Fixing the General Aim.

Somewhat out of the usual order of things, a new editor assumes his position after the editorial shoes have already been warmed by his predecessor. He takes over his duties after things have been set in motion.

The fact that the new editor has been taken from outside of the regular staff of The Nebraskan may be an added cause for the reader to take note of what things The Nebraskan will advocate. The tasks of editorship are as a rule assigned to the journalist who carries on according to the established conventions of his profession.

Problems that have always perplexed student editors will be disposed of as they appear. To outline a program for the remainder of the semester would be an act as meaningless as a political faction platform.

To reflect the student opinion, to give rise to constructive thought on the part of the students, and to bring about a higher regard for the university and its purposes by the students and the public, shall be the general aim of this newspaper.

Some folks go to school because they can't find any work. Others go to school so they won't have to work.

These Eligibility Rules for Popularity.

Who shall be eligible for Nebraska Sweetheart? seems to be the theme song of many a heated argument at present. Kosmet Klub, the organization fostering the election and presentation of the sweetheart, has stirred up considerable excitement by making an eligibility rule specifying that this sweetheart must be either a sophomore or a junior in the university.

Law students, and perhaps several others, have declared their disapproval of this ruling. As a result of one of the candidates, a law student, being thrown out of the race, the reigning queen of the Kosmet court has resigned her position. It is her contention, and also the opinion of those objecting to the eligibility rule, that the Nebraska Sweetheart could not be a representative of the university if such a restriction were to be placed upon the candidates. They feel that "the honor has lost its significance."

The Kosmet Klub presents its views in this morning's columns. Its object in making the eligibility rule was to put all candidates on an equal basis. Obviously one who has been in school three years has had more opportunity to become popular and well known about the campus than one in school only two years, and four years of college would be more advantageous than three years.

The question is, should the Nebraska Sweetheart be a member of the sophomore or junior classes, or should she be picked from all classes, and all colleges. The sweetheart of one year is the queen of the following year, so it is necessary that someone be procured for the position who is likely to return the following year and be the queen. If some seniors are to be barred why not all fourth year students? But some fourth year students return for a fifth year, depending upon their courses. So the Kosmet Klub gets itself into difficulties.

A truly representative sweetheart would logically be picked from the entire body of women students, but, quite obviously, some women must be barred because they will graduate. If some women are to be barred, it is again obvious that the entire university is not represented by the sweetheart. If the entire university is not represented by the sweetheart, then what difference will it make to exclude a few more women and put each one on an equal basis as far as opportunity for gaining popularity is concerned.

There are two sides to the question, as there are to every question. It is true that Kosmet Klub fosters the Nebraska Sweetheart tradition. They make the eligibility rules, and have complete charge of the presentation and all matters pertaining to the sweetheart. They could so handle the affair, if they chose to do so, that it would soon become a meaningless thing. They have chosen to do otherwise. They have kept up the interest in the sweetheart even to the degree that it is vigorously fought over, not only women students but men entering into the controversy. They have built the tradition up to where it now stands—high in the opinion of all students and faculty. It would then seem logical that Kosmet Klub should be the body which controls the eligibility for Nebraska Sweetheart candidates.

Students used to come to class early so they could find a place to park their cars. Now they come late so they won't have to spend so much time deciding which place to take.

A scientist has found that it is a custom in some parts of the world to eat clay and various other soils. Perhaps this will help fraternity men to explain some of the things they have been getting.

The University of Wisconsin Daily Cardinal in a column entitled "College Oddities" states that the University of Nebraska has an "X" stamp sale. What is an oddity to them is merely a tradition on this campus.

Expressing Regret.

TO THE EDITOR:

In regards to the Nebraska Sweetheart affair the Kosmet Klub, thru the columns of the paper, wishes to express its regret that complications have arisen and also wish to accept part of the blame for allowing the ineligible candidate's name and picture to appear, as well as failure to inform the registrar of the new eligibility rule of the Kosmet Klub.

However, there is another viewpoint on the situation. Kosmet Klub feels that necessary publicity on the new eligibility rule had been given thru the news columns of The Daily Nebraskan. At the same time that fillings for sweetheart were called for and in the same story the eligibility rule was given space. Following issues of Nebraskans also carried stories on the rule.

It is with no direct affront to the law college that we made this rule. The rule was passed for only one reason primarily. We firmly believe that a junior or sophomore girl should be the Nebraska Sweetheart. It has been a custom generally for senior girls to be considered for honorary colonel and prom girl and Kosmet Klub wishes to leave a field for underclass women. We do not consider it justice to allow a freshman girl in law to file for this office when we do not permit seniors in the other colleges on the campus to file. We feel that such girls have the opportunity in their sophomore and junior years for this honor. We are not taking the voting privilege away from any man student on the campus.

Kosmet Klub extends its sympathy to Luogene Steinmeier in this regrettable incident and also regrets that Audrey Gregory saw fit to resign her honorary position, because we feel that it will not better the situation.

KOSMET KLUB.

Sold Out.

TO THE EDITOR:

Again the dear student body is sold out, hooked, fringed, and other expressions meaning that they've had a dirty deal. The announcement of the dollar games for the rest of the season coupled with cheap general admission prices leaves the student that bought a book for the season holding the good, old-fashioned sack. Yes, yes, I know that it was done to aid the other student that couldn't afford the book, and I know that this dollar a game won't give the holder a chance to view "Nebraska basketball, track, wrestling, swimming, and baseball, at no additional cost" (see back cover of season ticket if you were a sucker, too). My great protest is this... I bought a ticket at $9.00 normally expecting that a price would be maintained thruout the season in keeping with this... at the same time I knew that because of my hours of work I could see only the football games, and I thought that it was cheaper to buy the season ticket than pay the full price of the games. Under the new policy, then two games have cost me $6.00 and I'll be a cock-eyed coyote if I think that is fair. My school patriotism is all right, if the school is no Judas, but I was never worse sold out in my life and I will never be again... not by John K. Selleck... Why can't I get a rebate? I can only see the football games... yet there is no provision for this type of student at the beginning of the year. There are some who compare this to a sudden change in the stock market but the analogy is faulty, I think. The market is supposed to fluctuate and this is known in advance. Again it is compared with a drop in any commodity; I believe this also in error, for no worthwhile commodity, unless of an obsolete pattern, or obsolete manufacture, will suddenly reduce its price to one-third of its former value.

I think the move is beneficial to those who could not afford the tickets in the first place, but it is certainly a sore spot to those who could barely get the money together, but managed to do so... I never will again without a guarantee that the price won't be lowered, and few other thinking Nebraska students will take any other stand.

I. PROTEST.

NEWSPAPER TALK

Other Men's Ideas.

The word "education" is in popular usage losing whatever content it once had. In the missionary attempt to educate everybody the word has come to mean everything and nothing. Almost everything passes for education in this republic.

The public is sold to education. School attendance is made compulsory; every town and city takes pride in the display of expensive modern school buildings.

Colleges are crowded with young people, many of whom will not or can not apply their minds to study.

Over 2,000,000 adults in America are now enrolled for correspondence courses, evening classes, lecture courses. Almost everybody is ashamed to appear ignorant.

Yet there is little or no respect for scholarship. The prevailing cult of "low-browism" regards with contempt the convictions of the educated minority. Everett Dean Martin in The Thinker.

EPISODES

By Oliver DeWolf.

Good news from Japan. The Japanese government will no longer oppose the participation of the United States in the sessions of the League of Nations council. This is the first definite step toward the solution of the Sino-Japanese controversy in Manchuria. It is believed in official circles that the opposition of Japan was due to a misunderstanding of the status of Prentiss B. Gilvert, American consul general at Geneva who is sitting with the league council.

In the opinion of some writers, Japan wished the United States to arbitrate the dispute as Roosevelt arbitrated the Russo-Japanese dispute. The co-operation of the United States with the league, however, should bring about a more definite and lasting solution to the problem. Optimistic reports from Geneva say that the Chinese and Japanese envoys are showing a more amenable attitude toward one another, and it is believed and hoped that all nations will see fit to co-operate, and bring about permanent peace between these two great oriental nations, and furthermore lay a sound foundation for the World Disarmament conference of 1932.

SECTION TO CONTAIN PICTURES OF QUEENS

STAFF MEETING CALLED

An attractive section of the 1932 Cornhusker is to be the queen section, according to Otis Detrick, editor. It is composed of the pictures of the five queens of the Nebraska campus. The pictures will be full length pictures, each having an individual page in the annual. The five queens are Nebraska Sweetheart, Honorary Colonel, Prom Girl, May Queen, and Queen of the Farmers' Formal at Agricultural college.

The honorary colonel and Nebraska sweetheart have been chosen but will not be announced until later. The other three girls will be chosen later in the season.

Response to the request for pictures among fraternities and sororities has not been good, according to Detrick. Presidents of these organizations are asked to co-operate with the Cornhusker staff in getting members to have their pictures taken. The juniors and seniors have given fair response, but it should be much better, Detrick said.

A meeting of the members of the junior and senior fraternity and sorority staffs has been called for Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The meeting will be held in the Cornhusker office in university hall.

Cop Finds Missing Mascot Asleep in Lost-Found Office

Once again has the effectiveness of The Daily Nebraskan Lost and Found department been demonstrated.

Zeta Beta Tau fraternity has a mascot, one Gunner, collie pup. Daily Gunner is tied out in front of the house on 14th and R streets. Friday Gunner was tied out as usual. About 10 o'clock he broke his leash, wandered away.

Variouly during the day, Gunner was reported to have been seen trotting across the campus, to have visited psychology class. In vain were the rumors traced. Search failed to reveal Gunner. Came night and he was still a fugitive.

Then was the lost and found department consulted as a last resort. Campus Cop Regler, coming on duty for the night shift, found Gunner comfortably asleep atop a mail pouch under the lost and found desk in The Nebraskan office.

CORNHUSKER PICTURES are being taken at Hauck's studio, 1216 O.
