering
Party Costs and Rates
To Games.

Directly in line with the economy program advocated by university faculty and students, the student council will meet tomorrow to discuss plans for limiting party costs. This is applicable to all campus groups. The meeting will be held in room 106 of University hall at 5 o'clock.

A report will also be given by a committee appointed by Edwin Faulkner, president of the council, on the possibility of having a special train and special rates to Columbia, Mo., and Manhattan, Kas. The council is endeavoring to secure special rates for these two trips to enable more students to attend the Missouri and Kansas Aggie games than would ordinarily be able to go at standard rates.

STUDENT TICKETS PUT ON SALE FOR A DOLLAR A GAME

New Price Effective Today
Being Tried to Combat
Low Book Sale.

A student ticket to individual games remaining on the University of Nebraska home football schedule will be placed on sale at $1, according to a Monday announcement by John K. Selleck, business manager of athletics, following a meeting of the University athletic board.

These tickets will be on sale at the student activities office in the University coliseum and may be purchased upon presentation of a student identification card. Games remaining on the University home schedule are University of Kansas, next Saturday; University of Iowa, Nov. 7; and Iowa State college, Nov. 21.

The one dollar per ticket price is more than half the price scale for non-student purchasers and considerably under the general admission price at the Husker games.

Plan Is Temporary Measure.

"The present plan of placing individual tickets on sale to students at reduced prices is a temporary measure being tried this year. The student season book sale is considerably under that of the past few years, due undoubtedly to the fact many students are pinched financially and were unable to put out the nine dollars at the start of the present school year.

"Students holding season athletic books are receiving admission to the games at a rate well under the individual game figure. The new ticket of one dollar per game is designed to aid those students who desire to see the Cornhuskers in action and were unable to purchase the season book."

The new student tickets will be placed on sale for the first time Tuesday morning and many are expected to take advantage of the new price and be in the student section for the Kansas game—the Homecoming day event on the Nebraska schedule.

Word from Kansas brings the news that more than 500 Kansas students headed by the Jayhawk pep organization, will be at Memorial stadium for the game.

Library Bookcase Contains History Of Nebraska University Publications

BY OLIVER DeWOLF
In the little bookcase just outside the swinging doors of the main library is a collection that should prove of interest to every Nebraska student. This bookcase always contains objects of interest but it has been said that the history of school is always chronicled in its publications, and at the present time that it just what this bookcase contains: Publications of the University of Nebraska.

Beginning in 1895, the English department of the University published the Nebraska Literary Magazine which sold for twenty-five cents a copy. It was discontinued in 1896. At this time the University Monitor, an attempt at serious journalism, was introduced, but it lasted less than a year. H. R. Leavitt was the editor in chief, and subscriptions sold for one dollar a year.

The Kiote, another periodical, appeared in 1898, and continued until 1910. This magazine was sponsored by Mr. Clark F. Ansley, and was edited by Schuyler W. Miller, and Harry C. Shedd. It sold for five cents a copy.

The Scarlet and Cream appeared on Sept. 21, 1900, as a literary monthly connected with the Nebraskan. At the present time

AUDREY GREGORY RESIGNS AS KLUB COURT MISTRESS

Says Rule Declaring Miss
Steinmeier Ineligible
'Discriminatory.'

LAWS PREPARE TO ACT

Deveraux Defends Kosmet
Ruling; Election Plans
Unchanged.

Declaring that she could not preside as queen of the Kosmet court at the annual morning revue Nov. 7, Audrey Gregory, last year Nebraska sweetheart, resigned last night from her post of presiding queen at the ceremony because she felt that the action of the club in declaring Imogene Steinmeier ineligible was "discriminatory and unfair."

Her action followed declaration by hastily organized law college students under the direction of John P. Jensen, Blair, senior, that the law students of the university were prepared to write in the name of Miss Steinmeier on the ballots in today's election of Nebraska Sweetheart, in the face of the Kosmet Klub statement that she was ineligible on account of having too many hours credit.

The recently passed Klub ruling on eligibility states that to be eligible for candidacy for the post of Nebraska Sweetheart, a girl must have "not less than twenty-seven credit hours, and not more than eighty-nine."

Deveraux Refutes Charges.
Replying to the charges brought by Miss Gregory and the law students of discriminatory action, Dick Deveraux, Kosmet Klub president said that the eligibility rule in effect for the first time this year was passed Tuesday night before any examinations of the filings for Nebraska Sweetheart had been made.

"Student activities office filings for the post were not investigated until Wednesday, the day following passage of the rule," he stated, "so charges that the Kosmet Klub acting discriminatorily against any individual or group are untrue."

Continuing his refutation of the charges he said, "Kosmet Klub

COMPLETION OF MALL ENDS SPACE PROBLEM

Seaton Says More Parking
Room Available Than Ever Before.

STALLS MARKED MONDAY

With the completion of the pavement around the new mall, the lack of parking facilities which has been a source of irritation both to students and administrative officials for the past few years is definitely remedied.

"We are in better shape for parking now than ever before," said L. F. Seaton, operating superintendent, "and the additional space provided ought to meet the needs of students for a good many years."

Parking on the new mall will be diagonal, stalls having been marked on the curb Monday morning. Student's cars were parked yesterday on the new pavement, the south section of which was completed. Cars were parked both parallel, in conformity with parking custom elsewhere on the campus, and diagonally. The available space was by no means exhausted.

The south side of the street on the south section of the mall will be assigned to faculty members for parking in place of the cinder drive on the south edge of the former drill field which has been used for faculty parking. Faculty members will also be given exclusive use of the area behind Chem-
